Filling station proprietors and others dispensing motor oils in Windham county communities have quite generally complied with the new regulation relative to the use of specified types of bottles used as oil containers. These bottles are being sealed officially and are an assurance of the purchaser receiving full measure.

Estevan, Sask., where Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., is pastor of the church of St. John the Baptist, plans, with the approval of the city council, the erection of a parochial school the coming spring. There are about 150 children in Fr. Richard's church, and the parishioners have told the council of their willingness to erect and finance the proposed school. Fr. Richards was transferred from St. James' parish here to Estevan and has made progress with his work as a pastor.

PUTNAM

BRIDGE WIDOWS ENTERTAINED AT HOME OF MRS. E. H. BURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 7.—The "Bridge Widows" met Monday evening with Mrs. Edward H. Burt, of Grove street. It being Mrs. Burt's eighth wedding anniversary, she was presented a beautiful bouquet of flowers by the ladies of the club. A supper was served by the hostess, ice cream being served in the form of fruits, flowers and hearts. The favors and score cards were very attractive.

The first prize was won by Mrs. Omer J. Milot and the consolation went to Mrs. Eben Holden. A guest prize was presented to Mrs. Albert Cross. The party broke up at a late hour. Next Monday evening, the "widows" will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Herbert Johnson, on George street.

The marriage of Dr. Leo F. McKenna of Putnam to Miss Mary E. Kingberger, of Fitchville, took place at Fitchvill on Monday morning. After the wedding ceremony, the couple left on a three weeks' wedding trip, with an unannounced destination.

Dr. McKenna is a successful dentist in Putnam and his wife is his assistant in his practising profession. Both are well known in this city and Willimantic.

NATIONAL GUARD CO. TO HAVE ATTRACTIVE QUARTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 7.—Enlistments in the Headquarters company of the 43rd division, are taking place each week. On Monday evening, Captain McGarry enlisted Seconda Rovero and Omer J. Bernier, both of Putnam. The maximum pre-war strength of the company is seventy-five. Although Captain McGarry has recruited a large number of boys in the last few weeks, he stated that he has room for more and any boy interested in joining the militia should see the commanding officer at once.

The new armory that is now being renovated is attracting much attention of the people of Putnam. When finished, it will afford the members of the company a very fine gathering place. Captain McGarry has said that a special feature of the new state building will be the company club room. The new armory on Harris street will have all the conveniences of the large armories in the cities. The drill hall is free from the space of the lockers and other furniture that now takes up the much needed space in the building on Livery street. Showers will be installed in the new building. The Harris street armory, when finished, will afford to the people of Putnam a much needed ball room. Since the old armory was condemned as unsafe for public gatherings, the city has been without a hall of any kind.

The Elks and the Masons held their weekly indoor sports tournament Monday evening in the Elks club rooms on Main street. The Elks again came out of the play victors by a very close margin. The score was 11-10 in favor of the Elks. The summary of the games is as follows: (The names of the Masons being given first).

Auction Bridge—Perry and Metcalf lost to Milot and Lewis, Prince and Duffy won from Champlin and Averill, Morse and Geissler won from Girard and Wheelock, Sherman and Stanton lost to Murray and Cotter, Brousseau and Miner lost to Charron and Hannifan, Holden and Miron lost to Gagne and Rafferty, MacDonald and Freeman won from Backus and Averill, England and Wheaton won from Phillips and McIntyre, Kombs and Kerr lost to Duvert and Gagne, Johnson and Padgett won from Mansfield and Hawkins.

Bid Whist—Merriam and Baldwin lost to Miller and Brousseau, Schoonover and Shaw won from Migneault and Buler. Seward and Baker won from Berth and Cavanaugh, Gifford and King lost to Gallant and Watson, Ailing and Thayer won from Talbot and Chapdelaine, Diamond and Moss lost to Wheatley and Bourgeois, Beebe and Nelson lost to Keroack and Auger.

Cribbage — DeCoudres and Marcy won from Wheaton and A. Gagne, Wheaton and Thayer won from Welch and Rafferty, Mellor and Twigg lost to Tetreault and Lizotte.

The Cargill Trust company will be closed from 1:45 p. m. to 2:45 p. m., Wednesday, February 8, during the funeral services for Attorney John F. Carpenter, who was a director of the bank.—adv.

This week leaves the Elks still ahead in the contest. But the one point defeat illuminates a clear sky for a victory next week for the Masons.

After the games had finished, the Elks were hosts to the Masons, with refreshments.

Elmer F. Shippee, of Putnam, has been appointed by the selectmen in the town of Thompson as superintendent of the Thompson town farm. Before his appointment as head to the Thompson farm, Mr. Shippee was employed at the town farm in Putnam. Superintendent Shippee took over his new duties on Monday.

A stereopticon lecture on the uses of cement was given to the pupils of Putnam High school on Tuesday afternoon, by Principal E. L. Robinson. The slides were furnished through the courtesy of the Portland Cement company and the lecture proved very interesting. Principal Robinson has stated that he is to have a series of stereopticon lectures at the school in connection with the text work.

Arthur LaRose, of Lee street, is a patient at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester.

The condition of Sergeant Thomas Freels, who is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, was reported by the hospital authorities as much improved. Sergeant Freels was injured in an automobile accident in Killingly a few weeks ago and since then he has been on the danger list suffering from a fractured skull.

Mrs. Mary Wilson, of Walnut street, who is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, is reported today as improved and resting comfortably. Mrs. Wilson sustained a fractured arm in a fall last week.

The annual Tri-Y Mothers and Daughters banquet was held at the Putnam Inn on Monday evening. The banquet was under the auspices of the Tri-Y group of Putnam. A supper was served and during the course of the meal, two of Putnam High school's talented musicians, Miss Helen Varbedian at the piano and Miss Stella Kubaska at the violin, played several selections. After the supper, the speaker of the evening was Dr. W. L. Beard, a medical missionary from Foochow, China. Dr. Beard chose as his subject, "Mothers and Daughters of Today and Yesterday." His address was very interesting, and he clearly outlined the differences of the characters that are mentioned in his subject. More than a hundred mothers and daughters attended the anual Tri-Y affair.

Philip Giaraca, of Lee street, was in Worcester Sunday, visiting with friends.

No one is safe!

Face the truth about body odor

Don't risk embarrassment—this toilet soap purifies

How shocked we would be if anyone ever told us that we were guilty of body odor!

Of course, no one would be so indelicate. But the truth remains that anyone of us may offend.

To live, we must perspire. Even on cold days our pores give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste each 24 hours.

This body moisture, whether it can be seen or not, is always odorous. And it never plays favorites. Housewife or banker—laborer or society debutante—all may offend unless they take precautions.

But while others notice body odor instantly—the offender doesn't.

The same gentle, antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores. And Lifebuoy keeps complexions so fresh and clear! You'll enjoy it for every purpose.

Note its hygienic scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

THE SPLASHING DRIVER

After a rain, or a thaw, when the streets are filled with water, whether from pools collected in uneven places or the water that stands on the surface, those walking along the sidewalk or waiting to cross the highway are moved to a justified display of wrath by the manner in which many drivers of autos so speed and guide their machines as to throw water all over them.

It makes little difference where streets are wide and cars are driven at a sufficient distance from the curb to avoid such a sprinkling but it is too often the case that the cars and the sidewalk are so close that a splashing is impossible unless cars are so driven as to avoid it.

Repeatedly there is a spray of dirty water being projected from the wheels of a car much like a watering cart. It seems to make no difference to the driver. He slams along into the puddles whether people are certain to get the ducking and evidently gets the impression that it is a grand joke or that those who are watching and trying to avoid his performance are casting admiring eyes at his car or his driving.

The spattered sidewalks and even the sprinkled storefronts all tell the same story. It is possible to avoid most of the pools if an effort is made and the throwing of the water from the surface can be prevented by slower driving. It is not a pleasant experience for a person to have a dress, coat or suit damaged or ruined by such heedlessness. On some streets it makes little or no difference for no one is affected by such splashing, but it is not unreasonable to expect drivers to pay some respect to pedestrians when the manner in which they drive and the conditions that prevail mean damaged clothing or feeling for other people.

Automobile drivers are impatient and constantly demanding much of others, but when it comes to giving a bit of consideration to other people many of them are as bad if not worse offenders than any of those they complain about. How numerous they are can be told by watching traffic a few minutes where there's a chance to give heed to the welfare of others.

PUNISH THE FIREBUGS

With Boston experiencing the effects of a firebug's activities, New York trying to solve the cause of mysterious fires and Fall River faced with the problem of recovering from a conflagration the cause of which has aroused suspicions, there comes from Waterbury the intimation that one of three persons who lost their lives in a fire in that city was responsible for the blaze and further revelations of a startling character may follow the investigation.

In Waterbury the authorities are quoted to the effect that the one who was burned to death and who is being charged with setting the fire had the reputation of being engaged in such a business. Whether that is so or not, having been found burned in the store where the fire started presents a situation hard to explain, and if it is proved that he was the guilty one it will be considered that he got his just deserts for as the result of that fire two innocent children lost their lives in the rooms above, while a woman was burned and injured and is now suffering from exposure may not live.

There can be no sympathy for those who set out deliberately to cause destruction by fire. In this, as in too many other cases assuming that the fire was set, there was apparently no regard for the lives of those who occupied the apartments above the store. In Boston schools and churches have been fired although it must have been apparent that human life would be endangered.

There are fanatics that give no heed to what they may do so long as they are able to carry out their ambitions. It is unfortunate that it is not possible to apprehend more of those who are responsible for the destruction of property, whether lives are involved or not, and proper punishment dealt out to them. Those who are willing to engage in any such business ought not to be allowed at liberty and for the discouragement of others they should be made to feel the full effects of the law. It is to be hoped that Waterbury will be able to carry its inquiry to a conclusion that will leave no doubt as to the cause of the fire or to anyone who may have been responsible for it, if such was the case.

CUBA'S SUGAR EXPERIMENT

Cuba has been endeavoring to get more money for its sugar. It conceived the idea that if it curtailed production and prevented such a large quantity from being offered the lessened production would result in an increase in the price. The idea appealed and it was tried.

According to figures which have been furnished for last year there were received in this country from Cuba a total of slightly over 7,000,000,000 pounds. This was a reduction of a little over 1,250,000,000 pounds. If this country were dependent upon Cuba for its sugar the effect which Cuba sought to bring about would have been realized. But Cuba isn't the only place outside the United States where sugar is obtainable.

For instance, this country imported a total of over 11,132,000,000 pounds of sugar during 1927, which was just over 900,000,000 pounds less than in 1926. But in spite of this curtailment sugar was selling at a low figure throughout the year and there has been no marked increase in the price as yet in 1928.

While Cuba was curbing its sugar so that we obtained a billion and a quarter less pounds, other sugar producing islands were mindful of their opportunities and this country received an increase of more than 426,000,000 pounds from Porto Rico, the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines and the Virgin Islands, which sugar of course comes into the country without a duty. Cuba's action has thus been a stimulation to sugar growing in those islands and they are aware of the desirability of the market in this country. The more Cuba decides to curtail the greater the amount of encouragement it is giving to the others, so that as matters stand at the present time it does not appear that Cuba has accomplished what it set out to do in regard to sugar or that it can get any satisfaction from the course it is pursuing. Possibly after this year, when additional restrictions are to be applied, there will be a different realization of the situation and different methods will be employed for dealing with its sugar industry and the manner of marketing the product.

CHANGING CONDITIONS

There's no indication that the farm group in congress is about to disband, but there are indications from elsewhere that some serious thinking has been going on among the tillers of the soil and they are being convinced that the help or the relief that they have been seeking doesn't lie so much in legislation as within their own efforts. This is of course no more than has been pointed out to them right along but they have been hypnotized by the antics of those who have been stirring up a lot of political dust in their behalf.

Since the vetoing of the McNary-Haugen bill by the president and his explicitly stated reasons for taking such action, there has been a great disposition to study the situation. In the course of that study they have come to the realization that the improvement in the farm situation which exists today has not been brought about by the legislation that was sought, and they must realize that through the adoption of different methods lies the way to the desired improvement. There are ups and downs in all industries.

Iowa has been one of the states demanding farm legislation. Still the editor of the Iowa Homestead says, "Unless I am badly mistaken, Iowa farmers are weary of hearing a gospel based upon the idea that they are hopelessly insolvent and headed for peasantry * * * The pressing need of agriculture for the next few years seems more likely to be business organization than it is legislation."

This is a sentiment that prevails elsewhere than in Iowa and it may explain the reason for the seeming apparent waning of the movement for McNary-Haugen bill or nothing.

BUYERS OF STO' EN GOODS

Some time ago New York realized the need of different legislation in order to put a check upon felonies. It adopted the Baumes law which calls for life imprisonment upon a fourth conviction, and the verdict appears to be from the trial thus far that it is accomplishing desired results.

In that state as well as elsewhere it has come to attention that in the effort to check crime there is need of giving about as much attention to those who act as receivers of stolen goods as there is to those who do the stealing. The feeling is that if there was no way of disposing of the loot there would be little incentive to engage in such business. The "fence" of course serves to egg on those who take the view that crime means easy money.

For the purpose of dealing with this situation the crime commission has proposed to the legislature that a new law be adopted which obligates the receiver of goods to make sure that the goods were legally obtained or else he will be regarded as having purchased the property with the knowledge that it was stolen.

While robbers may be acting on their own initiative there is always the possibility that they are the agents of someone else. None more than the receiver of stolen goods who makes that his business would be interested in encouraging crime, but under existing law he enjoys a certain degree of protection because the testimony of the seller of stolen goods cannot be used against him since he is regarded as an accomplice. New York sees the need of getting the "fence" and New York is unquestionably headed in the right direction.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The soft coal strike may have been started for a home run but it landed way beyond the foul flag.

The year has opened with a number of bad fires. It is just such waste which underwriters are striving to avoid through prevention.

Under most any other circumstances, the things being said about the members of the Hickman family in the trial at Los Angeles would be cause for serious trouble.

The fellow who has invented an auto that can be turned within its own length, hasn't helped the situation on the streets where no turning is allowed.

Inasmuch as a Yale professor has deciphered a tablet in the Hittite language it ought to be possible pretty soon to get a line on who hit Billy Patterson.

AT THE END OF A PINK RIBBON.

"Bob Perkins, where in seven moons is the key to the car? I've looked this whole house over." Bob, behind evening paper:

"Huh? Key to car? Oh! Did you say the key to the car? Why, Twinkles, I dunno. Why? Dot wrung her hands in despair and wailed:

"Oh, oh, oh. Is there anything worse in this world than a husband who keeps things out of place?" Bob put down the paper and appeared to be somewhat dismayed.

"Why all the pyrotechnics?" he demanded. "Who wants to use the car if there were a dozen keys for it, and they were all in their places? It's about supper time, is it not?" Dot groaned.

"It's more than about supper time. It's past supper time. Didn't you come home five minutes before we should have eaten with the news that Bob Craig and Alma are coming over tonight? You know good and well that Alma never has anybody at her house unless she feeds them, and I'd like you to tell me what I can do on such short notice? Friday night and the ice chest's next to empty. If I could only get down to Stern's before they close I might buy something that would pass in the way of a salad and cake."

"Couldn't you call Stern?" yawned Bob.

Call him? What would I ask? 'Mr. Stern, won't you keep shop open until I find an automobile key that my husband has misplaced?' My goodness, Mr. Stern's a husband himself and so he would naturally know what a hopeless job I had ahead of me. He'd probably say back to me, 'What do you think I am, crazy? I'd keep open all night if I waited for wives to find what their husbands have lost.'"

"Don't Mrs. Perkins me!" cried Dot. "I know just what you are going to say: 'It's only a little thing.' Well, that is the point. It is always a little thing, but let me tell you, little things can get you into a big lot of trouble. If this was the first time the situation would not be so deplorable, but it is not the first time. It is about the thousandth time this same thing has happened. You are forever putting that key where it ought not go and I have spent hours, yes, even days, planning and studying a way to make you remember where it belongs."

"Didn't I fix up a little oilcloth pocket on the inside of one of the kitchen cabinet doors in order to remind you of its place? And didn't I tie a brilliant pink ribbon fast to the key itself in order to remind you of its existence? It is past me how you could ignore that ribbon, but you do."

"The dickens, I do," grunted Bob. "A short ribbon would have been bad enough, but—well, you just wait. That blamed thing's so long; some day it is going to trip this fond husband of yours and break his neck. And if it doesn't make a total wreck out of me, it will at least make a fool out of me. Gosh, every time I reach into my pocket after I have driven the car downtown, I pull out a pink ribbon. Sometimes I forget it, and the darned thing dangles there and makes me look as if I were wearing my wife's lingerie. That is the success this gentle reminder of yours has met with."

Dot was on the verge of tears. "There would have been no necessity for a pink ribbon if you had not been so everlastingly careless. You've always been careless, Bob Perkins, ever since we've been married. I don't know how you manage your business, but around this house if I would leave it to you, everything would be out of place!"

"Twinkles," he finally managed. "People in glass houses—"

"What do you mean?" demanded Dot, drawing herself up proudly and looking not unlike a statue of feminine martyrdom.

"Well," declared Bob, "all this fuss you have just stirred up is entirely out of place. Because," and he pointed a finger ominously at Dot, "if you'd give a pull at that familiar looking pink ribbon dangling out of your apron pocket, you would find attached to it the lost automobile key!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Gerhart Hauptmann, who is the first to become a member of the new poetry section of the German Academy of Arts, is generally recognized as Germany's foremost literary personage. As long ago as 1893, when he was only 35 years old, he was hailed in Germany as the successor of Goethe. He first made a name for himself as a poet and dramatist, later taking up the writing of romances, and by his success has paralleled the success of Sir Walter Scott. His work as dramatist and novelist discloses a profound knowledge of psychology, physiology and pathology that is not often met with in mere literary authors. Since 1890 he has brought out a work every year, but thus far there have been few adequate translations in English. In 1912 Hauptmann was awarded the Nobel prize for literature.

NEW BOOKS

The Story of The Sun. by Frank M. O'Brien. Cloth, 805 pages, illustrated. Published by D. Appleton and Company, New York. Price $2.50.

The New York Sun has always held an important place among the newspapers of this country and it has a history that is unique and interesting. A new edition of The Story of The Sun has just been issued which covers the history from the beginning in 1833 up to the present time. It of course contains all the facts carried in the previous editions with the added developments within recent years including the purchase by Frank Munsey and the existing control under the guidance of William T Dewart.

The Sun came into being at a time when New York had only six-cent journals, "whose reading matter was adapted to the politics of men and whose only appeal to women was their size, perfectly suited to deep pantry shelves." Thus when Benjamin H Day conceived the idea of a penny Sun and put his ideas into execution it can be appreciated that it was bound to attract attention. The Sun made a place for itself that was conspicuous. It was different, it had its own style and its own appeal and these with its traditions, its accomplishments, its great leaders in newspaper activities are all carefully and entertainingly set forth by the author, whose knowledge of his subject is clearly demonstrated. It is a volume that holds interest not only for the newspaper man but for other readers. The editorship of Charles A. Dana is an outstanding feature, together with the accounts of the journalistic skirmishes that marked the one time rivalry between The Sun and the picturesque James Gordon Bennett, together with stories of some of the sensational exploits during the Mexican and Civil wars. The volume is a valuable addition to the history of American journalism.

Like a harbinger from another world came The Horseman of Death. Years before he had foretold the tragic end of Lord Templeton's fiancee. Again, a year ago, his portentous hoofbeats were heard—the next morning they found Orme Malone—the drunkard husband of the lord's niece and heir-lying in a nearby field—his head crushed. Now the old lord lay sick—the country doctor said his mind was gone—and only Ninon Darelli, his medium could comfort him. That night came the pounding of the ghostly steed! The old man leaped from his bed—his eyes staring—his wasted body shaking like a leaf. Who was to be the victim? He glared wildly at Ninon—at Dr. Hailey. But not even Ninon, with all her psychic powers, could pierce the ominous silence that shrouded the abbey. Never before in all his experience, has Dr. Hailey come up against such a blank wall of mystery and fiendish intrigue. The detective story is by the same author as The Mystery of the Ashes and The Sign of Evil.

Nicaragua and the United States. By Isaac Joslin Cox. Cloth, 194 pages. Published by World Peace Foundation, Boston. Price $1.25.

Nicaragua, land of many revolutions and interventions by the United States, forms the background of events narrated by Professor Cox in his study of political and financial conditions there from 1909 to 1927. The geographical importance of Nicaragua as the strategic point for an additional canal route through Central America has been a primary concern of the department of state for many years. The treaty between the United States and Nicaragua of 1916 has been the keynote of the American policy in Nicaragua ever since.

An interesting analysis is given of the financial vicissitudes of the National bank and railway and the claims of the Ethelburga syndicate on loans made. The history of the country has been largely a series of dictatorships interspersed with an occupation by United States marines from 1912-1925. Peace reigned during an intervention but December 1926 saw the marines back in Managua protecting lives and property. Documents on the diplomatic history of American relations with Nicaragua, the canal treaty, the loan convention, the financial readjustments and the activities of Sacasa and Diaz are covered by a very extensive appendix. It is an invaluable volume for students of current events.

Crooked. By Maximilian Foster. Cloth, 304 pages. Published by the J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

At first Bertha had no idea of buying the dress—it cost more than Charley's salary for two weeks. But clothes make the woman—and they ruin her. Charley could afford it—he wasn't working hard enough—he needed pushing. Little did Bertha suspect the blow that had just fallen—Charley was jobless, penniless. But nothing daunted her—she must have that dress—she must have money. Hartnett, Gershon & Co., a prosperous bond house, offered Charley a partnership. Charley was dubious—he suspected such flourishing concerns. Bertha was enthusiastic—now she'd have pretty clothes, fine friends. Charley accepted. Still, thought Bertha I must keep urging him on. They moved to an exclusive apartment hotel—they bought a car—they entertained—at least Bertha did—Charley usually pleaded business. Then, the night of Bertha's finest dinner party, came the telephone call! This vivid, throbbing story of modern big city life crashes to an unexpected fall. Mr. Foster's touch is sardonic, graceful—and his honesty is disconcerting.

YOUR HEALTH

ONE EYELID MENDS THE OTHER.

By J. Eastman Sheehan, M. D., New York—Member Gorgas Memorial.

The lower eyelid is meant to rest gently against the eye. So doing, it protects the eye from the drying quality of the air, keeping it bathed in the tear liquid supplied for that very purpose by a special gland. It happens, however, that sometimes the lid is drawn from this contact with the eye, and instead of being held up against it is flattened down on the cheek.

This may be due to any one of a variety of causes. The lid muscle may have become flabby, and so unable to hold either itself or the other parts of the lid in the proper place. This is one of the penalties of growing old, and some of those who suffer from it appear to think the condition as incurable as old age itself.

Or one may have been injured on the face, the healing of the wound being followed by the formation of a scar near the eyelid. Such scars exert a pull upon the skin nearest them, and if it happens to be the skin of the lower lid then the whole lid is drawn outward and downward from its true position. In some instances, as with a severe burn, the eyelid skin itself is destroyed.

In such instances the downward pull on the lid may be exaggerated to the point where a very objectionable deformity has been produced. The membrane of the inner side of the lid, which was never meant to be exposed to the air, turns an unhealthy red. We have then the colloquial "red eye." And meantime the eye suffers from lack of moisture and from the action of the air, and may become seriously inflamed.

All such conditions are correctible.

What may not be well known is that if a new skin cover is needed for the lower lid when it is to be set back in place against the eye, that cover is best taken from the skin of one of the upper eyelids. The two lids look very much alike, but the upper is much more actively in use. It does practically all the work of opening and closing the eyes. For that reason its skin is constantly folding and stretching with the very curious result that a large proportion of it can be taken away without in the least interfering with the capacity of the lid to discharge its function. A strip of a certain form, measuring half the width of the lid and three-quarters of its length, can be very comfortably spared, and can be moved down to cover the lower lid. The match is perfect in color and texture, and the further agreeable feature is that this upper eyelid skin, perhaps because it is the thinnest found anywhere on the body, heals easily and with so little scar that often it cannot be distinguished at all.

It is really quite wonderful what can be done with these bits of upper eyelid skin to get rid of slight disfigurements about the face.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Those Mansfield Schools Again.

Mr Editor: Admitting that it would be entirely unfair to compare prices and costs of today with those of 25 or more years ago, because, in the meantime, there has been a world war which gave profiteers a chance to send prices skyward, it does seem fair to go back to the selectmen's report in the fall of 1918 and see what we shall find. I will not take up space by quoting a long list of figures—simply two totals. In the report mentioned above the town school board issued orders on the town treasurer for the support of the schools of the town for the year (according to its report) to the amount of $16,408.92, which, at that time seemed an enormous sum. The figures have, since that time, advanced from year to year until the last report shows an expenditure of $37,564.21. Have prices of living commodities increased proportionately? No! Has the population increased proportionately? Decidedly not! Has efficiency in the schools increased proportionately? Surely not noticeably! Then why are we being subjected to such increase in taxation?

There seems to be only one satisfactory explanation and that is that there is something about the system that is radically wrong. Of what use is a town school board under the domination of the state board of education under existing laws? It seems as though any town in Connecticut has no way of practicing economy in the matter of its schools.

And now, those living in the Storrs district are asking the town to build a new school house to cost $40,000, which would necessitate the laying of a still greater rate of taxation. The population in the Storrs district has increased because of a state institution, and it seems decidedly unfair to ask the town to assume an additional debt of that size, and more particularly since the state has taken over so much of the taxable property of the town. When the voters of the town are assembled for the purpose of considering the question of such expenditure of the town funds which must be raised by heavy taxation, it would be wise to bear these things in mind. There is much said about state aide for a variety of purposes—perhaps it would build such a building as its employes would consider suitable.

A CITIZEN.

Eagleville, Feb. 6, 1927.

A Tribute to Rev. T. Edward Davies, Canterbury.

A soldier in Christ's army
Is lying low today.
For years he bore the standard
In many a well fought fray.
Because his love for Jesus
Was loyal, true, and tried,
He loved the souls about him,
The souls for who mChrist died.

But life's long years crept onward,
And yet how short they seemed.
He prayed, and wept, and struggled
And of the future dreamed.
His face was toward the "Homeland,"
The homeland of the soul.
This life was but a journey
To reach that wonderous goal.

At length the fest grew weary
Upon life's toilsome road.
The shoulders grew too feeble
To bear the heavy load.
He gave to one beside him
His burdens and his cares,
And she has bravely borne them
With service and with prayers.

So now the shrine's deserted,
The worshipper has flown.
And as a bird unfettered
Will always seek its own,
I deem his ransomed spirit
Will speed its upward way,
To meet with Christ and loved ones
In realms of endless day.

Setting Things Aright.

Mr. Editor: Recently a letter appeared in The Bulletin, of which I was the author, anent misquotations, some Biblical and some otherwise. The said letter incited the readers to search their Bibles to verify or refute these misquotations.

After a thorough inspection it was unanimously conceded that the said misquotations had been straightened out and the writer thereof was, metaphorically, hitting on all six cylinders.

One commentor, however, on my letter—who apparently "put his foot in it"—is dismayed because I had the temerity, audacity and presumption to criticise Biblical misquotations. The transposition of a few words here and there doesn't matter. Most any old way is good enough, even for a Massachusetts deacon.

This commentator intimates that I have "rushed into print" in exploiting these discrepancies. Righto. I have been rushing into print for more than half a century. My contributions have frequently been published in New York and Boston newspapers, and, in fact, throughout New England, as many papers have copied my offerings with displayed headlines.

Bibles are in evidence now more than at any time in history. They are placed in hotels and the patrons thereof are consulting them and, it is said, the readers are becoming informed and can speak with accuracy on passages which they had hitherto misquoted.

One good result come from my letter in that it has set the tongues of the people agog and they are ascertaining for themselves whether a certain passage reads: First cast a stone or casting the first stone.

Stories That Recall Others

Another Handicap

Gordon was playing bandit, and for some time had been staggering around as if seriously wounded.

A neighbor called out: "Hey, Gordon, it's time to die. Why don't you fall down?"

"I can't," was the cross reply. "I'm not allowed to. If I had on my old pants, I'd been dead long ago."

Worn to Ribbons

One could tell by the expression of disgust on his countenance that he was not thoroughly enjoying the Saturday afternoon shopping tour with his wife. His arms were loaded with packages and with a weary posture he slumped against a counter while his wife fumbled among some ribbons to find a certain color or shade. After a long time handing the merchandise saw turned and said:

"Well, we will just have to go somewhere else."

"Great smoke!" exclaimed the husband who flushed with impatience, "have you ever in your life sought the thing you sought in the first store you entered?"

While the wife tried to explain the importance of an exact shade of ribbon, the sales woman chuckled inwardly and another husband or two passing cheered the sentiment.

Does your daughter attend school regularly?

MANY GIRLS are absent from school for a few days each month because of illness. In many cases this is unnecessary because young girls — as well as older women — can be strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Girls suffering from run-down condition, sleeplessness, nervousness, and loss of appetite, should gain new strength and vigor from this Vegetable Compound.

NERVOUS AND DIZZY

Charleston, Illinois:—"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She was nervous, weak and dizzy. At last she was so bad off that she was out of school for four months. The Vegetable Compound has improved her in every way and she has gone back to school. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be." Mrs. Alice Louthan, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

SICK AND WEAK

Camden, New Jersey:—"When my daughter was twelve years old she was hurt at the play-ground. She was sick and weak for some time after that and was not able to go to school regularly. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her wonderfully, and she now goes to school every day. She has gained in weight and has a better appetite than she had before taking it." $3,000,000 INVESTED IN LEGS YEARLY

New York, N. Y.—To develop the symmetrical legs and twinkling toes that musical comedy demands, girls on the stage or girls with stage aspirations are reported to spend $3,000,000 a year in New York alone.

Dorothy Wegman, "Follies" dancer.

To clothe the beautiful legs of stars and chorusses, another fortune is spent. Producers have been known to tear their hair over stocking bills, a night's high stepping being as hard on chiffon hosiery as a month of ordinary wear by the average girl.

In recent statements the producers report efforts to decrease stocking bills. They say they have discovered that if stockings are cleansed in Lux, they stay like new twice as long, give twice as many performances.

"I would use Lux if it cost $1.00 a box," Eddie Dowling, star and producer, remarked.

Now the wardrobe mistress of every musical comedy in New York uses Lux in cleansing the thousands of pairs of stockings worn by their chorusses—to get double stocking wear.

The makers of Lux say that the secret of the long wear of fabrics washed in Lux is the absolute purity of Lux, and its instant rich suds that make rubbing unnecessary.

When the CHILDREN cough

GIVE them PERTUSSIN at once. It will soothe the cough quickly, loosen the sticky, germ-laden phlegm that often clogs the air-passages. It is absolutely harmless and free from "dope" (such as narcotics, chloroform, cannabis or other injurious drugs). Children like its taste, and it will not upset the digestion.

For over 20 years PERTUSSIN has been one of the most widely used remedies for whooping cough. It is good for any member of the family—children as well as for adults.

FOX HILL RESIDENTS BACK TO CANDLELIGHT DAYS

Antiquated lighting facilities, such as candles, kerosene lamps and lanterns have bore the brunt of the knockers' club since modern lighting processes have become effective, but the residents of the Fox Hill district can be thankful that our forefathers invented such lighting appliances. For the electric lighting system in that district Tuesday night failed to function in its usual efficient manner and residents had to rely upon the older facilities for lighting in order to carry out the usual program of the evening. Wire trouble on the pole at the top of Fox Hill was the cause for reverting to the days of the dim past.

The bride was attired in a gown of the latest design with hat to match and carried a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Mrs. B. Bronstein of this city as matron of honor. The groom had as his best man, his brother-in-law.

Following the ceremony a reception and wedding supper was held.

Both the bride and groom have a host of friends here who wish them every joy in their married life.

After a honeymoon trip to New York and Atlantic City, they will be at home in a newly furnished apartment at 43 School street, Hartford, after Feb. 20.

Guests were present from Norwich, Bridgeport and Gloucester, Mass.

Zabrowski-Przytutski

At St. Joseph's church, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. William J. Topor united in marriage Alexander Zabrowski, of No. 16 Mountain avenue and Miss Julia Przytutski of No. 13 Sherman street. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Constanti Przytutski and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Antone Zabrowski.

The bride was gowned in white satin, with Spanish lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, carnations, lilies of the valley and sweet peas. Miss Manda Przytutski, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and the Misses Josephine Hughes, Helen Dembinski and Veleste Przytutski were the bridesmaids. Miss Manda Przytutski wore a gown of deep pink satin and carried pink carnations. Miss Hughes' gown was of yellow georgette and she carried yellow carnations and Miss Dembinski wore green georgette and carried pink carnations. Miss Celeste Przytutski was gowned in baby blue georgette and her bouquet was of pink carnations. The best man was Albni Jablowski and the ushers were of pink carnations. The best man was Albin Jablowski and the ushers were Stanley Anneszewicz, Felix Sadzewicz and Joseph Zabrowski. A reception was held at Pulaski hall and later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Zabrowski left for a wedding trip to Norfolk, Va. On their return they will reside with the bride's parents on Sherman street.

26TH ANNUAL MEETING OF MAPLEWOOD CEMETERY

The 26th annual meeting of the trustees of Maplewood Cemetery association was held Tuesday afternoon at 20 Shetucket street, at which annual reports were presented by the superintendent, the treasurer and the auditing committee, which were accepted.

Officers were elected as follows: President, E. A. Tracy; vice president, Alexander Jordan; secretary and treasurer, Gilbert S. Raymond; directors, E. A. Tracy, Alexander Jordan, John B. Oat, Shepard B. Palmer, Walter F. Lester, Charles S. Holbrook; auditing committee, C. S. Holbrook, Arthur L. Peale, and Percival W. Chapman. Andrew B. Davies was elected to fill a vacancy on the board of trustees.

At the directors' meeting which followed the meeting of the trustees, Washington Holt, who has been superintendent of the cemetery for 25 years, was re-elected to that position and a minute was adopted commemorating his 25 years of service and expressing appreciation of his long and faithful service during which his care for the appearance of the cemetery had made it an object of pride to the board and a credit to the community.

The regular 5 per cent dividend was voted to be paid to the stockholders and it was also voted to add 25 per cent of the sales of lots and graves in 1927 to the perpetual care trust fund.

A brief summary from the annual report of Superintendent Holt for 1927 shows that there were 108 burials in the year, of which 69 were on lots and 39 single graves. This was 30 less burials than in the preceding year. There had been 22 bodies placed in the vault, all of which were buried in Maplewood. Foundations had been placed for 33 monuments and for 41 markers. There are now in the cemetery 1,055 monuments, headstones and grave markers and the total burials to Dec. 31 last were 2,176.

The annual report of the treasurer showed receipts of $7,689 from sale of lots and graves. The perpetual care trust fund is now $17,027.59.

NORWICH TELEPHONE TEAM MAKES TOP SCORE IN ELIMINATION CONTEST

Scoring 102.25 points out of a possible 105 points the Norwich telephone team finished first in the New London district first aid elimination contest Tuesday evening at the armory in this city. The Willimantic maintenance team scored in second place with 101.25 points and the Putnam team finished third with 99.75 points. All three teams will participate in the state contest to be held at New Haven on February 23rd.

The elimination contest was held by the New London division of the Southern New England Telephone Co. The teams competing in the first aid elimination contest were as follows:

New London, Construction No. 1—Levitsky, captain; McCarthy, Holmes.

New London, Construction, No. 2—Jaquis, captain; Lamb, Chappell.

New London, Cable—Allen, captain; O'Brien, Burgess.

New London, Installation—Miller, captain; Wells, Hornish.

New London, Repair—Devine, captain; Carty and Howell.

Norwich, Skihner, captain; Larkin, Coughlin.

Willimantic, Maintenance—Fillmore, captain; Johnson, Rood.

Willimantic, Construction—Fletcher and Freeman.

Putnam, Anderson, captain; Keeler and Schloss.

One member of each team impersonated the "patient," victim of an accident and the other members of the team demonstrated their ability in rendering first aid treatment, working against time.

Mayor Milo R. Waters, Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft and Captain Dennis J. Brennan of the Norwich fire department and a number of local people were numbered in the audience which gathered to witness the first aid methods advocated by the telephone company.

The contest judges were R. I. Dixon of the A. T. and T. Co., of New Haven; K. W. Howland of the N. Y., N. H. & H. Railroad Co., New London; G. S. May of the Connecticut Power Co., of New London and W. J. Bloomfield of the Connecticut Power Co., New London. The tellers were Edward J. Sullivan and Norman J. Shaffer. The timekeepers were A. N. Chenoworth and Howard Corey and H. T. Emmerich of New London was the announcer.

The February meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian association was held Tuesday afternon at the residence of Mrs. E. LaRue Bliven, 228 Washington street, with an attendance of about 50.

After the opening devotional exercises led by General Secretary Edwin Hill, a short business meeting was held with the president, Mrs. Henry D. Johnson, presiding. Report was made of the play which it is proposed to give and there was a report of $91.50 proceeds from the recent food sale. The auxiliary has about $340 in the treasury at present and a paid membership of 200 to date. A report was also made of the state meeting at Hartford

The entertainment part of the afternoon was a very interesting hour in charge of Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell, chairman of the committee. Two contralto solos, The Flower Song from Faust and an Irish folk song, were beautifully rendered by Miss Doris Myott, with Mrs. Charles A. Saxton as accompanist.

Mrs. A. N. Foster gave a delightful descriptive talk upon her summer work in pageantry and in conducting a summer course at Quebec. Her description of the production of the pageant of Sir Galahad, which was given at Quebec, was especially entertaining.

The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Alfred G. Bliven.

BRAND MAKES PERFECT SCORE ON TARGETS

The Norwich Rifle club team defeated the Grotto team by 15 points in a rifle shoot Tuesday evening at the armory. A Brand made a perfect score of 100 during the shoot, and Lucia scored 99. The team scores:

PROMISING SUCCESS IN BOY SCOUT CAMPAIGN

Indications are that the entire amount will be reported at the victory dinner which closes the Boy Scout campaign to raise $6,500 at the Wauregan hotel this (Wednesday) evening at 6:15 o'clock. On the first day of the campaign, Monday, approximately one-third of the budget had been raised by the organized solicitors under the general direction of President Charles Colt of the Norwich Boy Scout council and L. M. Crandall, chairman of the finance committee of the council.

Up to Tuesday evening there remained about 1,500 names of prospective subscribers to be called on by the workers. The subscriptions, this year, are running about two to one in favor of cash which is encouraging to the campaign leaders and the solicitors. The committee is confident that the entire quota will be raised by nightfall today.

Anyone who has not been approached by a solicitor in the campaign may send his subscription to President Colt or Mr. Crandall, through the mail.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY HAS PLANS FOR ACTIVITY

The regular meeting of Mercier assembly, No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, was held Tuesday evening in the rooms on Broadway, with Miss Mary Hamill, the president, conducting the business session. Miss Frances Kelly, chairman of the valentine card party, reported very favorable progress. This is the largest affair that the new officers have undertaken and they are anticipating the hearty support of all the members. The assembly is planning on co-operating with the diocesan bureau in their plans to raise funds to increase their charitable work.

Plans were made for the next small whist which is to be held in the rooms under the auspices of members of the degree team, Miss Hannah Eierman, chairman.

FRENCH-AMERICANS TO FORM POLITICAL ORGANIZATION

Advancement of the cause of efficient administration of public affairs and promotion of the civic education of French-American people of this state is the object of a political organization which will be formed at a meeting Sunday afternoon in Hartford, which will be attended by representatives from associations in 30 towns of the state.

Temporary officers of the organization include Joseph D. Castonguay, of Hartford, as president; Henry Beauso-leil, of this city, third vice president; Louis A. Woisard, Danielson, and Harry A. Gaucher, Willimantic, as auditors; J. C. Marsan, Taftville, J. Benoit and Michele Daigle, Putnam, on the board of directors.

Pole Line Towards Gardner Lake.

The Bozrah Electric company is setting a line of poles in Leffingwell towards Gardner Lake, preparatory to furnishing electric service to Bozrah and the lake section. The work will continue until the service is in operation.

LOWEST DEATH RATE IN YEARS IN STATE

Connecticut last year had the lowest death rate in the 78 years for which the vital statistics of the state are available, according to a provisional summary issued by the state department of health Friday. The death rate last year was 10.5 for each 1,000 population, or 16,661 deaths in an estimated population of 1,586,435. During the same year 38,473 births were reported.

The 1927 death rate is 1.3 per 1,000 below that of the preceding year, when there were 18,321 deaths, a rate of 11.8, and an estimated population of 1,558,996. In 1926 the death rate was 11.6; in 1924 it was 11.3, and in 1923 it was 12.

The lower death rate of 1927 means a saving of $3,320,000 for the state, on an estimated value of each life at $2,000. The valuation is based upon the method of the National Conservation commission, which fixed the worth of an adult life at $5,000; that of a child at from $1,000 to $3,000, and that of an infant at $500.

Lowest Infant Mortality.

Last year's records also show the lowest infant mortality in the history of Connecticut, 1,695 deaths of babies less than one year old, a rate of 59.5 for each 1,000 living births. In 1926 there were 2,100 infant deaths, a mortality rate of 71.9. This reduction, on the $500 evaluation basis, means a saving to the state of $202,500.

The highest recorded death rate in the state was 19.4 per 1,000 population in 1918, the year of the influenza epidemic. For 1917, ten years before the year covered in the report issued Friday, the death rate was 15.4.

Many Contributing Factors.

The lower death rate, according to Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, commissioner of health, may be laid to various causes. Among the factors which he believes have contributed to the gain are the propaganda for the promotion of health, physicians, the press, more scientific medicine and new discoveries in medicine. Physicians, hospitals, health organizations, such as the district nurse association, tuberculosis associations and public health associations, and the State dairy and food and domestic animals departments all share the credit for the lower rate, he said.

Despite the fact that some of the western states are "new" and but a small part of their population is in the higher age groups as compared with the "old" New England states, Connecticut since 1923 has had a death rate which has been below that of the country as a whole. It has also had a lower death rate than the neighboring states of New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the 1925 rates, the latest basis for comparison, being: Connecticut, 11.6; Rhode Island, 12.1; Massachusetts, 12.5, and New York, 12.7.

Classification by diseases shows that the 1927 death rate was lower than that of 1926 for typhoid fever, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, influenza, pulmonary tuberculosis, other forms of tuberculosis, pneumonia, cancer, diarrhoea and enteritis, suicide and accident; remained the same for cerebro-spinal meningitis, and increased for diphtheria and poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis).

The detailed figures are:

Typhoid Fever.

The death rate from typhoid fever during 1927 reached a new low of 1.1 for each 10,000 population, there being 17 deaths in 1927, against 29 deaths a rate of 1.8 from this disease in 1926. In 1925 there were 39 deaths, a rate of 2.5; in 1924 there were 88 deaths, a rate of 5.5; and in 1923 there were 38 deaths, a rate of 2.6. The typhoid death rate has been falling steadily from a maximum of 41.8 in 1890. Safer water, safer milk, and an unrelenting search for typhoid carriers, were given by Commissioner Osborn as important factors in the reduction of typhoid fatalities.

Measles.

The 1927 death rate for measles showed a sharp drop, from 195 deaths, a rate of 12.5 for each 100,000 population, in 1926, to 21 deaths, a rate of 1.3, in 1927. The low 1927 rate, according to Commissioner Osborn, is a usual sequel to an epidemic such as that of 1926. The measles death rate shows wide fluctuations from year to year, there being 160 deaths, a rate of 10.3 in 1923; 47 deaths, a rate of 3.1 in 1924; and 39 deaths, a rate of 2.5, in 1925, from which the rate jumped to 12.5 in 1926.

Scarlet Fever.

The scarlet fever death rate shows a steady decrease, from 53 deaths, a rate of 3.6 in 1923 to 22 deaths, a rate of 1.4 in 1927. In 1924 there were 58 deaths, a rate of 3.9; in 1925, the deaths numbered 45, the rate being 2.9; and in 1926, there were 35 deaths, a rate of 2.2.

Whooping Cough

Whooping cough during 1927 had the lowest death rate in the history of the state, there being 40 deaths, a rate of 2.5. Physicians are being called earlier in whooping cough cases Commissioner Osborn said, and whooping cough serum is coming into more general use. In 1923, there were 133 deaths, a rate of 9; in 1924, there were 78 deaths, a rate of 5.2; in 1925, 112 deaths, a rate of 7.3, and in 1926, 95 deaths, a rate of 6.1.

Diphtheria

The death rate from diphtheria showed an increase in 1927 over that of 1926, but the increase, Commissioner Osborn said, was encouragingly small. This disease was more prevalent during 1927 than in the preceding year, it was pointed out, the last six months of 1927 having 48 deaths, while there were only 29 deaths in the corresponding period of 1926. The total deaths in 1927 were 94, a rate of 5.9, compared with 83 deaths, a rate of 5.3 in 1926. The 1927 diphtheria death rate is next to the lowest in the history of the state, the 1926 rate being the lowest on record, the lowest rate until that time having been 6.3 in 1921. The highest diphtheria rate recorded was 97.7 per 100,000 in 1889. In 1923 there were 157 diphtheria deaths, a rate of 10.1; in 1924, 163 deaths, a rate of 11.2, and in 1925, 136 deaths, a rate of 8.2.

Influenza

Influenza death rates fluctuate widely, Commissioner Osborn said, explaining that there had been mild epidemics before that of 1918. The death rate of this disease in 1927 was 18.3, but little more than half of the 1926 rate of 35.9. There were 229 influenza deaths in 1927 against 559 in the previous year. In 1923, influenza caused 563 deaths, a rate of 38.1, which dropped to 289 deaths, a rate of 19.2 in 1924, and rose again to 407 deaths, a rate of 26.6, in 1925.

Tuberculosis

There has been a downward trend in the tuberculosis death rate since 1918, but the number of cases for the last five years has been practically stationary, Commissioner Osborn said, pointing out that this meant it would be necessary to continue active work against tuberculosis. Last year there were 925 deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis, a rate of 58.3, and 134 deaths from other forms of tuberculosis, a rate of 8.4. The detailed figures are:

Pulmonary tuberculosis — 1923, deaths, 1,166, rate, 79; 1924, deaths, 1,049, rate, 69.8; 1925, deaths, 997, rate, 65.1; 1926, deaths, 1,054, rate, 67.6.

Tuberculosis other than pulmonary —1923, deaths, 152, rate, 10.3; 1924, deaths, 176, rate, 11.7; 1925, deaths, 156, rate, 10.2; 1926, deaths, 166, rate, 10.6.

Cancer

There has been a distinct upward trend in the cancer death rate to 1925, but since that year, because of some unknown factor, the death rate has been practically stationary. The education campaign which has been carried on undoubtedly aided by bringing more operations in the early stages of the disease, Commissioner Osborn said. There were 1,646 cancer deaths, a rate of 107.6, in 1925; 1,653 deaths, a rate of 106.7 in 1926, and 1,683 deaths, a rate of 106.1, in 1927.

Pneumonia

The pneumonia death rate in 1927 was very low, 84.4, the first time in recent years, according to Commissioner Osborn, that the rate has been below 100. In 1926 there were 1,693 deaths, a rate of 106.6. In 1927 there were 1,339 deaths.

Other Diseases

Poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) showed an increase from 6 to 16 deaths from 1926 to 1927, due to the outbreak last year, and the death rate showed a corresponding increase from 0.4 to 1.0. Cerebrospinal meningitis had a death rate of 0.6 for both 1926 and 1927, there being 10 deaths from this disease each year. The lower infantile mortality rate in 1927 was in a considerable measure due to the drop in the death rate of children under two years old of diarrhoea and enteritis from 16 in 1926 to 11.1 in 1927. In 1923 there were 314 deaths, a rate of 21.3 in this classification.

Violent Deaths

There were 188 suicides in the state in 1927, a rate of 11.9 per 100,000, while during 1926 there were 216 deaths, a rate of 13.9, which was the highest for the five-year period. The low was in 1924, with 155 suicides, a rate of 10.3. Deaths from accident in 1927 numbered 1,051, a rate of 66.2, the lowest for the five-year period. The highest accident death rate during the five years, 7.5, representing 1,111 deaths, was in 1925.

FRANKLIN HILL BLOCKED BY SLIDING AUTOMOBILES

Reports from automobile drivers using the Norwich-Willimantic highway Tuesday evening were that driving on Franklin hill was treacherous due to the slippery condition of the highway. This was caused by the freezing of the rain as fast as it fell, forming a thin coating of ice on the road, over which automobile drivers found driving hazardous. One report was given that early in the evening several cars had blockaded the road after striking the icy surface and coming to a stop in such a way that traffic was halted. Several autoists, who were on the way here to attend the telephone team tests at the armory, were forced to stand by for some time before the road was cleared of the automobile tieup.

SPEEDER WAS ARRESTED AT ACCIDENT SCENE

While the state police were engaged in taking measurements Monday night on the Montville road where Ernest Johnson was struck by a machine driven by Attorney Hibberd R. Norman, of this city, an automobile traveling towards New London at a speed estimated by the officers at 50 miles an hour, ran past a stop signal given by Officer Whitmarsh and was finally halted some distance further up the road by Officer Smith. The driver, George Pierson, submarine base sailor, was arrested charged with reckless driving and operating without a license and was ordered to appear before Justice of the Peace J. Y. Miller at Montville.

CHIMNEY FIRE IN HOUSE ON FOX HILL

Engine 1, Squad A and Deputy Chief Henry Taft responded to a telephone call for a chimney fire in the house owned and occupied by Mrs. Pauline Rossmark and family of Fox Hill, off the Norwichc-Westerly highway, at 9:06 o'clock Tuesday evening. Soot burning in the chimney proper and in the base was sending a large number of sparks into the air and a resident in that section notified the department, fearing that the house was on fire. On arrival of the firemen, a ladder was placed against the building and in this way the chimney was reached by them, into which six gallons of chemical was poured. A quantity of soot was also removed from the base of the chimney. There was no damage.

Evading Responsibility Charge.

A charge of evading responsibility has been made against Arthur H. Lathrop, of this city, by State Policeman Kenerson, after investigation of a report that a machine driven by Mr. Lathrop had struck a trolley car on the Montville line. The Norwich man is to answer to the charge in the city court. It is reported that a door was torn off his machine in the collision.

Is Your Husband Getting Bald?

Most baldness, doctors say, is due to dandruff germs. As the germs are everywhere, the best way to avoid infection is by shampooing often enough to keep the scalp aseptically clean. Specialists recommend weekly shampoos with Packer's Tar Soap. It is antiseptic, banishes germs with dirt, tones, stimulates—keeps hair and scalp healthy. Men like it for all toilet purposes. Get your husband to try Packer's! At all drug and department stores.

"WILD BILL" MEHLHORN ANNEXES TEXAS OPEN WITH CARD OF 297

WILLOW SPRINGS GOLF CLUB, SAN ANTONIO, Tex. Feb. 7—(AP)—"Wild" Bill Mehlhorn won the Texas open golf crown today with an aggregate score of 297 for the 72 hole event.

The Pittsburgh professional lived up to his nickname in taking the laurels from a field of stars after the closing 36-hole drive in which he shot one brilliant round of 68 for 18 holes and climaxed it with an erratic 79 that barely enabled him to finish one stroke ahead of "Lighthorse" Harry Cooper, the youthful Buffalo professional.

Mehlhorn's total of 147 today slightly bettered his showing in the first 36 holes of the tournament in which he scored 150. His score of 297 is the highest ever to win the Texas open.

With the victory, Mehlhorn acquired a purse of $1,500. Harry Cooper with a 298, won $800, and the "Wee Schot" Bobby Cruickshank, won third money of $500 by finishing with an even 300.

"Wild Bill" shot good and bad golf. He established a new course record of 31 in the first nine of the morning and his 68 equalled the course record for 18 holes. In the afternoon he slipped badly, but pulled himself together on the final nine to nose out Cooper. The latter started the last round three strokes behind Mehlhorn and had a wonderful opportunity to win, but was unable to shoot better than a 77.

Cruikshank, in the meantime, collected a 75 in his last round. A mistake of the scorer almost gave Bobby a 299, but the little Scotchman returned to the statistician and pointed out the mistake. As it turned out, it made no difference in his final standing.

Tommy Armour of Washington, national open champion, was the only other player who would have caught Mehlhorn on the last round, he could have tied by parring the course, and he made a good start in this direction, but fell down on the last three holes and finished in a tie for fifth and sixth place with a total of 304. MacDonald Smith, of New York, slipped into fourth place with a 302.

Armour was tied with Ed Dudley of Hollywood, Cal., and Joe Turnesa of New York. J. W. Kenney of Toledo, Ohio and Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich., were next, each with 305.

FAST AMATEUR CARD IN WILLIMANTIC FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 7—Favorite sons of Norwich, Colchester and this city will enter the ropes in what promises to be a fast boxing card given by the Windham A. C., in the Al Pierre Tabarin next Friday night. Matchmaker Rudolph H. Miller is a busy man getting his heavies and lightweights matched up for a real show. He announced today that he had signed up Steve Polinsky of Colchester to enter the arena against the best available boxer of his weight. The trough Colchester boy raised Cain in the amateur ranks in eastern Connecticut and has won a favorite place with the fans who saw him in action in Norwich. Young Arthur of Colchester and Lyman Gary of Stafford Springs, heavy leather pushers, will add much for a versatile boxing exhibition. Mickey Casey of this city and Mush Moriarty of Norwich, who met in Norwich recently, will again face each other in what promises to be a real go. At Norwich, Moriarty copped a hairline decision. Young Carpenter of this city is tentatively lined up against Kid Bozo, the glutton for punishment type. Carpenter handed a K. O. to his opponent in Norwich last week in one round. He will find a tough customer in Bozo. Young Bernier also of this city, is also lined up to be featured as a fast 110 pounder. Matchmaker Miller is seeking experienced judges, a timekeeper and other officials to assist Referee Trenor A. Rice.

LARGE CROWD LOOKED FOR AT DANIELSON TOMORROW

Present indications are that a banner crowd will jam its way into the town hall at Danielson Thursday evening to see Lou Gehrig's All-Stars battle with the Danielson Town team. Interest is running high all through eastern Connecticut and parts of Massachusetts in this clash which brings to these regions for the first time the famous slugger of the New York Yankees. While Larrupin Lou is probably better known at baseball still he is a prominent figure in basketball as well. He took part in this sport considerably at Columbia and became quite a capable performer.

Now with his own team he is playing in each game and satisfying the customers. Only recently in Springfield against the Y. M. H. A. he held the leading scorer on that well known team to one field goal all through the first half, his space in the game.

While Lou has had many honors heaped upon him in the forms of most valuable player for 1927 in the American league, a member of the world's champs, etc., still he has none of the "prima donna" attitude about him and he gives his best every minute he is in the fray.

This team comes to Danielson after drawin record houses all through the east and middle west. Included in the lineup is Dutch Eggerts, who recently almost single-handed beat the Original Celtics.

Although the Danielson management has been requested to reserve seats they have decided to sell tickets at the door only so the first to come will be the first to be served.

TOMMY M'CARTHY LOSES CLOSE DECISION AT NEW BEDFORD

Tommy McCarthy, local featherweight, returned to the ring Monday night at New Bedford and lost a hairline decision in six rounds to Red

TOMMY M'CARTHY

Dupree. Dupree is a favorite son in New Bedford, having fought there on numerous occasions.

The first three rounds were fairly even batting while Dupree had an edge on the next two rounds. However, McCarthy rallied strongly in the final round and had the crowd on their feet yelling at the slugging bee that took place.

In view of the fine showing made these boys were immediately rematched for Monday, Feb. 20. McCarthy took this bout with only four day's notice but with the added time for the next bout McCarthy should stand a good chance of trimming Dupree.

GAMMAS WIN OVER KAPPAS IN CHURCH LEAGUE TILT

The Gamma club of the Greek Orthodox church won a fast game from the Kappa club of the First Baptist church Tuesday evening at the Y gym in a Senior church league game by a 24 to 21 score. The Gammas led all the way though hard pressed at some stages of the tilt. A. Angelos was high scorer for the winners while Archibald led the losers in point-making.

SCHOFIELD LEADS SCORERS ON DANIELSON TOWN TEAM

Billy Schofield, former Conn. Aggie captain and now coach of both Killingly High and Danielson Town Team leads the Towners in scoring to date this year by a safe margin, having 158 points on 67 field goals and 24 fouls in 13 games played for a little better than 12 points. This boy, a forward, has been the main cog in the Towner's attack all year and he is expected to be of great help against Lou Gehrig's All-Stars Thursday evening at the Danielson town hall. Keach, the other forward, has 98 points on 41 field goals and 16 fouls while Armington and Godreau are not far behind with 75 and 71 points, respectively.

The summary of point scoring to date:

BROCCO TO COMPETE IN NEXT N. Y. BIKE RACE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Maurice Brocco, idol of six-day bicycle race fans several years ago, has decided to stage a come-back in the 44th international six-day grind at Madison Square Garden March 4-10.

John M. Chapman, impresario of the six-day race game, received a cable today from Brocco accepting terms for the coming event.

Brocco, during his brilliant career, has won four six-day races, three of them at the Garden, finished second four times, third a similar number and fourth once. His last victory was in 1924.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON'S FATHER DIES AT SCRANTON

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Gilbert D. Mathewson, 80, of Factoryville, father of baseball's immortal leader, Christy Mathewson, died tonight in his home following a long illness.

Mr. Mathewson's condition did not become serious until last week, at the same time that Hughey Jennings, a very personal friend, passed away. During the Civil war, Mr. Mathewson served as a drummer boy under command of his uncle, Col D. N. Mathewson.

PASTIME PLANS BANNER CARD FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 17

Matchmakers Jim Quinn and Jackie Burns announced last night that they intend to put on a banner card for their next amateur show which will be held at Olympic hall on Friday night, February 17th. A team from Bridgeport will be on the card as well as a number from the Coast Guard and from other towns in the eastern part of the state.

AGGIES SWAMP COAST GUARDS BY 64 TO 28

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 7. — Connecticut Aggies tonight turned back the Coast Guard academy quintet of New London in convincing fashion, 64 to 28. The State college five was at its best in downing the New London team without doubt.

The Aggies showed fine passwork and had their shooting eyes in tip-top shape and were never in danger of being headed. Capt. Williams was the main cog in his team's play tonight and it was largely his efforts that the Storrs outfit came out so far ahead. Watson led the winners in scoring with 18 points.

MANDELL MEETS FIELDS BUT OVER LIGHTWEIGHT LIMIT

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Sammy Mandell and Jackie Fields, western aspirant for Mandell's light weight championship honors, will meet in the Coliseum here Feb. 23. The match was assured today when the Illinois state athletic commission granted promoter Joe Coffey a permit for the show.

The boxers will weigh in over the light weight limit.

NORWICH BAY STATE MEET SOUGHT BY STAFFORD FAIR

The Short Ship meeting of the Bay State Racing Circuit held here each year in June has been applied for by the Stafford Springs Agricultural society. The dates are June 19, 20, 21, and the meet would be run off on the fair grounds in Stafford Springs.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Taftville Crescents lost to Manchester Recs at Manchester Monday night, 59 to 39. Normandin led the locals in scoring with 13 points while Faulkner, Manchester forward, was high man with 23 points.

The Y Emps are out with a challenge for any junior team in eastern Connecticut. The Emps are about to claim the eastern Conn. title for the 3d straight year and would like to prove their claim to the championship by taking on any and all opponents.

The Plainfield Pros are meeting a real formidable opponent in the Millville, Mass., Town team tonight. It ought to be a real game.

The Danielson Towners can expect their toughest battle of the year against Lou Gehrig's outfit. The Towners are regarding this game as the major one of their season.

Billy Schofield has been doing some fine work for the team so far, having far outdistanced the rest of the scorers on the club.

The Beta club will play the Fitchville Rovers, one of the most colorful quintets around here, Saturday afternoon at the Y at 1:30 o'clock. The Betas will lineup with Barber, J. Murphy, Economous, N. Murphy and McCrum while the Fitchville lineup has not been let out as yet.

The C. F. C. have filled in an open date Monday, Feb. 20, with the Mercury quintet of the New London City league.

JOE FABER

MONTREAL CLUB PAYS FANCY PRICE FOR SERVICES OF JOE FABER, LOCAL BOY

Joe Faber, one of Eastern Connecticut's few boys now in organized baseball, has taken another forward step with the announcement of his sale by the York club of the New York-Penn. league to the new Montreal club of the International league. Faber, an infielder with shortstop as his specialty, went to the new addition to the International loop early this week. The amount paid was not disclosed but it was known that an offer of $2,500 and two players had ben turned down by York some time ago so that the amount must have been quite a fancy price.

Straight Cash Sale

It was a straight cash consideration no strings being attached in any way.

Faber broke into organized ball in 1923 with the Winston-Salem club of the Piedmont league. He went to Baltimore in 1924, whence he was farmed out to Harrisburg of the NYP loop. He finished with Newark of the International in 1924 and when that franchise was taken over by Providence Joe went there and stayed until the next season when he was sold to York of the NYP league, where he has since remained and been a most valuable cog in that team. Joe has been up among the leading batters and fielders every year and in 1926 led in home runs among other things.

Gives Credit to Dr. Wilcox

Faber gives much credit for his success to Dr. F. S. Wilcox, who while Joe was a member of Riverview helped him greatly. It was through Dr. Wilcox that Faber received his chance with Winston-Salem.

"President Wise stated that the York directors were rather skeptical in letting Faber get away from the White Roses. However, Joe was rather disappointed last season when it was rumored that the York club had a chance to sell him to a club in a higher class in organized baseball and felt that he was being held back by the York directors. With this in mind, and wanting to give Faber a fair deal, they finally came to an agreement with Walter Hapgood, who swung the deal for the Montreal club as its business manager some time ago, but was not sanctioned until last evennig, when President Wise received a telegram from President Farrell of the New York-Pennsylvani aleague stating that Faber had already signed a contract with the Montreal club, and over the long distance telephone Manager Clark informed the York directors that the deal had been closed and ready for publication.

"With the sale of Faber the White Roses will have another hole to fill in the infield, but Manager Clark has already been on the loookut for a first class man of experience, and expects to line him up in the next few days. The shortstop position will be well taken care of, said Manager Clark.

In a letter to friends in this city Faber states that he is well pleased to get the opportunity to go higher, although he would have liked to continue here, but with Montreal he will be in a better class league, and that will cuont a lot in his career to go even higher. Joe expects to come here before going to Canada to see his many friends."

PROS MEET MILLVILLE FIVE TONIGHT

Plainfield	Millville
Normandin, lf	lf, Kasper
Dessinger, rf	rf, Kittredge
Stavinitsky, c	c, Curran
Bernot, lg	lg, Tisdell
Madden, rg	rg, Peloquin

The Millville, Mass. Town Team pays its first visit to Plainfield tonight to battle the Pros at the Community house. A fast preliminary, featuring the Plainfield Buddies will start at 8 o'clock.

This team comes with a strong reputation, having two victories over the Boston Whirlwinds this season among other accomplishments. It has also defeated the Danielson Town team on two occasions this year and is now about ready to claim the New England semi-pro title.

However, no team can claim that title until they have met and vanquished the Plainfield Pros, who have been going great guns to date. The Pros will throw up their strongest front this evening with Brusso and Benson in reserve. This lineup has been giving the best of them a stiff run and this evening Millville can expect a tough battle throughout.

Millville is composed in large measureof the Purple Collegian who beat the Pros in their only meeting this year. In Peloquin, a former Holy Cross all-round athlete they have one of the best guards in these parts while Tisdell his running mate is a Purple Collegian and little need be said of his work. Kasper, Kittredge and Curran make up a strong offensive trio and they will be closely watched by the Plainfield defenders this evening.

CRESCENTS WIN FROM SOUTHBRIDGE

Taking revenge for the trimming they received two weeks ago, the Taftville Crescents won over Southbridge at Parish hall last night to the tune of 40 to 27. Although the Crescents were below their playing par they won handily, outplaying and outspeeding their Massachusetts rivals. Southbridge missed chances to score on many occasions, poor shooting to the baskets tending to keep down their score. The Crescents also, were short on their shots, missing chances on fifteen foul goals alone.

Crescents Score Early

In the first half minute of play Normandin took the ball from Harris' jump and proceeded to drop it into the basket to take the lead which was never headed by Southbridge, although for a time in the second half they threatened to tie the score. Southbridge's first point was scored by Berry who shot a foul.

From then on the Crescents proceeded to forge ahead after Normandin got two more field goals and one foul, and Harris one foul. Holden got the first field goal for Southbridge followed by a foul goal by Berry and another field goal by Holden. From then on it was all Normandin. He dropped three more field goals for a total of thirteen of the fourteen points in the first half.

Harris started the second half off with a field basket, closely followed by a foul by Pazetti of Southbridge. Holden, Southbridge's star forward dropped two more in while Christianson got one from the center of the floor. (Southbridge was trying hard to tie the score at this point but missed several easy shots). Gauthier made one field and one foul goal. The Crescents started to get into their regular stride about this time and the crowd witnessed some pretty passing and shooting, Harris making five field and one foul goal, Normandin three more and Murphy three on fast plays.

In the last few minutes of play Southbridge tried desperately to score, hoping that some of their long shots would land. Berry managed to drop one in on a long shot and Pazetti made a nice basket that ended the scoring for both sides.

Interesting Game

Although both teams were guilty of quite a few fouls, it was a good game to watch. Southbridge was trying every minute and although they didn't score the points they might have, nevertheless they played together well, but couldn't compete with the Taftville boys once they got started. Normandin was high scorer with twenty points, and Harris getting twelve. For Southbridge, Holden took the honors getting eight, followed by Pazetti with seven. The summary:

BEANS!

A wonderful new kind with the real "baked-out-of-doors" taste

Now you can enjoy beans like those baked in the ground in the Maine woods

Never did baked beans have such flavor as those old-time beans baked in the outdoor oven—the bean hole—of the Maine woods lumber camps.

The richest of ingredients went into the big-bellied iron bean pot—lots of sugar-cured pork, molasses and brown sugar. Then the pot was buried in the bean hole to cook all night in a bed of pine embers.

For the first time, now, that wonderful woods flavor is reproduced. In Bean Hole Beans!

They're like no other beans you've ever tasted! Enjoy this new deliciousness today. Your grocer has Bean Hole Beans—medium and large size.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation"!

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

Your first cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascarizing tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drug store must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of cascarets than anything else.

MYSTIC

NORWICH MAN WRITES OF STEAMER'S WRECK

The Woman's Bible class of the Union Baptist church met in the vestry Monday evening. Mrs. B. F. Davis, the teacher, was able to be present having been confined to her home for a month by illness. The secretary, Mrs. Abbie Phillips read the minutes and work of the class since the last meeting and Miss Harriet Fish, treasurer, gave her report. Reports from the various committees were given. It was voted to give $25 to the church, also $5 to the Kenneth La Flamme fund. After the business session Mrs. Davis had a letter read from William P. Wade, of Norwich, who read in The Bulletin Nov. 30 about her telling the true story of the wreck of the steamer Vanderbilt, off Fishers Island. Mr. Wade's father was on the boat and had pictures of it which his son now has and he has been to Mystic recently to show them to Mrs. Davis and to talk over the disaster. His father escaped on a bale of cotton. Mrs. Davis has been asked to write a story about the wreck for publication that the story may be preserved from one who was a witness. Mrs. Seymour Stoddard gave two humorous readings. Refreshments were served by the social committee. The table and desk was decorated with valentine favors. The next meeting is to be held March 4. Twenty-one were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burlingame, Mr. and Mrs. James Hopkins of Voluntown, Mrs. William Hassler of Occum, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Berberick of Norwich, spent Sunday with Mrs. Minnie Campbell of Godfred street.

Albert Brown of Yantic brought Elwood Lathrop down to his home Monday for a few hours' visit.

Mrs. Maurice Holdredge has been ill at the home of her mother, Mrs. Gransille Rust, Lantern Hill road, Old Mystic.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Green Denison were held privately at her home, 9 Rathbun place, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. Louis J. Shepler, pastor of the Union Baptist church. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery. There were beautiful floral emblems.

Funeral services for George Snow were held at local funeral parlors on Tuesday morning. The body was taken to Westboro, Mass., for burial.

The illustrated lecture given in the Congregational church Tuesday on Arfica by Rev. F. R. Bunker was well attended and greatly appreciated.

The Farm Bureau group meeting held with Mrs. Charles H. Burdick in Old Mystic Monday was attended by 13 members of that group and some fro mthe Cider Hill group.

A number from Mystic will attend the fair in Stonington given this week for a war memorial.

It is of interest to local people that Rev. Jerome Greer has been invited to remain as pastor of Gales Ferry church for another year. He was once pastor here and occasionally visits some of his former parishioners.

NOANK

LOST BOY WAS FOUND AFTER SEARCH OF WOODS

The residents on Elm street and on Fish Town hill on Monday night were called out around 7 o'clock when Leslie Brooks was lost in the woods. A searching party was formed to hunt for the child, some walking and others in automobiles going to the Fish Town woods. A telephone call came to Jane Carson's store about the lost boy, and the caller wanted the Boy Scouts; but none were in sight. So John Ashby sent up a squad of fellows, Capt. Walter McDonald being in charge. Capt. McDonald knows every wagon track in that woods. With lanterns and flashlights the squad looked everywhere for an hour with 50 others doing the same thing, trying to find the boy; but in vain. The alarm stirred up the village. All that was heard was "Have you seen the Brooks boy? He is lost!" Around 8:30 o'clock the second telephone call came to the news store and John Ashby took the message; the boy was found while the hunters were out in the woods. The little fellow got into the house somehow, beat it upstairs to his room and was safe in bed when discovered by a member of the family who came back to see if he might be in the house anywhere. The family of the wandering boy heartily thanked those who helped in the hunt of over two hours while he was lost.

Miss Mary Roberston has returned to her duties at Park's market, after being ill.

Monday afternoon about 1:30 the church bell rang for a fire somewhere in the village and from every direction came running, the firemen going to the fire room, jumping on the big red fire truck with 30 on board with Driver John Camerey steady as a clock behind the wheel. But the smoke-eaters did not know where the fire was and did not know where to go with the engine until a young girl said "It is down at Capt. L. Ellis' house!" As the engine arrived there only an oil heater was afire. The woman of the house saw smoke, went into the room where the stove was and threw it out the window, so no damage was done to the room except from smoke. Chief Park went up to the room and reported no damage—only a new oil heater needed. Several minutes were lost on going to the fire on account of the smoke-eaters not knowing where to go. People should give the right information for every minute counts at a fire. George Devoe of Squad No. 4 on the hose said "That must be box 13!"

The signs around the village to direct auto drivers where to go were blown down in the last gale but the townsmen went around and have put them all back in place.

Frank Muse who works over at the Ship and Engine Co. is a good cornet player and used to lead a band in New Jersey a few years ago. His fellow workmen want him to start a band in the plant for not long ago the Ship and Engine Co. had one of the best bands around this section. So he told them at lunch hour that all who can blow a horn or beat a drum come over to his house in the fishing village Monday evening and talk it over. So fourteen came. Leader Muse told about how they did it in New Jersey and said "We want all you men to know music. Let's put it over big!" Wade Wilbur, clarinet; Bernard Carson, bass drum and Clarence Mallett, a fellow that can handle a pair of sticks will be on the drums. Jack Ellis will blow the bass horn; C. Keeler, drums also. Five signed up for the new band and more are expected at the next meeting night. A lunch of sandwiches and tea with cookies was served.

Several local young fellows are icing at Bergman's pond, in Mystic, getting 10 inch ice. Walter Welles is boss over the Noank gang. He knows the ice game and can fill a house quickly, as he used to be where ice is 19 inches thick, in Maine.

Elbert Rathbun has returned to Norwich after a short visit at his home.

Mr and Mrs. John Johnson of Norwich were calling on relatives in the village Monday.

GOSHEN

Farmers have been harvesting the ice crop during the past week. The ice was of fine quality, varying from 7 inches to a foot in thickness.

Sunday was observed as Christian Endeavor Day, it being the 47th anniversary when the first society was organized in Portland, Maine, with a membership of 25, the total universal membership being 4,000,000 now. It was 40 years ago in 1888 when the society was organized here with nine members, and for two score of years the Y. P. S. C. E. has been of spiritual uplift for the people of the community. Three charter members are still living here, and the weekly meetings are well maintained. Mr. Bushnell's excellent sermon taken from the son who left home and went into a far country, was particularly for the Junior C. E. members. The Prodigal son came to himself, he left the paths of sin and found the yearning father's love at the old home. Twenty-one members of the Y. P. S. C. E. from here attended the Union C. E. meeting held in Norwich Sunday evening. Ken Cummings' large bus was chartered for the evening and the company reported a most enjoyable ride as well as a most interesting meeting.

IRREGULARITY IN MARKET CAUSED BY SHIFTS OF SPECULATIVE SENTIMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment imparted widespread irregularity to today's stock market. Prices moved forward at the opening, experienced a sharp sinking spell around mid-day and then made irregular recovery during the afternoon. Standard industrials were mostly higher but nearly all of the leading rails sank to new low levels for the year. Trading was in heavy volume, the day's sales crossing the 3,000,000 share mark for the first time in about a month.

Time money rates were a shade easier, 60 to 90 day funds being quoted at 4 1-4 a 4 2-8 instead of 4 3-8 to 4 1-2. Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent, as against 4 1-4 yesterday, and held steady at that figure all day. Banks called about $25,000,000 in loans. The Boston federal reserve bank rate was increased from 3 1-2 to 4 per cent, bringing it into line with the New York and Chicago rates.

The American Iron & Steel institute's monthly figures on steel ingot production, issued after the close of the market, showed estimated January production of 3,959,904 tons, as against 3,150,845 in December and 3,759,877 in January 1927. Other business news of the day was rather colorless in character, and without apparent effect on the price movements.

Violent fluctuations took place in a number of specialties ni a few of which the short interest was given a bad beating. A. M. Byers opened at 109 3-4, dropped to 106 1-2 and rallied to 116 1-2 and then eased to 114, up 1 1-2 points net. Montgomery-Ward opened at 136 1-2, sold slightly below that figure and then soared to a new high record at 142 1-2, closing a point below that level for a net gain of 6 1-2 points on the day. Montana Power slid from 161 1-4 to 158, snapped back to 163 1-2 and closed within a fraction of the top.

Detroit Edison, Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance, Freeport Texas, General Railway Signal, International Harvester, LaClede Gas, National Surety, and Mullins corporation showed net declines of 5 to 9 points, while American Machine & Foundry, Commercial Solvents, Dupont, Electric Auto Lite, and McCall Corporation showed gains almost as large. Purity Baking issues, Transue & Williams, Otis Steel prior preferred, Wright Aeroplane and Gotham Silk Hosiery reached new high ground for the year. U. S. Steel and General Motors closed fractionally higher.

Weakness of the rails, the general average of which touched a new low for the year, presumably was due to selling inspired by the unfavorable character of the 1927 preliminary earnings reports now being published. Rumors also were heard of a coming adverse interstate commerce commission decision in one of the pending consolidation cases. Pittsburgh & West Virginia broke nearly 8 points and nearly a dozen others including Texas & Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Atchison sold down 2 points or so. Union Pacific showed independent strength.

Commodity markets were mixed. Cotton and wheat were moderately higher, but coffee and sugar quotations eased off.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 7—(AP)—Demand for immediate delivery corn in Chicago today proved to be the largest met with in a long while, and corn export business was at the highest basis yet this season. As much as 7 1-3c a bushel over the price of Chicago May delivery was paid for export corn at the gulf of Mexico.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled, 3-8c to 5-8c net higher, wheat 1-8c to 1-2c up; oats at 1-8c to 1-4 a 8-8c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 20c.

Corn prices ranged higher from the very outset of trading, but offerings increased on the advances, and the top quotations reached were not held. In addition to excellence of cash demand, corn belt weather was distinctly unfavorable for the crop movement, and the trading basis at Kansas City was 1-2c higher with no purchases reported to come here from the southwest. Meanwhile export business in all positions was estimated at 250,000 bushels including some corn for export disposed of here to eastern handlers.

Estimates were current that Europe must buy at least 40,000,000 bushels of United States corn between now and the last of June. Notice was also taken of the fact that country offerings today were light, and it was pointed out that prevalent rains are likely to interfere with rural transportation and injure the quality of a considerable amount of corn on farms. Under such circumstances, smaller receipts shortly were predicted. Oats were firmer, sympathizing with corn.

Wheat developed firmness partly owing to corn strength and partly as a result of an unexpected upturn in Liverpool quotations. Besides, there was a forecast of colder weather in the southwest, and drought reports persisted from western Texas.

Provisions reflected an advance in hog values, and there was a let-up in the aggressive selling which of late has burdened the market.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP)—Declines were rather general in the bond market today. Considerable selling was influenced by the advance yesterday of the Minneapolis federal reserve rediscount rate and indications that the remaining banks of the system will soon fall in line. This expectation was borne out in a measure by the increase in the Boston rate late today, putting the 4 per cent. charge in effect in six of the twelve institutions.

The effect of last week's spurt in new offerings, and a continued heavy volume this week continued to have an effect on sentiment and was a factor in causing many traders to limit their commitments. Semi-speculative issues were affected by the movement of stocks on the "big board."

Pathe Exchange 7s plunged down more than 9 points to 61 1-2 on selling inspired by reports that the concern's sinking fund payments were doubtful. The loss in these bonds has been about 15 points in two days. Seaboard issues which also have been sagging rapidly, continued downward, Adjustment 5s in particular being hit hard with a recession of 4 3-8. Cuba Cane Sugar 8s added 2 1-8 points more to yesterday's sharp loss.

The high grade railway, industrial and public utility liens, however, showed a steadier trend. Chicago Great Western 4s, Missouri Pacific 4s and Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s lost large fractions, but New York Central & Hudson River 5s, Chicago & Western Indiana 4s, and a few others moved upward.

Treasury and Liberty bonds and short-term certificates followed a firm trend, with a moderately large amount of business.

Profit-taking developed in French and other foreign securities which have been advancing in recent trading. Latin American issues, however, had good support. The city of Havana, Cuba, is seeking a loan of $7,000,000 to extend its boulevard system, and American bankers are reported negotiating with the commonwealth of Australia for a new issue to total $50,000,000 to $75,000,000.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $14,000,000 Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation 5s, priced to yield about 5.30 per cent. an issue of $9,000,000 Nippon Electric Power company 6 1-2s is expected on the market shortly, the first time the company has obtained a loan outside of Japan.

New England Industries

CONFECTIONERY.

In 1923, 14.2 per cent of the confectionery produced in the United States came from the New England area. From 1914 to 1923, value of product increased 126 per cent in New England in comparison with a 108 per cent increase for the rest of the country. Massachusetts in 1923 made 93 per cent of the New England output, Connecticut 3.9 per cent and Maine 1.2 per cent, and Rhode Island 1.3 per cent.

The representative group of concerns include in a survey of the New England confectionery industry, conducted by the United States Department of Commerce in cooperation with the New England Council, have annual sales ranging from $18,000 to more than $5,000,000. The average period of operation of the members of this group is twenty years, 23 per cent of them reporting as having been in business six years or less. The average period of present management is twelve years. The reason most frequently given for location in this area is nearness to markets, with labor conditions second. Branch plants have been established by 20 per cent of the group, but in only one case outside of New England.

The chief raw materials are sugar, butter, milk, cocoa and chocolate. A majority of the concerns reporting obtain butter and milk from this region, and sugar from local distributors, but go outside for cocoa and chocolate.

Fifty-four per cent of the companies reporting have provided no piece work or other incentive wage methods, the number of employes thus paid for the group averaging 28 per cent.

Seasonal depression usually occurs in the early spring, and is followed by gradual recovery to a peak in the fall.

Eighty-two per cent of the concerns reporting sell a majority of their products in New England, the average per cent of products sold in this area being 78 per cent for the group. Increased sales have been effected since 1921 in this area by 54 per cent of the establishments reporting. More intensive sales efforts, advertising, improved products and elimination of agencies are among the reasons given for this condition.

Total sales have been upward since 1921. Forty-eight per cent have increased sales in the last five years, and 27 per cent have reported decreases. Extension of territories, and new sales methods have vied with competition from other sections as controlling factors.

Average selling costs in 1925 for the group were 9 per cent of product value. Experts have increased slightly, mainly for the Massachusetts concerns reporting. Distribution is carried on mostly through retailers or wholesalers. Bands or trade marks are used to identify 87 per cent of the total output reported. A few concerns have consolidated selling activities for economy, and a large number intend to lay emphasis next year on improvement of sales and marketing methods.

Reddy Waits in Vain

The best of plans may go awry
No matter how you scheme and try.
—Reddy Fox.

It was almost time for jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun to kick off his rosy blankets and begin his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky to look down on and smile at all the Great World. Most of the twinkling little stars had winked out. Very soon now the Black Shadows would get uneasy and run back to the Purple Hills to hide throughout the long day.

Reddy Fox came tiptoeing along through the swamp where the Laughing Brook leaves the Green Forest to enter the Smiling Pool. He was headed straight for a certain little clump of alders growing near an open springhole there. His ears were pricked up and set forward. They were ready to catch the faintest sound. His nose was just moist enough to catch and hold the scent that any Merry Little Breeze might happen to tickle it with. His eyes were fixed eagerly on the springhole. He didn't expect there would be anybody there, and in this case he was not disappointed. When he reached the clump of alders toward which he was making his way he lay down in a hole in the snow just back of the alders, a hole he had prepared several days before. He made himself thoroughly comfortable and then prepared to be patient while he waited and watched.

It isn't difficult to be patient when you are sure that your patience is going to bring you a splendid reward. There wasn't a doubt in the mind of Reddy Fox that his patience would bring him a splendid reward and that splendid reward would be Jerry Muskrat. Reddy just couldn't see how that plan of his could possibly fail. No, sir, he couldn't see how it could possibly fail. He was sure he had thought of everything and prepared for everything. So it wasn't a bit difficult to be patient. A muskrat dinner would be worth a very great deal of patience.

The Black Shadows began to creep away. Very soon they were running away. It grew lighter and lighter. Jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun would soon be climbing up in the blue, blue sky. Reddy kept his eyes fixed on the springhole. This was the time Sammy Jay had said Jerry Muskrat had the habit of coming out at that springhole. Reddy could hear Sammy Jay in the distance.

"I hope," thought Reddy, "that Sammy will keep away from here this morning. If he should discover me here it would be just like him to warn Jerry Muskrat. He is a terribly meddlesome fellow, is Sammy Jay."

It was the head of Billy Mink.

But Sammy didn't come that way. He flew directly over to the Old Orchard. Reddy gave a tiny sigh of relief. Blacky the Crow passed over, but he was flying high. He was going somewhere down the big River to look for his breakfast. With Sammy and Blacky out of the way, Reddy felt quite hopeful.

Suddenly, over toward the edge of the ice on the farther side of the springhole a brown head popped out of the water. Instantly Reddy became tense and rigid. Then he felt a pang of disappointment. That wasn't the head of Jerry Muskrat. No, indeed! It was the head of Billy Mink. Billy dived. A moment later he came up with a fish in his mouth. Then he swam over to the shore and climbed out on the bank just a few feet away. There he sat and ate the fish, while Reddy's mouth watered. More than once Reddy was tempted to spring from his hiding place and try to catch Billy Mink. But he didn't. He knew the quickness of Billy Mink. He knew how hopeless it would be for him to try to catch Billy, and he also knew that with Billy Mink playing about there Jerry Muskrat was not likely to appear.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 63

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

A project for erection of a new hotel in Norwich seemed likely to succeed during the week seventy-five years ago. This hotel would be located at the corner of Main and Union, now lower Broadway, the present site of the Wauregan hotel. The stockholders of the Union bank voted to increase their capital to $200,000, that is double it over the present $100,000.

Tuesday, Feb. 1, 1852—Rev. E. A. Chapman of New York is to favor Norwich with two lectures, one at Norwich Town this Tuesday evening and the othed at Uncas hall on Wednesday evening. His topic for Wednesday evening is "The City and the Country."

Judging from present indications, the project for the erection of a large and elegant hotel in this city is likely to succeed. It is thought that the $20,000 can be raised in subscription of $1,000 and upwards, the remaining $20,000 can or will be raised, and thus the enterprise be placed beyond the risk of failure. The location agreed upon by many is at the corner of Main and Union streets. The contemplated size of the building is 82 feet on Main street and 105 on Union street with a wing of perhaps 75 or 100 feet running back from the north end of the main building on Union street, towards Franklin square—the whole surface or ground covered by the building being about 9,000 square feet. The proposed height of the edifice is four stories and a basement, which is to be used for Barber's saloon, bathing rooms, etc. The first story is to be finished off with stores and three upper stories to constitute the hotel proper, the principal entrance to which is to be on Main street.

The factory building about one and one-half miles north of Dayville, known as Weatherhead's factory, was burned about 7 o'clock Thursday morning of last week. The fire started in the mule room from a lamp which one of the operators had in his hand, using while oiling the machinery. It is said that the building and machinery were totally destroyed. There was an insurance of about $7,000 upon the whole.

Thursday, Feb. 3, 1852—A large and interesting Union meeting of the Friends of Tract Cause was held in this city on Sunday evening last at the Central Baptist church. After singing and prayer by Rev. Dr. Barnes the annual report of the Tract distributors—voluntary association of ladies—was read by Rev. Mr. Gulliver. Addresses were made by Rev. Messers. Gullivan, Barnes, Barker, Eastman, Taylor and Goodhue.

At a meeting of the stockholders of Uncas bank this morning held at their banking offices it was voted to increase the capital stock of the bank $1000,000, thus making the whole capital stock $200,000. By a vote of the stockholders the additional $100,000 is to be distributed, pro rata, among the old stockholders.

A New London woman has made two bedspreads of pieces of silk and satin, one of them contained 3,000 and the other 12,052 pieces.

A snake story. It is reported that 77 black snakes averaging from two to five feet in length and two milk snakes, 79 in all have been exhumed from the land owned by Mr. B. Alfred, in the southeastern part of the town of Harwinton.

Arrangements for a course of lectures to be delivered the coming winter at the church at Norwich Town include the following speakers: Honorable Horace Mann, Massachusetts (two lectures), Honorable Horace Greeley, New York, Rev. E. H. Chapin, Rev. Thomas Starr King, Rev. John Pierpont, Massachusetts, Rev. Charles A. Dana, Esquire, New York, Parke Godwin, Esquire. The course is to consist of ten lectures. The committe in charge is Thomas Hartland, O. P. Wattles and E. A. Hartland.

Saturday, Feb. 5, 1852—The Windham county musical association is to hold its first session at Central Village commencing on Tuesday, the 15th inst.

In the Union course of lectures the ninth lecture of the course is to be delivered by Dr. O. W. Holmes at Uncas hall, Friday evening, Feb. 11, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. His subject is to "Lecturing and Lecturers."

A convention of the members of the New London county Washington Total Abstinence Society and the friends of temperance generally is to be held here on Tuesday the 15th inst. according to B. W. Tompkins, president.

SPRING HILL

A. H. Mattern was called to Norwich last Thursday to attend the funeral of his father.

Edward Collins, who is completing a course at C. A. C., has moved into the rooms on the second story of the house at the C. A. C. sheep farm.

Mrs. Stephen Walsh of New York spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. L. V. Tirrell.

Mrs. E. F. Storrs has so far recovered from a recent illness as to be about the house.

Miss Janie Palmer spent last week at her home in Manchester. Her sisters and brother came after her and called upon old friends.

All of the school children and some of the older persons have recently been vaccinated on account of the cases of smallpox in other sections of the state.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels take Baalmann's Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Baalmann's Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with the circulation. Get the genuine, in the yellow package, at any good drug store. Price $1.

POETRY

Around the Corner

Around the corner, I have a friend,
In this great city that has no end;
Yet days go by and weeks rush on,
And before I know it a year is gone.
And I never see my old friend's face,
For life is a swift and terrible race.
He knows I like him just as well
As in the days when I rang his bell
And he rang mine. We were younger then
And now we are busy, tired men—
Tired with playing a foolish game,
Tired of trying to make a name.

"Tomorrow, say, I will call on Jim,
Just 'to' show that I'm thinking of him."
But tomorrow comes and tomorrow goes,
And the distance between us grows and grows;
Around the corner, yet miles away!
"Here's a telegram, Sir." "Jim died today!"
And that's what we get—and deserve—in the end,
Around the corner, a vanished friend.
—Charles Hanson Towne.

The Pawns

Prince, and Bishop, and Knight, and Dame,
Plot, and plunder, and disagree!
O but the game is a royal game!
O but your tournys are fair to see!

None too hopeful we found our lives;
Sore was labor from day to day;
Still we strove for our babes and wives—
Now, to the trumpet, we march away!

"Why?"—For some one hath willed it so!
Nothing we know of the why or the where—
To swamp, or jungle, or wastes of snow—
Nothing we know, and little we care.

Give us to kill!—Since this is the end
Of love and labor in Nature's plan;
Give us to kill and ravish and rend,
Yea, since this is the end of man.

States shall perish and states be born;
Leaders out of the throng, shall press—
Some to honor, and some to scorn;
We that are little, shall yet be less.

Over our lines shall the vultures soar;
Hard on our flanks shall the jackals cry;
And the dead shall be as the sands of the shore;
And daily the living shall pray to die.

Nay, what matter!—When all is said,
Prince and Bishop will plunder still;
Lord and Lady must dance and wed.
Pity us, pray for us, ye that will!
—William Young.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Mae—My dear, there are rumors abroad concerning you.

Jean—It doesn't matter. I never go abroad.—Detroit News.

Judge—Does your husband swear habitually?

Mrs.—O, Harry, I'm worried about the car!

Mr.—So am I; if we don't trade it in pretty soon we'll own the darn thing!—Life.

"Men are so hard to buy for," complained the sweet young thing.

"Yes," sighed the spinster of 43, "and I hope you'll never learn how hard it is to get a man to buy for."—Boston Transcript.

Wife—You are very late.

Husband—A fellow lost his purse in front of the theatre——

Wife—That is no reason.

Husband—I had my foot on it and had to wait until the crowd had gone.—Pages Gales, Yverdon.

Mrs. Printz—So your husband has been deceiving you, heh?"

Mrs. Sharpe—"Yes, the wretch. I've been giving him 20 cents for his bus fare every day, and I just found out he's been walking to the office and spending the money."—Kansas City Star.

"I feel as if I were going to faint," gasped a lovely girl.

"Great Scott! don't faint. I wouldn't know what to do!" cried the fellow in consternation.

"Oh, well," said the girl, disgustedly, "then there's no use fainting."—American Legion Monthly.

Police Chief—Well, did you work the third degree on that guy, as I told you?

Detective—Sure we did; we bullyragged, and crisscrossed and tormented and badgered him every way we could think of.

"And—what did he have to say?"

Negotiations are under way for the transportation of gold from the Kilo-Motor mines of the Belgian Congo over the Khartoum-Kisumu air mail service route. Employes of the mines would be carried as passengers.

The American Foundation for the Blind will distribute 500 radio sets to blind people all over the country as a Christmas gift from Mr. Powel Crosley, Jr., of Cincinnati. Three thousand radios have previously bpen distributed by this foundation to sightless persons in forty-six states and the District of Columbia.

A verdict of death through misadventure through tripping over a long skirt was returned recently at Camberwell at the inquest on Mrs. Elizabeth Alice Cottrell, a widow, age 87. Her son said that although he had often warned her about wearing such long skirts, her old-fashioned ideas persisted and she refused to adopt shorter dresses. One morning she caught her foot in the folds of her skirt and fell, fracturing her leg. She died a few days later in the hospital.

David Jones of Trisel, Blaenpennal, Llanilar, Cardiganshire, has proved that there is at least one Welshman who can speak only Welsh. Jones, brought before the king's bench division in London, began giving his testimony in Welsh, to the confusion of the court. He failed to understand questions put to him by the judge, and a Welsh interpreter had to be called. Of recent years there has been a concerted revival of the Welsh language throughout Wales, but hitherto Londoners have been unwilling to believe there are Welshmen who know only the language of their fathers.

A new truck that picks its load off the ground and carries it underneath the chassis is saving time and labor in French industrial plants. The chassis and motor stand seven feet high, on four legs that carry the wheels. There is a clearance of five feet under the framework and four flat right-angled plates, on rachets, stick inward from the four legs. The truck is run over the load which is set a few inches off the ground. The four plates, like hands, reach under the weight to be carried. They are elevated by the motor power and the truck thus carries its load. Various devices, such as platforms, are used so that the four iron hands can pick up the load.

France today will give appropriate recognition to the centenary of the birth of Jules Verne, the famous French writer of "supernatural fiction," who gave us "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," and other tales that thrilled us in our youth.

FINANCIAL TOWN MEETING RETRENCHES WHERE POSSIBLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 7—Moderator Lewis Stanton called the annual financial town meeting to order tonight at 8 o'clock.

Practically all day Monday the Westerly Town council in executive session, wrestled with the 17 budget figures to be recommended by them to the taxpaying voters. The following budget, $200 less than that appropriated last year, was arrived at for recommendation:

	Asked	Recommended
Highways	$187,800	$ 95,000
Schools	158,000	158,000
Town Officers	18,000	18,000
Police	18,000	18,000
Town Hall	7,500	7,000
Street Lights	16,000	15,000
Charities	8,500	8,500
Printing and Advertising	2,500	1,800
Miscellaneous	12,500	9,000
Interest	36,000	36,000
Redemption of Funded Debt	20,000	20,000
State Tax	25,000	25,000
Pierce and Pleasant Street Drain
Assessors' Plats	500	500
Mothers' Aid	2,000	1,000
Coy Judgment	3,500	3,500
Pleasant View Comfort Station	5,000
Totals	$470,300	$416,300

Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton moved and it was voted that the reports of the town treasurer, board of water commissioners, school committee, board of highway commissioners, and directors of public aid be received, approved, placed on file and ordered printed, these being presented in pamphlet form to the meeting.

Horace E. Burdick, president of the town council, presented the proposed budget. He said the form presented could be taken care of without any increase in taxation.

M. Walter Flynn, Jr., proposed that the budget funds be considered separately and on the first for highway purposes, Councilman Joseph Fraser, in explaining the reduction to $95,000 said that the appropriation of $42,168 for Granite street rebuilding had been taken out with the idea that the state of Rhode Island would adopt it in the state system and pay for the building, or part thereof.

John Defanti spoke of the wretched condition and need of attention of Hubbart street extension as did also James O. Lynch.

George B. Utter moved an amendment to the budget figure of $95,000 to include Granite street improvement for a total of $120,000. The amendment was voted down by an aye vote. The highway budget amount was voted at $95,000. President Burdick reported the raising of the salary of the judge of probate $200 to make his salary $12000, and that of the town solicitor from $1800 to $2400. On motion of Cornelius J. Murphy, $17,000 only was voted for town officers.

Frank A. Sullivan asked for an appropriation for town advertising and $1000 was voted. C. J. Murphy recommended that industries as well as shore properties be advertised.

The meeting voted the payment of $5,500 for the White Rock school building and property in White Rock to be cared for by town notes.

In the matter of purchase of the 13-acre site for a new junior high school on land of the estate of Oscar Vose, an appropriation of $35,000 was called for. On a voice vote, Moderator Stanton declared the motion lost. The ruling of the chair was questioned by Henry L. Burdick and an extended discussion followed, participated in by John DeFanti, Edwin Whitford, Thomas Perry for the school committee, who detailed their work in selecting a site. Superintendent of Schools Willard H. Bacon from a large chart on the stage, explained the location, also the cost of improving an adjoining site on land of the estate of Horace Vose.

A paper ballot was called for by Charles H. Crandall and voting proceeded.

After an hour of balloting with paper ballots and check lists, Moderator Stanton announced 331 votes cast, yes 228, no 103, which means that the town will purchase the property of the estate of Oscar Vose for the erection of a junior high school. Town notes are to be issued in payment thereof. Capt. Beppo Bonnenot introduced a resolution to have the Westerly highway commission appointed by the town council for a more economical management, and for the financial importance to the town. Moderator Stanton ruled that the motion was out of order, inasmuch as the statute covering annual financial town meetings did not include such action, which could only be taken at a special town meeting. The annual town tax was voted at the rate of $2.50 on each $100 worth of real estate and $.40 on each $100 worth of intangible personal property. The town treasurer was voted authority to hire money and issue notes not to exceed $300,000. The meeting adjourned at 11:10 o'clock.

In the bridge match by Westerly teams in the New London city tournament played in Westerly Tuesday night, the team of Farquhar Smith and L. G. McLaren was eliminated by William R. Chapman and G. Maurice Nye.

BOTTLING BEER FOR THE TRADE, NEW LONDON MAN GETS INTO COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 7—Frank Perry, 38 Denison avenue, was in the police court today charged with violation of the liquor law. A continuance was ordered to Thursday. Perry was held in bail of $1,000 for his appearance that day and his father qualified on the bond. Perry is a former paid member of the city's fire department, having been driver for Ockford Hose company. He has been convicted before of violation of the liquor law, and was arrested at his home last night when a raiding force of officers, in charge of Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh, swooped down upon the house, long known to be a resort where beer and whiskey was dispensed. The officers had obtained positive information that liquor would be found there and provided with a search warrant entered the house where a search revealed a quantity of home-brew, alcohol and whiskey. Perry, himself, was found in a room off the cellar where he was in the act of bottling beer for the trade. All the liquor found in the house was seized and will be used as evidence against him.

FARMER GORED BY BULL ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 7—William Gelston, an East Haddam farmer, who was painfully injured on his farm several weeks ago, being gored by a bull and who has since been a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was able to return home today. Other patients discharged today were Frederick Broseau of Willimantic, and Mrs. Saul Agranovitch and infant daughter, of Norwich.

George Wesley, colored, was charged with conducting a house of ill fame on North Bank street and upon pleading guilty was sentenced to three months in jail. Cie Carter, colored, of 129 Bank street, charged with frequenting, also pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 10 days in jail while Corp. Thomas Bruno, white, a soldier, stationed at Fort Wright, also charged with frequenting, was discharged. Wesley has long been known as one of the city's underworld gang, recently rented the North Bank street house and only yesterday the police received a complaint that the place was being used for purposes of immorality for blacks and whites resorted there. Last night when Bruno was seen to enter the house after the Carter woman had arrived there, a raiding squad in charge of Sergeant Patrick Murphy followed and found the three. All were locked up. Wesley has a long police court record and the Carter woman has been arrested in practically every "black and tan" raid that the police have made in several months.

Edward Jones, alias Frederick Matteson, formerly of New London, was arrested recently at Warwick, R. I., on a warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin charging Jones with non-support. The accused was in court today and was sentenced to three months in jail. Jones, a former hostler here, having been employed by the late George G. Avery, was complained against by his wife several weeks ago. He was finally located in Warwick and the police of that place were requested to arrest him. Jones refused to return to New London and defend the charge against him unless extradition papers were issued. Sergeant John Cavanaugh went to Warwick and last night returned here with the prisoner. When Jones and his wife were married, the former used a fictitious name for he was wedded under the name of Frederick Matteson.

John Taylor, colored, employed as butler by Walter S. Garde, of Mott avenue, was charged with non-support, but the case was continued tomorrow. He furnished a surety on his bond of $100.

Bernard Heller, 19, of 183 Varit street, Brooklyn, N. Y., was presented on a charge of violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving an auto without having a license to do so. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

The only other case given a hearing was that of a man who has been arrested frequently of late on a charge of intoxication. Today he was sentenced to jail for 10 days, but execution of the sentence was suspended.

John "Soldier" Wilson, former enlisted man at Fort Wright, at one time employed in the freight service of the New Haven railroad and many years ago a preliminary fighter of the prize ring in this city, was arrested this afternoon charged with breach of the peace, in beating Mrs. Ida McMoran, 11 Brewer street. He will be in court tomorrow. Wilson went to the home of Mrs. McMoran this afternoon and there engaged in a heated argument with her. Venom was displayed by each in the conversation. So hectic did the war of words become that Wilson attacked and severely beat Mrs. McMoran. He hastily left the house and when Mrs. McMoran made complaint to the police Wilson could not be found. Several hours afterwards Sergeant Patrick Murphy arrested Wilson at the rooming house of the latter. Wilson has a long police court record for various offenses, principally breach of the peace and assault, yet never has been convicted when presented in the police court.

The funeral of Tony Romagno, Goshen street grocery store proprietor, who died at the Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital Saturday, was held this afternoon at 62 Washington street. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where the service was read by Rev. Michael Reagan.

John F. Dunbar, city employe, died suddenly in Lawrence-Memorial hospital ambulance while being rushed to this city from Central Village where he was stricken by apoplexy, while driving his automobile. The funeral was held this afternoon at his residence on Uncas avenue, Waterford. The service was attended by a large gathering of mourners, including a delegation of members of Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows. The services were conducted by Rev. Herbert Hutchins, pastor of Quaker Hill Baptist church. Members of Pequot lodge acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Nehemiah Payne, 76, died this morning at his home, 249 Pequot avenue, after a lingering illness and five weeks to a day after the death of his wife. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Henry W. Kaiser, of this city. Mr. Payne was born in Salem, Conn., but had resided in New London many years.

William S. Chappell, veteran real estate dealer, and who has a summer residence at Windham, is confined to his home on Green street, by illness, although not of a serious nature.

The track team representing the town and county branch of New London Y. M. C. A. won second place in the state meet held in Meriden Saturday. During the first part of the meet the teams from New London and Hartford counties were nip and tuck for first place, but the lack of relay teams on the part of the New London aggregation in the cadet, junior and intermediate classes put the upstate team well in the lead. Last year New London county came in for third honors.

The final results by points for each county was Hartford 71 1-2; New London 47 1-2; Middlesex 28; Windham 23 1-2; Fairfield 21; New Haven 7 1-2; Litchfield 6.

The meet was held under the auspices of the newly-created state physical education committee, and new classifications for the entrants were promulgated. Under these circumstances, therefore, each winning mark sets a new state record, and a number of them in the various events and classes will be credited to New London county. The individuals winning places and the events in which they placed are: Cadet class: Bogue, of Mystic, took second in the running broad jump and first in the running high jump, with a record of 4 ft. 4 1-4 in. For the Juniors, Gavitt, of Pawcatuck, placed fourth in the running broad jump, first in the running high jump, leaving a mark of 4 ft. 8 1-2. for coming contestants to try for, and came in second in the 20-yard dash. Intermediate class: Powers of Pawcatuck, placed second in the running broad jump and third in the running high jump; Hedden, of Waterford took third place in the running broad jump and second in the running high jump, while Buonano, Groton, easily won first place in the 20-yard dash, the official time being given as 3 1-5 seconds. Senior class: Maggs of Pawcatuck trail in for third place in the running broad jump and for fourth place in the half mile run; Petty, Groton, tied for third place in the running high jump, and Kerr, Quaker Hill, winner of the half-mile event of a year ago, won the same event this year, with the time recorded as 2 min., 12 seconds. The senior relay team, composed of Green, Niantic; Petty, Groton; Kerr, Quaker Hill, and Chapman, Groton, took second honors.

CHILD SADLY BURNED BY A CIGAR LIGHTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 7—Harold J. Walker, 3, son of Lieut. and Mrs. Harold J. Walker, of Portsmouth, N. H., was seriously burned this morning at the residence of Lieut. F. C. Bain, U. S. N., and Mrs. Bain, 765 Ocean avenue, and the child is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital where it is stated that he is suffering from second degree burns of the face and right leg. Mrs. Walker and her son arrived in New London last night to visit Lieut. Bain and wife. This morning while members of the two families were engaged in another part of the house, the child saw a cigar lighter, which happened to be within his reach and in handling the automatic lighter, the child unconsciously caused the friction that caused the flint to ignite the alcohol soaked wick. The blazing wick scared the child and in dropping the lighting device, the clothing of the boy was ignited. His screams were heard by his mother who hastened in to find the boy's clothes ablaze. The burning clothing was extinguished and a physician summoned. After emergency treatment the child was taken to the hospital.

New London residents who are in Florida cities have written to acquaintances here this week that the temperature in the southern cities is practically the same as when the start was made. The writers assert that the days are ideal, but that coats and heavy garments are necessary for comfort in the evening.

The only occupants of cells at police headquarters tonight are two unfortunates, arrested for intoxication. A third prisoner, Joseph Wilson, who was arrested earlier in the day for assaulting Mrs. Ida McMoran, was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $100.

The annual automobile show will be more elaborate than usual, as indicated by arrangements made for the exhibits.

One ice dealer is considering himself lucky, for yesterday he had ice 10 1-2 inches thick harvested from one of his ponds in the country.

Zifo Zincenzo has purchased the house and lot, 14 Woodbridge street, from Louis Lubchansky.

Mrs. John Tomostik, of East Lyme, and Mrs. Joseph Shepatin and infant daughter, 220 Huntington street, were discharged at Home Memorial hospital today.

Charles T. Slocum, 67, of Niantic, died yesterday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital where he had been ill but a few days. He is survived by his wife and one son. Mr. Slocum, who was a teamster, formerly resided in Westerly, but had lived at Niantic for six years.

Capt. Adolphus Andrews, commander at the submarine base, is confined at his residence at the base as a result of a severe cold. Capt. Andrews recently returned from the south and it is believed that the sudden change in temperature resulted in his contracting the cold.

Noyes A. Smith, employed by the Merritt - Chapman - Scott Wrecking company, is confined to his home by illness believed to be of a serious nature. Mr. Smith is chief engineer of the tug Commissioner.

Jack Halpern and Nathan Peck went to New York tonight and tomorrow will leave for Hot Springs, Ark., for a week or ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shea have moved to New Haven. Mr. Shea was formerly cashier of the local branch of Armour & Co.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

"That Certain Thing," which will be shown today at the Palace theatre, is a clean, wholesome comedy with an O. Henry twist. It sparkles with spontaneous wit and humor which keeps the audience in a constant uproar of laughter.

The plot deals with the adventures of a little cigar counter clerk who fancies that she is a gold-digger. The girl is portrayed by Viola Dana in convincing manner. As Molly Kelly, this screen actress acquires the natural wit of a daughter of Erin and always has a comeback when the hetrogenous population of her neighborhood try any wisecracks. Molly is the sole support of her mother and kid brothers. In addition to her job behind the hotel cigar counter the girl has to scrub the kids every morning and assist in the household duties.

Her dream of marrying a millionaire comes true; but the income of the bridal couple is soon cut off by an irate father. Then Molly and her husband return to the congested district. The husband hits upon a "big idea" which provides employment for all the neighbors and forces his father to dance to the tune of $100,000.

Tonight is gift night at the Palace. Twenty-five dollars in gold and ten other valuable presents will be given away absolutely free.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday the screen attraction will be "The Secret Hour," with Pola Negri, and in addition there will be five big acts of selected vaudeville.

Dodge Car

Far more interest has been shown at the various automobile shows this year than last year, according to Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company. "With the new Ford no longer a mystery, and with prices reduced all along the line, the public is in the market again, stronger than ever," says Jordan. "The automobile purchaser's dollar goes farther today than ever before, and the buyer knows it. Our shipments this January were more than double those of last January, and orders coming in from our dealers give definite promise of good business for the first quarter."

Strand Theatre

Jack Perrin's latest Bayart picture, "Thunderbolt's Tracks," comes to the Strand tonight and Thursday night. The story tells of two marines who are on leave of absence and find themselves in a peaceful little sun-baked town in New Mexico. In the supporting cast are Pauline Curley, Billy Lamar and Ruth Royce. There is a ring battle and an exciting gun fight. It is obviously a story full of action, nor does it lack the flavor of romance. "Thunderbolt's Tracks" promises real entertainment.

As enchanting as its title is the feature picture, "The Enchanted Island." In brief the story is of a man and his daughter who are shipwrecked on an island in the Pacific. The only playmates the girl knows are some circus animals that were saved from the wrecked ship. On her 18th birthday three men are washed ashore from a boat wrecked on the island reefs. Her father disguises her as a boy, to protect her from a brutish seafaring man, while the girl loses her heart to the handsome young castaway in the party. The cast is excellent in all their portrayals, but special mention is accorded Charlotte Stevens, Pierre Gendron, Henry Walthall and Pat Hartigan.

We also show "Aesop's Fables."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Blanche Sweet, who is appearing in the role of Dolly Wall, proprietor of an oil-boom town social club in "Singed" at the Breed theatre today and Thursday, under the Fox Films banner, with John Griffith Wray directing, is giving the best performance of her entire career.

Miss Sweet plays thepart of a dance hall girl who becomes wealthy through an oil gusher and Warner Baxter the part of "Her man," erstwhile derrick man, for whom she "goes straight." Their riches turn the man's head and he attempts to discard the girl in order to marry a San Francisco society debutante. It is this situation that brings about one of the most tragic and powerful climaxes that has been written into a script in many seasons, according to advance reviews from Hollywood and New York.

"Slightly Used," a Warner Bros.' production directed by Archie L. Mayo, with May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel and an excellent supporting cast, is the added feature for today and Thursday. The story is a delightful comedy of youth, in which a young lady, to escape home nagging, pretends to be married, rues it, goes through some startling and excruciatingly funny adventures, and in the end gets to be what she pretended to be. It's great. Don't miss it.

GREENEVILLE

WEDDING

Zabrowski-Przytutski

A pretty pre-lenten wedding took place Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Josephs church when Rev. William Toper united in marriage Miss Julia Przytutski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Constanti Przytutski of 13 Sherman street and Alexander Zabrowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antone Zabrowski of Norfolk, Va., before a large number of friends and relatives. The maid of honor was Miss Manda Przytutski, sister of the bride, while the best man was Albin Jablowski. The bride was beautifully attired in a white satin gown trimmed with Spanish lace and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, carnations, lilies of the valley and sweet peas. The maid of honor was handsomely gowned in a deep pink satin and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations. The bridesmaids, Miss Celeste Przytutski, gowned in baby blue georgette, Miss Helen Dimbinski, green georgette and Miss Josephine Hughes, yellow georgette, wore hats to correspond, and carried bouquets of pink carnations. The ushers were Stanley Arneszewicz, Felix Sadzewicz and Joseph Zabrowski. Following the services at the church a reception was held at Pulaski hall on North Main street with 150 friends and relatives present. After the wedding breakfast dancing was enjoyed during the afternoon and evening. The bride received many beautiful and useful presents including cutglass, linen, checks for substantial amounts, gold and silver and pieces of furniture. During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Zabrowski left on a wedding trip which will take them to New York city, Washington and Norfolk, Va. Upon their return in about two weeks they will make their home with the bride's parents on Sherman street. Their many friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Zabrowski the best of luck in their newly married life.

A pretty birthday party in valentine style was tendered Yvonne Boucher at her home, 126 North Main street, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in honor of her 13th birthday. Twelve of her girl friends were present. Games were played. The peanut hunt and pinning the tail on the donkey caused much merriment and laughter. The first prize for the peanut hunt went to Miss Mary Driscoll and second prize to Mildred Brodeur and for pinning the tail on the donkey to Dorothy Herrick. A piano duet was rendered by Mildred Brodeur and Yvonne Boucher. A dance was given by Mary Chioda. At 6 o'clock all were assembled in the dining room where covers were laid for 12. The table was prettily decorated with valentines and red streamers. A large birthday cake adorned the center of the table. At each place was a red basket filled with candy hearts. Hanging from the chandelier was a large basket with 12 ribbons attached to it. Each guest was given a ribbon to pull and to their surprise found a gift tied at the end. A buffet lunch consisting of chicken salad, saltines and cheese, fruit salad cake, and coffee was served by Mrs. Boucher assisted by Miss Florence Disco. After lunch games were again played. Miss Boucher was the recipient of many beautiful gifts including an amethyst ring from her mother and father.

TAFTVILLE

Funeral services for Charles Paradis were held Tuesday morning at 8:30 from his late home on Hunters avenue followed by a solemn high mass of requiem at Sacred Heart church. At the mass, Rev. Omer T. Mandler was celebrant, Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault was deacon and Rev. Henri F. Chagnon was sub deacon. The church service was largely attended, and the bearers were three members representing Ponemah council, No. 34, Knights of Columbus and three representing the St. Jean Baptist society. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery on the Old Canterbury turnpike where Rev. Fathers DesSureault and Chagnon officiated.

BODY OF UNIDENTIFIED MAN IS FOUND FLOATING IN THE HARBOR

The body of an unidentified man, apparently middle aged, was found in the Thames river, near Osgood's wharf, about 5.40 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Just after the Thames River Line Steamer had pulled away from the dock, on its trip to New York city, the body came to the surface. A man working around the docks noticed it and police headquarters was notified.

Sergt. Myron O. Morgan and Officers Daniel O'Neil and Michael Carroll were detailed to recover the body. The officers secured a hook and rope and succeeded in drawing the body to the wharf. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve was notified and after examining the body gave Undertaker C. A. Gager permission to remove it to his undertaking rooms.

The man was apparently a laborer as he was dressed in working clothes. He wore dark trousers, a khaki shirt, coat sweater and an ordinary sack coat. His shoes were black. In the pockets of his clothing were found a pair of double lens eyeglasses in a case, three packages of cigarettes and $3 in bills and some change. From the condition of the body it is thought to have been in the water for about three weeks.

There was nothing on the body to give any clue as to the man's identity.

First reports gave the impression that the body was that of one of the two missing Whitaker boys who were drowned with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitaker and three sisters about two weeks ago when the machine they were riding in and which was driven by Mr. Whitaker plunged off Preston bridge into the Shetucket river.

PANCIERA GETS VERDICT FOR AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Verdict for $592, the full amount which he claimed, was given by a jury in the common pleas court at New London Tuesday afternoon in favor of Raymond Panciera of Stonington against Warren B. Finn of East Greenwich, R. I.

The suit was brought because of a collision between two trucks, one owned and operated by Panciera and the other by Finn. The complaint alleged that the crash occurred on Sept. 30, 1927 near the intersection of Willow street and Greenmanville avenue, Mystic.

The plaintiff claimed that the collision occurred as a result of the defendant's negligent operation of his truck and that the force of the impact caused Panciera to be thrown out of his machine and seriously injured. Attorney B. H. Hewitt appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney D. S. Pelgrift for the defendant.

DIVORCE FOR CRUELTY GRANTED BY JUDGE AVERY

After a short hearing in the superior court at New London Tuesday, Judge C. L. Avery granted divorce from Charles P. Busch to Marie T. Busch, proprietress of an 81-room boarding house in Baltic. Divorce was granted on the grounds of intolerable cruelty and although the case appeared on the contested list, the defendant made no contest.

Mrs. Busch, who was also given custody of an 11-year-old daughter, when called to the witness stand by her attorney, Earle W. Mathewson, testified that her husband had worked about three months out of the last three years; that he spent the greater part of his time hunting and fishing; that he was in the habit of getting intoxicated, on which occasions he would strike her.

RELATIVES IN COURT OVER FARM OWNERSHIP

Trial of the suit in the civil action brought by Anthony Plonowski, of Lebanon, against Mike and Alexander Plonowski, his uncle and cousin respectively, for a reconveyance and audit of expenses and profits on a farm in Lebanon, was heard before Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court in New London Tuesday.

The plaintiff claims that on March 3, 1922, he loaned Mike Plonowski $2,103.36 towards the purchase of a farm, with the understanding that the farm should be in the names of the plaintiff and defendant; both were to live on it and work it.

The plaintiff alleges that Mike had the farm recorded in his own name and that in order to avoid a reckoning with the plaintiff, he transferred the title to Alexander Plonowski, for no consideration and that the latter knew of the reason for the transfer.

CONTEMPLATE NEW-CABLE NORWICH TO JEWETT CITY

In the annual report made by President James T. Moran to the meeting of stockholders of the Southern New England Telephone company in New Haven, he stated that some of the new work planned for this year is to include substantial additions to the switchboard at Willimantic, while the toll cable programme contemplates cables between New London and Fishers Island, Norwich and Jewett City, Meriden and Middletown, Manchester and Rockville.

PREPARING APPROACHES AT POQUETANUCK COVE BRIDGE

Concrete work on the abutments for the new highway bridge over Poquetanuck cove on the Military highway has stopped for the winter, but the contractor now has his men doing work on the approaches on each side of the bridge. On the southerly side of the cove a considerable amount of filling in has been done to bring the highway surface to the higher level of the new bridge, while on the northerly side a steam shovel is at work biting into the steep bank on the easterly side of the bridge where the new highway is to run.

On Uncontested Divorce List

Six uncontested divorce cases are on the list for trial Friday at New London at the superior court short calendar session before Judge C. L. Avery. They are the following: Albert M. Hewlitt vs. Lena Bunnell Hewlitt; Thelma O. Harris vs. Russell Harris; Edward P. Chester vs. Lola Peyton Chester; Viola Jennings Hoyle vs. George W. Hoyle; Thomas G. Mahon vs. Marie J. Mahon; Harold Leonard Pecor vs. May Etta Pecor.

Heard Suit Over Auto Accident.

Judge Charles B. Waller took the papers and reserved decision in the $500 damage suit brought by Leonard Dunn against Timothy Ahearn, both of New London, following a trial of the case last Monday afternoon in the court of common pleas there.

The suit arose out of an automobile accident near the intersection of Fremont and Huntington streets.

George G. Grant was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

John Joubert is able to be at his place of business after recovering from a painful injury to his face.

Mrs. Bertha Leonard who has been spending the past three weeks with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lang and family of New York has returned to her home on South Second avenue.

SPEAKER FROM PROVIDENCE BEFORE WOMEN VOTERS

Mrs. James Cheesman, of Providence, regional director of New England of the League of Women Voters, addressed the local league at their regular monthly meeting held in Slater Hall annex Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Cheesman's topic was "The League, a Revival of Early American Spirit." She first directed attention to the need of an organization of education for better citizenship, and then told of her study of early American history where this same need had been felt. She quoted from Bancroft's Early American History and brought out that much the same method had been used in making intelligent voting citizens and that the league is merely an echo of those early times. Among the practical assistance which the league gives is the arousing of interest to think about possible issues in advance and the opening of eyes to the opportunities which voters should avail themselves and that the league can be relied upon to advise without the fear of arriving at some entirely un-American idea.

Mrs. Cheesman spoke on The Program, and cited its four divisions as, efficiency in government, forms of government, public welfare, and cooperation for peace measures, and told how carefully this program was planned by national leaders of the league before being circulated.

The league was highly commended by the Carnegie Institute for its work for adult education.

Mrs. Cheesman closed her talk with an urgent appeal for every member to be an active member. It was announced that the March meeting of the league is to be a luncheon-meeting to be held at the Wauregan hotel. A fine child welfare program has been arranged and among the speakers there will be Senator Hill, Miss Baldwin and Mrs. Cook. The meeting will be open for the public.

MOHEGAN RIFLE LEAGUE ORGANIZATION EFFECTED

Formation of a league in eastern Conecticut to be known at the Mohegan Rifle league was effected here Sunday afternoon at a meeting at the state armory attended by 40 enthusiastic rifle shooters. Committees from the following clubs were present: Pequot Rifle club, Mystic; Thames Rifle and Revolver club, New London; Danielson Rod and Gun club, Pioneer Hose Rifle club, Groton; U. S. Coast Guard, New London; U. S. Marine corps, New London; Willimantic Rifle club and Norwich Rifle club. Representatives of the Colchester Rifle club and the submarine base were unable to attend.

President E. A. Morrill of the Norwich Rifle club called the meeting to order and Charles B. Palmer was appointed temporary chairman with Vincent Welsh as clerk. The name of Mohegan Rifle league was selected as a suitable historic title and the constitution and by-laws of the Nutmeg Rifle league were adopted with few changes.

C. E. Lyman of Middlefield, president of the Nutmeg league, and Mr. Pickering, another league officer, rendered valuable assistance.

The clubs represented will elect two members each for the governing board and will meet at the state armory Sunday, Feb. 13, at 3 in the afternoon to elect officers and arrange the schedule for the year.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and the men enjoyed a little competition on the range.

KILLED UNDER TRUCK ON COVENTRY-BOLTON ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 7—Joseph Foley, 37, of Manchester, died with a broken neck under his overturned two ton motor truck tonight about 6 o'clock at one of the twin hills on the road between Coventry and Bolton. The truck skidded on the icy road and went into a ditch.

He was taken from under the car dead by William Pfieffer of Willimantic, driver of a New England Transportation company bus, who was assisted by others who came along after the accident.

Foley was formerly a policeman in Manchester and is survived by his wife two children and a brother.

JORDAN MEETING FOR DAIRYMEN OF COUNTY

There will be a meeting of dairymen in Fireman's hall, Jordan, on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. All dairymen are welcome to this meeting which is being held by the New London County farm bureau.

Problems in the dairy business are becoming increasingly great for many then and especially those who have tested for bovine tuberculosis and have experienced heavy losses. Under such conditions the big problem is to prevent future losses as far as possible. The reason for this meeting in Jordan is just for this purpose, that is, to discuss some of these problems.

Prof. A. H. Merrill of Storrs and County Agent Clark will lead the discussions. Prof. Merrill has some very interesting information on this phase of the dairy problem which many dairymen should know and will find that it will be well worth their while to attend.

GIFT PRESENTED AT FAREWELL PARTY

In the form of a farewell party, thirty friends delightfully surprised Miss Doris Buteau Monday evening at her home on Cliff street, presenting her a beautiful ivory set as a token of their friendship. Music and games were enjoyed and refreshments were served. Miss Buteau is entering the Backus hospital this week as a student nurse and she received the best wishes of the friends in attendance for success in her new venture.

EXPECT ENTIRE RECOVERY FROM HIS HALLUCINATIONS

Authorities at the Norwich State hospital stated Tuesday that Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, who is a patient at the institution, was cheerful and optimistic there. It is understood that he has been suffering from hallucinations, brought on by mental strain, and that with rest and quiet he may be entirely recovered within a month's time.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

JIMMY NELSON COMPARES FIGHTERS OF TWO PERIODS

Not as fast—not as clever—not the punch—but game, as game as any boxer you've got in the ring today, is the way Jimmy Nelson summarizes a comparison between the boxers of his day and the ring men of the present. Nelson was a resident here over 30 years ago, following the time when he was the sparring partner of Jack McAuliffe, then lightweight champion of the world. At present Jimmy has just concluded an engagement as physical instructor in the Wooster Preparatory school in Danbury.

Nelson had the question put to him by a Danbury newspaper man, "What do you think of the fighters of today compared with the fighters of yesterday?" This is the way he answered it:

"The boxer of today," said Nelson, "is given a time limit in which to score his victory. He knows that when he enters the ring he is given 10, 12, or 15 rounds to gain a verdict. And he fights accordingly. In order to whip his man in so many rounds he generally keeps on top of him and plays his cards on an aggressive manner. What is the result? You find speed in his most needed weapon.

"With speed must be coupled cleverness and so you find the fighter of today is clever as well as fast. He has to be clever as well as fast to win in a short fight, unless of course he has nothing but a punch. And the boxer of this age has the punch because he develops one. If he cannot command speed or cleverness he has got to have a punch in order to win in a short fight.

"In the olden days it was different. A fighter of yesterday never knew when he was going to come out of the ring. He climbed through the ropes and he stayed inside until his man was finished. He didn't fight for points. He had no set time, or number of rounds with which to win. Sometimes it took half a day, sometimes more for a fighter to beat down his opponent. He didn't need speed, nor cleverness nor a punch so much as he required grit and stamina. He had to be game, and believe me the fighters of those days were full of grit from the top of their head to the bottom of their feet. I don't say the boys of today are not game but they didn't have anything on the fighters of yesterday.

"In present time boxing your fighter plays mostly for the head. In my time the fighter played for the body. Consequently your knockouts are quicker and more effective.

"A boxer wearing skin-tight gloves couldn't pound away at an opponent's head like a fellow wearing six ounce gloves. The olden day fighter would break his hand against a head but spare it against the stomach. Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, fought two hours once without striking a blow to his opponent's head. It was the body he wanted to wound and he eventually beat his man through this mode of attack."

LINDBERGH ARRIVED AT HAVANA AS PER SCHEDULE

The Lone Eagle Performed a Few Stunts Within View of the Multitude Before Swooping Gracefully to Earth—Cavalrymen and Infantry Guarded the Hero From the Enthusiasm of His Admirers—U. S. Ambassador Judah and Charles E. Hughes Were on the Field to Greet Lindbergh—Crowds Shouted Themselves Hoarse as Lindbergh Entered the Presidential Palace, Where President Machada Gave the Good Will Ambassador a Hearty Welcome.

HAVANA, Feb. 8—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, holding his famed "Spirit of St. Louis" true to its course and schedule, landed here today to receive the plaudits of Cuba and of the representatives of many of the lands he had already visited.

The crowds which with many dignitaries of the Pan-American congress had awaited his arrival at Columbia field were excited beyond restrain as the American aviator performed a few stunts within their view before swooping gracefuly to earth. Cavalrymen and infantry, with drawn sabres and bayonets, quickly formed fresh lines, however, to guard the hero from the enthusiasm of his admirers.

After waiting a few momenis in his plane while members of the reception committee and other officials surrounded him Colonel Lindbergh emerged to enter the automobile which was to take him to the presidential palace at Havana, eight miles from the field. Close behind United States Ambassador Judah in offering his congratulations on the successful flight from Haiti was Charles Evans Hughes. The former chief justice of the United States said: "Lindbergh is tracing the route that future commerce will follow. The best part is that it is a route of goodwill and what he is doing is of first importance in the developments of Pan-Americanism."

The Spirit of St. Louis elicited much surprise from the Cubans, who were heard on all sides to remark how small it was and how fragile. The flags of the many republics visited by Lindbergh painted on the plane attracted the attention of the delegates to the Pan-American conference, who were prominent among the milling crowd, which, irrespective of cloth, surged about the machine.

Mr. Hughes did not return to the palace with Colonel Lindbergh. The crowds in the field were greatly disappointed when the automobile, carrying the airman, drove rapidly away. They wanted him to drive around the flying field so they might show their admiration for him in fitting manner.

Before leaving, Colonel Lindbergh intimated that the Spirit of St. Louis would require more than an ordinary overhauling for the Havana to St. Louis flight, owing to the many hours it has already been in the air. A representative of the Wright Motor company and Cuban and American army aviators took charge of the plane.

Cuban cavalry and infantry continued to guard the machine long after the departure of its pilot, and crowds surged around to get as close a look at the silver ship as possible. The plane will be placed in one of the Pan-American Airways corporation's hangars, which will be its resting place for the next few days.

Accompanied by the American ambassador, Noble B. Judah and Orestes Ferrara, the Cuban ambassador to Washington, Colonel Lindbergh left the field at 4:10, traversing the eight miles to the presidential palace in 20 minutes. Thousands thronged the plaza in front of the palace, shouting themselves hoarse. In the great reception hall were President Machada and the members of his cabinet, officials of the army and navy and many others. The president gave the goodwill ambassador a hearty welcome, shaking him warmly by the hand.

"You have come from the far end of this island republic," he said, "where we fought so hard for independence. You represent one of the world's greatest nations as ambassador of the air. I extend to you a welcome from every Cuban.

"You have seen practically the whole of our island, whose people will never forget what you Americans did for them at the time of their great need. Our country is small in territory, but great in its love for liberty."

"You yourself," the Cuban president told the American air ambassador of goodwill, "are one of the greatest men of a great nation and will always be considered one of the world's greatest citizens. Every moment of your life, in glory or in sorrow, you will always have a friend in us. You will always find a welcome in Cuba.

"We love our liberty and independence. You are an ambassador of the air but also an ambassador of American freedom."

Ambassador Ferrara translated the welcome of President Machado and introduced him to the members of the cabinet and other officials who were present. The president with Mr. Judah and Colonel Lindbergh on either side led the way to the balcony overlooking the spacious Avenida Misiones where President Coolidge had also appeared recently to answer the applause of the crowds.

The three stood at attention while the Cuban anthem was played and while children sung the Star Spangled Banner. Lindbergh waved to the crowds in response to their cheers but declined the suggestion that he address them.

As he retired from the balcony the lone eagle received a motherly blessing in English from Madame Pouvert Terry, wife of a prominent Cuban, who made her way to his side and pressed his hand. Lindbergh smiled his thanks.

Later in the great hall where the aviator received the formal congratulations of guests, Lindbergh touched to his lips the traditional champagne of which the others partook. Throughout the ceremony he carried his flying helmet. His face, reddened by the tropical sun, showed little sign of strain from the flight into fifteen hands which culminated in his arrival here.

After the ceremonies Ambassador Judah took Colonel Lindbergh to the United States embassy which will be his home during his stay here.

Commander Joseph Lebrix swooped down to Boiling field here late today in the huge plane which had carried them from Paris across the South Atlantic and over South America to Mexico and the United States.

For more than two hours Ambassador Claudel, of France, and numerous other diplomats had waited to welcome the airmen. With them were Secretary Davis of the war department and Secretary Wilbur, of the navy department. All joined in shouting "bravo" as their plane, the "Nungesser-Coli," zoomed low above them, and then turned slowly for a perfect landing on the rain-soaked field.

The airmen jumped from the cockpits almost immediately, to be greeted in their native language by Ambassador Claudel and his family, and then to be welcomed by high government officials here. After posing for photographers and waving an enthusiastic greeting to the small crowd that had gathered, Costes and Lebrix followed their plane as it was trundled to a hangar, gathered bungles of baggage and were whisked away to the French embassy.

A private dinner in their honor was given tonight at the Carlton hotel, attended only by members of the French diplomatic staff. They will be received tomorrow by President Coolidge and on Friday will be entertained at luncheon at the white house.

SURPRISE SPRUNG IN LIQUOR SMUGGLING CASE

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The government called a surprise witness today at the trial in the federal court of John B. Magnus, Boston garage owner and Carl G. Halwartz and Sidney F. Nichols, former coast guardsman, on charges of liquor smuggling. The witness was George A. Callahan, once bookkeeper and confidential agent for Magnus and he testified regarding numerous rum running expeditions from Nova Scotia to Cape Cod.

The defense had rested when Callahan was called by the prosecution as a rebuttal witness, to refute testimony of Magnus, who had denied that he ever owned any speed boats. The former bookkeeper testified that Magnus had two speed boats, built at a Neponset shipyard and that he owned the Nova Scotia schooner I'm Alone, and other boats, as well as a camp on the Massachusetts south shore where liquor was landed.

Callahan declared that he "took care of the liquor money" and that he made so many trips to Nova Scotia during 1925 and 1926 that he could not fix the exact dates.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN ARRAIGNED FOR ARSON

EAST GREENWICH, R. I., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Three additional members of the Oakland Beach volunteer fire company were arraigned late this afternoon before Clerk Loomis of the fourth district court here on charges of setting fire to the comfort station in Oakland Beach, an amusement park, October 12, last. They are Robert Beck, 20; Kenneth H. MacLaughlin, 19, and Thomas J. McDuff, 19, all of Oakland Beach.

Beck pleaded not guilty to the charge and was held under bail of $5,000 for trial February 21. McDuff and MacLaughlin pleaded nolo, were adjudged probably guilty and bound over to the Kent county grand jury in $2,000 each.

Two weeks ago, Warwick police arrested three other members of the fire company on charges of setting mysterious fires at the shore resort. The police say they obtained confessions from the first three, whose cases are to be considered by the grand jury in special session next Monday.

NICARAGUAN AIR FIELD NAMED FOR SERG. BRUCE

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The new aviation field used by the Nicaraguan national guard has been called "Bruce Field" in honor of Sergeant Thomas G. Bruce, U. S. Marine corps, who was killed in action on January 1 while serving as lieutenant in the Nicaraguan national guard.

Sergeant Bruce, when he was killed, was leading a column toward Quilali to relieve a small body of troops who held the town after the severe battle of December 30 when the marines, in combat with Sandino forces, suffered the heaviest casualties since the World war.

WAS HURLED THROUGH WINDSHIELD OF AUTO

MERIDEN, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Hurled through the windshield by the impact of a head-on collision here, Steve Sasek, 17, of 121 Broad street, Plainville, suffered severe facial cuts which may deprive him of the sight of his right eye at 8 o'clock tonight on the Meriden-Hartford highway, near the Berlin town line.

The youth was a passenger in a car operated by his brother, Paul Sesak, 21, who escaped injury.

The Sasek car was traveling south when it crashed head-on into an approaching car. Sasek's vision is believed to have been obscured by the dense fog.

EARTH TREMORS SHOOK BUILDINGS AT MILO, Me.

MILO, Me., Feb. 8—(AP)—Earth tremors which shook buildings and in some instances did slight damage to walls were felt in this town today.

The first tremor, a distinct shock, was followed at intervals of five or six minutes by two lesser shocks. Similar tremors were recorded several weeks ago.

Residents today reported that dishes were shaken from their places on shelves and plaster in walls cracked. At the post office leters were shaken from the racks.

SEES LITTLE HOPE FOR FURTHER DISARMAMENT

LONDON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Little hope for the present of further world disarmament was indicated by Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary for foreign affairs, in the house of commons today, in his review of foreign relations.

Nevertheless, he declared, war between Great Britain and the United States was unthinkable, and the failure of the tri-partite naval conference at Geneva, he said, should profit the nations when the time came to revise the Washington treaties.

ELEVEN PEDIGREED DOGS WERE DROWNED

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Eleven pedigreed lives, valued financially at $16,000, were lost to dogdom because of rain water today.

The rainwater, dammed up on the roof of a one-story extension to the rear of a dog exchange on West 35th street, overflowed through a skylight and trapped the canine aristocrats in their cages below. Several of the dogs had been entered to compete in a dog show at Madison Square garden on Monday.

Anglican Prayer Book is Approved

LONDON, Feb. 8—(AP)—The three branches of the church assembly completed the approval of "the new prayer book of 1928" today when the laiity voted the endorsement the houses of bishops and clergy had given yesterday.

Action on the book of common prayer, whose revision has been a matter of controversy within the Anglican church in England, was taken today despite a strong minority sentiment which contended that the amended book was still too much like the form the house of commons rejected last December after a heated debate.

The vote of the house of laity today was 196 to 80, the clergy had endorsed it 247 to 35 while the approval of the bishops was voted, 40 to 5.

Although approved in its general aspect, the next step in the long journey of the book back toward the approval of parliament will come tomorrow when the laity and clergy will offer and consider amendments. The house of bishops also will have an opportunity for further revision before it is again presented to parliament.

Following the rejection of the revised prayerbook by the house of commons after it had been approved by the house of lords, Anglican bishops proposed alternative forms to overcome parliamentary opposition. The vote today was regarded as simplifying the procedure since the attitude of the laity had been somewhat doubtful.

FINAL ARGUMENTS IN HICKMAN SANITY TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The crime of William Edward Hickman today was pictured by his own chief defender as the "most dastardly that ever human set out to do."

A few minutes before, a prosecutor, opening the final arguments in Hickman's sanity trial, declared that the confessed kidnaper and slayer of Marian Parker "already had a rope about his neck."

Climaxing the most stirring session of the legal battle, marked by the meeting face to face in court of the slayer and the father of Marian Parker, the last phase of the trial went on today when arguments were begun. The case may go to the jury tomorrow.

Jerome Walsh, Hickman's chief of counsel, speaking in booming tones that resounded through the crowded court room, solemnly declared that the kidnaping of the child victim from school and her killing was the most dastardly crime in history and that it was the act of Hickman's insanity. It was a madman for whom he spoke, Walsh declared.

It fell to the lot of Forrest Murray, chief aide to the district attorney, to open the arguments for the state. He shouted that Hickman, in a written plea for life, presented during the trial, had "asked that America do away with the rope when the rope already is around his neck."

URGE INTERVENTION TO END BITUMINOUS COAL STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Intervention by the federal government to end the bituminous coal strike in Pennsylvania was urged today in the house by two members who declared that the mine operators were conducting a campaign of terrorism among the striking miners in violation of federal and state laws and of the "personal liberty guarantee of the constitution."

Representative La Guardia, a republican of New York, who just made a personal survey of the strike area, and Casey, a democrat, who represents the Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania district in congress, charged the mine operators with using state police to terrorize the miners into withdrawing the United Mine Workers, the miners union. They urged the house to adopt the Casey resolution for a congressional investigation into the conditions in the Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio bituminous fields.

Casey said that President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover had remained "silent" on the strike situation in the face of conditions of suffering and "brutal treatment" among the miners. The Red Cross, he added, also was declared by some to be influenced in not according relief to the miners because they would not leave the union.

TWO ARMY AVIATORS LOST; PLANE FELL INTO OCEAN

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 8 (AP)—Lieut. Fitzhugh Lee Rhea and Leo Richard Lonnergan, radio man first class, attached to the observation detachment aboard the scout cruiser Omaha, were killed today when the UO plane in which they were spotting torpedoes crashed into the ocean from an altitude of 1,000 feet, 35 miles west of Point Loma, near here.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Clara L. Baker

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Clara L. Baker, widely known throughout the city for her benefactions, died here tonight at the age of 63 years. She was the widow of Frederick Daniel Baker, a former police and fire commissioner and an executive of the Acme Shea company of this city.

Tariff Deadlock at Havana Conference

Argentine and the United States Are in Complete Discord on the Matter.

HAVANA, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Argentina and the United States failed to come to an understanding at the Pan-American conference today regarding the right of Pan-Americanism to interfere with the complete freedom of nations in assessing tariff schedules. The deadlock, which has been threatening ever since Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation, demanded about a fortnight ago that the Pan-American union be empowered to study means to lower the excessive tariff walls in inter-American commerce, left Charles Evans Hughes, of the United States, and Dr. Pueyrredon at the end of a three-hour subcommittee meeting today in complete disaccord, and apparently determined not to alter their attitudes.

The other members of the sub-committee, which was appointed from the committee on Pan-American union affairs, and which has been assigned the task of preparing a draft preamble to the convention, are reported as being on the side of the United States in the tariff wrangle, leaving the Argentine delegate to maintain his position alone.

The interest of the others is understood to be centered more on the provisions of the preamble, which declare the equality of all the American republics, their independence and right to territorial integrity, on which points a ready agreement was reached early in the sub committee deliberations.

Dr. Pueyrredon is understood to have maintained today that the preamble should contain a specific reference to the necessity that Pan-Americanism assume a concrete economic form, tending to the removal of all obstacles which impede unnecessarily the free flow of commerce. He is reported as repeating that he did not think Pan-Americanism could be built entirely upon abstractions that economic unity of this hemisphere was the fundamental and true object of the movement.

The Argentine spokesman did not suggest that countries should be forbidden to impose tariffs, but is understood to have said that discretion should be used in the determination of tariff schedules, to the end that inter-American commerce should not be completely dislocated.

Mr. Hughes pointed out the difficulties inherent in the inclusion of such provisions in a document which the legislatures of sovereign countries would later be called upon to ratify. Such inclusion would be equivalent, he informed the sub-committee, to contradicting the declaration of the full sovereignty of the American states, which is contained in the very same preamble.

Mr. Hughes had already previously before the full committee declared his opinion that the preamble should be general in terminology, without particularizing excessively.

Another meeting of the sub-committee is fixed for tomorrow afternoon, when further efforts will be made to reach an agreement.

MONTHLY REPORT OF FIVE FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS

HARTFORD, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The five free employment bureaus operated in Connecticut under the auspices of the state department of labor and factory inspection, reported 4,206 applications for employment during January. There were 2,390 applications received from employers for workers, and 2,254 situations secured.

Of the male applicants for employment, 41.1 per cent. were supplied with situations, as compared to 47.1 per cent. during December, 1927. Of the female applicants, 72.2 per cent. were supplied with situations, as against 77.5 per cent. in December. Of all the applicants, 53.5 per cent. were given positions, while 58.2 per cent. were given positions in December.

FAILED TO SETTLE COAL CONTROVERSY IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Feb. 8—(AP)—The latest effort to adjust the differences between the union minersand bituminous coal operators of Illinois ended in failure tiday.

An offer of a wage scale of $6 a day for laborers and 84 cents per ton for tonnage men, with a contract of one to five years, was rejected by the miners. Their counter-proposal for a continuation of the Jacksonville wage scale of $7.50 per day for laborers and $1.08 for tonnage men was voted down by the mine owners.

FALL RIVER FIRE WAS STARTED BY WORKMEN

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The conflagration which destroyed or badly damaged 35 buildings in the downtown district of Fall River last week, had its origin in a fire started by workmen in a steel drum at the Pocasset mill to give them warmth while at work, state authorities reported today.

Timothy J. Murphy, deputy state fire marshal, reported to State Fire Marshal George C. Neal the results of a secret inquest held at Fall River yesterday into the causes of the disastrous fire.

SURRENDERED IN NEW HAVEN AFTER FORFEITING $22,500 BOND IN CHICAGO

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 8—(AP)—John Dudikoff who forfeited a bond of $22,500 in a Chicago court by not being present for an extradition hearing on Monday, surrendered to State's Attorney Hoyt here today. Dudikoff was arrested in Chicago for the police of this city on a charge of obtaining $19,000 under false pretenses. He was freed on bonds while extradition papers were being arranged and, when a New Haven detective appeared in Chicago courts to claim him, he failed to show up.

Dudikoff is alleged to have represented himself as the "Right Rev. John Dudikoff, patriarch of the Russian Orthodox church" and to have secured money from residents of this city on his story that he knew where the Russian crown jewels were and would split the profits from their sale with anyone who would finance a trip to Russia for the purpose of getting them.

At least two New Haven men believed the tale and one gave him $15,000 and the other $4,000. Dudikoff then left this city and today was his first appearance here since that time.

State's Attorney Hoyt confessed that he was mystified as to why Dudikoff forfeited his $22,500 bond and paid his own fare to this city when he could have traveled at the expense of the state of Connecticut and had his bond returned by appearing in Chicago courts when his case was called.

ROCKEFELLER DRAWN INTO STEWART CONTEMPT CASE

Head of the Standard Oil Interests Regrets Failure of Stewart to Answer All Questions Put to Him About the Continental Trading Company—Sentiment Expressed in a Telegram to Senator Walsh—Rockefeller Declared "No Desire to Protect Others Justifies Witholding the Slightest Fact."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The failure of Robert W. Stewart to answer all questions put to him by the senate Teapot Dome committee about the Continental Trading company has produced a formal expression of regret from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recognized head of the Stannard Oil interests.

Rockefeller's letter to Senator Walsh, of Montana, the committee prosecutor, and related documents were made public today by Chairman Nye, of the committee, under the oil magnate's specific permission for their use "in any way that will serve the public interest."

In the correspondence was a telegram sent to Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, at Havana, by Rockefeller urging him to appear before the senate committee and "to testify fully."

"No desire to protect others justifies withholding the slightest fact," Rockefeller said in the telegram. "No duty to company or stockholders comparable to your immediate appearance. Only such action will justify the confidence your friends and business associates have in you."

It was after the receipt of this telegram that Stewart changed his mind about a business trip to Mexico City from Havana and returned here to testify, only to refuse to answer two questions put by the committee—whether he know any one who received Liberty bonds from the Continental Trading Company of Canada, and whether he had any conversation with Harry F. Sinclair, central figure in the Tepot Dome developments, regarding the disposition of these bonds.

This refusal led to the arrest of Stewart by the senate and the institution of federal court contempt proceedings by that body after the Standard Oil official had obtained his temporary release from custody on a writ of habeas corpus.

On the day the senate issued its warrant, Rockefeller wrote to Senator Walsh, expressing his regret at Stewart's refusal to answer all inquiries.

"I have not felt that Col. Stewart failed in his duty to his stockholders," the letter said, "but I am sorry that he did not answer all of your questions for the situation calls for the fullest disclosure of the facts."

This letter from Rockefeller was in response to one written by Senator Walsh on the first day Stewart appeared before the committee in which the senator said the newspapers would advise the oil magnate of "how well your admonition to Mr. Stewart was observed by that gentleman." The committee prosecutor added that he would lay all of the correspondence before the committee "to determine whether a faithful discharge of the duty imposed on us requires that you be called."

STEWART ASSERTS THAT HE KNEW OF CORRESPONDENCE

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Col. Robert W. Stewart, of Chicago, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said he knew that the correspondence between John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Senator Walsh regarding Col. Stewart's appearance before the Teapot Dome senate committee was to be made public, but added that he had no comment to offer because it was a matter that still is pending.

Col. Stewart returned from Washington today and went into conference with his board of directors. His secretary said Col. Stewart had a large amount of business accumulated and probably would be very busy in Chicago for several days.

TEXT OF FRANCO-AMERICAN PEACE PACT MADE PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—The text of the new Franco-American arbitration pact, embodying a condemnation of war and also including a French reservation from arbitral treatment of questions involving her commitments under the league of nations covenant, was made public today by the senate foreign relations committee.

The anti-war declaration is contained in the preamble. It asserts that in entering into the treaty the two republics are "eager by their example not only to demonstrate their condemnation of war as an instrument of national policy in their mutual relations, but also to hasten the time when the perfection of international arrangements for the pacific settlement of international disputes shall have eliminated forever the possibility of war among any powers of the world."

A reference to the Bryan conciliation treaty to interlock this with the arbitration agreement is contained in article 1 while the arbitration commitments themselves are in articles 2 and 3.

DEMAND FOR STEEL AND IRON DISAPPOINTING IN 1927

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Both demand and prices for iron and steel were disappointing in 1927, John A. Topping, chairman of Republic Iron & Steel company asserted in the annual report today showing a drop in gross volume of business to $44,550,040 from $73,890,444 in 1926. After demand fell off, prices for all iron and steel products declined substantially and in consequence Mr. Topping said, operating profits were reduced, but not in proportion to the reduction in value of products, due to economies in various ways, mechanical and otherwise.

Total profit for the year was $6,037,862, leaving net profit of $3,018,282 after depreciation and interest charges, which was equal to $4.22 a share on the common stock. Net profit the year before was $5,065,022 or $11.05 a share on the common stock then outstanding. Surplus at the close of the year was $34,904,445.

SUBSTANTIAL PENSIONS PAID BY U. S. STEEL CORP.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Retired employes of the United States Steel corporation and subsidiaries received $3,003,205 in pensions during 1927, it was shown today in the 17th annual report of the United States Steel and Carnegie Pension fund. The payments brought to $18,836,934 the total of pensions paid since the fund was inaugurated in 1911.

The average age of 1,175 employes retired during 1927 was shown to be about 63 years. The average period of service was nearly 33 years and the average monthly pension was $51.45.

Beneficiaries make no contributions to the fund, income of which is derived from a fund created jointly by the late Andrew Carnegie and the United States Steel corporation, it was explained. The corporation provides needed additional money for administration.

MEXICAN TROOPS IN STATE OF JALISCO REINFORCED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8—(AP)—Federal reinforcements number 3,000 have arrived in the state of Jalisco from Sonora according to word received here. The war department has not given any information as to the number of troops engaged in the Jalisco campaign against numerous guerrilla bands of rebels, but unofficial estimates place the total federal strength at from 10,000 to 15,000.

Recent press dispatches attributed the uprising in the last named state to reprisals for the recent dynamiting of the statue of Christ at El Sublete, in Guanajuato. Recently in that district several trains have been attacked and railways destroyed. Federal troops have effected severe casualties in the rebel ranks.

CONFESSED THE MURDER OF HIS SISTER-IN-LAW

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, Feb. 8—(AP)—William Herron, 41, confessed today, according to County Prosecutor James Patrick, that he killed his sister-in-law, Miss Viola May, 23, and threw her body in the Tuscarawas river near Dover after he had attacked her last night.

The prosecutor said Herron, a local painter, had signed a complete confession after a three hour grilling, detailing his actions from the time he left his home to escort Miss May and a girl friend to their home about 11 o'clock last night until he appeared at a farm home three hours later, with a story of having been abducted by two men.

After leaving Miss May's friend at her own residence, Herron's confession said that he drove with Miss May to an isolated spot. A quarrel ensued and Herron choked the girl to death, according to the statement. He then threw her body into the river.

Prosecutor Patrick and Sheriff Abe Laird said that Herron had not told them the cause of the quarrel and they believed Miss May had resisted his advances.

Herron has been married twice and has four children.

IDENTIFIED THE MAN WHO HIRED HIM TO SET FIRE

WATERBURY, Feb. 8—(AP)—Morris Shalnitz, on his cot in the New Haven hospital this afternoon, identified Louis N. Leopold as the man who employed him to set fire to the Baldwin street building early Sunday morning. Leopold, faced by his accuser, denied the charge and stated that he had never seen Shalnitz before.

Coroner John T. Monnahl, with Lieutenant Joseph P. Stevens and Sergeant Henry L. Johnson, of the detective bureau went to New Haven this afternoon where several men, among them Leopold, were brought before Shalnitz. Shalnitz, scarcely able to speak, eliminated the men who were brought before him but as soon as detectives brought in Leopold, Shalnitz said "that's the man who employed us," police say.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 8—(AP)—Nineteen men on trial in federal district court here since Monday on charges of conspiring to ship liquor into Washington by rail from Jacksonville, were freed by directed verdicts today.

The acquittals followed the testimony yesterday of one witness, John J. Hickey, admitted former bootlegger and prohibition informer, who told how liquor was smuggled into Jacksonville and despatched to Washington on the passenger trains, ultimately to find its way into the hands of "United States senators, congressmen and other high government officials."

When court reconvened today, United States District Attorney Gober informed the court that remaining testimony was similar to that already introduced and that it probably was not sufficient to justify a conspiracy conviction, whereupon the court directed a verdict of not guilty.

SALVAGE WORK HALTED BY SOUTHWEST STORM

BOSTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Warnings of a southwest storm and a rising sea forced suspension of salvage work on the sunken submarine S-4 off Provincetown early this afternoon, after eight divers had worked on the hull. The salvage ship Falcon and the other vessels of the fleet proceeded into Provincetown harbor leaving a tug to keep watch at the scene.

The present operations on the S-4 are directed towards preparing the torpedo room of the submarine for watertoring. In this compartment six men lived for many hours after the S-4 was sunk in collision with the coast guard destroyer Paulding on December 17.

LINDBERGH ARRIVED AT HAVANA AS PER SCHEDULE

The Lone Eagle Performed a Few Stunts Within View of the Multitude Before Swooping Gracefully to Earth—Cavalrymen and Infantry Guarded the Hero From the Enthusiasm of His Admirers—U. S. Ambassador Judah and Charles E. Hughes Were on the Field to Greet Lindbergh—Crowds Shouted Themselves Hoarse as Lindbergh Entered the Presidential Palace, Where President Machada Gave the Good Will Ambassador a Hearty Welcome.

HAVANA, Feb. 8— (AP) —Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, holding his famed "Spirit of St. Louis" true to its course and schedule, landed here today to receive the plaudits of Cuba and of the representatives of many of the lands he had already visited.

The crowds which with many dignitaries of the Pan-American congress had awaited his arrival at Columbia field were excited beyond restrain as the American aviator performed a few stunts within their view before swooping gracefuly to earth. Cavalrymen and infantry, with drawn sabres and bayonets, quickly formed fresh lines, however, to guard the hero from the enthusiasm of his admirers.

After waiting a few moments in his plane while members of the reception committee and other officials surrounded him Colonel Lindbergh emerged to enter the automobile which was to take him to the presidential palace at Havana, eight miles from the field. Close behind United States Ambassador Judah in offering his congratulations on the successful flight from Haiti was Charles Evans Hughes, The former chief justice of the United States said: "Lindbergh is tracing the route. that future commerce will follow. The best part is that it is a route of goodwill and what he is doing is of first importance in the developments of Pan-Americanism."

The Spirit of St. Louis elicited much surprise from the Cubans, who were heard on all sides to remark how small it was and how fragile. The flags of the many republics visited by Lindbergh painted on the plane attracted the attention of the delegates to the Pan-American conference, who were prominent among the milling crowd, which, irrespective of cloth, surged about the machine.

Mr. Hughes did not return to the palace with Colonel Lindbergh. The crowds in the field were greatly disappointed when the automobile, carrying the airman, drove rapidly away. They wanted him to drive around the flying field so they might show their admiration for him in fitting manner.

Before leaving, Colonel Lindbergh intimated that the Spirit of St. Louis would require more than an ordinary overhauling for the Havana to St. Louis flight, owing to the many hours it has already been in the air. A representative of the Wright Motor company and Cuban and American army aviators took charge of the plane.

Cuban cavalry and infantry continued to guard the machine long after the departure of its pilot, and crowds surged around to get as close a look at the silver ship as possible. The plane will be placed in one of the Pan-American Airways corporation's hangars, which will be its resting place for the next few days.

Accompanied by the American ambassador, Noble B. Judah and Orestes Ferrara, the Cuban ambassador to Washington, Colonel Lindbergh left the field at 4:10, traversing the eight miles to the presidential palace in 20 minutes. Thousands thronged the plaza in front of the palace, shouting themselves hoarse. In the great reception hall were President Machada and the members of his cabinet, officials of the army and navy and many others, the president gave the goodwill ambassador a hearty welcome, shaking him warmly by the hand.

"You have come from the far end of this island republic," he said, "where we fought so hard for independence. You represent one of the world's greatest nations as ambassador of the air. I extend to you a welcome from every Cuban.

"You have seen practically the whole of our island, whose people will never forget what you Americans did for them at the time of their great need. Our country is small in territory, but great in its love for liberty."

"You yourself," the Cuban president told the American air ambassador of goodwill, "are one of the greatest men of a great nation and will always be considered one of the world's greatest citizens. Every moment of your life, in glory or in sorrow, you will always have a friend in us. You will always find a welcome in Cuba.

"We love our liberty and independence. You are an ambassador of the air but also an ambassador of American freedom."

Ambassador Ferrara translated the welcome of President Machado and introduced him to the members of the cabinet and other officials who were present. The president with Mr. Judah and Colonel Lindbergh on either side the pled the way to the balcony overlooking the spacious Avenida Misiones where President Coolidge had also appeared recently to answer the applause of the crowds.

The three stood at attention while the Cuban anthem was played and while children sung the Star Spangled Banner. Lindbergh waved to the crowds in response to their cheers but declined the suggestion that he address them.

As he retired from the balcony the lone eagle received a motherly blessing in English from Madame Pouvert Terry, wife of a prominent Cuban, who made her way to his side and pressed his hand. Lindbergh smiled his thanks.

Later in the great hall where the aviator received the formal congratulations of guests, Lindbergh touched to his lips the traditional champagne of which the others partook. Throughout the ceremony he carried his flying helmet. His face, reddened by the tropical sun, showed little sign of strain from the flight into fifteen hands which culminated in his arrival here.

After the ceremonies Ambassador Judah took Colonel Lindbergh to the United States embassy which will be his home during his stay here.

Commander Joseph Lebrix swooped down to Bolling field here late today in the huge plane which had carried them from Paris across the South Atlantic and over South America to Mexico and the United States.

For more than two hours Ambassador Claudel, of France, and numerous other diplomats had waited to welcome the airmen. With them were Secretary Davis of the war department and Secretary Wilbur, of the navy department. All joined in shouting "bravo" as their plane, the "Nungesser-Coli," zoomed low above them, and then turned slowly for a perfect landing on the rain-soaked field.

The airmen jumped from the cockpits almost immediately, to be greeted in their native language by Ambassador Claudel and his family, and then to be welcomed by high government officials here. After posing for photographers and waving an enthusiastic greeting to the small crowd that had gathered, Costes and Lebrix followed their plane as it was trundled to a hangar, gathered bungles of baggage and were whisked away to the French embassy.

A private dinner in their honor was given tonight at the Carlton hotel, attended only by members of the French diplomatic staff. They will be received tomorrow by President Coolidge and on Friday will be entertained at luncheon at the white house.

SURPRISE SPRUNG IN LIQUOR SMUGGLING CASE

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The government called a surprise witness today at the trial in the federal court of John B. Magnus, Boston garage owner and Carl G. Halwartz and Sidney F. Nichols, former coast guardsman, on charges of liquor smuggling. The witness was George A. Callahan, once bookkeeper and confidential agent for Magnus and he testified regarding numerous rum running expeditions from Nova Scotia to Cape Cod.

The defense had rested when Callahan was called by the prosecution as a rebuttal witness, to refute testimony of Magnus, who had denied that he ever owned any speed boats. The former bookkeeper testified that Magnus had two speed boats, built at a Neponset shipyard and that he owned the Nova Scotia schooner I'm Alone, and other boats, as well as a camp on the Massachusetts south shore where liquor was landed.

Callahan declared that he "took care of the liquor money" and that he made so many trips to Nova Scotia during 1925 and 1926 that he could not fix the exact dates.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN ARRAIGNED FOR ARSON

EAST GREENWICH, R. I., Feb. 8. —(AP)—Three additional members of the Oakland Beach volunteer fire company were arraigned late this afternoon before Clerk Loomis of the fourth district court here on charges of setting fire to the comfort station in Oakland Beach, an amusement park, October 12, last. They are Robert Beck, 20; Kenneth H. MacLaughlin, 19, and Thomas J. McDuff, 19, all of Oakland Beach.

Beck pleaded not guilty to the charge and was held under bail of $3,000 for trial February 21. McDuff and MacLaughlin pleaded nolo, were adjudged probably guilty and bound over to the Kent county grand jury in $2,000 each.

Two weeks ago, Warwick police arrested three other members of the fire company on charges of setting mysterious fires at the shore resort. The police say they obtained confessions from the first three, whose cases are to be considered by the grand jury in special session next Monday.

NICARAGUAN AIR FIELD NAMED FOR SERG. BRUCE

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 8.—(AP) —The new aviation field used by the Nicaraguan national guard has been called "Bruce Field" in honor of Sergeant Thomas G. Bruce, U. S. Marine corps, who was killed in action on January 1 while serving as lieutenant in the Nicaraguan national guard.

Sergeant Bruce, when he was killed, was leading a column toward Quilali to relieve a small body of troops who held the town after the severe battle of December 30 when the marines, in combat with Sandino forces, suffered the heaviest casualties since the World war.

WAS HURLED THROUGH WINDSHIELD OF AUTO

MERIDEN, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Hurled through the windshield by the impact of a head-on collision here, Steve Sasek, 17, of 121 Broad street, Plainville, suffered severe facial cuts which may deprive him of the sight of his right eye at 8 o'clock tonight on the Meriden-Hartford highway, near the Berlin town line.

The youth was a passenger in a car operated by his brother, Paul Sesak, 21, who escaped injury.

The Sasek car was traveling south when it crashed head-on into an approaching car. Sasek's vision is believed to have been obscured by the dense fog.

EARTH TREMORS SHOOK BUILDINGS AT MILO, Me.

MILO, Me., Feb. 8—(AP)—Earth tremors which shook buildings and. in some instances did slight damage to walls were felt in this town today.

The first tremor, a distinct shock, was followed at intervals of five or six minutes by two lesser shocks. Similar tremors were recorded several weeks ago.

Residents today reported that dishes were shaken from their places on shelves and plaster in walls cracked. At the post office leters were shaken from the racks.

SEES LITTLE HOPE FOR FURTHER DISARMAMENT

LONDON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Little hope for the present of further world disarmament was indicated by Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary for foreign affairs, in the house of commons today, in his review of foreign relations.

Nevertheless, he declared, war between Great Britain and the United States was unthinkable, and the failure of the tri-partite naval conference at Geneva, he said, should profit the nations when the time came to revise the Washington treaties.

ELEVEN PEDIGREED DOGS WERE DROWNED

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Eleven pedigreed lives, valued financially at $15,000, were lost to dogdom because of rain water today.

The rainwater, dammed up on the roof of a one-story extension to the rear of a dog exchange on West 35th street, overflowed through a skylight and trapped the canine aristocrats of their cages below. Several of the dogs had been entered to compete in a dog show at Madison Square garden on Monday.

TO PRESS FOR ACTION ON PRESIDENTIAL TERMS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Definite action tomorrow by the senate on his resolution declaring against more than two terms for a president and commending President Coolidge for "observance of this precedent" will be sought by Senator Lafollette, republican, Wisconsin.

Because several administration senators desiring to make a fight against the resolution had speeches still in preparation today, the Wisconsin senator permitted the senate to go ahead with other business but he will call for a showdown tomorrow. Both advocates and opponents of the resolution believed tonight there were votes enough to approve it but the administration group will seek first to have it sent to the judiciary committee as proposed by Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut.

Senator Lafollette says he has offered the resolution because "powerful factors in the republican party are launching a movement to draft" President Coolidge for another term. Senator Bingham has declared the resolution would "make it impossible or difficult to renominate and reelect Mr. Coolidge" either now or in 1932.

SELECTING JURY FOR TRIAL OF GOVERNOR JACKSON

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 8—(AP)— Church, political and fraternal affiliations of prospective jurors were subjects of inquiry by defense and state today at the opening of the trial of Gov. Ed. Jackson, charged with bribery.

The defense showed particular interest in the religious and political connections of the men being examined for jury service, while the prosecution indicated equal interest as to their membership in any organization of which Governor Jackson also is a member.

Governor Jackson, with George V. Coffin, Marion county republican chairman, and Robert I. Marsh, a local attorney is charged with having attempted to bribe Governor Warren T. McCray in 1923 to name James E. McDonald as Marion county prosecutor. Coffin and Marsh were granted separate trials.

When adjournment was taken tonight, each side had exhausted but two of its ten peremptory challenges. The jury had been passed from state to defense and back without progressing far towards final selection of the twelve men who will judge Governor Jackson's innocence or guilt.

Anglican Prayer Book is Approved

LONDON, [illegible] (AP)—The three branches of the church assembly completed [illegible] approval of "the new prayer book of 1928" today when the house of laity voted the endorsement [illegible] the houses of bishops and clergy had given yesterday.

Action on the book of common prayer, whose revision has been a matter of controversy within the Anglican church in England, was taken today despite a strong minority sentiment which contended that the amended book was still too much like the form the house of commons rejected last December after a heated debate.

The vote of the house of laity today was 196 to 80, the clergy had endorsed it 247 to 35 while the approval of the bishops was voted, 40 to 5.

Although approved in its general aspect, the next step in the long journey of the book back toward the approval of parliament will come tomorrow when the laity and clergy will offer and consider amendments. The house of bishops also will have an opportunity for further revision before it is again presented to parliament.

Following the rejection of the revised prayerbook by the house of commons after it had been approved by the house of lords, Anglican bishops proposed alternative forms to overcome parliamentary opposition. The vote today was regarded as simplifying the procedure since the attitude of the laity had been somewhat doubtful.

FINAL ARGUMENTS IN HICKMAN SANITY TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The crime of William Edward Hickman today was pictured by his own chief defender as the "most dastardly that ever human set out to do."

A few minutes before, a prosecutor, opening the final arguments in Hickman's sanity trial, declared that the confessed kidnaper and slayer of Marian Parker "already had a rope about his neck."

Climaxing the most stirring session of the legal battle, marked by the meeting face to face in court of the slayer and the father of Marian Parker, the last phase of the trial went on today when arguments were begun. The case may go to the jury tomorrow.

Jerome Walsh, Hickman's chief of counsel, speaking in booming tones that resounded through the crowded court room, solemnly declared that the kidnaping of the child victim from school and her killing was the most dastardly crime in history and that it was the act of Hickman's insanity. It was a madman for whom he spoke, Walsh declared.

It fell to the lot of Forrest Murray, chief aide to the district attorney, to open the arguments for the state. He shouted that Hickman, in a written plea for life, presented during the trial, had "asked that America do away with the rope when the rope already is around his neck."

URGE INTERVENTION TO END BITUMINOUS COAL STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Intervention by the federal government to end the bituminous coal strike in Pennsylvania was urged today in the house by two members who declared that the mine operators were conducting a campaign of terrorism among the striking miners in violation of federal and state laws and of the "personal liberty guarantee of the constitution."

Representative La Guardia, a republican of New York, who just made a personal survey of the strike area, and Casey, a democrat, who represents the Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania district in congress, charged the mine operators with using state police to terrorize the miners into withdrawing the United Mine Workers, the miners union. They urged the house to adopt the Casey resolution for a congressional investigation into the condition in the Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio bituminous fields.

Casey said that President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover had remained "silent" on the strike situation in the face of conditions of suffering and "brutal treatment" among the miners. The Red Cross, he added, also was declared by some to be influenced in not according relief to the miners because they would not leave the union.

TWO ARMY AVIATORS LOST; PLANE FELL INTO OCEAN

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 8 (AP)—Lieut. Fitzhugh Lee Rhea and Leo Richard Lonnergan, radio man first class, attached to the observation detachment aboard the scout cruiser Omaha, were killed today when the UO plane in which they were spotting torpedoes crashed into the ocean from an altitude of 1,000 feet, 35 miles west of Point Loma, near here.

Tariff Deadlock at Havana Conference

Argentine and the United States Are in Complete Discord on the Matter.

HAVANA, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Argentina and the United States failed to come to an understanding at the Pan-American conference today regarding the right of Pan-Americanism to interfere with the complete freedom of nations in assessing tariff schedules. The deadlock, which has been threatening ever since Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation, demanded about a fortnight ago that the Pan-American union be empowered to study means to lower the excessive tariff walls in inter-American commerce, left Charles Evans Hughes, of the United States, and Dr. Pueyrredon at the end of a three-hour subcommittee meeting today in complete disaccord, and apparently determined nor to alter their attitudes.

The other members of the sub-committee, which was appointed from the committee on Pan-American union affairs, and which has been assigned the task of preparing a draft preamble to the convention, are reported as being on the side of the United States in the tariff wrangle, leaving the Argentine delegate to maintain his position alone.

The interest of the others is understood to be centered more on the provisions of the preamble, which declare the equality of all the American republics, their independence and right to territorial integrity, on which points a ready agreement was reached early in the sub committee deliberations.

Dr. Pueyrredon is understood to have maintained today that the preamble should contain a specific reference to the necessity that Pan-Americanism assume a concrete economic form, tending to the removal of all obstacles which impede unnecessarily the free flow of commerce. He is reported as repeating that he did not think Pan-Americanism could be built entirely upon abstractions that economic unity of this hemisphere was the fundamental and true object of the movement.

The Argentine spokesman did not suggest that countries should be forbidden to impose tariffs, but is understood to have said that discretion should be used in the determination of tariff schedules, to the end that inter-American commerce should not be completely dislocated.

Mr. Hughes pointed out the difficulties inherent in the inclusion of such provisions in a document which the legislatures of sovereign countries would later be called upon to ratify. Such inclusion would be equivalent, he informed the sub-committee, to contradicting the declaration of the full sovereignty of the American states, which is contained in the very same preamble.

Mr. Hughes had already previously before the full committee declared his opinion that the preamble should be general in terminology, without particularizing excessively.

Another meeting of the sub-committee is fixed for tomorrow afternoon, when further efforts will be made to reach an agreement.

MONTHLY REPORT OF FIVE FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS

HARTFORD, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The five free employment bureaus operated in Connecticut under the auspices of the state department of labor and factory inspection, reported 4,206 applications for employment during January. There were 2,390 applications received from employers for workers, and 2,254 situations secured.

Of the male applicants for employment, 41.1 per cent. were supplied with situations, as compared to 47.1 per cent. during December, 1927. Of the female applicants, 72.2 per cent. were supplied with situations, as against 77.5 per cent. in December. Of all the applicants, 53.5 per cent. were given positions, while 58.2 per cent. were given positions in December.

FAILED TO SETTLE COAL CONTROVERSY IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Feb. 8—(AP)—The latest effort to adjust the differences between the union minersand bituminous coal operators of Illinois ended in failure tiday.

An offer of a wage scale of $6 a day for laborers and 84 cents per ton for tonnage men, with a contract of one to five years, was rejected by the miners. Their counter-proposal for a continuation of the Jacksonville wage scale of $7.50 per day for laborers and $1.08 for tonnage men was voted down by the mine owners.

FALL RIVER FIRE WAS STARTED BY WORKMEN

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The conflagration which destroyed or badly damaged 35 buildings in the downtown district of Fall River last week, had its origin in a fire started by workmen in a steel drum at the Pocasset mill to give them warmth while at work, state authorities reported today.

Timothy J. Murphy, deputy state fire marshal, reported to State Fire Marshal George C. Neal the results of a secret inquest held at Fall River yesterday into the causes of the disastrous fire.

SURRENDERED IN NEW HAVEN AFTER FORFEITING $22,500 BOND IN CHICAGO

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 8—(AP)—John Dudikoff who forfeited a bond of $22,500 in a Chicago court by not being present for an extradition hearing on Monday, surrendered to State's Attorney Hoyt here today. Dudikoff was arrested in Chicago for the police of this city on a charge of obtaining $19,000 under false pretenses. He was freed on bonds while extradition papers were being arranged and, when a New Haven detective appeared in Chicago courts to claim him, he failed to show up.

Dudikoff is alleged to have represented himself as the "Right Rev. John Dudikoff, patriarch of the Russian Orthodox church" and to have secured money from residents of this city on his story that he knew where the Russian crown jewels were and would split the profits from their sale with anyone who would finance a trip to Russia for the purpose of getting them.

At least two New Haven men believed the tale and one gave him $15,000 and the other $4,000. Dudikoff then left this city and today was his first appearance here since that time.

State's Attorney Hoyt confessed that he was mystified as to why Dudikoff forfeited his $22,500 bond and paid his own fare to this city when he could have traveled at the expense of the state of Connecticut and had his bond returned by appearing in Chicago courts when his case was called.

ROCKEFELLER DRAWN INTO STEWART CONTEMPT CASE

Head of the Standard Oil Interests Regrets Failure of Stewart to Answer All Questions Put to Him About the Continental Trading Company—Sentiment Expressed in a Telegram to Senator Walsh—Rockefeller Declared "No Desire to Protect Others Justifies Witholding the Slightest Fact."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The failure of Robert W. Stewart to answer all questions put to him by the senate Teapot Dome committee about the Continental Trading company has produced a formal expression of regret from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recognized head of the Stannard Oil interests.

Rockefeller's letter to Senator Walsh, of Montana, the committee prosecutor, and related documents were made public today by Chairman Nye, of the committee, under the oil magnate's specific permission for their use "in any way that will serve the public interest."

In the correspondence was a telegram sent to Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, at Havana, by Rockefeller urging him to appear before the senate committee and "to testify fully."

"No desire to protect others justifies withholding the slightest fact," Rockefeller said in the telegram. "No duty to company or stockholders comparable to your immediate appearance. Only such action will justify the confidence your friends and business associates have in you."

It was after the receipt of this telegram that Stewart changed his mind about a business trip to Mexico City from Havana and returned here to testify, only to refuse to answer two questions put by the committee—whether he know any one who received Liberty bonds from the Continental Trading Company of Canada, and whether he had any conversation with Harry F. Sinclair, central figure in the Tepot Dome developments, regarding the disposition of these bonds.

This refusal led to the arrest of Stewart by the senate and the institution of federal court contempt proceedings by that body after the Standard Oil official had obtained his temporary release from custody on a writ of habeas corpus.

On the day the senate issued its warrant, Rockefeller wrote to Senator Walsh, expressing his regret at Stewart's refusal to answer all inquiries.

"I have not felt that Col. Stewart failed in his duty to his stockholders," the letter said, "but I am sorry that he did not answer all of your questions for the situation calls for the fullest disclosure of the facts."

This letter from Rockefeller was in response to one written by Senator Walsh on the first day Stewart appeared before the committee in which the senator said the newspapers would advise the oil magnate of "how well your admonition to Mr. Stewart was observed by that gentleman." The committee prosecutor added that he would lay all of the correspondence before the committee "to determine whether a faithful discharge of the duty imposed on us requires that you be called."

STEWART ASSERTS THAT HE KNEW OF CORRESPONDENCE

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Col. Robert W. Stewart, of Chicago, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said he knew that the correspondence between John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Senator Walsh regarding Col. Stewart's appearance before the Teapot Dome senate committee was to be made public, but added that he had no comment to offer because it was a matter that still is pending.

Col. Stewart returned from Washington today and went into conference with his board of directors. His secretary said Col. Stewart had a large amount of business accumulated and probably would be very busy in Chicago for several days.

TEXT OF FRANCO-AMERICAN PEACE PACT MADE PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—The text of the new Franco-American arbitration pact, embodying a condemnation of war and also including a French reservation from arbitral treatment of questions involving her commitments under the league of nations covenant, was made public today by the senate foreign relations committee.

The anti-war declaration is contained in the preamble. It asserts that in entering into the treaty the two republics are "eager by their example not only to demonstrate their condemnation of war as an instrument of national policy in their mutual relations, but also to hasten the time when the perfection of international arrangements for the pacific settlement of international disputes shall have eliminated forever the possibility of war among any powers of the world."

A reference to the Bryan conciliation treaty to interlock this with the arbitration agreement is contained in article 1 while the arbitration commitments themselves are in articles 2 and 3.

DEMAND FOR STEEL AND IRON DISAPPOINTING IN 1927

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Both demand and prices for iron and steel were disappointing in 1927, John A. Topping, chairman of Republic Iron & Steel company asserted in the annual report today showing a drop in gross volume of business to $44,550,040 from $78,890,444 in 1926. After demand fell off, prices for all iron and steel products declined substantially and in consequence Mr. Topping said, operating profits were reduced, but not in proportion to the reduction in value of products, due to economies in various ways, mechanical and otherwise.

Total profit for the year was $6,037,862, leaving net profit of $3,018,262 after depreciation and interest charges, which was equal to $4.22 a share on the common stock. Net profit the year before was $5,065,022 or $11.05 a share on the common stock then outstanding. Surplus at the close of the year was $34,904,445.

SUBSTANTIAL PENSIONS PAID BY U. S. STEEL CORP.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Retired employes of the United States Steel corporation and subsidiaries received $3,003,205 in pensions during 1927, it was shown today in the 17th annual report of the United States Steel and Carnegie Pension fund. The payments brought to $18,836,924 the total of pensions paid since the fund was inaugurated in 1911.

The average age of 1,175 employes retired during 1927 was shown to be about 63 years. The average period of service was nearly 33 years and the average monthly pension was $51.45.

Beneficiaries make no contributions to the fund, income of which is derived from a fund created jointly by the late Andrew Carnegie and the United States Steel corporation, it was explained. The corporation provides needed additional money for administration.

MEXICAN TROOPS IN STATE OF JALISCO REINFORCED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8—(AP)—Federal reinforcements number 3,000 have arrived in the state of Jalisco from Sonora according to word received here. The war department has not given any information as to the number of troops engaged in the Jalisco campaign against numerous guerrilla bands of rebels, but unofficial estimates place the total federal strength at from 10,000 to 15,000.

Recent press dispatches attributed the uprising in the last named state to reprisals for the recent dynamiting of the statue of Christ at El Sublete, in Guanajuato. Recently in that district several trains have been attacked and railways destroyed. Federal troops have effected severe casualties in the rebel ranks.

CONFESSED THE MURDER OF HIS SISTER-IN-LAW

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, Feb. 8—(AP)—William Herron, 41, confessed today, according to County Prosecutor James Patrick, that he killed his sister-in-law, Miss Viola May, 22, and threw her body in the Tuscarawas river near Dover after he had attacked her last night.

The prosecutor said Herron, a local painter, had signed a complete confession after a three hour grilling, detailing his actions from the time he left his home to escort Miss May and a girl friend to their home about 11 o'clock last night until he appeared at a farm home three hours later, with a story of having been abducted by two men.

After leaving Miss May's friend at her own residence, Herron's confession said that he drove with Miss May to an isolated spot. A quarrel ensued and Herron choked the girl to death, according to the statement. He then threw her body into the river.

Prosecutor Patrick and Sheriff Abe Laird said that Herron had not told them the cause of the quarrel and they believed Miss May had resisted his advances.

Herron has been married twice and has four children.

IDENTIFIED THE MAN WHO HIRED HIM TO SET FIRE

WATERBURY, Feb. 8—(AP)—Morris Shainitz, on his cot in the New Haven hospital this afternoon, identified Louis N. Leopold as the man who employed him to set fire to the Baldwin street building early Sunday morning. Leopold, faced by his accuser, denied the charge and stated that he had never seen Shainitz before.

Coroner John T. Monsani, with Lieutenant Joseph P. Stevens and Sergeant Henry L. Johnson, of the detective bureau went to New Haven this afternoon where several men, among them Leopold, were brought before Shainitz. Shainitz, scarcely able to speak, eliminated the men who were brought before him but as soon as detectives brought in Leopold, Shainitz said "that's the man who employed us," police say.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 8—(AP) —Nineteen men on trial in federal district court here since Monday on charges of conspiring to ship liquor into Washington by mail from Jacksonville, were freed by directed verdicts today.

The acquittals followed the testimony yesterday of one witness, John J. Hickey, admitted former bootlegger and prohibition informer, who told how liquor was smuggled into Jacksonville and despatched to Washington on fast passenger trains, ultimately to find its way into the hands of "United States senators, congressmen and other high government officials."

When court reconvened today, United States District Attorney Gober informed the court that remaining testimony was similar to that already introduced and that it probably was not sufficient to justify a conspiracy conviction, whereupon the court directed a verdict of not guilty.

SALVAGE WORK HALTED BY SOUTHWEST STORM

BOSTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Warnings of a southwest storm and a rising sea forced suspension of salvage work on the sunken submarine S-4 off Provincetown early this afternoon, after eight divers had worked on the hull. The salvage ship Falcon and the other vessels of the fleet proceeded into Provincetown harbor leaving a tug to keep watch at the scene.

The present operations on the S-4 are directed towards preparing the torpedo room of the submarine for unwatering. In this compartment six men lived for many hours after the S-4 was sunk in collision with the coast guard destroyer Paulding on December 17.

KEGLER-JONES WEDDING IS BRILLIANT AFFAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 8—Miss Helen Gertrude Jones, daughter of William H. Jones, of this city, and William F. Kegler, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kegler, of Windham road, were united in marriage at a pretty wedding in St. Joseph's church at eight o'clock this morning. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Henry Quinn, the single ring service being used.

The bride was charming in a gown of white satin trimmed with duchess lace and crystals. Her veil was of brocaded tulle caught up with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor was Miss Ann Watts, of Benton Harbor, Mich., cousin of the bride, who wore a dainty colonial gown of tourquoise blue, trimmed with Venetian lace and tiny rosebuds. Her arm bouquet was of pink roses. James B. Kegler, brother of the groom, was best man. Nuptial music especially prepared for the occasion was rendered by the choir with Mrs. E. R. Portelance at the organ.

The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents to members of the immediate families. Mr. and Mrs. Kegler are on an unannounced wedding trip. After March 1, they will occupy a newly furnished apartment at 43 Tingley street. The bride's traveling gown was of ensemble effect of green Elizabeth crepe, with hat to match, worn under a coat of harmonizing color. Mrs. Kegler has been employed at the Southern New England Telephone company as chief clerk, while the groom is employed at the Vanderman Manufacturing company. The couple received beautiful gifts from their host of friends.

Principal Egbert A. Case, of Windham High school, announced today that there were 90 names on the honor roll for the mid-year examinations recently completed. NO ALARM FELT OVER LOCAL SMALLPOX CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 6.—A warning against smallpox, that does not however, carry with it any note of alarm, has been issued by City Health Officer Dr. W. P. S. Keating, due to the development of a case of the disease in the city. The victim is Miss Bertha Blanc, a book agent, who is ill at her boarding place at the home of Joseph Freigeault, of 69 Milk street. Miss Blanc visited her home in Middletown on January 7 and returned here on the 9th. As a book agent she canvassed part of the city between Main and Prospect streets and Walnut and High streets, including Spring street. She was taken ill January 28, and has remained in confinement since that time so that there is no fear of any spread of the disease from that source. Health Officer Keating has recommended, however, that residents of the sections canvassed by the young woman, submit to vaccination whether they are adults or children, unless they were vaccinated within the past five years. The case has been thoroughly investigated by Dr. Keating, Town Health Officer Dr. F. E. Wilcox and also by Dr. Stanley H. Osborne, state health commissioner, of Hartford. The case was found to be a mild one. As added precaution, however, Mayor Charles A. Gates and Alderman William E. Jackson, head of the police committee, have caused a police officer to be stationed at all hours at the house to prevent any possible contact between the occupants and others.

The Social Corner club held a delightful Valentine party in the Chamber of Commerce parlors today in conjunction with the regular meeting. Dinner, with a choice menu, was served and was followed by an impromptu program during a social hour. Mrs. W. G. Ide and Miss Ellen Potter were chairladies for the day.

Skidding became very much in order Tuesday evening as rain froze in falling and a number of minor collisions and scores of hair-raising "thrills" were reported by automobile drivers. In some localities traveling was almost impossible, skid chains having little effect on the hard thin ice. One of the accidents caused by the slippery condition of the roads occurred on Main street. A delivery truck owned by the Frisbie Pie company and operated by Ralph Scheck, of 35 Walnut street, was following another machine down Main street. The first car came to a stop and when Scheck tried to do likewise the truck swerved around and struck a sedan owned by Mrs. Viola P. Noel, of 208 Prospect street, that was parked against the curbing. An agreement to settle the damages was made.

URGE PARENTS TO HAVE CHILDREN VACCINATED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 8—The Windham town school committee will broadcast another appeal to parents urging vaccination of children in an attempt to avoid compulsory vaccination as a precaution against small pox. It was voted at the February meeting held in the high school office tonight. The matter of a development of one case of small pox in the city was brought up by City Health Officer Dr. W. P. S. Keating. Secretary Egbert A. Case of the board stated that about 90 per cent of the school children had already voluntarily submitted to vaccination and it was hoped that compulsion would not be made necessary. It is felt that with the disease threatening all of the school children should be protected.

The trade school which is to be established here was discussed. The Turner mill at present occupied by the Goyer company and as a branch of the Holland Manufacturing company will probably be taken over some time next month, when the leases held by the companies expire and the building is vacated. Principal Ellis of the Putnam Trade school and State Plumbing and Heating Inspector Nister of Hartford have been inspecting the building and specifications and plans for remodelling the structure will be made by Putnam Trade school students. Truant Officer John R. McKenna reported that he had no occasion to investigate cases the past month.

EXCHANGE CLUB HEARS TALK BY PROF. BRUNDAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 8—Professor A. J. Brundage of Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs gave an interesting stereopticon lecture on Boy and Girl club work at the dinner meeting of the Willimantic Exchange club held at the Nathan Hale hotel tonight. The meeting was largely attended and was in charge of President Albert P. Abee. Egbert A. Case introduced the speaker.

Violet Rebekah lodge, No. 57, I. O. O. F., held its regular meeting in Odd Fellows' hall Tuesday evening with Noble Grand Marshal Edith Larkin in charge. Sister Eva Richardson, who had been unable to attend the regular installation in January, was installed to the office of warden by District Deputy President Sadie E. Curley, assisted by District Grand Marshal Minnie E. Mathieu. Whist followed, prizes being awarded to Hattie Hill and Edith Gaylor, Albert Milevits and George Lewis.

Willimantic men who attended the McKinley dinner in Bridgeport this evening included: Mayor Charles A. Gates, Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish, Representative A. Linn Weatherhead, Dr. Clarence E. Simonds and Daniel F. Dailey, manager of the Nathan Hale hotel.

George Bigelow, 43, head chef at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, was painfully hurt Tuesday evening when he fell twice to the sidewalk after slipping on the ice. He fell on Main street, near Clark street and while on his way to a physician, he fell again on Union street. It was found that he had sustained a bad fracture of the right arm.

A state police investigation, headed by Sergeant Harris Hulbert, of the Stafford Springs state police barracks, is being made of the accident in which Joseph J. Foley, 34, of 65 Spruce street, South Manchester, was almost instantly killed Tuesday night after his automobile truck had skidded and overturned on Twin Hill, in Bolton.

James D. Healy, of South street, a foreman of the local yard section of the New Haven railroad, slipped on the ice and fell heavily while crossing Main street opposite the Gem theatre, Tuesday night, badly lacerating one side of his face and sustaining contusions. Mr. Healy was taken to his home where he is being treated by his daughter, Miss Alice Healy, a graduate nurse.

The case of Albert M. Pulver, of Torrington, charged with operating a motor vehicle without a license, was nolled on payment of the costs of $7.15 in police court this morning. The nollement was recommended by Prosecutor Gaucher. Pulver was driving a car that was struck by a truck on North Windham road recently.

Mrs. Anna Nelson entertained a card party Tuesday evening in honor of her sister, Miss Eva Calsee, student nurse at Hartford. Entertainment was provided by Miss Gladys Neff, and luncheon was served by the hostess. Present were the Misses Mildred Moulton, Marion Hurlihe, Helen Bradshaw, Flora Baker, Alice Peterson, Leda Calsee and Gladys Neff, Mrs. Anna Nelson and Miss Eva Calsee.

As rain continued to fall today, it was definitely established that any harvesting of ice would have to be indefinitely postponed. Aldermen William E. Jackson and William E. Webber went to the municipal pond at Mansfield to look the situation over. To date but 1,000 tons of ice have been harvested, this amount being in storage at the Eaton pond sheds.

William Foran, of 142 Valley street, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital Tuesday night after he had suffered a weak spell while in a restaurant on Railroad street.

Kenneth Fryer returned to his studies at the Worcester Institute of Technology this afternoon, after spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fryer, of Shetucket Park.

Miss Barbara Lincoln, daughter of Allen B. Lincoln, of Hartford and Westford, is guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Bill at their summer home in Florence Villa, Fla.

Mason, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Angell, of 23 Main street, fractured his left leg between the ankle and knee in a fall on the sidewalk near his home this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph U. Wolmer have been entertaining his mother, Mrs. Victor Wolmer, who returned to her home in Arlington, Mass., today.

George F. Stiles and Walter Abbe, of South Windham, will sail from New York next Wednesday for a two weeks' stay in Bermuda.

Constable Alfred P. Abbe has returned from a visit in Hartford.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

WOOLEN CO. PRESIDENT MARRIES HIS SECRETARY

Miss Mae A. Gilligan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher G. Gilligan, and Alexander I. Mitchell were married by Rev. Felix J. O'Neill at St. Edward's rectory Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Mr. Mitchell is president and treasurer of the Cyril Johnson Woolen company and principal owner of the company's plant in Stafford Springs. The bride has been employed in the office of the company for the past twelve years and for a number of years has acted as Mr. Mitchell's secretary. After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will reside in Stafford Springs.

MASON 102 YEARS OLD MT. VERNON CHARTER MEMBER

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 8—Mt. Vernon lodge No. 75, F. and A. M., H. R. Field master, voted in open session Tuesday evening to send a letter of sincere regard and congratulation to Bro. Lepreleet Logee, of Central Falls, in honor of his 102nd birthday Sunday last. Fifty-eight years ago last November when Mt. Vernon of Jewett City, was given its charter, being the daughter of Somerset, of Norwich, Mr. Logee signed up as one of the charter members of the home order.

Mr. Logee is now declared to be the oldest member of the Masonic fraternity in the world. Not only does his 102 years verify that claim, but his name appearing on Mt. Vernon's charter list, 58 years ago, suggests the truth of another claim, that few if any Masons alive today, were initiated eight years more than a half century ago. A valued communication sent to Dr. G. H. Jennings was read by the secretary. Facts concerning its one-time member will be spread upon Mt. Vernon's records, and the story will be told, that to the local order comes an outstanding honor, in that it raised to the degree of Master Mason the oldest member of the craft on this planet.

Minstrel tickets exchanged today 12:30 at box office. Exchange limit 10 per person.—Adv.

The February meeting of the Baptist Woman's Missionary society was held at the home of Mrs. A. M. Brown Tuesday afternoon with eighteen present. "Work for the Night is Coming" was sung and Mrs. Brown read Acts 9-36:39,—the story of the stewardship of the woman with a needle. Prayer was offered by Mrs. S. F. Brown. The Day of Prayer will be observed by a union service of the women of the three Protestant churches at the Baptist church the afternoon of February 24. It was voted to meet all day at Mrs. Brown's Feb. 16 for White Cross sewing.

"Following the Great Physician" was the subject of the program prepared by Mrs. Scates. Mrs. Scates sang the hymn "Trying to Walk in the Steps of the Savior," and read some incidents in Christ's work of teaching and healing. The needs and opportunities of Medical Missions was the burden of all the articles read. The unselfish service of consecrated doctors and nurses in hospitals, dispensaries and in work among the villages of India, Assa mand Burma is effecting the cure of bodies and the restoration of souls. Hospitals are filled to capacity and souls as well as bodies are administered unto. Those who took part in the program were Mrs. Hewlitt, Mrs. Phebe Gray, Mrs. Nathan Babcock, Mrs. S. F. Brown, Mrs. G. H. Prior, Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, Mrs. B. R. Gardner and Mrs. A. D. Tripp.

WILLIAM WINTERBOTTOM DROPS DEAD GOING TO WORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 8—Just about the time the boat train was due to arrive at the local station this morning, and as he was crossing the platform on his way to work in Aspinook bleachery, William Winterbottom, 68, stopped, attempted to grasp the ticket office projection for support, then fell dead, as several hurried to his aid. A hurry call brought Medical Examiner Dr. G. H. Jennings to the station. He gave heart trouble as the cause of death. Hourigan Bros. removed the body to their rooms in the Finn block. Mr. Winterbottom's wife died close to three years ago. There survive him a brother George in New Bedford, a nephew Robert Winterbottom, and a sister-in-law. Winterbottom means the passing of Winterbotto mmeans the passing of another of the old time mule spinners, he having been employed here before that branch of the textile industry was supplanted by the more modern frame spinning.

John Dwyer, who died recently was also an old time mule spinner. George A. Barber of Wallingford and Patrick Oakes of Jewett City, are the two others of this company of four who held outstanding records for production in the operation of the cotton mule.

MRS. PATRICK F. DRISCOLL DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 8—Mrs. Patrick F. Driscoll died at her home on Mathewson street Wednesday morning, after an illness of many months. Mrs. Driscoll was born in Valley Falls, the daughter of Patrick and Mary Carroll Burns. She was married in Norwich September 20, 1882 to Patrick Driscoll, and the family has lived in Jewett City for thirty-four years. Until her health began to fail, Mrs. Driscoll was active in church work, often having charge of parts of the annual fairs held by St. Mary's parish. She was a member of the English Rosary society. She was the mother of nine children all of whom have been a credit and comfort to their parents, and with them are held in the highest respect in the community. Mrs. Driscoll was a neighbor whose passing many deplore. In her home she was a model wife and mother, and received the most devoted care from her family, especially the oldest daughter, Margaret. She is survived by her husband, a retired overseer of an Aspinook Bleachery department. Her children are Timothy, manager of Plainfield Public Market, Marcus, manager of The Mohican store in Westerly, John, Francis, owner of a Jewett City market, Margaret, treasurer of Jewett City chapter American Red Cross, Nora, cashier of the local freight office, Mrs. William Dwyer, Annie, a teacher in Riverside grammar school, and William, chief clerk in the freight office. A brother, William Burns of Jewett City also survives her.

Local baseball fans are much pleased over the advancement of Joe Faber, a Jewett City man, as told in Wednesday's Bulletin. Joe, like Hughie Duffy, began his career in Jewett City and when a scrub player in 1918, with the St. Mary's team, and with the Ashland club in 1919, he first began to show the genius which later has been developed to such a marked degree. Tom Corcoran, the veteran umpire now living less than 10 miles from Jewett City and P. W. Chase, who managed the local club for some years, had their part in the first big stuff for Joe, at Winston-Salem. Joe Faber, like Hugh Duffy has "got the goods," he has made every grade he ever tried for, and the inside baseball world knows, he is sure out to land the top.

Why not? See where he hails from!

The minstrel management has closed the deal with Herbert Thompson, leading interlocutor this side of the Mississippi. Johnnie LeClaire second-to-none musical moke, it was said here Tuesday, has signed up for the coming show.

Shea Bros. measured the ice on Dorrville fields Tuesday evening and found but 6 1-2 inches. Cutting will begin as soon as 8 inches is reached. The big houses are empty, so 2,000 tons must be cut in record time.

A. Young est., $13,050; A. Zegeer, $11,000.

The first meeting of the new board of borough government was held with Warden E. J. Jodoin in the chair. All the burgesses were present. The newly elected clerk and treasurer, John F. Barnett, was absent on account of illness. The following commissions were assigned: Streets, Burgesses H. E. Olson and Thomas McBroome; fire, Burgesses John McDermott and Ernest F. French; building, Burgesses Olsen and McBroome; police, Burgesses McDermott and French. Nuisance complaints will be considered for adjustment by the entire board. The new warden gave expression to the desire that all should pull together for the common good and believed, with the efficient board whom he addressed, that the coming term would be marked by many signal borough benefits.

STONINGTON

The Ambulance corps' drive is nearly over and the corps is endeavoring to have all the families possible in the town join. This service started in 1923 and has been kept up by the people of the town. The money invested in a membership card is used exclusively for the upkeep of the ambulance, which is well equipped for any emergency.

Dr. James W. Weeks spent Monday in New London.

COLCHESTER

On account of the weather Tuesday evening the meeting of Oliver Woodhouse lodge No. 51 Knights of Pythias was not as largely attended as expected if clear. The grand chancellor and associate officers and members from neighboring lodges did not come. But six members of Trumbull lodge of New London and four from Woodbridge lodge, Salem, came up. The first rank was worked on one candidate in fine shape. Six new applications were received. Addresses were made by Supreme Representative Thomas H. Troland of New London, Captain Joseph Loreno of Hawkins Co. No. 18 U. R. of New London and there were brief addresses by other visiting brothers. The entertainment committee furnished a lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee.

Bro. Kellog, chancellor commander, is surely going to put the lodge back on the map, the way he has started out.

This Man Can't Catch Cold!

If a sneeze or sniffle says you're threatened with a cold, you can head it off every time without "doping" yourself, or the least inconvenience.

Everyone has suggestions when you have a cold, but here's one that works! Pape's Cold Compound in simple, pleasant-tasting tablets. Even when you've let a cold get into throat and lungs—or even turn to "flu"—Pape's will knock it out.

Why daily with a slight cold, or suffer from one that is serious, when the smallest drugstore has this real relief—for thirty-five cents!

PAPE'S COLD COMPOUND

"But a woman's work is never done"

WHAT a fresh, wholesome, healthy-looking class of women the farm housewives are! They fly from one task to another with the quickness and suppleness that so many women lose with their first youth.

Yet, if you ask, most of them will confess that often their backs are lame—their feet and ankles aching with fatigue.

We inquired around among farm housewives to find out what they do to relieve the aching and stiffness in overtired muscles, and to take care of the countless small hurts that are always happening around the farm home.

324 of them said that they found Sloan's the very best remedy they can use.

Used everywhere for muscular pain

In one out of every three homes you'll find Sloan's Liniment the standby for every kind of muscular ache, for rheumatism, for colds and chest congestions and for all kinds of minor injuries.

Read this letter from a farm housewife telling of quick relief from an injury:

"I fell out of a cherry tree. The branch I was on broke and I fell fourteen feet. I hurt my hip and I suffered agony. I used Sloan's, and I don't even feel it any more. I think Sloan's is splendid."

And this—telling the help that Sloan's gave to a persistent case of muscular pain:

"I could not sleep or do my work, but now I sleep well, walk and do my work with ease. I used Sloan's Liniment only once and it relieved me of my pain. It is just wonderful."

• • •

Sloan's works by the quickest, most effective method known for relieving pain. It stirs up the circulation—sends a healing tide of fresh, germ-destroying blood direct to the spot that hurts—gives you quick, positive relief.

Always keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment on hand. At your druggist's you can get one that lasts a long time for 35 cents. Use it for:

The farm housewife has learned that she can ease tired, aching muscles with Sloan's

A doctor whose practice takes in numbers of men and women who work hard under all kinds of trying conditions, says of Sloan's: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Short Talks by thoughtful Mothers

A Wisconsin Mother says: "I find mothers very well informed on the subject of 'dope' in medicines. Few mothers now-a-days would buy a preparation that contained opiates or chloroform. A glance at the package before buying tells her this. With Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the name tells a true story. It is quickly effective for coughs, colds, croup and throat irritations. Pure as it is sure, and worth many times its price."

Gregory Meech Put Under Observation Following Strange Answers Under Cross-Examination

After a brief hearing in the probate court today, Gregory Meech, who has not been acting any too sound mentally of late, was committed for further observation by Judge Tuttingham. Friends first became suspicious of Mr. Meech's condition a few weeks ago when he admitted he smoked any old kind of cigarettes and regarded one brand as good as another.

Q.—Your name is Gregory Meech?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Are you the Gregory Meech who was overheard remarking recently that one cigarette was as good as another?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And you want this court to think you are not cuckoo after a statement like that?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Have you ever tried an Old Gold?

A.—No.

The Court—Now I know you're crazy.

Bridge Lesson

By Blackhead

South bids one no-trump. North takes him out with a bid of two clubs because of the presence in his hand of a singleton, always a no-trump menace.

South is aware that the take-out is not in the nature of a weak rescue and would be justified in bidding two no-trumps had he the other three suits, or two of them doubly stopped.

East and West are puzzled, however, and at this point both North and South are far from feeling any too confident. Happily, at this moment West takes out a pack of Old Golds and offers them to East, North and South. East, North and South reach eagerly—they light up—and, well, what difference does anything make from then on?

Today's Cross Word Puzzle

DANIELSON

FUNERAL OF HENEAULT CHILD LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 8.—An unusual tribute was paid to the memory of a little child this morning when an exceptionally large congregation gathered, despite the rain, to attend the funeral service for Estelle Heneault, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Heneault, at St. James' church. Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., was celebrant of the mass of the Angels. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. The bearers were Robert Grennon, Sheldon Fouette, Alcid Godreau, Omer Caron, Theodore Heneault and Gerard Gorman. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

There is no prospect of arranging for a regular stop here each night by the north-bound State of Maine express, Secretary Walter Anderson has reported to the Chamber of Commerce. A communication received from an official of the railroad company sets forth that this particular train is primarily intended for long distance travelers, and that local stops are detrimental to this class of traffic. The letter also points out that the train does make a Putnam stop to replenish the water supply of the locomotive, which stop would enable persons desiring to get to Danielson to leave the train there.

Dairymen are to get together in Grange hall at Brooklyn the coming Friday for the first county dairy institute under the auspices of the Windham County Farmers' association, co-operating with the Connecticut Dairymen's association and the State Extension institute. There are to be morning and afternoon sessions, with a basket lunch period beginning at 12:15.

Several speakers are scheduled to discuss a variety of subjects certain to interest dairymen. A. R. Merrill, dairy specialist in the state agricultural extension service, is to talk in the morning at 10:15 and will discuss Reasons Why Dairymen Should Raise Their Own Replacements. He will tell why it is now more advantageous than ever before for dairymen to raise those calves the sire and dame of which are good animals.

The History of the Tuberculin Testing of Cattle will be the subject of Dr. E. L. Smith, U. S. Department of Agriculture test representative for Connecticut. Dairymen will hear from Dr. Smith what is going on throughout the United States relative to the "T. B." test, its development from the beginning and, particularly what is being done with it in Connecticut and in Windham county.

C. Marsden Bacon, of Middletown, a successful dairyman and a successful grower of alfalfa for a number of years, will interest the meeting with his story of Ups and Downs of Alfalfa Growing. About 20 acres is being grown by Mr. Bacon at the present time. Because this crop cuts down the feed bill, there is special interest among dairymen in learning to cultivate it successfully.

J. S. Owens, soils and crops specialist of the state agricultural extension service, will follow Mr. Bason with a talk on alfalfa production increase in the east and especially in Connecticut.

The last period of the afternoon will be for a Question Box hour.

The committee arranging the institute is made up of S. H. Peckham, of Woodstock; A. H. Amidon, of Abington, and Peter J. Chabot, of Wauregan, County Agent F. L. Davis, of Putnam, co-operating.

The buildings situated at the corner of Main and Academy streets on the site for the Brooklyn Savings bank's new building, are for sale, same to be removed from the premises before April 1; also for sale the three-story brick building, 116-120 Main street, occupied as a business place and with offices and hall. Apply to S. W. Bard, treasurer, 95 Main st.—adv.

MERCHANTS ABANDON MONDAY NIGHT CLOSING PROPOSAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 7—The project to close stores here Monday evenings and to keep them open Wednesday evening instead, has been definitely abandoned. A canvass of business men has definitely established that there is no unanimity of opinion on the proposal, and the whole matter has been indefinitely tabled by the Chamber of Commerce, which went into the matter to ascertain if an agreement for a change could be reached.

So many factors enter into the making of such a change that it has been deemed best to leave things as they are. There might be, for one thing, as much loss as gain by changing the opening night in the early part of the week. Monday has been an opening night for so many years in Danielson that it is regarded as likely that hundreds of people who come here from out of town to trade might not know of the change, or, knowing, forget for a long time after the change was made. On the other hand, it is regarded as likely that it would also take a long time to get a great many out of town shoppers to come here on Wednesday evenings.

One interesting matter that cropped up in investigating as to changing the opening night was the expression of a desire for shorter hours by some of those engaged in business enterprises here. That wish was heard a number of times.

In reluctantly accepting the resignation of Walter Anderson as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last evening, it was voted to appoint a committee made up of Attorney Harry E. Back, Nathan Blumenthal and E. A. Sullivan to confer relative to the selection of a new secretary. This committee has an efficient man in mind, but is as yet without assurance of his acceptance.

Killingly is one of the towns that just at present is experiecing heavy outside poor costs because of the unemployment of heads of families and members of families that would work if there were anything for them to do. This condition is not unusual in New England this winter. Generally, the people of Killingly are getting along quite well, but there happens just now, because of the closing of a textile plant to be a considerable number of families in which no one is employed, so they have turned to the town for aid.

Relatives received word of the death in Cleveland, O., today of Thomas J. Moran, 46, son of Mrs. J. C. Brown, of Brooklyn. The body is to be brought east for burial. Mr. Moran was a resident of Brooklyn as a youth, but has been away for more than a score of years. In addition to relatives here, he leaves his wife.

S. Cady Hutchins was reported seriously ill today at his home on Broad street.

John Provost, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Provost are en route to Albany-Decatur, Ala., where they are to be employed in the new plant of the Connecticut Mills company.

Visitors recently with Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Downs, of Goodyear, were their daughter, Miss Lucile, a teacher in Dedham High school, and her friends, the Misses Alice and Isabel Glavin, of Taunton, and Whitford Wienrich, a junior at M. I. T.

County Game Warden John Ash, of Pomfret, was in Danielson today on business connected with his office.

A. A. Edmonds, of Bristol, R. I., came here for a business conference with J. C. Witter.

There was a period early this morning when Danielson's streets were coated with ice, and the same was true last evening for a time, but heavy rain and rising temperature cleared up the slippery condition.

Miss Olive Boulais, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Damase Boulais, of School street, has been elected president of her class at the Model school in Willimantic.

Among other things engaging the attention of Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer at the present time is the collection for the state treasurer's office of state taxes levied on mercantile business enterprises that are overdue from 1926. This work takes Sheriff Ayer into towns hereabouts.

Recent activities of organizations of the Goodyear church include a choir meeting at the home of Miss Nancy Whitaker. The Woman's club meeting was with Mrs. George Fairfield.

Members of the Roundabout club, many of them residents here, are to meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Everett Avery, of Wauregan.

At the Goodyear church service Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. C. A. Downs, spoke on the text Psalms 40:3, and strongly urged that everyone should formulate a tenable philosophy of life and govern themselves accordingly. There was special music by the choir, including a trombone solo by Joseph Green.

A considerable number of cases of mumps has developed among school children resident in some sections of Danielson.

Rev. Albert Abbott, pastor of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church, has been in attendance upon the Norwich District Ministerial meetings, held in Willimantic.

PUTNAM

CITY ENGINEER ASKS FOR SALARY INCREASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 8—The monthly meeting of the city council was called to order Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. by Mayor Charles A. Richard. The first matter of the evening that was brought up before the governing body of the city was a letter from City Engineer George W. Perry. In his letter Engineer Perry stated that his work for the city was conflicting with his outside work and that if he was to be maintained by the city as engineer, a raise in salary would be necessary. The council voted to discuss the matter with Engineer Perry before any action was taken.

A petition signed by residents of North School street was presented to the council, asking for the installation of a fire alarm box near the Dam Tavern and corner of Thompson avenue. The petition was referred to the fire committee. Engineer Caleb M. Seville of Hartford sent in a bill for services in connection with the proposed waterworks. The council voted to pay the engineer's claim.

The Texas Oil company applied for a permit to install two lights in front of the Whipple & Gilpatric coal yards. This matter was referred to the highway committee. A permit to build a two story tenement, after the house was erected, was asked for by the owner, H. T. Robatille of Main street. After much discussion the council agreed to issue a permit. The city's building code cannot prohibit a person from erecting a dwelling if the council does not issue such a permit.

The contract to print the city municipal register was awarded to the Patriot Press, Inc., they being the only printers submitting a bid for the contract.

The reports of the city departments were submitted to the council at this meeting. The report of the water commissioners showed an increase in business over the calendar year 1926. The report was accepted. The reports of the city auditors, John J. McGarry and Lucius P. Merriam were submitted, they stated that they had examined the books of the various city officers and found the same to be correct and accurate. Their report was accepted. The report of the chief engineer of the fire department, Ralph E. Thurston was read. The city fire loss showed a considerable decrease in 1927 from the previous year. Chief Thurston stated in his report that the city fire apparatus was in first class condition. He recommended that the council include in the annual budget an amount to cover the purchase of additional hose which is needed. Chief Thurston said that the Hook and Ladder company had been called to extinguish 45 chimney fires. He stated that after an investigation had been held the cause of these fires was nothing but carelessness on the part of the property owner, by not cleaning the chimneys. The chief recommended that the city make a charge for extinguishing chimney fires. The report was accepted and recommendations referred to the fire committee.

The report of the superintendent of the fire alarm, Charles T. Thayer, was read and accepted. Superintendent Thayer's report showed that all fire alarm boxes on the circuit have been tested and are in first class condition. The city is fortunate in having many of the new type of fool-proof boxes, which are now being installed.

Alderman Migneault, chairman of the highway committee, said that he had investigated that condition of the sidewalks in front of the Arcanum club property and found them to be in poor condition. Dr. M. J. Bullard presented a bill for damages received by a fall on this side walk at the first meeting of the council, and the matter was referred to the highway committee to investigate. Alderman Migneault said that he interviewed the owners of the property and that they were to have the walks repaired as son as weather conditions permit.

Alderman Carroll of the fire committee said that when signs were erected making the west side of Main street a fire lane, they were put on the left hand sid of the street going north. This Mr. Carroll said caused a danger to autoists coming south as they would naturally drive on the right hand side of the street, and the fire companies would be on the left hand side of the passageway. He made a motion that the situation be referred to the highway committee. The council voted to take the matter up with the fire chief and the captain of police to see if the matter could be corrected.

The report of Captain William Jarvis of the police department showed total of 21 arrests for the month of January. They were as follows, drunk 11, assault 3, breach of peace 1, motor law violation 4, theft 2. The cases were disposed of as follows, committed to jail 1, care of probation officer 1, placed n file 8, discharged 1, turned over to other officers 2, paid fines and costs 8. The total amount of fines and costs amounted to $231.89.

Water Supply Controversy

The pot that has been boiling for some time blew off its lid at this meeting, when Attorney Irving H. Miron presented the council with a petition signed by 26 taxpayers asking for a special city meeting to be called to see if thee city will erect the two tanks for the water system. The petition was read and the council recommended that it be laid over to the next meeting. Attorney Miron then delivered a fiery address to the council telling of the action they took on other petitions. He asked for immediate action and if it was not given the signed paper, he stated "I will resort to our last way of calling a special meeting, and that is go to the courts tomorrow morning (Wednesday.) Attorney Miron's closing sentence caused considerable discussion among the council members. Former Alderman Rogers asked for the floor, he stated that as one of the largest taxpayers in the city he thought that if the citizens voted to erect two tanks and issue bonds of $135,000, it would mean an increase in water rates. He then stated if the tanks were erected and the fire hazard eliminated, the insurance rates could be lowered he would be in favor of it, otherwise he did not feel as if the taxpayers could stand an increased rate for water.

The council finally voted to ask for a written report of the water commissioners and have them appear before them at an adjourned meeting on February 14, and explain all the work that they had done since the special city meeting was called in July, 1927, on the proposed new tanks. A week was voted to be enough time to consider the special city meeting. This proved satisfactory to Attorney Miron, who represented the signers of the petition.

Two lights on South Main street were voted to be bought from the Putnam Light and Power Co.

Alderman Vadnais asked the council to include in the budget, a sum to cover much needed repairs in the Central Fire station. He stated that since the men have been sleeping in the building, the need of a new lavatory and showers has become a necessity. The council voted to lay the matter over until the meeting of February 14th.

Mayor Richard appointed Aldermen Migneault, Ryan, and Chadwick a committee to investigate the garbage disposal question, and have a report ready for the adjorned meeting of February 14. The council members listened to the reading of the bills and voted to have them paid. Mayor Richard then ordered the meeting adjourned until February 14.

FUNERAL OF J. F. CARPENTER IS LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 8—The funeral of John F. Carpenter, who died Sunday, was held from his home on South Main street, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by the Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Congregational church. The bearers were, George Lewis, Jr., and R. E. Thurston representing the Putnam lodge of Elks, Byron D. Bugbee, president of the Cargill Trust company of which Mr. Carpenter was a director, Daniel J. Byrne, treasurer of the Putnam Savings bank, Charles Bragg of Central Village and Stephen J. Harris of Providence, R. I.

The large number of friends that Mr. Carpenter leaves was shown by the large number of beautiful floral tributes. After the services at the home there were committal services at the grave in Grove street cemetery. They were conducted by Rev. James F. English.

Many of the lawyers with whom Mr. Carpenter was affiliated during his years of practice were present.

Mr. Carpenter is survived by his wife and mother, and two daughters by a former marriage, Mrs. C. M. Dustin of Barre, Vt., and Miss Mary Carpenter, a teacher at Andover academy, Andover, N. Y. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Edgar M. Warner and Mrs. Chester E. Child both of Putnam.

Franklin B. Christmas of School street has returned from a trip to Newark, N. J., where he has been visiting with his daughter Mrs. Paul J. Aubin.

Joseph L. Ryan of Main street, remains a patient at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester.

Miss Caroline Harrington of School street leaves Monday for New York, where she will enter the Metropolitan hospital to train for a nurse.

The Windham County Farmers' association, the Connecticut State Dairymen's association and the State Extension service are cooperating to hold the dairymen's meeting at the Grange hall in Brooklyn on February 17, starting at 10:15 a. m.

The Standard Oil company of New York has leased property of the Putnam Coal & Wood company on Front street and they have started to construct a filling station on the site. The oil company is to erect a building and a modern filling station. The new station is expected to be completed by spring. Officials of the company were in Putnam Wednesday interviewing Engineer George W. Perry as to elevations of the property.

Antonio Bonneville and two ladies who were riding with him in his car, were taken to the Day Kimball hospital, for treatment after a car in which they were riding skidded and crashed into a Ford car owned by Michael Keefe, opposite Byron D. Bugbee's residence on Grove street, early today.

The occupants of the car were fortunate to escape with only a few slight bruises, when their car turned completely over.

Past Exalted Rulers night, will be observed by the Putnam lodge of Elks on February 14. There will be a banquet for the past rulers of the Putnam lodge and for the present officers of the lodge. The guest of honor at the supper will be Senior Past Exalted Ruler Byron D. Bugbee who was the first head of the order in Putnam, when it was instituted.

After the banquet there will be a social session and entertainment.

Miss Katrina Thayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Thayer of Bradley street will sing over the radio on Monday evening, February 13, between 8 and 9 o'clock, from Station WTAG, of Worcester, Mass. She will be accompanied at the piano by Prof. F. W. Bailey formerly of Putnam.

Mrs. Herbert J. Smith is to sail from New York on Saturday, February 11, for a several weeks stay in southern France. She will be accompanied on the trip by Mrs. William T. Cornell of New York city.

WINDHAM

Mrs. Eden Cook's Sunday school class gave her a surprise party in recognition of her birthday last week and presented her a vase and a dozen carnations.

Mrs. Henry Bingham, who has been ill in the hospital in Oriskany, N. Y., where she went to visit her brother, is improving.

The carnations in the Congregational church Sunday morning were in memory of Guilford Smith, who died five years ago Feb. 5th.

Mrs. E. K. L. Lemingwell is visiting relatives in New York and Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koski of Norwich were guests of Mrs. Koski's aunt, Mrs. Homer F. Wood, Sunday.

The Current Events class, with Miss Dorothy Brown leader, met with Miss Emma Neale Thursday.

Mrs. Harold Potter is spending some time in Mahwah, N. J.

The February meeting of the Parent-Teacher association was held in the school auditorium Monday afternoon with the president, Mrs. F. G. Barber, in charge. After various matters of business were discussed a helpful talk on Current Events was given by Miss Dorothy Brown. The annual test for the prizes offered for the best biscuits made with Rumford baking powder by members of the domestic science cooking class resulted in awarding first prize of $3 to Florence Sage; the second of $2 to Edith Ives, and the third of $1 to Olga Pelachatz. Sandwiches, cake, tea and coffee were served by Mrs. W. R. Dean, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. L. P. Oehrig and Mrs. Reginald Smith.

The P. T. A. is to serve the supper to the Community Men's club at their February meeting Monday evening in the assembly hall. Arthur L. Peale of Norwich is to give an illustrated lecture on Indian Trails.

THE NUMEROUS DEER

Massachusetts is not the only state in which the farmers are seeking better protection from deer. However much it is pointed out that there are ways of being compensated for the damage done by deer, those who suffer from such depredations maintain that such compensations as allowed by law do not balance accounts. Rhode Island has no provision for compensation for such damage.

In order to give better protection to the agriculturists and orchardists a resident of Wyoming, R. I., believes that the existing law in that state, which permits farmers to use shotguns against deer, should be changed so that there will be an open season or else the farmers should be permitted to use rifles. He is not the only one who has felt the effects of deer for a bill providing for a five day open season is now before the legislature of that state.

When farmers make the statement that as many as 20 deer have been counted in their truck gardens on a single night and that damage to the extent of $1500 has been done to crops and trees in a single year on one farm it can be appreciated that the tillers of the soil have a real grievance. This has been brought about because protection has been given to deer. If they can be hunted it will serve to reduce the number somewhat but whether it will be any more effective than it has been in Massachusetts is a question. Massachusetts farmers are now asking for an extension of the open season there.

While it can be appreciated that there is a limited amount of protection that can be given to crops through the use of a shotgun that will carry but 250 feet, there is much doubt of the wisdom of permitting the use of rifles in the hunting of deer. It would be all right if the bullets were fired in the right direction, or if all of them hit the target, but the danger of bringing down human beings because of shots reaching highways cannot be disregarded.

That the deer have become decidedly unpopular with gardeners and orchardists is becoming increasingly evident.

STATE PARK ROADS

When the state park and forest commission refers to a special commission the problem of constructing a road up Haystack mountain in the town of Norfolk, it gives heed to the offer which has been generously made by Mrs. Carl Stoeckel offering to meet the expense of building it and also the cost of constructing a lookout tower at the top.

It would unquestionably be good news to the commission if it could hear more such offers. The various state parks which are under the jurisdiction of the commission are not all reached by good roads. They have many visitors each year, the number increasing from year to year, but the number would be larger if the approaches to and the roads within were in better condition.

There is a crying need for something of the kind at the Devil's hopyard. The property on both sides of the highway is owned by the state, but the highway is still under the control of the town. With the commission helpless the visitors are subjected to wretched conditions which ought to be remedied.

The conditions are by no means the same, but there would unquestionably be many more visitors to Shantok park in Montville if the road that leads to it from the main highway was inviting.

It is to be hoped that the offer which has been made for a road to the top of Haystack mountain can be accepted and that it will prove to be an inspiration to others, or to those having in charge the construction of roads in town or state, to provide means of improving the approaches to state property which it is expected in the natural course of events will be visited by the public.

TOO MANY NEEDLESS DEATHS

Because there continue to be fires is not sufficient reason for claiming that fire prevention is a failure.

Because there are too many fatal accidents does not necessarily mean that such steps as are being taken in behalf of prevention are valueless. Nevertheless it is the statement of an insurance company, which gives careful attention to the tabulation and study and of its statistics, that there has been no progress whatever in preventing the so-called "preventable fatal accidents" in the past ten years.

That is a surprising statement and yet when we stop to think of the frequent fatalities and read the statements of those who make records of them we are bound to agree that the number is appalling. We are frequently informed that the number of deaths in proportion to the steadily increasing number of automobiles is lower, but that doesn't mean that fewer have been killed. The fact is that the number is constantly increasing and in view of the yearly increase it has already been figured that a certain number, greater than last year, will be killed during 1928.

In the last decade there have been persistent efforts put forth in behalf of prevention in various directions. The safety effort has been extended everywhere, campaigns have been conducted with regularity and it has even been carried into the schools for the protection of the children and planting the seed that will be of constantly increasing value.

This hasn't all been lost for it is shown that the death rates from accidental burns, drownings, falls and accidents on steam railroads have decreased, that marked advances have been made in protecting workers in factories while individuals as a rule are more mindful of their safety.

Nevertheless, when it is shown that the good work that has been accomplished in certain directions is upset by the increase in the automobile fatalities it plainly indicates where efforts must be concentrated henceforth. We cannot tolerate the great needless death rate indefinitely. Those most concerned ought to be sufficiently interested in their own protection to stop the tendency.

INVESTIGATING COAL

Time and again it has been demonstrated that those who have been dependent upon a certain industry for employment have been obliged to break into new fields. Members of families who have followed in the footsteps of their father have found that their assurance of steady employment was less stable. Different conditions have put certain industries out of existence, changed the demand for their product or curtailed production in such a way that less employes were needed. It therefore became necessary for many to seek other fields and break into something new.

That is a situation which appears to exist at the present time in many of the coal fields. Enough coal is being mined to supply the demands without exacting exorbitant prices and yet there are mines which might be closed and many miners who are not able to get employment. Some are not employed because they cannot get work at the wage they demand. Some mines are not operated because they cannot compete with others where production operations cost less.

The coal industry has apparently gotten to a point where it is experiencing some of the troubles that other industries have had to face. It has long been maintained that there are mines which ought to be closed, that there are more mines than are needed and that production costs in the various localities cannot be expected to be the same. That there are many miners out of employment is an unfortunate situation but it might also be claimed that the same is true that certain mines cannot afford to carry on operations.

If a coal inquiry will do anything to better the situation let it be had, but it should include the whole situation and not a part of it. There should be an upturning of all the facts throughout the entire industry in an impartial manner, but after all that has been done and no further action is taken than has followed certain recommendations in regard to the coal industry, it can be plainly seen that it will not amount to much. Perhaps the real solution lies in a certain amount of the capital and labor in an overmanned industry pulling up stakes and putting their efforts to work in other lines of endeavor.

THE CLIMAX OF THE TOUR

The longest way around is the surest way home, is an old saying. That wasn't the reason Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh extended his air tour to include the countries of northern South America and the islands of the Caribbean sea, but in making that big swing around the circle from Central America he has arrived safely at Havana, the point for which he started when he left on his flight to Mexico and beyond.

Not only did he reach his destination safely but he was punctual throughout his trip, barring two instances when conditions of an unusual nature caused slight delay.

On this tour of good will as the representative of this government Colonel Lindbergh has been most successful. His welcomes have been most enthusiastic in every instance and he has not only given the people of the various republics, together with the islanders, a chance to see the great air hero but he has demonstrated to them the feasibility of air lines that would bring those countries in closer touch with the United States and each other. The climax of his visit is expected at Havana where are assembled the representatives of most of the countries of the western hemisphere. His personality will make its appeal, but there cannot fail to be a deep appreciation of his flying accomplishments and the spirit which he expresses as the representative of the United States in an endeavor to tie the nations in closer bonds of communication, relationship and friendship. He was the right one for this task and we are confident that he will attain the utmost success possible.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: No one would ever suspect this is the month of February.

There may be, as claimed, no tax on optimism, but there's a serious tax on the nerves to listen to some optimists.

By the latest reports Connecticut shows a decrease in accidents in the last full week in January over the same week in 1927 by 51 but an increase in the fatalities by six or a more than 100 per cent. gain. This isn't a pleasing record.

Chemists who are at work on a neutralizer for poison gas for war purposes will soon have a chance to extend their efforts and see whether they can neutralize some of the political gas in the coming presidential campaign.

ROMANCE — ODD SIZES.

"Say, you look good today," said Miss Nangle earnestly. "Not so tired around the eyes, and you're plumping up, like you ought to. I hate fat, but I hate scraggliness worse, like when the person's neck gets that way and they cover them over with velvet strips which, while either beaded or plain, unostensibly give a finish, still as I say to Bertha, a neck is a neck for all that.

"What makes me think of necks, do you know Miss Susan Bloodgood, that lives in that big yellow house near the park, and entertains very elegant? She wears neck bands, not because she is scrawny, but the opposite. As big as she is, you wouldn't think of her being the hero of a romance—as I say to Bertha—of two continents!

"Now, if you'll just lay back and relax yourself.

"Yes, Miss Bloodgood, when she was young, was very accomplished on the piano, with the best of lessons both at home and abroad. And while abroad, being also quite handsome and then of diminished bulk met a girl and her mother taking lessons, from Fort Wayne or somewhere like that, and as the girl was very sweet, and her mother, too, why a friendship flowered and blew between all three of them.

"They were always talking about her Uncle Perry, that was the girl's uncle.

"So, after a while in the course of time, Miss Bloodgood finished her lessons with variations by Mendelssohn and was ready to return to the land of the free and the home of the brave. When the time came to part and say adieu, why the mother and daughter asked Miss Bloodgood would she take a little gift along for her mother and to not send it direct to Mrs. Curry, for that was their name, but put it in the mail for Uncle Perry that lived with har and would take it home from his office.

"The gift was a small parcel in shape, and about like the dimensions of a brick, and very neatly incased and all addressed proper. Miss Bloodgood sailed, as I said to Bertha, along the dark and deep blue ocean, and upon landing, why, she sent the parcel by insured parcel post.

"Ere many moons had waned came acknowledgment from Uncle Perry that the parcel had arrived safe, and was a bottle of hair wash, which was broken, which eventuated being all spilled out, but did not matter as his mother had never used such, and was a mere innocent device to secretly take a means of Uncle Perry opening a correspondence with Miss Bloodgood, which he hoped and trusted she would encourage because both his sister and his niece had informed him with photo inclosed, such a sweet young lady.

"Miss Bloodgood replied in kind, and flourishing letters ensued, wherein Uncle Perry, for as such Miss Bloodgood always considered him although only ten years senior to herself and much younger than his sister, informed of the purchase of a two-carat stone in one letter, and a twelve-cylinder car in another letter, and a suitable mansion in another letter, but far apart, for Miss Bloodgood found herself unaccountingly compelled to continually postpone the day of facing to face with what she must admit her wooer. Until a year or two sped by, and still, as I said to Bertha, though lost to sight, to memory dear.

"But passion's flood at last burst its bounds in a telegram to Miss Bloodgood one day of portent stating immediate arrival of Uncle Perry, and Miss Bloodgood could only make the best of fears and hopes coupled with sixty pounds of avoirdupois added to 180 of yore, and a pale pink costume of ravishing chiffon and et cetera.

"And so it must have been a shock to all concerned when Miss Bloodgood and Uncle Perry were at last confronted. He of a size that would have been not great for a child of 10 or 12, and not exceeding five feet if that, was entirely undaunted by Miss Bloodgood in both size and weight, and pressed his suit, as I said, with the ardor of a lover and go-getter.

"But to no avail, for Miss Bloodgood was sensitive to her disparative size, and so she lives alone, the victim of circumstances, illuminated by the departed rays of the two-carat stone, the twelve-cylinder car, the mansion and the bottle of broken hair wash.

"There! Now you look fine and dandy. Thank you. See you some more!"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Principal Causes of Illness

By Hugh S. Cumming,
Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service, Member Gorgas Memorial

Public health in a given community depends upon the personal health of each individual. Health officials generally have recognized that, although a great deal is accomplished by means that deal with community conditions, yet the individual is the foundation upon which public health is built. In order to know what diseases must be guarded against it must first be known what diseases are present.

With this thought in mind, a study was conducted by the public health service, extending over more than two years, in a city regarded as a typical American small city in one of the eastern states. The information obtained through this study is of great interest to the general public as it shows clearly what diseases are most prevalent in the general population.

The principal object of this study was a record of illnesses that were experienced by a population group composed of all ages and both sexes, and in no remarkable aspect unusual. The records of illnesses obtained were of illnesses as reported to experienced investigators. The reports were made by the household informant, usually the wife, either as experienced by herself or as she observed them in her family.

The rate of sickness from colds and bronchitis was the highest, being annually 418.6 per 1,000 persons. Influenze and grippe came second, with a rate of 143.2 per 1,000; diseases of the digestive system were 96.5 per 1,000; tonsilitis and sore throat 65.7, confinement and other puorperal causes 46.9, diseases of the nervous system, including headaches, 44.1, accidents and other external causes 39.5.

There are certain facts from this study that stand out with particular significance. First, the extraordinarily high incidence of sickness shown in early childhood was a rather surprising result. Illness was far more frequent under 10 years of age than at any other time of life. Second, the interesting suggestion was afforded that the average individual is more free from illness in the age period 15 to 24 years. Thereafter sickness becomes more frequent as age advances and, it may be added, upon the basis of other studies as well as these, that sickness becomes more severe and more frequently fatal.

The further query suggests itself—at what age is the individual least able to withstand disease after he has been attacked? One way to measure this is to compare the attack, the greatest resistance to death in childhood being the age period 5 to 14. The lowest resistance is in infancy and early childhood, birth to 4 years, and in middle and old age. Ability to withstand disease thus varies markedly from resistance to illness at different ages, particularly in childhood, 5 to 14, when the average individual suffers from illness frequently, but has a relatively small chance of dying, and in the older years, when not only does his susceptibility to illness increase, but also his chance of death. This is due partly, of course, to the nature of the illness occurring at these ages, and partly to the diminished ability to resist the diseases which manifest themselves in sickness.

It is believed that one of the most important lessons to be drawn from this study is that public health has as yet barely touched the task of preventing the conditions which manifest themselves in physical and mental impairments, in inefficiency and illness, and in postponable death. Plagues and pestilences have been diminished, also infant and child mortality from infectious and intestinal disorders, and healthful living is being established more and more firmly as a public ideal, but aside from these the prevalence of disease remains as an outstanding problem yet to be solved.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Anthony Hope, who today reaches the age of 65 years, has been famous as a novelist since his early 30s. The son of a clergyman, and a graduate of Oxford, he is a typical English man of letters, well born, well bred, well educated, with a love for out-of-door life, and a hearty fondness for out-of-door sports; also with a knowledge of the social world gained by intimate association from his youth up with people of refinement and culture After leaving Oxford, Mr. Hawkins, as he then was, gave six or seven years to the profession of law. But the profession of literature exerted a stronger call and soon he abandoned law books for the writing of short stories. His first efforts were not any too successful and it was not until 1894 that "The Prisoner of Zenda" brought him fame. Since that time Sir Anthony has written many successful novels and has also attained fame as a dramatist.

Former Norwich Leaders

Capt. Geer, Mariner.
(From Norwich Bulletin, Feb. 4, 1896)

Capt. Jeremiah Cleveland Geer died at his home on Cliff street, Monday forenoon, after an illness of several months caused by an abscess of the lungs. He has not been in good health for about five years, having suffered from acute dyspepsia.

Capt. Geer was born in Norwich in 1936 and was nearly 60 years of age. He has followed the sea continuously since he was nine years of age, holding every position from cabin boy to captain. In 1853 he went on a three years' whaling voyage, and on his return remained home for just three weeks, when he went off again on another cruise of fourteen months. On his next return home he shipped out of Nantucket on a voyage to Hurd's Island. He then began steamboating and for a year was wheelman on the steamer Commonwealth. For six years he was pilot on the Plymouth Rock, running to Stonington. After a fishing voyage to Greenland, Capt. Geer entered the employ of the New London Northern Railroad company, in charge of their freight propellors running to New York. He commanded the Block Island for a year and a half.

In 1884 and 1885 he piloted Jay Gould's yacht Atlanta in two successful races on the sound between Larchmont and New London.

About 1880 he became connected with the Norwich line as pilot and afterward became captain successively of the Norwich, Boston, Lawrence, New York, Worcester and Lowell. The last named steamer he commanded from her building.

Capt. Geer lived for many years in Groton, later in Brooklyn, N. Y., and about two years ago moved to this city. As commander of the Lowell, Capt. Geer became known as one of the most capable captains on the sound, and was always able to take his boat through in all kinds of weather.

In October last he lowered the record of speed from New York to New London by fifteen or twenty minutes. His keen sight and good judgment were proverbial, and the Lowell was sure to come through the sound, let the weather be what it might. Indeed, his fatal illness dated from the strain of bringing his steamer safely over her course during the foggy night when the Puritan ran on the rocks, and when no other steamer was able to make the trip.

Capt. Geer is survived by his wife, who is the daughter of John Hunter of Norwich Town, and a stepdaughter. He leaves also two sons, one a pilot on the City of Worcester and one employed on Cornfield Reef lighthouse; one sister, Mrs. Eliza Bliven of Grand Rapids, Mich.; a half brother, A. P. Geer of New London and two half sisters, Mrs. Albert E. Welch of Norwich, and Mrs. Frank Case of Greenport. His father died in Groton in December, 1894, and was buried in Yantic cemetery. His mother died over fifty years ago and was buried in the City cemetery on Oak street.

Stories That Recall Others

A Question

Betty, age four, lives near the river and she never tires of watching the water at flood stage when it goes rushing along.

During the recent rains, when the river was unusually high, the little girl watching it asked: "Mother, when will that water be back what's running away?"

Prayer Affects Candy Prices

Daddy was away on a little business trip and when six year old Joan and her brother were saying their prayers they finished by saying "God bless daddy."

Joan spoke up and said: "Dear God, make all the candy cheap, so daddy can bring home a whole lot."

Her prayers were answered, for on the day he returned he attended a club dinner and received as a prize in a contest a box of candy tied with a big bow of ribbons which he carried home to Joan.

Stops Coughs Quickly—healing, demulcent.

"I was bothered with a hard persistent cough, but found no other remedy so good and so quickly relieving as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound," says E. Doziges, Pomona, Calif. Coughs and throat irritations, hard bronchial coughs, lingering "flu" coughs, almost instantly stopped. It combines the curative influence of pure pine tar and the mollifying decent action of fresh clear honey with other healing ingredients. A boon to those who suffer from troublesome night coughs. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound.

—Old Mother Nature.

Reddy Fox was hungry. He had spent so much time planning to catch Jerry Muskrat and lying in wait oor him that he hadn't paid attention to hunting for food elsewhere, and so he was hungrier than ever. The morning that he had discovered Billy Mink in the spring-hole Reddy had remained quiet until Billy had disappeared. Then Reddy had quietly left. He had known that Jerry wasn't likely to appear that morning. Now, though he didn't know it, Reddy had been observed. It happened that Tommy Tit the Chickadee was over in the swamp that morning and he saw Reddy get up from his hiding place and trot away.

"Dee-dee!" said Tommy Tit. "I wonder what Reddy was doing over here. He was waiting for some one. I wonder who it could be." Tommy was still wondering when he met Peter Rabbit, and he promptly told Peter all about what he had seen. Peter scratched a long ear with a long hindfoot. Then he scratched the other long ear with the other long hindfoot. "Jerry Muskrat," said Peter. "There wouldn't be any one for Reddy to watch around that spring-hole but Jerry Muskrat. We'll have to keep an eye open for Jerry and warn him."

So the next morning when Reddy went back to his hiding place behind the little clump of alders to wait for Jerry Muskrat somebody was watching him. It was Peter Rabbit. Peter was in a hollow stump only a little way off. He could see Reddy and he could see the spring-hole. Peter didn't have long to wait. A brown head appeared in the spring-hole. It was the head of Jerry Muskrat. Jerry had come from under the ice. Jerry swam across toward the little clump of alders behind which Reddy was hiding. Peter didn't know what to do. He didn't see how he could warn Jerry of his danger without putting himself in danger. Inside that hollow stump there wasn't room for him to thump. He would havt to go outside to do that.

Just then Jerry turned and swam over to the other side of the spring-hole. He climbed out on the ice there and began to dress his fur. Peter chuckled. He could guess how disappointed Reddy Fox was. And then there appeared another brown head. This brown head held a good-sized fish in its mouth. It was the head of Little Joe Otter. Little Joe Otter climbed out on the ice close to the alder clump behind which Reddy Fox was hiding. Peter held his breath. Would Reddy try to catch Little Joe? But Reddy was too wise to try anything of that sore. Little Joe was altogether too big for Reddy, and he knew it. Little Joe is a great fihter, a much better fighter than Reddy Fox.

Peter was round-eyed. He wondered what would happen next. He knew just how Reddy must feel watching Little Joe eat that big fish. "It must be dreadful to watch another eat when you are hungry," thought Peter, "but I'm glad Reddy didn't get Jerry Muskrat. I just know it was Jerry he was after."

Peter was in a hollow stump only a little way off.

Meanwhile Little Joe Otter had bitten out a choice bit just back of the head of the fish. Then he slid into the water again, leaving the fish on the bank. A moment later Little Joe reappeared with another fish and climbed out at the same place where he had sat before. And what do you think Peter did? He slipped outside that hollow stump and suddenly he stamped with all his mite. You know, Peter is a great thumper when he sets out to be. It startled everybody. Jerry Muskrat dived into the spring-hole with a splash. Little Joe Otter dived in without a splash, leaving his fish behind him. Reddy Fox half rose from his hiding place. Peter promptly dived back into the hollow stump. Just then Jerry Muskrat poked his head out of the water to see what had frightened him. He saw Reddy Fox. Reddy knew then that all his scheming and planning was to go for nothing. But, after all, what he wanted was a good meal, an dthere it was right before him—the two fish Little Joe Otter had left. Peter watched him eat one and carry the other away. "Well," said Peter as Reddy disappeared, "all is well that ends well." And that, you know, is a very true saying.

Little Talks on Thrift

I Can or I Will

"It is out of the question for me to save any money on my present income."

Statements of this kind are often heard. In the majority of instances though made with complete sincerity, they represent a viewpoint that is exceedingly unsound.

Such an attitude is the philosophy of failure—of mental surrender to those forces of life that are ever striving to drag all men down to defeat. There are limits to the possibilities of human accomplishment, but within the range of reason no one should ever say "I can't."

The correct viewpoint is to say "I can," or "I will."

It may seem unimportant to many that they are unable to spend a little less than they earn. They may feel that in other ways they are succeeding and the mere fact of saving money is of small consequence. There is no an individual in the world, however who should not be getting ahead at least a little financially as the days go by, not only because no one can tell what future financial needs may be forced upon one, but also because saving should be indulged in as a matter of pernonal discipline.

What the "I can'ts" really say to themselves is something like this: "I can't save any money without giving up some of the luxuries I have become accustomed to. It would mean inconvenience and sacrifice and I am not willing to pay this price."

There are thousands of men and women in the world who have forced their way to the front from poverty and obscurity. They did not belong to the "I can'ts." They learned that overcoming obstacles, such as saving money when it would seem almost impossible to do so, has been the very thing that has brought them out and made them capable of still greater and greater accomplishment.—American Society for Thrift.

CHARGED WITH OPERATING UNDER THE INFLUENCE

John D. Gravlin, 51, a resident of Occum, was arrested there late Wednesday afternoon by Constable Pillsger on the charge of operating an automobile under the influence of liquor. The arrest followed a collision with another machine. Gravlin was brought to police headquarters here and held over night in default of bonds.

Nolle In City Court

When presented in the city court Wednesday on the charge of evading responsibility, Arthur H. Lathrop pleaded not guilty and when he satisfied the court that he had no knowledge of his automobile running into a trolley car Sunday night on the road near the entrance to the tuberculosis sanatorium, the case against him was nolled.

The trolley car crew reported that an automobile with one headlight ran into the trolley and lost a door which they picked up in the road after the collision.

State Policeman Kenerson observed the Lathrop car in the city Tuesday minus a door and following an investigation, entered the charge.

PRIZES TO SCHOOL CHILDREN IN THRIFT WEEK POSTER CONTEST

Prizes have just been awarded in the thrift poster contest by the Chelsea Savings bank, which made an observance of thrift week, these posters having been on display in the lobby of the bank where they will remain on exhibition throughout this week.

Canterbury schools scored heavily in the prize list, taking the three prizes offered by the bank and winning two honorable mentions. The awards were made by Miss Mary G. Henderson, art instructor in the Norwich public schools. The display was declared to be most satisfactory and the work of a very excellent character.

Honorable mention, Mary Anthony, North Society school, Canterbury; Margaret Strong, North Society school, Canterbury; Stanley Polomski, Bend school, Lisbon.

In a special exhibition for those outside of the Chelsea school club, the following were the awards:

DEFINES BELIEF IN LEADERSHIP OF JESUS

Sunday morning at the service of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, the pastor, Rev. A. N. Foster, delivered the second in a series of sermons upon Five Points of Universalism Explained, speaking upon what Universalists believe about the leadership of Jesus. He spoke from the text, John 7:46; the officers answered; never man spake as this man.

In part he spoke as follows: "The teaching of Jesus seems so plain and his closing prayer—that all may be one in his discipleship—is so beautiful, you would expect all his followers to be easily united in one fellowship. It is true that our modern day witnesses an increasing amount of cooperative work among the several denominations. Yet, it is one of the tragedies of history that the lines of division—the barriers of sectarian separation—have been more prominent in historic Christianity than the forces which cooperate and unite.

Examine slightly, the meaning of those sectarian barriers; one is—ecclesiasticism; this separates the Roman Catholic from the Protestant and a recent papal encyclical declares the only basis of union is the recognition of papal authority as supreme. Other barriers are church membership, the forms of church government; the rite of baptism; the theory of creation; the doctrine of Adam's fall and the presence of sin in the world, etc. These are more or less implied in the divisions of Congregationalist, Baptist, Methodist, etc., and all are without question ranked as Christian.

For the moment, our interest is in the liberal rather than the evangelical; the Universalist and Unitarians and Quakers—small groups whose indirect influence is out of all proportion to their numerical strength and who are not admitted to the Federation of the Churches of Christ in North America. The distinctive and vital difference is not in the view of creation or the estimate of the Bible or of church membership; it is in Christology. They reject the deity of Christ. They do not refer to Christ as the "Saviour" because they reject the doctrine of the fall in Adam which necessitated salvation through the atoning sacrifice of the cross.

"The liberal contends further there is no record in history of any such fall from an ideal state; nor is there any such record in the New Testament gospels; Jesus never refers to the garden of Eden or to Adam—very strange if he were the only saviour from the misdeeds of early man that he should not make such connection clear beyond dispute. And further, the liberal contends that the doctrine of vicarious atonement borders closely on the unethical or the immoral; in ethics, we must reap as we sow; we must bear the consequences of our own deeds; to teach that another—a scapegoat—bears our burdens for us and that by technical assent to a formal statement we are freed from the duties of ethical law is a pernicious doctrine and cannot command our approving judgment.

"To say these things frankly is to open oneself to the common charge of 'dishonoring Christ' and 'taking away our Lord' etc. The charge is familiar and those making it are prone to assume that loyalty to Jesus Christ is to be measured by the frequency which his name is repeated in public utterance and prayer or by the extent to which supernatural or special Providence is imputed to him in the control of life.

"What a pity—not to say sacrilege—to attempt to measure the greatness of Jesus by any such mechanical standards. His greatness is moral greatness and in morals and in religion Jesus has led the world for these 1,900 years. The most desirable loyalty is that which recognizes the great principles of his teaching and applies such to experience.

"To speak positively—consider his relation to the Mosaic law; the law said—love your neighbor and hate your enemy; give tithes of your possessions; practice fasting and offer frequent prayers; Jesus said—even love your enemies; give—not a tenth—but your all to serve human need; use not repetitious prayers here nor in Jerusalem but in spirit and in truth seek divine guidance; God is the Father—not alone of Israel but of the hated Samaritan and the Pole and the Japanese and the "Reds" and you must sustain moral relations with them. Jesus comes—not to destroy the law but to fulfill the law—to show the application of the primary truth to changing conditions.

"We shout in acclaim and think it wonderful when Edison or Burbank or Lindbergh show the application anew of one of the great mechanical laws of life; yet more wonderful is it to witness in such application the development of character and the nobility of human life. That implies knowledge of the vast resources of human nature and masterly control to bring such into active expression. That is the real leadership of Jesus."

PICKS TAX INEQUALITY AS NORWICH HANDICAP

C. W. Wallour, director of research in the Babson Statistical Organization, has written Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the Norwich chamber of commerce that the Babson home office at Wellesley Hills, Mass., is now engaged in studying the collection of facts made about Norwich by John T. Alden and is arranging to make its final report on the survey.

For one thing, Mr. Wallour says that their study thus far made on the Norwich data shows up that no one condition is more hurtful to the growth and progress of Norwich than its inadequate and unfair methods of taxation.

The following is Mr. Wallour's letter:

Feb. 6, 1928.

Mr. Walter H. Pilcher,
Sec'y Chamber of Commerce,
Norwich, Connecticut.

Dear Mr. Pilcher:—

The work of studying conditions in Norwich is progressing in a way satisfactory to us, and I trust the results will prove equally satisfactory to your board when presented. We have about finished the collecting of facts in the field and are engaged in arranging and studying them here in the office. We may find some gaps in our story when we begin to put it together, and this may necessitate further investigation, but we will know more about that contingency later.

As you know, we have been much impressed with the unsatisfactory basis of taxation now in force in Norwich. During past years valuations have been placed largely by guesswork on the various kinds of taxable property, without regard to an equitable distribution of the city's expenses. Valuations as made lack uniformity and justice. They are disproportionate. The present grand list of property values is consequently a highly unfair basis of taxation and as a whole on too low a level.

This organization does not make appraisals, nor have we any business connection with any concern that does this sort of work. We can, therefore, without bias or prejudice, say that our study thus far shows up no one condition more hurtful to the growth and progress of Norwich than the highly unfair and inadequate methods of taxation in use there. We consider this subject of such importance to the town and city of Norwich that we urge the chamber to exert its full power to acquaint the citizens with the desirability of having a re-valuation of property in Norwich done immediately and by competent experts.

The citizens of your city should realize that Norwich is standing in a false light by reason of the small amount of property reported for that city. One of the commonest methods used to compare the growth of cities is to show how the per capita assessed value of the city is changing from year to year. A city that makes a practice of understanding the values of its property shows up as a less active and progressive city than one where values are fairly reported.

We are inclined to agree with those who like the sound of a low tax rate as against a high one, even if the final result should be the same. Norwich has the second highest tax rate in Connecticut and its low basis of valuation is probably not known to many outside business men who hear of this rate. They, therefore, conclude that taxes must be very high.

An equitable and uniform basis of valuation would enable your bankers to do business with your citizens on a much better basis. We think it of some value, moreover, for a city to maintain a favorable credit rating. As conditions are now in Norwich, such is not the case. If property were valued on a correct basis and all taxable property included, the city might be able to pay its way without borrowing, and have a high credit rating in case of real need.

The citizens should realize that business men searching for a place to locate hesitate to set up in a city where there is such strong evidence of unbusinesslike government or where an obviously unfair condition is permitted to continue, apparently through the lack of public-spirited citizens. A certain amount of suspicion is directed toward any community which allows bad conditions to exist in one respect, as it naturally brings up the thought that there may be other matters which also need attention. In these days of increasing competition between communities, Norwich can hardly afford to allow anything to exist within its borders which can in any way be construed unfavorably.

Communities to be successful as such, cannot be one-man affairs. A community is exactly what its citizens make it. The citizens of Norwich should face this taxation problem with the will to clean it up so thoroughly that it will be an advertising point and not a skeleton in the closet as it is now.

I shall advise you later regarding the probable date when our final report will be ready.

Very truly yours,
Babson's Statistical Organization,
By C. W. WALLOUR,
Director of Research.

FIND NO INCENDIARISM IN LORD'S POINT FIRE

An investigation by state police having failed to establish incendiarism as responsible for the fire which destroyed the Lord's Point inn, five cottages and two garages at Lord's Point last week with a loss of $60,000, the origin of the fire will be listed as undetermined by the fire insurance underwriters.

Due to the fact that none of the structures was occupied and because all power connections to them had been shut off, it was believed that tramps, hanging out in the Lord's Point inn, where the fire obtained its start were responsible, but Sergt. Henry J. Albright of the Groton barracks has been unable to learn that the fire started from either deliberate act or accident on the part of any person.

PRIZE SPEAKING CONTESTS AT WHEELER SCHOOL

In the library hall at Wheeler school, North Stonington, the first preliminary speaking contest was held before an audience of interested class mates, relatives and friends. A second preliminary will be held on Friday at 2:30 p. m. From the 12 speakers at these two events the judges will choose six pupils to contest on the evening of March 16 for the prizes offered annually by the class of 1924 foundation.

The judges for the three speaking contests are Mrs. John Champlin, Jr., Miss Adele C. Martin and Dr. William A. Hillard, all of Westerly.

A series of three debates is also being prepared by pupils of the school. The first preliminary debate will be held at 2:30 p. m. on March 17 when the question Resolved, That the United States Should Reduce Its Armament, will be discussed. On February

E. V. ATWOOD
Principal

24 a second group of pupils will debate on Resolved, That the Philippine Islands Should Have Their Independence.

From the 12 debaters on these two subjects the judges will choose six pupils to take part in the final debate on the evening of March 29.

Edward V. Atwood, headmaster who came to the Wheeler school from Bacon academy, Colchester, at the beginning of the present school year has outlined a splendid program of activities for the school. In addition to speaking and debating especial attention is being given to music which is under the able direction of C. R. Stabber, a member of the faculty.

RAILROADER GIVES TALK BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

A very interesting talk on the development of transportation during the past two thousand years was given by George A. Poor, of New Haven, at a meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon. Mr. Poor's talk graphically showed the marked improvement in transportation during the past century as compared to the early history. The speaker was introduced by Albert Van Wagenen, in charge of the program for February.

Mr. Poor said:

Following the steam engine came the electric power in 1888 and the first electric railroad in the world was in Connecticut near Ansonia.

Then the internal combustion engine or gas engine was brought out and we are more or less familiar with its development. Today there are approximately 27 million motor driven vehicles in the world and of these 22,550,000 are in the United States. The United States has but one-sixth of the world's population but has 83 percent of the world's motor driven vehicles. Then airplane was another phase of transportation development and is really in the experimental stage, having to contend with the force of gravity in its population. But in all this recent development of the motor transportation we have found nothing to take the place of the railroad in mass transportation. Some engines today are hauling as much as 400,000 tons of freight behind them. The motor truck and bus has a distinct advantage in the short hauls by the railroad is supreme in the long haul. The New Haven road has spent $65,000,000 in developing its yards, engines and round houses with the faith that New England industry needs their services.

Mr. Poor was given a rising vote of appreciation for his talk.

President Clarence A. Spear presided at the business session and Eben Learned was song-leader with Henry J. LaFontaine at the piano. There was the usual spirited singing.

The club voted the usual amount for the Boy Scout budget campaign drive.

Secretary Edward L. Jewett read a telegram of congratulation from the district governor relative to the attendance contest now in progress. Secretary Jewett reported that according to corrected figures in the attendance contest the Norwich club had taken the lead with an attendance of 98.3 percentage topping Willimantic by several points. A report of the year's attendance showed that only two members of the club had not missed a meeting. Secretary Jewett and Myles E. Standish. The meeting closed with the Star Spangled Banner.

CURRENT EVENTS TALK DISCUSSES POLITICS

Mrs. Marion Gaylord Atwell, of New York city, continued on Wednesday evening at the Wauregan hotel ballroom her instructive series of talks upon current events before the Women's City club.

Mentioning at first that this was the 18th birthday of the Boy Scouts, she said that this organization had demonstrated its real influence for good in the lives of the boys of this country, and she went on to speak of the political situation which she said had been accelerated considerably in the past month. Developments in Ohio indicate that Hoover will soon have to announce his candidacy for the presidential nomination. There were three objections, she said, being raised against Hoover and Smith as presidential candidates. Against Smith these three are that he is a Tammany man, that he is a wet and that he is a Catholic, but when the time comes to nominate him, there will be plenty who will be willing to do so and the nomination will probably be seconded by a woman. Against Hoover the objections raised that he is not enough of a republican because he backed Wilson's appeal for unity in the world war time, that he is not enough of an American because of his residences abroad, and that he is not enough of a Protestant because he was married by a Catholic priest. The Ohio situation is soon to bring Hoover into the open as he must announce himself by the 24th in order to get into the primaries in that state and the friends of Senator Willis have announced that they will vote for him to the bitter end in the convention. The chances are that Hoover might get eight or ten of the 51 votes of Ohio. Another angle on national politics is the vote of New York to send an uninstructed delegation, while the slogan, "Coolidge first," has been adopted.

Mrs. Atwell brought to the attention of her audience the highly favorable impression that President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes have made at the Pan-American conference at Havana, Coolidge through his keynote speech on equality and Hughes by his courtesy and tact.

She spoke of the friendly visit made to this country by President Cosgrave, of the Irish Free State and the importance of this year in the line of elections as elections are to be held in Ireland, Nicaragua, Mexico, England and Japan and probably France.

She spoke with satisfaction of the terms of the treaty signed between France and the United States and pointed out the significance of the Burton resolution now before the senate that would prevent the United States making shipments to any belligerent nation in time of war. A movement for a treaty between the nations for the elimination of the submarine made by Representative Frothingham of Massachusetts has been enlisted a sympathetic and enthusiastic attitude in England, but France and Italy do not look upon it with favor.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Milton G. Nelson is returning today (Thursday) to her home in Albany. She will be accompanied by her father, Will L. Stearns, of Huntington Place, who is rapidly regaining his health and will visit for several weeks with his son-in-law and daughter.

The auction club which meets each month was entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Harry E. Higgins, of Sachem Terrace. The prizes were taken by Mrs. Joseph N. Rosenberg and Mrs. Henry H. Vignot.

Frank Edward Johnson, of the United States legation, Havana, was in Norwich for a brief time Wednesday, from Windham Inn, where he is visiting with his mother, Mrs. Edward Whiting Johnson, of Norwich. Mr. Johnson and his mother have reservations on the Havana Special leaving New York Monday next at 3:30 for Key West, which will be reached Wednesday. There they will board the steamer for Havana due at the Cuban capital the following Wednesday at 4 p. m. Mrs. Johnson who has been spending the winter at Windham Inn, will remain in Havana for an indefinite time.

Henry Bill Selden, of the department of fine arts at Connecticut college, son of Mrs. Joseph H. Selden, of Broadway, Norwich, has been honored by election to membership in the American Water Color society, the foremost group of water color painters in America. The distinction followed Mr. Selden's showing of four pictures, two Italian and two American, in the annual exhibition of the society held in the Fine Arts building, New York, recently.

PLAGUED BY BOILS OBTAINS RELIEF WITH RABALM

"In appreciation of the wonderful results I have obtained from the use of Rabalm, and for the encouragement of others who may be afflicted with boils, I want to tell you that Rabalm immediately relieved a condition which threatened a repetition of a long and painful case of such boils, for which I was obliged to undergo a tedious and expensive treatment by skilled physicians. The rapidly forming boils were not only relieved of pain, but were dried up and entirely disappeared in an astonishingly short time. Former experience makes me realize how much Rabalm spared me, and I cannot speak too highly of its soothing and healing powers."
—Wallace Campbell, 21 Wheeler Street, Gloucester, Mass.

If you, too, suffer from boils, you also, like Mr. Campbell, can obtain the great joy of relief by using RABALM, sparing you pain and expense. In two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. Start using Rabalm today. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

DUWELL A. A. TO STAGE AMATEUR BOXING SHOWS AT STATE ARMORY

The Duwell A. A. working under the auspices of the Combat Train, C. N. G., will launch its 1928 athletic campaign on February 24, with the first of a series of amateur boxing shows at the state armory on McKinley avenue. Inactive since the closing of the outdoor season last September, the local athletic organization has been working for the past few months to obtain an arena large enough to stage the same high class boxing that drew thousands to the Duwell field while the outdoor season was at its height. With the announcement last night that the Combat Train was ready to enter the boxing world under the guidance of the Duwell A. A., the officials of the club swung into immediate action preparing for the return of boxing under A. A. U. supervision.

Eastern Conn. Boxing Team.

According to an announcement made by Duwell officials, the first step to be taken will be the formation of an Eastern Connecticut boxing team to wear the Duwell colors. At every show this team will be pitted against some out of town squad, thereby enabling Norwich fandom the opportunity of matching its own boys in action against the best in the amateur ranks. Since last September, the local boys have met some mighty stiff competition, but on each occasion it was away from home. Their followers have had to be content with reading of the bouts.

Two Feature Bouts.

The same program, a ten-bout card, will follow throughout the winter season, only registered A. A. U. athletes being allowed to compete. Entry blanks for the first show which will be presented two weeks from Friday, are being printed and may be obtained by applying to "Sports," Duwell A. A. According to the new A. A. U. ruling, two star bouts may be selected and advertised previous to the show, and it is probable that before the week is much older, negotiations for the main attractions will be under way. At this time, with the state championship eliminations close at hand, the Duwell A. A. hopes to uncover some material worthy of representing eastern Connecticut. It is planned to build and uniform a team that will demand recognition at New Haven on April 12-13, when Connecticut selects its representatives to be sent to Boston for the national tournament, a month later.

ARMY TO MEET NEBRASKA NEXT FALL

WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The University of Nebraska, one of the strongest elevens in the middle west, takes the Navy's place on the 1928 football schedule of the Army. The game will be played in the West Point stadium on November 24.

In scheduling the Cornhuskers, who disputed the Missouri Valley conference leadership with the University of Missouri last fall, the Army wrote the final chapter to the events growing out of the now famous break with the Navy over eligibility standards, at least for 1928. The Midshipmen already have booked Princeton for a game at Philadelphia on the date originally set for the annual service classic.

No word of a possible resumption of relations with the Navy in 1929 was contained in the Army's official announcement, made by Major Philip Fleming, the graduate manager of athletics. Neither was there any comment on reports that the Cadets had been approached with a proposal to play the university of Chicago at Chicago in 1929.

HAHN WINS NINTH STRAIGHT AT NEWARK

TRACK, NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A. middle distance star, romped away with his ninth straight victory of the present season tonight when he captured the 1,000-yard handicap at the eighth annual games of the Newark A. C.

Hahn ran his race about as he pleased, finishing twenty yards in front of Bill Warden, of the New York A. C., who was second. Hahn's time, 2:15 1-5, was remarkably fast, only two and two-fifths seconds behind his own world's record for the distance.

Leo Lermond, crack Boston A. A. distance runner, outclassed the field in the two-mile handicap, winning in 9:37 3-5. Half a lap behind the flying Lermond, came W. Schultze, New York stock exchange, handicapped at 100 yards. A Irving Totten, of Union college, was third.

JOIE RAY REINSTATED BY CENTRAL A. A. U.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Joie Ray, long distance running star, was formally reinstated to membership in the Central Amateur Athletic association tonight.

WIDE-SPREAD OPPOSITION TO OKESON PLAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The proposal to invest Walter R. Okeson of Lehigh university with czar-like powers in the selection of football officials in the east—suggested along with the abolishment of the old central board—today developed widespread and unexpected opposition.

While some college officials adopted a "watchful waiting" policy, others, particularly in the New England states, were frankly critical of the scheme and expressed resentment that the central board should leave them "high and dry" as one coach put it.

The central board announced last Monday it would disband and suggested that the sixty-odd colleges it had served for more than twenty years apply in the future to Okeson for any aid they might need in selecting officials. Okeson, at the same time, was appointed commissioner of officials of the eastern association for the selection of football officials, an organization of twelve of the leading colleges in the east, including Army, Navy, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Pittsburgh, Syracuse, Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, Brown and Penn State.

A survey by the Associated Press among officials of representative colleges indicated many were skeptical of the success of any plan that would give such arbitrary power to one individual. There were indications that in New England at least, several colleges would ignore the central board's recommendation and organize their own system for selecting officials.

CANZONERI IS 6 TO 5 FAVORITE OVER BASS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. —(AP)— The title turmoil in the featherweight division, confined mostly to argument and nominations of rival ruling boxing bodies since Kid Kaplan, the Meriden buzzsaw, laid down the championship, will get down to the business of fisticuffs in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

A year of argument, pro and con, and a series of tournaments, finally has brought Benny Bass, champion in the eyes of the National Boxing association, and Tony Canzoneri, 126 pound pride of the New York state athletic commission, into the roped arena.

The boys are scheduled to fight 15 rounds, the championship route, with the winner accepted generally as the undisputed titleholder.

PROVIDENCE HAS IDEA OF MAJOR LEAGUE FRANCHISE

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Boston Traveler today says that several prominent bankers and sportsmen of Providence, are planning action to make their city one of the biggest sport centers in the country.

The opening wedge will be a baseball park capable of seating 30,000, work on which would be started the moment a big league franchise is available, the paper says. Investigation of the baseball situation in Philadelphia has been carried on and the possibility of obtaining the Quaker city's National league franchise has been broached.

Backers of the project believe that with Sunday baseball in Rhode Island, Providence is a big league prospect and capable of supporting a National or American league organization.

WINDHAM HAS BEST RECORD AMONG SCHOLASTIC FIVES

Windham high with two more victories last week boosted itself into a more commanding position as the leader of the four major high school quintets of eastern Connecticut. Windham now has 8 wins and one loss with Chapman Tech second with 9 wins and 5 defeats. Tech is the high scoring team with the Academy boasting the best defensive record.

The "Tech Twins," Nield and McKelvie, still have the lead among the scorers with 144 and 110 points. Saba of Windham is third and coming strong while Les Pingree of the Academy is fourth and Burnham of Stonington fifth.

Want Game With C. F. C.

Sports Editor:

We have been trying to get the C. F. C. basketball team from your city to give us another game on our floor, preferably as a preliminary game to the Plainfield-Millville game last night.

They, however, seem to think that we are not in their class. They seem to ignore our challenges. We hoped they would consent to a game last night but, for some reason or other, we couldn't get them up here. We will admit they are a good team and give them the honor of trimming us twice but we and the fans here would like very much to have them give us another game. If it would not be saying too much, we hope they are not afraid of breaking their winning streak. May we expect to hear from them in the near future in regards to a game?

Yours in sports,
MANAGER MERCER,
of the Plainfield Buddies.

Jimmy Welsh Signs

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Jimmy Welsh, the young California outfielder received from Boston in the Hornsby deal, sent in his signed contract to the Giants' office today, Secretary J. J. Tierney announced. The contract of Joseph Wittry, a catcher, who made an impressive showing on the Loyola university team in Chicago last year, was also received.

LOU GEHRIG'S ALL-STARS PLAY DANIELSON TOWN TEAM TONIGHT

Danielson	Gehrig's Stars
Schofield, lf	lf, Eggerts
Keach, rf	rf, Gehrig
Tisdell, c	c, Walsh
Poirier, lg	lg, Povey
Godreau, rg	rg, Bowden

Larrupin' Lou Gehrig comes to eastern Connecticut tonight. Not as the fence-busting home run hitter that many know but a forward at the lesser known game of basketball.

Gehrig leads his All-Stars onto the Town hall court at Danielson this evening to battle the Danielson Town Team in his only appearance in these regions this year. Everything was reported Wednesday as being fit and ready for the famous slugging first-baseman of the World Champion New York Yankees and who was last year named as most valuable player in the American league.

LOU GEHRIG

This is Lou's first appearance in this part of the state in any sport. He played two season's with Hartford in the Eastern league before finally settling with the Yankees. Gehrig whaled out 47 homers last season, a mark that was second only to that of the 60 made by his teammate, Babe Ruth.

Danielson Strengthens

In anticipation of a stiff struggle tonight the Danielson team has strengthened with the acquisition of Tisdell, of the Purple Collegians and Millville to replace the injured Bill Armington at center. Tisdell should help the Towners considerably as he is one of the best known pivot men in New England.

The rest of the Town Team will be the same as usual with Billy Schofield, former Conn. Aggie coach as the main offensive threat.

Gehrig appears half of the game by quarantee on this trip and in one of the few remaining tilts on his tour he will be ever anxious to show fans of this section some real fast play. Coming with him tonight is "Dutch" Eggerts, scoring leader in the Metropolita. hoop league in New York last year, playing with the Knights of St. Anthony, Stanley Povey, Hudson club star, Gilligson, Jeff Walsh, Lawson and Bowden.

Preparations have been made by the Danielson management to care for a capacity audience as fans from all over Connecticut, western Rhode Island and parts of Massachusetts have shown exceptional interest in Gehrig's only appearance in their territory.

No Tickets Until Game Time

There has been a steady demand for tickets for the game all week, but none will be sold until the box office is opened tonight. In this manner the management feels that the public can be treated impartially.

A fast preliminary is slated for 7:30 p. m. with the main game about an hour later.

NO BAY STATE MEETING HERE THIS YEAR

Because of the lack of facilities at the fairgrounds there will be no Short Ship meeting of the Bay State Racing circuit in Norwich this summer. It is usually held in June and present indications are that Stafford Springs fair grounds will be the site of this event for eastern Connecticut.

Peltzer Denies Charges

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Dr. Otto Peltzer, German middle distance runner, today denied elbowing and pushing Ray Dodge, Illinois Athletic club star, from the track in their race at the Millrose games in New York last week. Dodge yesterday charged Dr. Peltzer with unethical use of elbows to gain the lead, which was held until the last lap by the American. Peltzer won by six yards.

Okun Loses Newspaper Verdict.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Joe Packo, of Toledo, light heavyweight and Yale Okun, New York, fought a 12-round no-decision bout here tonight. Packo won decisively in the opinion of newspapermen. Okun weighed 176; Packo 172.

Wax Kayoes Fulmer.

Yankees To Play Profs

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 8. —(AP)— The New Haven baseball club of the Eastern league, will play the New York Yankees here on May 16, it was announced today by President George M. Weiss of the "Profs."

'BOUT SPORTS

The rules by which the many thousands will cavort on gridirons next fall are to be easier to understand, to present less confusion and to add greatly to the general well being of the game if things turn out at the football rules committee, which announced these rules Monday, would have them. The lateral pass didn't seem to matter much last fall, anyway, as few teams made a general practice of this style of attack so that the protection offered laterals will not interest greatly. The rejection of the proposal to move the goalposts back to the goalline will disappoint many as this was supposed to be a foregone conclusion this year after the thrilless sensation that the ten-yards-back-posts created last fall.

The C. F. C. basketball team, right here in Norwich, is running up quite a respectable record for itself this year. Starting as a bunch of kids a few years ago, this team has come along rapidly under the coaching of Emery Davis, until now it is just about as good as you can get in the amateur line in the state. These boys now have eleven wins in twelve starts and they are pointing toward a game, about three weeks away, that with Hartford Central Baptists, the team that holds the only decision over them this year.

The Academy is counting strongly on taking two victories this week. It seems like a new team in the last few games that is wearing the Red and White and if they maintain their pace of the Windham and Bulkeley games, then before long they will be surely making up for some of the lost ground of early season. Courtland Whitney is expected back today to start the boys on a stiff program. "Whit" was out of town for the Windham game and Herbert Moberg, physical director at the Academy, ably directed the team against the Thread City crew. The new five-man defense still needs polishing-up and it stands ready to get it before the Tourtellotte and Coast Guard games this week.

MILLVILLE WINS OVER PLAINFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 8—Taking the offensive at the beginning of the second half, the Millville Town Team swarmed over the Plainfield team at the Community House at Plainfield last night, to win a fairly interesting game 28 to 18.

Bernot made a beautiful basket from the center of the floor for the first score for Plainfield. Dissenger shot two fouls and Tisdale playing left guard for Millville started his team off with their first goal. Bernot shot two more field goals, while Benson got another, to take the lead from Millville, although the points of Kasper, Peloquin and Kittredge threatened to tie the score. In the final minute of the first half, Benson pushed one into the basket after Bernot missed, to take the long end of a 15 to 13 score.

Millville Ties Score

Coming into the second half with trim determination, Millville took the ball and started in with the tying basket by a field goal by Tisdale. Peloquin followed closely with another to take the lead, which the Plainfield team was unable to overcome. In fact they couldn't seem to get the ball long enough to shoot a basket. Practically throughout the second half Millville had possession of the ball. Kasper, the diminutive right forward, speeded through the Plainfield team, while the passing and fast playing of Millville as a whole had the Plainfield team on the run. Tisdale got three baskets, Peloquin two, Kittredge one field and one foul and Kasper two foul goals. Dissenger dropped one in for a foul goal and Normandin, playing for Brusso under the only other points for Plainfield in the second half.

Phil. Giants Next

Plainfield didn't seem to be playing up to their standard game missing often and lacking their fast team work, although it is not intended to distract the playing of Millville. The latter fought down a fast team, several of whom are ex-college stars. Next week a return game will be played with the famous Philadelphia Colored Giants, which should pack the house. The summary:

FOUR ACADEMY PLAYERS INELIGIBLE

The Academy's basketball team received another rude jolt Wednesday just when it seemed that things were to look rosy for it. Four members of the squad felt the wrath of Old Man Ineligibility and as a result they will not be allowed to compete for at least a month, that is, until the make-up examinations, March 3. These boys are Les Pingree, center and leading scorer of the quintet, Fat Stevens, reserve guard, Tommy Lynch sub forward and Henschel, sub center.

When and if these boys are successful in the next examinations they will be allowed to finish the season.

Pingree Leading Scorer

The loss of Pingree will be most felt for he has been the main offensive to date. He has scored 86 points to hold a big lead over the rest of his team in scoring while his floor-work, generally has been very good.

Present indications are that Joe Viau will go from a forward to the vacant center post and that Dave Tigar will get the forward berth. Tigar has just returned to the squad after several week's absence and it is thought with a few day's of hard work he will be back in old time form.

The present situation leaves the squad with but six members, the number having been previously limited to ten because of memberships that had to be carried at the Y. Now there are Jarvis and Tigar forwards, Viau center and Kelly, LaCroix and Swatzburg on the squad so that a few will probably be added soon. Sussman, a center and is one most likely to report today for practice to plug one of the gaps made by this unforeseen occurrence.

World's Greatest Value

Looks it-Acts it and You Can Prove It—

Altogether or Part by Part

The New Essex Super-Six is a delight to the eye—in lines, fine exterior appointment and careful finish. Inside, you receive an immediate impression of luxurious quality enhanced by every detail.

The high-backed, form-fitting seats are richly upholstered. Sitting behind the new slender black steering wheel you look out over the shining beauty of cowl, hood, saddle-type lamps, heavy arching fenders, to the winged figure that expresses the spirit and fleetness under your hand. And before you is the handsome grouping of dials and meters upon the new ebony instrument board. Starter and electro-lock are here too.

Bendix four-wheel brakes give positive stopping action and a sense of greater security. All doors are weather-stripped. The body is of silenced construction. And, withal—you have the famous Essex chassis, powered with the Super-Six, high-compression, high-efficiency motor that turns waste heat to power, giving brilliant, sustained performance never before known in this field.

To see, to examine, to ride in the New Essex Super-Six can bring only one conclusion—it is the World's Greatest Value—altogether or part by part.

WESTERLY

TOWN PAYS DEFERENCE TO GOVERNOR POTHIER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 8—In respect to the memory of Governor Aram J. Pothier, whose funeral was held today, Westerly public offices and places of business generally remained closed Wednesday morning. From the hour of 10.30 to 11.30 business in the main was suspended with the exception of banking houses and at the post office. Flags were displayed at half mast on public and private buildings.

Governor William Gregory of Rhode Island was the last governor of the state to die while in public office. Gov. Gregory was a Westerly boy, resided at one time on Pleasant street and later went to Wickford, R. I., to reside.

Principal Charles E. Mason, of the Westerly high school and Joel F. Sherman, science instructor, coach of the high school baseball team, will be the representatives of W. H. S. at the semi-annual meeting of the Rhode Island high school conference in Providence, this (Thursday) evening at the Westminster tea room.

Narragansett commandery, No. 27, K. T., Robert Hazard, commander, held special conclave in their asylum Wednesday. There was exemplification of the temple degree on a class of candidates in anticipation of the annual commandery inspection, Feb. 15th by Em. Sir Harold W. Sprague, Grand Captain of the Guards of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Massachusetts and Rhode Island and member of Bay State Commandery, No. 38, of Brockton, Mass.

The east-bound Federal express, and the New England express and morning accommodation trains on the New Haven road were late in making the Westerly station stop Wednesday morning. Delay was due to a wreck of two box cars on an east-bound freight when two sections of a freight train which had broken apart came together again. The collision occurred near the Groton waiting station. The east-bound American Railway express train of baggage cars was nearly on time in passing the Westerly station.

Town Treasurer Miss Alice N. Leonard, of Newport, who visits with Pawcatuck relatives, is unable to inform the representative council of that city what the city's total indebtedness is at present, according to Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan. The books of the city treasurer's department are in such muddled condition that it is impossible to learn whether the city is clear of debt, according to the mayor's report.

Miss Alice N. Leonard, city treasurer, who is responsible for the bookkeeping system, declared she has been asking for additional clerical help since 1919 and that the staff now employed is not large enuogh to do the work.

It was declared that general accounts of the city have not been posted since 1916; that ledger accounts of the sinking fund are several years in arrears; that control accounts have not been worked out since 1924; and that appropriations and the amounts expended from them have not been posted for several years.

It is impossible to find out where the city stands financially and for all that is known Newport may be deeply in debt. A committee composed of Aldermen Corzens, Mahan and Martin will ask the council for an appropriation to cover the cost of a firm of accountants. Only the books of the treasurer's department were found to be in bad condition.

NOANK

FIRE CO. WANTS SIREN AND ADDITIONAL HOSE

The meeting of Noank Fire company was held Tuesday evening. It was Hoseman Walter Palmer's first time in the chair. As Jack Ellis called the roll twenty five responded. The dance committee reported for the weekly dances. Sam Carson, floor manager, told that the dance crowds are getting larger every week. The basketball committee for which the Noank Nuggets are playing for the fire fighters, reported that it is an even break with the crowd that attend the games. Pinochle team No. 2, Capt. B. Bracci, is right after a match with the Mechanics, or out of town fire company pinochle sharps. Chief Park brought up an improvement badly needed in the village. When a fire breaks out there is only a church bell for an alarm and many of the firemen and people that live about a mile or so away cannot hear the alarm. He thought of a siren, to be placed on top of the firehouse so everybody can hear it. A committee was named to go about Noank to raise the money needed, as the fire fighters have no fire district. The committee chairman is Chief Park. More new hose is needed as only 600 feet is now on the engine. If a fire broke out on Pearl street or the shipyard the hose would not reach very far. The members said, "Let's start a drive for the siren and hose." After the meeting Assistant Steward Robert Lamay had a hamburg roast with onions and grandmother's doughnuts, also good coffee, for his brother firemen. Songs were sung by the Lowfield trio with Edward Mahoney at the piano. A telephone collection was taken up.

Steamer Baird was being put on the big ways at the shipyard for a general overhauling. As the boat got up half way, the chain broke and let it back into the water. The cradle got off the ways, so they had to wait for high water to get the steamer back, so the chain can get fixed up. Later in the week Engineer A. Carson will try it again and many of the old time carpenters think that the steamer is too heavy for the chain, also the cradle, but Engineer Carson's motto is "Try it until it is done."

The Coast Guard boat, a 125 footer was coming from New London bound for the shipyard Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 and the captain made the right turn and landed on the flats near the beacon, fast in the mud. The tide was low. Backing up and ahead for over 20 minutes of work did not move the craft. Boat Mildred, Capt. Frank M. Chesebro, coming in from the fishing ground saw the boat in a bad spot so Captain Chesebro put a line on the stern and with a few pulls got the 125-footer started. Then keeping right on backing it was soon out in deep water then it was 4.15 o'clock and going in to the shipyard, tied up at the dock.

James Molonson, a former Noank heavyweight fighter, now of Hartford is spending a few days in the village calling on friends. He also has seen Bobby Mays work out in New London and helped him get in condition for his next fight with Buzz Saw Kaplan. Cannonball Molonson told a few fellows that Mays' left hand will send the pride of Meriden down, for the count and Molonson will be at the ringside cheering for that dark haired boy from New London to win. Molonson has put away his gloves for good, for his wind is not in good shape on account of a broken nose. He is not to fight in the ring but will help train men.

WARRENVILLE

ROOSTER GOES COASTING AND LIKES THE SPORT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WARRENVILLE, Feb. 7.—The children have enjoyed coasting the past week. "Sonny Boy," a Rhode Island red rooster, owned by Walter Brown, and trained by Harriett Durkee, has had his turn at the sport, too. There is just one thing he doesn't like. If the sled hits bare ground he takes to his wings, and has to be coaxed for the next slide. However, his young mistress knows the choice of his appetite and a full stomach is one way to win his heart and get him in good spirits for a slide.

"Smooth Beautiful Skin strongest fundamental appeal"

says Gregory La Cava, director for PARAMOUNT

"The public takes to its heart only the fortunates who have that first essential for stardom—'studio skin,' that exquisite velvety bloom that keeps its perfection even in searching close-ups.

"Make-up, no matter how clever, cannot fake this flawless beauty.

"The most universal appeal any star has is her exquisite smooth skin." . . Gregory La Cava.

EXQUISITE skin — "studio skin"—means even more to stars than it does to most women—it means their very career!

Nine out of every ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. It cares for their exquisite skin the real French way—keeps it soft, velvety. For Lux Toilet Soap is made by the very method France developed and uses for her finest toilet soaps. In Hollywood, nothing is watched more jealously than loveliness of skin.

The great film companies following their stars' example have put Lux Toilet Soap in all their studio dressing rooms as the "official" soap. White, fragrant, delightful!

You, too, will find that Lux Toilet Soap's caressing lather is wonderful for a woman's greatest charm—her softly smooth skin. Order some today—enjoy the caressing, fragrant lather you loved in French soaps, but until now could only get at 50c or $1.00 a cake! Now it is just 10c wherever soap is sold. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Nine out of ten screen stars use it. Miss Nilsson says—

"IF a star's skin isn't beautifully smooth, her popularity wanes. Lux Toilet Soap has solved my problem—it leaves my skin like velvet."

INDUSTRIAL AND RAILROAD STOCKS QUOTED AT LOWER PRICES YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Renewal of selling pressure in today's stock market disclosed a number of new weak spots, but failed to check speculative operations for the advance which were conducted with considerable violence in a number of specialties. Both the industrial and railroad averages closed lower on the day, the latter touching another new low record for the year. Trading showed a moderate contraction in volume, although the day's sales ran above 2 3-4 million shares.

The day's business news was mixed in character. Reports of further improvement in the steel industry, coupled with predictions of an increase of more than 300,000 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation which will be made public Friday noon, were offset by the passing of the American Sugar Refining quarterly dividend, and the publication of a relatively poor 1927 report by Republic Iron & Steel, showing only 4.22 a share on the common as against $11.05 in the preceding year.

There was no change in the money situation. Banks called only a nominal amount of loans, but the call money rate held steady at 4 1-2 per cent. all day. There was no change in other monetary accommodations. Some uneasiness developed, however, over reports that banks were tightening collateral requirements and marking down the loan value of some of the so-called specialties.

Reactionary tendencies predominated until just before the close when a vigorous buying movement in some of the pool specialties brought about a general recovery from the low levels. Montgomery-Ward was run up nearly 8 points to a new high record at 149 1-4, but lost 2 points of the gain on realising. Sears Roebuck closed nearly 6 points higher at 90 3-8 and Consolidated Gas recorded a similar gain at 136.

Albany Paper, American Republics, By-Products Coke, International Cement, International Paper, Kennecott Copper, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Vick Chemical, Victor Talking Machine and Warren Bros., also were prominent in the late recovery, showing net gains of 2 points or more.

American Sugar Refining broke 11 1-4 points to 56 1-4 on the announcement of the dividend omission, but closed 2 points above that figure. Other sugars showed only nominal change. Greene Cananea Copper, which scored a sensational advance to a new high record at 164 1-2 earlier in the year, sold down to 130 and rallied to 132, off 3 points net. Midland Steel Products preferred also showed a net loss of 3 points at 232, after selling as high as 300 a few weeks ago. Further liquidation of Freeport-Texas, based on unconfirmed rumors of an unfavorable report on the life of the property, carried that issue down 8 1-2 points to 81, but it snapped back to 84 1-2.

A number of rails touched new lows on the current down-swing on liquidation inspired by the poor 1927 earnings statements now being published, but strong rally tendencies developed towards the close. Atchison, Canadian Pacific and a few others showed net gains of a point or so on the day.

Except for a 5 point jump in Spanish pesetas to 17.03 1-2 cents, most of the leading foreign exchanges were slightly easier. Sterling cables were quoted a shade lower at $4.87 7-32.

Commodity markets were mixed. Cotton and grain futures improved slightly, but coffee and sugar quotations were a trifle easier.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
New York

Stocks irregular, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck soar to new peaks.

Bonds mixed, Kayser 5 1-2s at new 1928 high.

Foreign exchanges easy, leading European currencies lower.

Cotton higher, trade buying.

Sugar easier, hedge selling.

Coffee declined; disappointing Brazilian markets.

Chicago

Wheat steady; exporters buying futures.

Corn strong; advancing cash markets.

Cattle active and higher.

Hogs irregular.

January sales of National Tea Co., jumped to $6,119,232 from $4,968,911 in January, 1927.

American Metal Market says there should be no doubt that improvement in the steel trade is being overrated in many quarters. The improvement is seasonal and should be regarded as such when the precedents of the last five years are so plain, particularly out of line is the suggestion that buyers of steel are making forward engagements more than formerly, thereby presaging great improvement in trade generally. This would make steel barometric as it used to be, but no such change has occurred.

The first annual statement of National American company, formed a year ago as a management and holding company of stock of banks and other financial institutions, shows net income of $2,517,775, of which $349,080 was paid in dividends last year. Set aside for dividends payable this year was $1,785,574 and $383,121 was carried to surplus. The company is the second largest stockholder of record in the bank of Manhattan, 3,012 shares being carried on the books at $511 a share against an open market price of $570 a share.

New England Industries

PAPER AND WOOD PULP.

The paper and wood pulp industry ranks fourth in importance among the representatives industries of New England. The yearly products of this industry amount to approximately $260,000,000 and more than $40,000 workers are employed.

A survey of this industry by the United States Department of Commerce in cooperation with the New England Council does not include, under the heading of paper and wood pulp, concerns engaged in changing the form of paper as it comes from the mills. That classification is covered by a report on the paper goods industry.

New England's contribution to the paper and pulp production of the country amounted to 28 per cent. in 1923. Census figures show this to be a decrease of 5 per cent from 1914 figures, for although the total value of New England production had increased 131 per cent during the period from 1914 to 1923, the increase for the entire country was 173 per cent.

The greater portion of the paper and pulp produced in New England comes from the states of Maine and Massachusetts. New Hampshire ranks third and Connecticut fourth. Maine is the only state reporting an increased number of establishments from 1924 to 1925. The number of establishments increased 8 per cent and total value of products increased 151 per cent. Although there was a decrease of 5 per cent of the establishments in Massachusetts, the total value of production increased 116 per cent during this same period.

The group of paper mills with which this survey is concerned employ about half the workers in New England establishments producing paper and wood pulp. The average age of all mills of this group is reported as thirty-nine years, with a few in operation for a century. Only one concern was started within the last nine years. There has been less tendency to change management than other New England industries, and the average period of present management is twenty-three years. There has also been little change in the original use of plants.

The primary reason reported by this group for locating in New England is the abundance of raw material and available water power, although many producers emphasize the importance of the nearness of markets, this referring in many instances to the New York market, where the output is sold through wholesalers and commission agents. Transportation facilities and favorable freight rates are also reported as attractions in this section. Fourteen per dent of the reporting concerns have established branches at strategic points in New England.

The chief raw materials, wood and pulp, are purchased in New England by most of the mills reporting. Sulphur, lime and chemicals are generally bought elsewhere.

Producers for the most part favor the installation of modern equipment whenever production costs may be decreased or the quality of product improved.

More than half the mills reporting do not use forms of wage incentive for their workers, the numbers so paid averaging about 8 per cent of the total.

Seasonal employment variation for the companies reporting in this survey is not as great as in other industries. Production, measured by the number of workers employed, reaches a peak during April and gradually diminishes until late in the fall. Supplementary products have been developed, especially among the mills of Massachusetts and Maine. The tendency toward shorter commitments by buyers has also influenced more uniform operation throughout the year.

Improvements in manufacturing practices have been reported by 80 per cent of the concerns, with prevention of accidents leading, followed by continuous maintenance of plant and equipment and organization and executive control.

Combined total sales rose 5 per cent. from 1921 to 1923 and have risen slightly to 1925. But Maine's total rose 18 per cent in 1922 and since then has remained about the same. Thirty-five per cent of all concerns report increased sales in the last three years, 35 per cent report decreases, and the rest have experienced no appreciable change, experienced no appreciable change, sales methods and new products are reported as having helped to increase sales, while general overproduction, competition from other sections, and labor costs are given as the unfavorable factors.

Seventy-one per cent of the reporting concerns sell a majority of their products outside New England, the average per cent of product sold in this year being 43 per cent. Since 1921, 80 per cent of the mills have increased their New England sales, due in part to greater selling effort, more extensive advertising and canvassing, and increased regional demand. Those concerns reporting decreases over their New England sales mention western competition and high freight rates are the main causes.

The main channels of distribution are through wholesalers and direct to the consumer, (the converter).

The average selling cost for 1925 for thirty-five mills was reported as being 4.4 per cent of the value of product.

Exports for all the mills in this group during the last five years have been between 3 and 4 per cent of total sales, with Massachusetts exports increasing from 1.3 per cent of total sales in 1921 to 2.5 per cent in 1925.

Comments on recent changes in market conditions emphasize more rapid deliveries through motor trucks, a buyers' tendency to finer discrimination as to quality, larger quantities of small orders and express shipments, conservatism of buyers in place of speculation, creation of a consumer demand through introduction of standardized mill-advertised brands of paper, smaller stocks carried by paper merchants and large ones by mills since the war.

BOARDWALK REALTY CO., NEW LONDON, MUST DEFEND $15,000 DAMAGE SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 8.—The Commodore Realty Company, Inc., recently formed in New London and with offices at Boardwalk, Ocean Beach, has already encountered difficulty and financial stress. Today the corporation was made the defendant in a suit for damages of $15,000. A sheriff from Hartford came to New London and levied an attachment on 10 pieces of realty at Ocean Beach, owned by the corporation. The writ, which is returnable before the superior court, Hartford county, the first Tuesday of March, does not specify on what counts the action is instituted. The suit is brought by Frank and Santo Fugatta, of Hartford. The realty corporation has as president, Joseph Seigal, formerly of Hartford. The realty corporation was formed for the purpose of selling real estate at the shore resort, where the incorporators have important holdings, having purchased much of the desirable property there. Real estate belonging to Joseph Seigal, in Hartford, was also attached today, in connection with the damage action.

THE LAW DEALS GENTLY WITH SOLDIER WILSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 8.—Joseph ("Soldier") Wilson, of Bank street, was in the police court today, charged with breach of the peace. He was fined $25 and costs, the latter amounting to $8.23. Wilson did not have money to pay the fine and costs, but he was not taken to jail to work it out, for he was allowed his freedom in order for him to raise the money, upon his promise to do so. Wilson, who years ago was a soldier stationed at Fort Wright at which time he gained local recognition in the prize ring as a preliminary fighter, latterly was employed as a freight brakeman. He went to the residence of Mrs. Ida McMoran, 11 Brewer street, yesterday afternoon. Wilson had been drinking and was in an ugly frame of mind. He quarreled with Mrs. McMoran and when he became enraged, he struck the woman several blows on the face and head. Mrs. McMoran made complaint to the police and Sergeant Patrick Murphy arrested Wilson at his rooming house. Wilson has a court record dating back several years, during which time he has been arrested no less than a score of times, but he has always escaped serving a term in jail. In every instance, Wilson has either been discharged or a fine or jail sentence imposed, always suspended. Wilson has been arrested on charges of breach of the peace, intoxication, theft and driving while under the influence of liquor.

Mrs. John Herrien and infant daughter, of 32 Starr street; Mrs. Mary Moran, 113 Willetts avenue, and Mrs. Allen Donwizstone, Maxson Park, of this city, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

NOW IT'S THE STERNO JAG—NEW WAY OF BOOZING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 8.—A new way of becoming intoxicated, especially by those addicted to drink, was revealed last night in the arrest of George Foley, of Philadelphia, who was found practically helpless beside the highway in Waterford. Foley was observed intoxicated at Keeney's corner, Waterford, and complaint was made to the state police barracks at Groton. Officer Bernard Kennerson went to Waterford and in arresting Foley, it was revealed how the latter obtained his strong drink, Foley had obtained a small quantity of Sterno, a heat-producing preparation, the alcoholic contents of which is nine per cent. In a process of burning the Sterno, the alcohol was removed and this Foley drank until he became and was found intoxicated. This afternoon Foley was released in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, but will be presented in Waterford town court Friday afternoon.

FREIGHT PARTS AT GROTON—ALL TRACKS BLOCKED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 8—The pulling out of a draw-bar on a New York, New Haven & Hartford freight train was responsible for a serious wreck at Groton early this morning, serious since a complete tie-up of traffic resulted, while the damage ceasoined was not great. The wreck occurred when eastbound freight train, NB 4, bound from New Haven to Boston in charge of Conductor F. J. Fleming, of this city, and Engineer Thomas Underwood, of New Haven, was beginning to pick up speed for it had but climbed the grade and rounded the long curve over Winthrop's cove trestle. While the train was proceeding at a rate of but 20 miles an hour, a draw-bar on one of the rear cars which contained a miscellaneous cargo, was pulled from its fastenings. The train was divided in two sections causing the air brakes of the head section to be automatically applied with suddenness. When this resulted the rear section of the train crashed against the first, causing one car to be completely demolished and its contents strewn about the tracks. Two other cars left the rails and these together with the wrecked car blocked traffic in both east and west-bound directions. A wrecking train was summoned from Midway and after the crew had worked an hour and a half one east-bound track was opened to travel. An hour later a west-bound track was cleared and by 6:30 o'clock all four tracks had been freed, the road-bed repaired and the derailed cars placed back on the iron, excepting the demolished car, which was loaded on a flat car and carried to Midway. No one was injured.

The state police, who have been investigating the cause of the fire at Lord's Point, Stonington, two weeks ago when Lord's Point inn, five cottages and two garages were destroyed by fire of unknown origin, have abandoned their task of endeavoring to ascertain whether the fire originated from incendiarism or accident. Sergeant Henry J. Albright, who has been conducting the investigation has been at work on the case for several days, but was unable to determine just how the fire resulted. It is known that the fire started in the inn, which has been unoccupied since last summer and in view of the fact that the electric current had been shut-off the only possible solution of the cause of the fire is that vagrants forced an entrance to the building and either by starting a fire or through carelessness in smoking caused the disastrous blaze which resulted in an estimated loss of $60,000.

Mrs. Cynthia Costes, of Poquonoc Bridge; Bernard Wolf, 381 Ocean avenue and Philip Shafner, 240 Main street., patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The condition of Harold, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold. J. Walker, of Portsmouth, N. H., who was burned yesterday at the residence of Lieut. and Mrs. Bain, 765 Ocean avenue, where Mrs. Walker and her son were visiting, is reported today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital as being improved. The child received second degree burns, principally to the head, face, arms and leg, when an automatic cigar lighter that the child found at play was unconsciously lighted by the boy, with the result that his clothing caught fire.

At the 68th annual meeting of St. John's Literary society, held last night, Julian D. Moran was re-elected president. The meeting was held in the Dutch room of the Hotel Mohican. The other officers elected are: Vice President, John J. Kelly; secretary and treasurer, David Moran; librarian, Patrick L. Shea. Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan, curate at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, addressed the assemblage in an eloquent interesting and instructive manner. James F. Ahearn gave an interesting address pertaining to the meat packing industry. James N. Kelley was heard in vocal numbers.

Repairs have been completed at the New London Ship & Engine company to the Fishers Island Navigation company's steamer, Fishers Island, which was damaged several weeks ago when the craft must have struck a submerged object while entering this port. The hull was badly damaged, so much so that temporary repairs to stop the incoming of water was made mandatory before the boat was hauled out at the slipyard. The Fishers Island is now moored at her pier at Fishers Island, where she will be out of service until summer traffic is started.

There was but one session of the public schools today because of the storm. The pupils continued their studies until 1 o'clock, when they were dismissed for the day.

John Taylor, colored, employed as a porter by Walter S. Garde, Mott avenue, was charged with non-support. The case was disposed of by a nolle being entered as Taylor agreed to give his wife the support to which she was entitled. Taylor was ordered into court Monday, but the following day the case was continued to today. The only other case presented was one in which intoxication was charged and the accused escaped punishment, judgment being suspended.

Marshall Gerard Jansen, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jansen, 81 Main street, died today at their residence, after a brief illness.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie O'Hea, widow of John O'Hea, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. High mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan. As the waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray gave "Abide With Me." The bearers were James C. Sullivan, James R. May, Michael E. White and John A. Lawrence, the last named of New Haven. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

John Fish has sold to Harold H. and Nellie M. Dunbar a house and lot on Cape Ann court.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Edward Brown, United States Coast Guard, and William Jones, 61 Golden street and an employe of the American Fisheries company, Groton.

The scarlet fever cases that have been prevalent throughout the city several weeks is gradually being conquered, is the belief of Health Officer Benjamin N. Pennell. Of the 50 cases that existed at one time there are but 20 at present. Yesterday two cases were released from quarantine.

Herbert R. Derry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Derry, of Huntington street, and Miss Gertrude M. Hefferman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hefferman, 46 Groton street, were married at the parsonage of the Methodist church last night by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding. Nathan Hefferman, brother of the bride was best man and Miss Edith Brown was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Derry are on a wedding trip in New York and upon their return will reside with the bride's parents.

Mrs. F. H. Brumby, wife of Rear Admiral Brumby, United States submarine base and daughter, Miss Isabel Brumby, are passengers on the Grace line Santa Teresa that is making a trip to the west coast. Mrs. Brumby and daughter will return to New London the latter part of April or early in May.

The funeral of Charles T. Slocum was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence in Niantic, the services being conducted by Rev. E. A. Darby. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Mariaita Long Haskin, wife of Joseph R. Haskin, were held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at her residence at Oswegatchie, Waterford. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ officiated. The body was forwarded to Fort Myer, Va. Burial was in Arlington National cemetery.

Russell B. Sturdevant, United States Coast Guard, Fort Berrien, Ill., and Miss Jean R. Gray, of Chicago, were married at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church Monday by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee. The groom is stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy where he is a fireman, first class.

Not a single arrest was made by the police today or tonight, which would indicate that civilians as well as the uniformed men are on their good behavior. It was pay day, also with the submarine base sailors Saturday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre.

A story of two U. S. marines who arrive on leave in a little town in New Mexico to start a war of their own is now showing at the Strand, in Thunderbolts Tracks. Jack Perrin, Pauline Curley, Starlight, the wonder horse and Rex, the movie Collie are seen at their best in this Rayart picture. A ring fight is one of the highlights of the picture and the story ends with a happy romance. Everyone interested in army, navy, or marines will more than enjoy this wonderful production which is a pictorial tribute to the United States marines.

A picture of thrills and drama is The Enchanted Island, a Tiffany production. There are many exciting moments throughout the picture, among them being the terrific fight between two men over the possession of a young and beautiful girl, and the eruption of a volcano with its terrifying spurting of flame and destructive lava. In the cast are such well known players as Charlotte Stevens, Henry B. Walthall, Pierre Gendron, Pat Hartigan and Floyd Shackleford. You will also enjoy Aesops Fables, which completes this interesting program.

Palace Theatre

If you long for romance, choose your background with great care. This is the advice of Pola Negri, the screen's strongest protagonist of romantic love.

"Setting is half the battle," says the gorgeous creature of emotion. "It's a wise girl who pays particular attention to the time and the place, taking advantage of a lovely moon, exquisite scenery or soft lamp light and shadows.

"Men are susceptible and impressionable. All a woman needs is her feminine wit and the right props."

One of the most romantic stories in the star's brilliant career is "The Secret Hour" which will be the feature attraction at the Palace theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday, in which she was directed by Rowland V. Lee. This latest Paramount vehicle is a warming love story in which Pola promises to "love, honor and obey" Kenneth Thomson when she is properly equipped with a fragrant orange grove and the moonlight. Jean Hersholt plays a featured character role of exceptitonal strength.

Slaves of Melody, an unusual combination of Symphonic and Balalaika orchestra presentation offer a most unique and entertaining act. Several artists of ability make up the cast, among them Marguerite Fork, dancer, Rosen Bros., singers, The Gordon Sisters, who play violin and 'cello, Olivette Labell, concert pianist, and Joe Vaccaro, known as the wizard of string instruments. The special scenery is gorgeous and the colorful costumes of Roumania offer a variety and tone that is seldom seen in a vaudeville house.

Four other selected acts make up the bill. Glen Bennion, a tenor of no mean ability; Hall and Allman, in a skit entitled Fun at the Bull Fight; The Santiago Trio, in a sensational revuette and the O'Brien Sisters, two queens of terpsichore.

LIBERTY HILL

Clarence B. Adams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Adams, and brother, Benjamin, of Westchester, were visitors at his home Sunday.

Miss Mabel Payson, of Sag Harbor, Long Island, was a week-end visitor with her brother, E. C. Payson.

Horace Foote, who has been ill the past two weeks, is slowly improving.

Rev. W. F. English, of Hartford, treasurer of the Missionary society, is to occupy the pulpit of Exeter-Liberty Hill church, next Sunday, Feb. 12th.

The Sewing circle met at the home of Mrs. J. Geo. Clark, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. C. E. Goodrich returned home Monday after a several days' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olson, of New London.

The Consecration service and roll call of the Exeter-Liberty Hill C. E. society was held Sunday morning, in place of the regular preaching service.

The mercury stood at zero Monday morning.

Mrs. William Applegate and daughter, Vivian, who have been visiting the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Choquette, the past three months, went to New Jersey Friday to join Mrs. Applegate's hueband, who is employed there.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Borgeson in the death of their son, Robert John Borgeson, jr., Thursday, Feb. 2nd, at the home of his parents at Village Hill. The funeral was Saturday with burial in Willimantic new cemetery.

The Liberty Hill Men's club held its meeting in the church rooms Monday evening. Arthur Nye, whose name was proposed at the last meeting, was voted a member. Joe Dezaduk's name was proposed. Papers were read by Fred Green, Lester P. Clarke and Milo S. Davoll. Richard Dimon was voted in as treasurer in place of Robert Harris, resigned. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hoxie entertained the former's father from Lebanon Center, and his sister, Mrs Fred Manning, and two sons, Edward and Harold, also rMs. Manning's nephew, Lucius Whittaker, of Norwich one evening during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Goodrich and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Legiar, at a birthday party last week Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kinnaird entertained on Saturday, Walter Cleland, h' daughter, Ruth, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Windsor, of Plainfield.

Jokes are like nuts—the drier they are the better they crack.

In a few days the Rash was gone

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For nearly three months I had a breaking out all over my legs and an itching on my body. I was in pain all the time. None of the ointments I used brought me relief until I was advised to use Resinol. Within a few days the sores were healed and the itching stopped." Resinol brings quick relief. You try it. At all druggists.

PUBLIC NOTICE

WHEREAS the Groton and Stonington Street Railway Company did, on the first day of July, 1911, convey by virtue of a certain mortgage deed to Costello Cuppiti, Treasurer of the State of Connecticut, Trustee, and his successors in such trust, all real estate, land, tenements, hereditaments, and all rights, titles, and interests therein, and all buildings thereon of which it stands seized at the date hereof, or which it may thereafter acquire, and particularly the real and personal estate, and all right, title and interest therein owned by it connected with the Mystic Extension in the Town of Stonington, in the State of Connecticut; and in addition to its real estate, all its road bed, tracks, bridges, railway plant, machinery, electric motors, and other electrical appliances, rolling stock, cars, poles, lines, wires and other property, real, personal, and mixed, of whatever description, which it now owns or hereafter may acquire, connected with the Mystic Extension wherever situate, together with all the rents issues, income and profits growing out of or appertaining to said property, and, also, all and singular the franchises, rights, and privileges that the Company may now have or hereafter acquire," as in said mortgage, recorded in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Connecticut, more particularly appears; and

Whereas Ernest E. Rogers, Treasurer of the State of Connecticut, has since resigned said trust and the undersigned, Arthur M. Brown, was on May 23, 1926 appointed trustee under said mortgage by an order of the Superior Court in and for the County of New London; and

WHEREAS Section 2 of Article 6 of said mortgage provides that in case of a default of the payment of any interest on it for a period of ninety days, said trustee may, in his discretion, with or without entry, sell and dispose of the said premises and all the property covered by the terms of said indenture, at public auction in the City of Hartford, at such times as the trustee may determine as in said mortgage more particularly appears, and

WHEREAS the payment of said interest has now been defaulted for more than said ninety days;

NOW THEREFORE, I, the said Arthur M. Brown, trustee, hereby give notice that I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the office of the State Treasurer, Room 1, Capitol Building, Hartford, Connecticut, on the 14th day of February, 1928, at twelve o'clock, noon all of the property and franchises now covered by the lien of said mortgage except cash in my hands as trustee.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 14th day of January, 1928.
ARTHUR M. BROWN,
Trustee

Power Rate Revision
SCHEDULE "E" POWER

Available only to customer having demands for 50 Kva. or more.

Rate:
(1) A Demand Charge
For the first 50 Kva. per Kva. $2.50
For all additional per Kva. $1.50
plus (2) An Energy Charge
For the first 20 Kw. hrs. per Kva. of demand per month, per kw. hr. .03
For all additional energy, per kw. hr. .01

Discount:
Energy supplied to a customer at primary voltage will be metered at such voltage and the customer allowed 5 per cent. in the billing to cover transformer losses. In such cases transformers will be furnished by the department.

Determination of Demand:
The demand charge for any month shall be based upon the maximum 15 minute integrated demand, exclusive of demands due to short circuits, lightning etc.

Minimum Bill:
The minimum total charge for any month shall be an amount equal to the demand charge at the above rates based upon the average of the three highest monthly demands occurring during the 12 months ending with the month under consideration.

Special Rule:
Where the total use of energy for lighting purposes is less than 25 per cent of the total consumption, such lighting energy may be included under this schedule. The customer shall furnish and maintain all transformers to supply such energy whenever the customer uses secondary metering.

Character of Service:
The department will furnish the customer, on application, with the character of service it will supply.

Published in accordance with General Statutes Act of 1899.

MONTVILLE

The dance held under the auspices of Thames Lodge, No. 22, I. O. O. F., at the Community house in Uncasville last Friday evening proved a successful affair. There were about 100 couples in attendance and both round and square dances on the program. Charles Bennett prompted for the square dances. The orchestra of eight pieces furnished music for the dancing from 8 to 12 o'clock. The lodge held its regular meeting Tuesday evening at which time the initiatory degree was exemplified on a class of two candidates.

After a protracted illness, the death of Mrs. Minnie Reiter occurred at her home in Uncasville Saturday. Mrs. Reiter was 60 years of age and a victim of heart trouble. She is survived by two sons and three daughters. The body was sent to Arlington, N. J., where funeral services and burial were held.

R. S. Austin and son, Ralph of Waterford visited his father, Frank Austin of Palmertown on Sunday.

Members of Pequot Council, Knights of Columbus have been busy for several weeks rehearsing for a minstrel show which they will give in the assembly hall of the Uncasville school house. The rehearsals have been held in the school building, also.

The recent snowfall disappeared during the mild Saturday and Sunday but Sunday evening and Monday proved to be as cold as any time during this winter, the thermometers in some instances registering as low as six below zero.

Charles F. Chapel has the cellar wall of his future home which is to be erected on the back road in Pequot well along, owing to the mild weather.

Earl Smith of Massapeag was a business caller in Palmertown Monday.

Excavation of the cellar of the Uncasville M. E. church will soon commence as the space for same was staked out during the past week on the lot adjoining the Uncasville schoolhouse.

Fred Langton visited in New London recently.

POETRY

Thomas Hardy

Sad irony still rules his fate,
Still rules his fate,
This pinch of wessex marl must rest
Far from the folk that he loved best,
Imprisoned with the great.

But his disevered heart will lie,
His heart will lie,
Beneath the daisies and the dew
And the red fruit of Melstock yew,
Under the open sky.

And his free spirit rests not here,
It rests not here,
Stone flags and marble tombs beneath;
It homes along to Egdon Heath
The Hintocks and Kingsbere.

'Twixt Portland Hill and Blackmoor vale
Wide Blackmoor vale,
Where the heath ripples ridge on ridge,
From Melchester to Casterbridge,
Under a western gale.

On Norcombe Hill and Toller-Down
Lone Toller-Down,
Where ghostly sheep-bells faintly ring
Along thin grasses whispering
To the dead leaves and brown.

The Dog-Star and the Pleiades,
The Pleiades,
And Vega and Aldebaran
Mock the aspiring soul of man
Above the naked trees

But presently there comes the spring,
There comes the spring,
With blackthorn and wild cherry white,
With primrose and with aconite,
Dead winter to outfling.

There you shall find his spirit still,
His spirit still,
Aloof, alone and yet not far
From others who are not, yet are
The creatures of his skill.

From the red glow of malthouse fire
Of malthouse fire,
Where rustics talk in Shakespeare's tongue,
As when Old England still was young,
Of ale and heart's desire.
—Ian Colvin in the London Morning Post.

Out Where the West Begins

Out where the handclasp's a little stronger,
That's where the West begins!
Out where the smile dwells a little longer,
That's where the West begins!
Out where the sun is a little brighter
Where the snows that fall are a trifle whiter,
Where the bonds of home are a wee bit tighter,
That's where the West begins!

Out where the skies are a trifle bluer,
Out where friendship's a little truer,
That's where the West begins!
Out where the air is a fresher breeze is blowing,
Where there's laughter in every streamlet flowing,
Where there's more of reaping and less of sowing,
That's where the West begins!

Out where the world is in the making,
Where fewer hearts in despair are aching,
That's where the West begins!
Where there's more of singing and less of sighing,
Where there's more of giving and less of vying,
And a man makes friends without half trying—
That's where the West begins!
—Arthur Chapman.

"I am. When I was young I longed for things to happen—now I hope that they won't."—London Evening News.

"I reckon the road betwixt here and Torpidity is in pretty bad shape," said Constable Slackputter of Petunia. "It hasn't rained for two months till yesterday and so the road gang took and tore it all up day before yesterday."

"Dear me!" ejaculated the motorist. "How did they know it was going to rain?"—Kansas City Star.

Dickie is five years old and goes to kindergarten, but he realizes that education, for him, has just begun. The other day an intelligence test was given him by some of the older boys.

"Spell pig," said one of the boys.

"P-i-g," Dickie responded.

"Spell telephone," the boy suggested.

"Well," declared Dickie, after a moment's hesitation, "we might just as well talk about something else."—Stray Stories.

WELDING
The Modern Metal Surgeon
A welded part is as strong or stronger than a new one and the cost for welding is always nominal. There is no delay. Welding requires no enforced idleness while broken or worn parts are being replaced from a long distance. Everything of metal can be repaired. Small parts are re-made while you wait. Large and heavy equipment can usually be welded in place often without dismantling the machinery.

PATRONIZE THESE WELL KNOWN CONCERNS

ROTHMAN-MOPSIK ARE EXPERT LADIES' TAILORS

With spring rapidly approaching is it not well to call attention to the style which is to prevail. Rothman and Mopsik, expert ladies' tailors and furriers, of 117 Main street, are prepared today to begin work on spring costumes for women. They state that suits for women are to prevail in the spring and that it would be wise for women who are particular in their dress to make plans immediately for that new suit.

Tailor made clothes are perfected for the person for whom they are designed. A tailor made suit fits that person for whom it is made. This of course cannot be the case with ready to wear garments. These latter garments are made to a pattern to fit a certain type of person. Everyone understands, of course, that it is rare when the measurements of two people are exactly the same. A droop of one shoulder, a slight difference here and there. All this goes to make the ready to wear garment anything but a perfect fit.

Rothman and Mopsik measure every patron. Each line of the garment is figured in advance and cuts are made for that particular person. As the suit progresses more measurements are taken and when the garment is finished it is for that one patron and for no one else.

For the lady who would be well dressed this feature cannot be ignored. Ill fitting suits do not bring out the beauty of the figure. Tailor made suits do bring out the beauty of the figure and that is why they are in demand by women who are well dressed.

Besides the tailoring of suits and garments Rothman and Mopsik also are expert furriers. They suggest that you bring in your furs and let them look them over and make necessary repairs. Slight rips or worn places now, may soon become too large to repair and thus a valuable fur piece is destroyed. A slight alteration or repair now may be the means of saving many dollars.

Bring in your furs before it is too late to save them. Have them treated with that which gives them added years of wear. Call Norwich 2107 and Rothman and Mopsik will be only too glad to quote you on prices for garments of all kinds and also tell you about methods and prices for saving your valuable fur pieces.

Where Quality and Service are the Watchword

CALL GEDULDIG AND SEND HER FLOWERS AS A VALENTINE

At this season of the year when St. Valentine's day is rapidly approaching wouldn't it be a happy idea to send a lovely bouquet of flowers to your wife, mother, or sweetheart?

Nothing in this world expresses love and friendship as well as a gift of flowers. Their fragrance, their beauty and tenderness, express in flower language, far better than it lies in the power of humans, the thought which is back of the gift.

Geduldig's Greenhouses, phone 868, can serve Norwich people in this particular way on Valentine day. Here will be found hundreds of varieties of flowers, which, when placed in bouquets, make up the ideal Valentine.

Perhaps you have some dear one, or dear friend, who is ill at this time. Without a doubt the most cheerful Valentine you could send would be flowers. No written lines can convey the cheer to that person that can be carried by your flower messenger.

Perhaps you are away from home and a mother, wife or sweetheart awaits your return. Let us send them a Valentine for you, regardless of where that may be. A call to us and the matter is attended to immediately. If your loved ones are away from Norwich and you wish them to receive a Valentine of flowers, call 868 and tell us what kind of a Valentine you wish to send and where you wish it to go. We will attend to everything else and your Valentine can be delivered on the proper day and in the proper way.

St. Valentine's Day comes but once a year and it is now nearly upon us. Do not wait until the last moment. Call Geduldig today and leave your order and the flower messenger of love will greet your loved ones on Valentine day.

TAKE BROKEN UTENSILS TO THE NORWICH WELDING CO.

Oxcarts, cradles and flails were the main farm implements half a century ago. Today the tractor, mowing machine, binder, threshing machine and conveyor have replaced them. Stool, iron and other metals have taken the place of wood.

In operating these machines, stones, stumps, furrows and hard usage often breaks a part of the machinery. Farmers therefore are compelled to spend many dollars each year replacing broken parts with new parts, often losing valuable time while waiting for the new parts to arrive from the factory.

Why spend money and lose time when you can save it? At 95 No. Main street, Norwich, is located the Norwich Welding company. This company makes a specialty of oxy-acetylene welding and this for you means savings in the bank.

All kinds of iron, steel, aluminum, brass and other metals can be repaired as good as new by the oxy-acetylene welding process. There is now delay while waiting for a part to come. The cost of welding is less than the cost of the new part. Large and heavy machinery often can be welded without dismantling the machine.

Large implements are not all that can be handled in this manner. Metal household utensils, often thrown away as useless, can be repaired by welding. Every thing from a skillet to a cream separator can be welded and made as good as new.

Broken and worn metal implements are no longer rusting on the scrap heap; they are back on duty again, repaired by welding.

How much have you paid out for new implements during the past year? Have you ever stopped to think of how much money you could have saved by visiting the Norwich Welding company and having them weld the broken utensils and make them as good as new?

No matter what you break, we assert that you are losing money if you purchase a new utensil before coming to us and seeing whether or not we can save the article by welding.

PURCHASE YOUR PASTRY FROM THE PROVIDFNCE BAKERY

The Providence Bakery of 82 Franklin street has long enjoyed the reputation of being a fine place to purchase your pastry. Bakers here have prided themselves on turning out only the highest grade of pastry of all descriptions. Perhaps many of you have never tried the Providence Bakery for pastry — so—if you haven't done so we now invite you to come in and let us convince you of our fine cooking and baking.

Everybody likes tempting rolls and bread. There is something about good rolls and good bread, that makes a meal more than ever enjoyable. In our salesroom you will find many types of rolls and several kinds of bread, any one of which is certain to suit your taste for the best. Our products are high in quality but not high in price and once you have visited our salesroom and have purchased some of our finely baked breads, we feel sure that you will become another of the many Providence Bakery patrons.

Bread and rolls are made fresh every day and the reason we have to make them that way is because not one will ever stay to witness the break of a second day.

Besides good rolls and bread we also specialize in quality cookies and cup cakes, cakes that taste like those mother used to make, doughnuts, eclairs, and everything else to be found in a modern bakery.

We also specialize in exceptional cakes for parties, and weddings. Ask your neighbor about our cakes and she will tell you that they are good cakes.

We also make a specialty of patty shells in all sizes. These of course are made to order.

The next time you plan a party, or plan to entertain friends, why not let us take co of your baking. We guarantee to please and make your friends like you better than ever for serving them Providence Bakery cake and pastry.

GREENEVILLE

OBITUARY.

John H. Howarth.

The life of John H. Howarth came to a peaceful end at his home, 532 Boswell avenue, Wednesday morning, following an illness of about five weeks. Although ill for some time, his condition did not become serious until Sunday. Mr. Howarth was the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Whitehead Howarth and was born in Lowell, Mass., on April 1, 1866. In 1898 he was united in marriage with Elizabeth Lawler at Lowell and a few years later came to Norwich, where the family has since resided. Mrs. Howarth died in this city in 1906. Surviving him are three daughters, Marion, Betty and Mary Howarth, of this city, a son, Thomas Howarth, of Southbridge, a sister, Mrs. Jerome Searle, of Somerville, Mass., and three brothers, Emanuel Howarth, of Pawtucket, and Albert and Arthur Howarth, of Somerville, Mass. Mr. Howarth was a machine printer by trade and was in the employ of the U. S. Finishing company for nearly 20 years before entering the employment of the Southbridge Finishing company about two years ago. He was a member of the Machine Printers' Beneficial association. Mr. Howarth will be greatly missed by his friends in the community where he was well and favorably known and always ready to serve and aid anyone in trouble. He was a kind and loving father and his place in the family will be deeply missed by the children.

Miss Josephine Pusateri, of Central avenue, is entering the W. W. Backus hospital this week as a student nurse.

Harold Hess, of Staten Island, N. Y., and Miss Josephine Hess, of Forestville, Conn., are spending a few days at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Joseph Campion, of Golden street.

John Nolan has returned to Danielson, after spending a week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nolan, of Fifth street.

A birthday party was held in honor of Mrs. Clover Chaboneau at her home, 490 Boswell avenue, Wednesday afternoon, with 14 guests present. Piano, radio and victrola selections were heard. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Mertin Parkhurst, which consisted of vegetable salad, fruit, candy, assorted cake, fancy cookies, ice cream and coffee. The feature of the party was the telling of fortunes. Mrs. Albert Atchison rendered several piano solos, while Mertin Parkhurst entertained by playing two saxophone numbers. The table was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a large birthday cake placed in the center of the table. Among those present were Mrs. Frank Daneault, Mrs. Mertin Parkhurst, Mrs. Anthony Bonin, Mrs. Michael Chaboneau, Miss Doris Parkhurst, Miss Ruth Parkhurst, Mrs. Lillian Class, of Boston, Mass., Miss Irene Chaboneau, Mertin Parkhurst, Clovis and William Chaboneau and Clover Chaboneau. Mrs. Chaboneau received many beautiful and useful gifts, namely pieces of furniture, linen, silver and cut glass.

Took Prizes In D. Y. W. Y. K. Club

The D. Y. W. Y. K. pinochle club met with Mrs. D. Edward Smith in Yantic, Tuesday evening. Mrs. C. Amburn took the first prize with the score 7,570 and Mrs. E. Hoelck took consolation prize with the score 5,780. After the play, refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Lila Smith. The club meets next week with Mrs. C. Amburn on Dunham street.

AN EASY WAY TO LOSE FAT

Instead of abnormal exercise or diet, they combat a cause of excess fat. They supply an element Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy. This method was discovered by research men some two decades ago. It has for 20 years been embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Millions of boxes have been taken, and almost every circle shows the results in new beauty, new health and vitality.

The formula comes in every box, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Go learn now what Marmola does for excess fat, and why. Your druggist supplies it at $1 per box. Take four tablets daily and watch the change.

MERIT BADGES PRESENTED TO BOY SCOUTS AT COURT OF HONOR

Several Norwich Boy Scouts passed first class scout tests and a number of other scouts were awarded merit badges at a meeting of the Boy Scout court of honor Wednesday evening in the police court room at the court house. Prof. Henry A. Tirrell, president of the court of honor, presided at the meeting. The list of scouts who passed the first class scout tests follow:

Joseph Skoronski, troop 1; W. S. Hazard, troop 1; Cecil Wetherby, troop 1; John Eyeberse, Jr., troop 12; Steward Hynd, troop 12.

Merit badges were awarded the following scouts:

Pathfinding, Cecil Wetherby, troop 1.

Public health, Cecil Wetherby, troop 1.

Firemanship, George Ranger, troop 1; Cecil Wetherby, troop 1; John Eyeberse, Jr., troop 12; Nicholas Tarrant, troop 5; Joseph Skoronski, troop 1; Bernard Swartz, troop 1; William S. Hazard, troop 1; Stewart Hynd, troop 12.

Craftwork in leather, Cecil Wetherby, troop 1.

Handicraft, Joseph Skoronski, troop 1.

An excellent map of the Lowthorpe Meadow section of Norwich Town, drawn to scale by John Eyeberse, Jr., of Raccoon Patrol, troop 12, was on exhibition. About 50 scouts were present at the meeting, which closed with the scout's oath repeated in unison.

Half-way in Campaign Fund

Up to Wednesday about one-half of the $6,500 goal in the Norwich Boy Scout financial campaign had been raised. There were a number of subscriptions, in cash and in pledges, that had not been turned in Wednesday.

DIVORCE TO MRS. BROWN ON HER CROSS COMPLAINT

Mrs. Isabel Yeomans Brown of this city was granted a divorce, change of name and alimony in the lump sum of $4,500 from Arthur Chester Brown, representative to the general assembly from the town of Salem by Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court in New London Wednesday following brief testimony by Mrs. Brown and her brother, John Arthur Yeomans.

The divorce was given to Mrs. Brown who was being sued by her husband, and she received the decree on her cross-complaint. The amount of the alimony had been agreed upon by counsel for both sides, according to a statement to the court by Attorney Edmund W. Perkins, who with Attorney Thomas M. Shields appeared for Mrs. Brown. Attorney Lee Roy Robbins represented Representative Brown who did not contest the case Wednesday and whose attorney made no objection to the defense offering a transcript of the testimony brought out in a motion made by Mrs. Brown to have a decree granted by Judge Allyn L. Brown in favor of her husband set aside.

The entire matter took just 10 minutes of the court's time Wednesday. Representative Brown was present in court. The divorce was granted on the grounds of misconduct on the part of the plaintiff.

This ends the litigation in the case which attracted state wide attention when after Judge Brown had granted a divorce to Representative Brown he was alleged to have received a letter from Miss Florence Thompson who said she had perjured herself on the witness stand in the representative's behalf.

Judge Brown then granted a motion by Mrs. Brown to set aside the decree and he turned the files over to State Attorney Arthur M. Brown. The latter, after a searching investigation, charged Representative Brown with perjury, the state claiming that he was the father of a child born to Miss Thompson.

Presented in the criminal superior court, Representative Brown pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by jury. The trial was a lengthy one and the whole case was gone over. It was brought out in the first divorce case in testimony by Mr. Brown that his wife was guilty of misconduct with a mail-man named Sullivan. This testimony was brought into the criminal case, which ended with the Salem representative being found guilty of perjury. He was given six months in jail and was pardoned after serving about four months.

The couple was married Sept. 7, 1904. Mrs. Brown was also granted permission to resume her maiden name, Isabel Yeomans. There were no children.

JUNIOR HADASSAH HAS ELECTION OF OFFICERS

After the February business meeting of the Norwich Junior chapter of Hadassah which was held this week at the Norwich Hebrew Institute, the social activities for the coming three months were planned. The election of officers for the coming year took place and was as follows: Leah Bloom, unanimously elected president; Sarah Stamm, first vice president, with Frances Grumb as second vice president; treasurer, Clara Soffer; recording secretary, Ida Turetsky, who was reelected, Mollie Seigal, corresponding secretary; Evelyn Movel, ways and means chairman; Riva Rosenberg, cultural chairman; Shirley Tempchin, publicity chairman and Rose Moyel, membership chairman, reelected. There was a large attendance with several new members and the meeting was adjourned with many well wishes extended to the new officers and success to the entire organization in its undertakings.

Will Address Salvation Army

Mrs. George H. Strouse is to be the speaker this (Thursday) evening at the Salvation Army hall. Her subject will be The Grace of God.

BODY IS IDENTIFIED AS JAMES M'LAUGHLIN

The body of the man found in the Thames river early Tuesday evening was identified Wednesday morning as that of James McLaughlin who had been missing for several weeks. McLaughlin was employed as a freight handler by the Thames River line. On January 4th Michael McLaughlin, then employed as a fireman at the W. W. Backus hospital, reported to the police that his brother, James, had been missing for two weeks previous. He advanced the opinion to the police at the time that his brother might have fallen into the river.

It was about 5:40 o'clock Tuesday that the body, covered with mud, came to the surface just after the Thames River Line steamer had pulled away from the local dock on its trip to New York. It was not known at that time who the man was.

Wednesday morning several men visited the parlors of Undertaker C. A. Gager and identified the body.

25 IN WEEKLY LIST OF SUSPENDED DRIVERS

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are twenty-five names on the list. Two cases were appealed. The list follows:

Ansonia, Frank Dukley, Peter Gamble. Bridgeport, Joseph Bolla. Darian, Joseph Plessick. Essex, John N. MacLean. Greenwich, Louie Nastarok. Hamden, Ludwig Jessen. Hartford, Paul L. Benson, Frank Daniels, Chas. W. Thompson, Alden N. Austin. Moosup, Henry H. Dessert. New Canaan, John J. Shaughnessy. Norwalk, W. F. Cropsey. Norwich, Harry Mills. So. Norwalk, Thomas J. Moran. Portland, Carl G. Anderson. Stamford, Chas. Grace, Freddie McMichael, Paul Pawlinski, Wm. Petti. Terryville, John Chuchelow. Chicopee, Mass., Arthur J. Biron. New Rochelle, N. Y., Phillip Ford. Port Chester, N. Y., James Tracey.

HEATER IN BLAZE AT FLORIST'S SHOP

Prompt discovery of a small gasoline heater in flames and a quick response by the fire department prevented what might have been a serious fire at Hawkin's Florist shop on Main street early Wednesday evening. Officer Peter Driscoll notified police headquarters that the heater was blazing up and a telephone call was sent in to the central fire station.

The firemen gained entrance to the store through a rear window, rather than cause any damage by forcing an entrance through the store door. The flaming heater was put out with no resulting damage.

WHIST AND PINOCHLE CONDUCTED BY EAGLES

The Eagles' whist and pinochle Tuesday evening in Eagles hall was largely attended. In whist the prizes were taken as follows: Mrs. H. A. Sherman 51, Mrs. Hastings 50, Mrs. J. La Valle 45, and Burt Webber 40, L. Strom 39, T. Kane 36.

Those taking the prizes in pinochle were the following: Mrs. W. C. Streich 7,840, Mrs. L. Cochrane 7,730, Mrs. C. O. Wright 7,420, and S. Wosikewski 7,660, Max Telnowsky 7,600, John Leirich 7,410.

During the evening it was announced that a public whist and pinochle for the La Flamme fund would be held in Foresters hall.

Suffers Broken Shoulder

A man giving his name as George Visnewski is in the Backus hospital with a broken shoulder and lacerations about the head sustained when he was struck about 7 o'clock Tuesday night near the hospital entrance by an automobile driven by Mrs. Gertrude Sherman of Yantic.

AWARD TO WIDOW ON CLAIM FOR COMPENSATION

In the workmen's compensation claim made against Babcock Printing Press Mfg. Co., of New London by Mrs. Mary G. Sizer of 118 Howard street on account of the death of her husband, Charles H. Sizer, a finding and award is made in her favor by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey.

The compensation commissioner overrules the claim made that the pyemia, or blood poisoning which caused his death on Dec. 29, 1927, in the Lawrence and Memorial hospital at New London, was due to bad teeth and tonsilitis, and finds that it was directly caused by an injury to his thum sustained while at work on Nov. 28, 1927.

The award is made that the insurance company carrying the risk shall pay the $12 bill of Dr. Joseph M. Ganey, the $161 bill of Dr. Alfred Labensky, the hospital bill of $89, pay $200 to Mrs. Sizer towards funeral expenses, and pay her compensation for 312 weeks from Dec. 29, 1927. The accrued payments during the period of total disability from Nov. 30, to Dec. 29, which is 4 2-7 weeks at $14.12, amounting to $60.52 plus accrued payments on account of death from Dec. 29 to Feb. 8, inclusive, covering 6 weeks and amounting to $84.72, the whole being $145.24 are to be made forthwith to Attorney Thomas E. Troland. The remainder for the 312 weeks is to be paid directly to Mrs. Sizer.

MOTORMAN EYE WITNESS TO FATAL ACCIDENT

Harold Talbot of Uncasville, motorman of the trolley car which left New London for this city at 6.45 o'clock Monday night, gave the state police an eye witness account of the accident in which Ernest Johnson was fatally injured in Montville on the Norwich-New London highway by the automobile driven by Attorney Hibberd R. Norman. He said that as his car mounted the brow of the hill just south of Dr. Fox's home, he saw Johnson walking along the road close to the car tracks. The spot was well lighted he said, a brilliant moonlight, the trolley headlight and those of the automobile joining in affording illumination. The trolley car was several minutes late and was traveling at a speed of about 30 miles an hour, making up lost time, Talbot said, when the automobile passed it.

Johnson, according to Talbot, apparently heard the trolley and edged away from the car tracks further into the highway. As he did so the automobile, sweeping up from behind struck him, throwing his body crosswist across the highway almost on to the car tracks. The automobile came to a stop approximately 30 feet beyond the spot where Johnson's body rested, and Attorney Norman hastened back to the side of his victim. The trolley also came to a quick stop and Motorman Talbot and Conductor Harold Bennett of East Great Plain, Norwich, also hurried to Johnson's assistance. Dr. Morton E. Fox, who was at home at the time, was called and later Dr. John J. Donohue appeared on the scene, and Johnson, stretched out on a blanket at the side of the road was given emergency treatment pending the arrival of the ambulance from the Backus hospital at Norwich.

PIANO CLASS PUPILS PLAY FOR EACH OTHER

The pupils of Miss Margarete Suck's piano class met for their regular monthly recital on Wednesday afternoon at the home of their teacher to play for each other. It was most interesting to note the great improvement in the scale and exercise work, as well as the style and expression in the selections played. All pupils showed a fine tone and smooth scale work.

Among the chosen pieces were Sonatinas by Clementi, A Menuet by Beethoven, Studies for Rhythm by Burgmueller, Moskowski's Serenata, Mendelssohn's Barcarole in G Minor and compositions by Friml, Lichner, etc.

The pupils present were Susanne Higgins, Alice Higgins, Beatrice Eggleton, Evelyn Burbeck, L. Ch. Maples, Marietta Vignot, Janet Morton, M. Elizabeth Pullen, Louise L. Pullen, June Roberts, Charlotte Disco. The next recital will be in the form of a test, and will take place in about a month.

PRIMARY COUNCIL HAD MEETING AND DISCUSSION

The primary council held its February meeting at Broadway school Tuesday afternoon. Supper was served at 5.30, Miss Gertrude Browning, hostess. Miss Jennie Congdon presided at the business meeting which followed. Several recent educational writings, both in book and magazine form, were recommended. The main feature of the meeting was the reading and discussion of an article entitled, "What a Teacher Has a Right To Expect From a Supervisor."

At the January meeting of the council the Misses Lucas gave a most interesting illustrated talk on their trip to the "Land of the Midnight Sun."

Married Forty Years

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Spencer of Montville celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at their home Monday night. Old-time dancing and songs were enjoyed and refreshments were served by Miss Marguerite Bergman and Lillian Almeida.

CIZEK EXHIBITION IN CONVERSE ART GALLERY

An exhibition of Cizek posters is opened today (Thursday) in the Converse gallery, comprising a collection of posters, some colored and some in black and white, by the pupils of Prof. Cizek, the famous Viennese teacher.

There are also on view in the table cases a collection of interesting old coins, loaned by Mr. Pallocha. The exhibition will remain until Feb. 28 and will be open to the public without charge on school days from 10.30 to 3.30 and on Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m.

Colored Posters

Spring—the wistfully poetic figure of a child, standing on the top of a wind swept hill, clasping pink and white flowers against her yellow dress. It is said that hardly a school room in England is without its copy of Spring.

Frieze—in two parts—a procession of laughing, dancing children in gaily colored costumes, reminding us of Robert Louis Stevenson's words—

'Bring the fife and play upon it
Marching here we come * * *"

Child with Banner and Girl with Bouquet—two charming small posters, the one a figure of the Christ child in white, pensively interested in a wayward butterfly, and holding a red and yellow banner against a blue background * * * the other, a sweet little maid in a blue and white checkered dress, discussing her vari-colored bouquet with a red winged black-bird, who seems much interested in the affair.

Christ with Children—white figures against a blue background, Christ, comforting a tearful lad, and blessing the group about Him, including in His tender sympathy even the little dachshund at His feet.

Canary—a group of youngsters, bewailing the death of a yellow canary, which, we fear, owes its untimely demise to the sheepish looking dog who is being so severely reprimanded by his mistress.

School Girls of Vienna—a large size poster representing the distribution by the Viennese school children of the supplies sent from America at the close of the Great War * * * not only attractive in itself but interesting as a record of an historical event.

The Christmas Set—composed of six posters showing the differing ideas of Christmas held by six little Austrians; one paints for us a hooded Kris Kringle in an odd patch-work robe; another a family kneeling in prayer; one a group of peasants in procession, going to the midnight mass, under the stars; yet another, a child in green surrounded by toys, "too many toys" the little artist thought; one, two lonely, ill-clad waifs shivering in the snow, and beholding the figure of the Christ Child lighting a bare fir tree with stars for their Christmas; and one, three youngsters, one of them in gay red-topped boots, representing the story of the "Three Wise Men," very young, but we are sure, from their solemnity, very wise men.

Wedding—one of the most fascinating of them all, a Viennese procession led by the furcapped groom and peasant bride wreathed in flowers, and followed by the happy bridal party.

Harvesters and Red Castle—two small-sized posters, excellent examples of the work of the younger children; the one a golden field of corn as a background for the peasant figures; the other, a vigorous presentation of armoured knights, galloping up a hill to a mediaeval castle.

Boy in Meadow—a boy and an urchin playing in a green meadow * * * the dominant note here is the orange of the boy's costume, a vivid bit of color, youth and life.

Girl in Meadow—a weird child clad in red playing with a white wolf-dog; the little artist has caught the "wilderness" which makes animal and mistress kin, and has given us an unstrained, primitive picture of peasant life.

Black and White Posters

The Dragon—an intricate presentation of the days "When Knights Were Bold." It might be the pictured story of Jason in his quest for the Golden Fleece, or perhaps it is the portrayal of an old legend of some Viennese hero. At any rate the spirited rendering of the armoured knights, the horses and the fire-breathing dragon make it particularly suitable for the boy's room.

Madonna—exquisite in detail, reflecting a certain calm and soft radiance so characteristic of the old masters.

Peace—beautifully expressed in a forest scene; two maidens are frolicking gaily with all manner of forest folk, while the lion and the lamb lie down together.

Adam and Eve—a poster full of detail; Eve and the serpent have almost convinced Adam to taste that most tragic of all fruits, the apple * * * the giraffe, the peacock, the lion, and countless other creatures anxiously await the outcome.

God Creating the Flowers and Giving Them to the Angels to Plant—a large, black and white poster, charming pattern * * * Two tiny angels are busily planting the flowers, blossoms and all, which their Creator has given them.

God Playing with the Angels—the companion of the poster; the Creator is surrounded by scores of happy wee folk. The Viennese angel is very much like a chubby three year old American baby, with chubby, and we know, very durable wings.

POSTMASTER NOMINATIONS FOR BALTIC AND STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—The president today sent to the senate the following nominations for Connecticut postmasters: Stonington, Frank D. Stanton; Baltic, Louis F. A. Stetson.

TAFTVILLE

A meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society was held Wednesday evening in the society's rooms on Providence street, with the president, Miss Mary Nolan presiding.

At a recent meeting of the members of Peter Gallan post, American Legion, arrangements were completed for the showing of the war film "The World War" at a local theater. The picture was filmed with the idea of giving the people who see it an exact reproduction of the war as it was really fought, and was made through the courtesy of the United States war office and navy department. Among leading men in public life who have seen and endorsed the picture are Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis and W. S. Benson, rear admiral of the U. S. navy and commissioner of the U. S. shipping board.

The members of the local post felt that they would like to obtain the film for the benefit of themselves and the public, and they have been successful in having the American Legion film service promise them the picture at an early date. Eight years were given to making this war classic which was filmed by George F. Zimmer, connected with the U. S. naval intelligence department during the war and who was commissioned by the government to go personally into all fields of action with his staff of camera men.

On Wednesday the Taftville chapter, American Red Cross opened its rooms in the Ponemah building for the vaccination of children of five years of age and under. Nurses were in attendance, and Dr. George M. Thompson was the physician in charge.

Those who took part in the mock trial entitled "Who Stole the Mince Pie" which was presented last Friday evening at Ponemah hall before the members of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association, have been persuaded to give the performance again for the benefit of the community.

The next meeting of the Thimble club is to be at the home of Mrs. George Heimboldt of Blissville.

Tuesday evening's ice storm caught many of the local motorists unaware. Many had gone to attend theaters in Norwich, and having no chains with them, experienced considerable difficulty in reaching home. Some stretches of the Gallows hill road were unusually slippery and the road leading from the Lisbon bridge to the top of the hill in Blissville proved to be a very dangerous spot, as several cars were reported to have skidded there, some of them coming dangerously near leaving the road. One Chevrolet coupe turned turtle.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Golkowske who were in town to attend the funeral of the latter's sister, Mrs. Walter C. Drew on Tuesday, have returned to their home in New Haven.

The Ladies' Rifle club of the German Shooting club of Blissville held a business and social meeting at the home of Mrs. Adolph Meyer. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the hostess.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Thompson, widow of Frederick Thompson, was held at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the undertaking parlors of George G. Grant. At the requiem high mass in Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock Rev. Omer Mandier officiated. There were many beautiful floral tributes and a large number of mourners were in attendance. The body was placed in the vault at St. Mary's cemetery, where a committal service was read by Rev. Fr. Mandier. The bearers were Clarence Nagle, William O'Connor, Bernard Hasler, Thomas Phalen, John Donovan and Timothy Sullivan.

BOY SCOUTS ATTENDING MEETING OF NORWICH COMMON COUNCIL

MOTHER!

A Child Doesn't Laugh and Play if Constipated

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

HICKMAN IS FOUND GUILTY OF KIDNAPING AND MURDER

Jury Finds Hickman Sane—Under a New Law in California Hickman Was Automatically Made Guilty of Kidnaping and Murder When the Jury Returned Its Verdict, As the Defendant's Plea to Both Charges Was Not Guilty Because of Insanity—Sentence, Which Under the Law Is Either the Death Penalty Or Life Imprisonment, Will be Pronounced Saturday—Attorney for the Defense Entered Notice That An Appeal From the Verdict Would Be Filed Formally on Saturday.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9—(AP)—Eight men and four women, some elderly, some middle-aged, the jury holding the fate of William Edward Hickman, confessed slayer of Marian Parker, today stripped his cloak of asserted insanity from him and branded him a murderer.

Two verdicts were rendered in 45 minutes in the sanity trial, one that Hickman was sane on the murder charge and the other that he was sane on the kidnaping charge.

Judge J. J. Trabucco announced that he would pass sentence on the prisoner Saturday. Jerome Walsh, Hickman's chief attorney, said that he would give notice of appeal from the verdict at the time.

The trial was the first under the new California law on Hickman's plea that he was not guilty on both charges "by reason of insanity."

Hickman, having confessed his crimes, and pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, and been found sane by the jury, the court assumed that the next step was to pass sentence, which will be done Saturday.

The convicted man sat bolt upright looking straight ahead as the jury foreman read his findings. He seemed unperturbed. Maintaining his pose, Hickman, with his guard at his side, walked from the court room with a firm step, back to his cell in the county jail.

Under the law either the death penalty by hanging, or life imprisonment for the convicted man, may be imposed.

The closing scenes of the trial, which started January 25, moved rapidly. Hickman heard the thunderous philippic of District Attorney Asa A. Keyes' denunciation and Judge Trabucco took less than 20 minutes to instruct the jurors.

District Attorney Keyes, a veteran in prosecution, heaped contempt and scorn on the prisoner, pictured him a calculating, cold-blooded killer actuated by greed for money "rotten to the core, but sane."

The prosecuting attorney declared that "it was only owing to the fact that we are civilized that a mob did not take this man from the officers of the law, and if it were not that I was an officer of the law, I should have wanted to be in the front ranks of such a mob to help put a rope around this man's neck.

"This defendant has committed the most atrocious crime on record, so far as I can find out."

In sharp contrast to the sonorous periods of the district attorney, was the quiet, low-voiced plea of Attorney Ritchard Cantillon in his last argument for the defense. He condemned the prisoner's confessed crime but urged the jury to consider him insane in its commission.

Cantillon recalled the evidence that he asserted tended to show the taint of insanity in the Hickman family and asked the jury to believe that the strain was continued in the son.

STORY OF KIDNAPING AND BRUTAL MURDER

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9—(AP)—A few hours after Marian Parker, 12 year old twin daughter of Perry M. Parker, Los Angeles bank official, was lured from a high school here last December 15 by a young man, one of the greatest man hunts in American criminal history was launched.

The chase ended December 23 near Pendleton, Oregon, when Chief of Police Tom Gurdans and Motorcycle Officer Buck Lieuallen, watching for a green sedan which the Los Angeles office of the Associated Press reported had been stolen by the kidnaper and murderer, stopped the car and arrested William Edward Hickman on the Columbia River highway.

But before Hickman had been captured he had, according to his confession later, killed the Parker girl, dismembered her body and sold the torso to Marian's father for $1,500.

When Marian failed to return from school her father notified the police his daughter had disappeared and the man-hunt was on. Parker received two telegrams signed "George Fox" and "The Fox," instructing him not to do anything until further orders and warning him not to notify the police.

The following day December 16, a special delivery letter, signed "The Fox" threatening death to Marian if $1,500 ransom in twenty dollar treasury notes were not paid. A letter from Marian urging her father to comply with the demand was enclosed.

On Saturday, December 17, another ransom letter came, chiding Parker for notifying the police and insisting the police withdraw before anything more was done. Parker complied. At 7:15 o'clock that night Parker received a telephone call setting what proved the final rendezvous in a dimly lighted street. It was there that Parker paid Hickman the $1,500 and received a part of his daughter's body, thrown into a gutter by the murderer.

Posses of citizens and police began the search which soon disclosed the murderer to be Hickman. Rewards totaling more than $50,000 were pledged for the capture of the killer.

The first clue consisted of finger prints on the automobile abandoned by the kidnaper-slayer. The apartment where Hickman lived was searched as a result of finding a towel from the apartment wrapped around one of the girl's amputated limbs. While police searched the apartment Hickman sat up in bed and told them he hoped they found the "fiend."

On December 18 Hickman held up the driver of a green sedan, stole the car and started north. He was identified by a Seattle haberdasher who changed one of the $20 bills during a purchase.

From Seattle Hickman started south again to Portland and then east over the Columbia river highway where he was arrested. He said he was going to Kansas City where his mother lives.

On his way back to Los Angeles Hickman confessed his crime, Jerome Walsh, 25 year old Kansas City lawyer, was retained to defend the youth and instructed him to plead "not guilty by reason of insanity," under a new California law.

Hickman's trial was set for January 25 but began a day later after the trial judge disqualified himself.

Judge J. J. Trabucco was named to preside and after a jury was obtained testimony relating principally to insanity was started. The final witness was the father of the kidnaped and slain girl who identified Hickman as the man to whom he paid $1,500.

1927 WAS RECORD YEAR FOR CIGARETTES IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—All records for cigarette production in the United States were shattered last year when more than 80,000,000,000 were produced, representing an nicrease of approximately 7,000,000,000 over 1926.

The steady increase during the last ten years as reported by the internal revenue bureau is attributed by tobacco manufacturers in part to a spread of cigarette smoking among women.

Cigar production decreased by about 7,000,000. Production last year totalling about 7,000,000,000. Smoking tobacco production slumped 18,000,000 pounds to 372,000,000 pounds.

On the other hand, snuff increased more than 2,000,000 pounds, and playing cards went up nearly 3,000,000 packs to a 44,000,000 pack mark.

Despite prohibition, production of distilled spirits and wines increased 70,941 gallons, a total of 8,231,706 gallons being made last year.

LINDBERGH IS DETERMINED TO LEAVE HAVANA MONDAY

HAVANA, Feb. 9—(AP)—The Spirit of St. Louis, his beloved plane, was the first thought of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, when he had a few moments of leisure today. He proceeded out to Camp Columbia, where the plane is guarded day and night, gave it a close inspection and was satisfied that it will carry him safely and quickly back to his home land.

After the festivities at Camp Columbia, the flying colonel accompanied Ambassador Judah to the American embassy. A reception there was attended by thousands of Americans and residents of Havana. Notwithstanding the various reception and greetings Colonel Lindbergh appeared refreshed today, showing no effects of his recent flights.

Lindbergh will adhere to his schedule to leave here Monday for St. Louis.

FAVORABLE FOR BECK TO RETAIN SEAT IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—The position of James M. Beck as a republican representative from Pennsylvania was upheld today by a house elections committee, which voted six to three to permit him to retain his seat.

The democrats had raised the question whether Mr. Beck, a former solicitor general of the United States, had met the constitutional requirement that a representative at the time of his election be an inhabitant of the state from which he is chosen.

Some time yet must elapse before the uncertainty surrounding Mr. Beck's seat in the house will be entirely cleared away.

WILL OF F. A. PAGE OF EAST HADDAM UPHELD

MIDDLETOWN, Feb. 9—(AP)—A jury in superior court here today, upheld the will of Frederick A. Page, late of East Haddam, the terms of which were contested by Philip S. Page, of Boston. The plaintiff who is not a beneficiary under the terms of the will contended that the testator had been unduly influenced in disposing of his $300,000 estate in trust to several persons who were related to him by marriage.

On the death of the legatees, the will provides that Harvard university, Delta Phi fraternity of Trinity college, and a Massachusetts association for the prevention of cruelty to animals shall share in the amount left in trust.

SELECTING JURY FOR THE TRIAL OF GOV. JACKSON

INDIANPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 9—(AP)—Prosecution and defense took turns today at empty chairs in the jury box as they sought to agree on twelve men to try Ed Jackson, Indiana's governor, on a charge of conspiracy to commit a felony in an attempt to bribe. When the day ended conditions were about as they were at the outset.

Eleven men had been passed twice by the defense, while the state had accepted tentatively only four. Not one appeared certain of holding his place, as each side had left six of its ten peremptory challenges. Special Judge Charles M. McCabe ruled that preemptory challenges might be exercised up to the acceptance of the jury twice in its entirety by each side.

SLAYS DAUGHTER HE COULDN'T DEBASE AND THEN KILLS HIMSELF

WATERBURY, Feb. 9—(AP)—Gabriel Lushinsky, 40, of 5 Berkeley avenue, early this afternoon stabbed to death his 17-year-old daughter, Nellie and then cut his throat, dying soon after.

The reason for the brutal murder, according to police, involves the fact that the daughter refused to live with her father as man and wife.

Ten months ago the girl, with funds provided by her father, took a ship from her native land, Russia, and landed in Canada. Two months ago her father is said by police to have smuggled the girl over the border into the United States after failing to secure her entrance through proper channels.

Tuesday the father, police say, first attempted to persuade his daughter to live with him. A quarrel ensued when the girl refused and yesterday the girl came to stay at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Vera Belevitz, at 34 Ward street, the scene of the crime.

This morning Mr. Lushinsky visited the home in an effort to induce his daughter to return to his house. The daughter repeatedly insisted that she would never live alone with him.

For three hours the father endeavored to change the mind of his daughter. Angered at her continued refusals he struck her several times finally picking up a bread knife with a seven inch blade and leaping at his daughter, disregarding Mrs. Belevitz and Mrs. Anna Davis, of 16 Oak street, a visitor, who were in the house.

The first stroke of the knife cut a deep gash on the left shoulder of the girl, who ran screaming from the kitchen into a side bedroom. The father sprang after the girl, passing on his way Mrs. Davis who started for the street and Mrs. Belevitz who locked herself in the bathroom of the apartment. From there she climbed out on the roof of the house screaming hysterically. Neighbors sent several frantic calls to police headquarters.

The girl broke away from her father who had inflicted several other gashes on her left arm and ran back into the kitchen where he forced her into a corner and killed her.

When the girl dropped to the floor the father turned the knife upon himself slashing his neck from ear to ear so deeply that his head was almost severed from his body.

COLD KEEPS MRS. COOLIDGE FROM DINNER PARTY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—Mrs. Coolidge was stricken with a slight cold tonight and was unable to attend the dinner of President Coolidge for Speaker and Mrs. Longworth.

Her illness was described at the white house as not serious, but the cold was thought by her physician to be such that she had better remain in her room.

Returning to the scene of their marriage twenty-two years ago almost to the day, Speaker and Mrs. Longworth were honored at the dinner.

The guests included party leaders in the senate and house. They were joined later by others as a musicale in the historic East Room where—on February 17, 1906—President Roosevelt's daughter and the Ohio representative were married.

Among the dinner guests were Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts; Representative and Mrs. Tilson, of Connecticut.

PREPARING FOR TRANS-CONTINENTAL FLIGHT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—Joseph Lebrix and Dieudonne Costes, French trans-Atlantic fliers today turned aside from a round of official and social activities long enough to complete plans for a trans-continental flight from New York to San Francisco to discuss the possibilities of commercial air routes from Europe to South America.

Plunged into the midst of an official welcome upon their arrival here yesterday from Montgomery, Ala., the two Frenchmen gave today almost wholly to a round of entertainment in their honor, spending only a short time inspecting their plane, the Nungesser-Coli. They found it in excellent condition for their flight to New York Saturday morning.

BROADCAST DESCRIPTION OF MISSING DEPUTIES

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 9—(AP)—An appeal to broadcasting stations to send out a description of two missing deputy sheriffs, Wallace McClure and John P. Grove, was made today by Tippecanoe county authorities. The two men left this city early Tuesday in charge of two prisoners for the Indiana reformatory at Pendleton, 60 miles away. Their whereabouts up to tonight baffled residents and state and city police.

Samuel Baxter, 19, and John Burns, 20, the prisoners, were sentenced to terms of five to twenty one years at the state reformatory for robbery. It was believed the officers have met with foul play at the hands of the prisoners or accomplices.

30 MEXICAN REBELS WERE CAPTURED AND EXECUTED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9—(AP)—The capture and execution of thirty rebels near Salamanca is reported in press dispatches. The capture was made by federal troops in pursuit of the band of 200 which had attacked Salamanca early Sunday morning.

The rebels were driven off with a loss of 22 killed and the strengthened federal forces took up the pursuit of the scattered bands through the mountains. Daniel Perez, a Catholic priest charged with provoking the uprising, who was captured after the attack, was shot and killed while attempting to rejoin the rebels.

Smith To Test the Powers of the Senate

Denied His Seat, He Has Resigned and Will Enter Special Primary April 10.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, whose seat was declared vacant by the United States senate, late today handed his resignation to Governor Len Small. The governor immediately appointed him to fill the unexpired term and issued a proclamation for a special senatorial primary and election.

The governor's proclamation said the special senatorial primary would be held on April 10, the date for the regular April primary, and that the special senatorial election would be held in connection with the regular election.

Smith issued a 1,400 word statement in connection with his resignation, declaring he would enter the special primary to test the will of the people of Illinois against the action of the U. S. senate which debarred him.

Mr. Smith condemned the senate for not seating him and said he "does not intend that Illinois be robbed of its just representative." He said he had no intensions of abandoning the "cause of the state," and would enter the special primary for renomination and re-election to give Illinois an opportunity to express its desires on "whether the senate has the veto power to reject senators."

"If the people of Illinois desire to admit that they must elect their senators subject to the veto power of the senate," Mr. Smith said, "they ought to have an opportunity to express their desires. My candidacy will give them that opportunity which they could get in no other way at this time."

HOW SMITH'S ACTION IS VIEWED IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. —(AP) — Should Frank L. Smith present his credentials to the senate as senator-designate from Illinois, those who had a large part in the fight to seat him on the two former occasions he has knocked at the senate door, predicted tonight that he again would be refused admittance.

While stating that they had not been advised of Smith's plans, some of his friends here said they did not believe he would seek a seat as Senator-designate and that he resigned so that he might again present his case to the people of his state in the April primaries and the November election.

If Smith were renominated and reelected, the contest then would resolve itself into one between the senate and the voters of Illinois. In most of such contests the voters have won in the long run.

The most recent of such contests was that involving Victor L. Berger, socialist representative from Wisconsin, who twice was denied a seat by the house after the world war only to be accepted finally after the voters of his district and the city of Milwaukee had reelected him by a large majority.

ARMY BILL AMENDMENT REJECTED BY THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—An unsuccessful move was made in the house today by democrats assisted by a handful of republicans against sending troops to any foreign country without specific authority from congress.

The proposal sponsored by Representative Collins, democrat, Mississippi, was offered as a rider to the annual war department supply bill. It was rejected on a standing vote 103 to 71.

This action came after the house, 140 to 40, had adopted an amendment to increase from $50,000,000 to $55,000,000 the lump sum appropriation for river and harbor improvements, the increase to be applied mainly to development of the Missouri river. Representative Barbour, republican, California, in charge of the bill, served notice, however, that he would demand a roll call vote tomorrow on this amendment.

The army transportation amendment served as a vehicle for a brief discussion of the administration's foreign policy, especially in regard to Nicaragua. This was attacked by democrats and defended by republicans.

The vote found 100 republicans and three democrats, Carew and Boylan of New York and O'Connor of Louisiana, voting against the proposal, which was supported by 63 democrats, seven republicans and the one socialist member. The seven republicans were Nelson, Beck, Schafer, Browne, Schneider and Peavy, of Wisconsin and La Guardia of New York.

AMERICA IS BREAKING BRITISH RUBBER MONOPOLY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 9—(AP)—America's effort to produce its own rubber supply "has gone far to break the British grip" and the appointment of a British committee "to continue, tighten, modify or do away with restriction of rubber production was a great moral victory for America," Harvey S. Friestone, tire manufacturer said here today.

Mr. Firestone was here enroute to Fort Myers, Fla., where Thomas A. Edison is experimenting with a vine from which he hopes to produce rubber in commercial quantities.

"American efforts to assure an independent supply have caused the British to change their attitude of waving aside protests and regulating matters to suit themselves," said Mr. Firestone. "Here in Florida, Mr. Edison is trying to develop domestic rubber. If anybody can grow rubber in Florida it will be the inventor.

"In Liberia and the Philippine Islands—possibly in Florida—we can grow all the rubber needed for some time to come. It looks like we have won the fight against the British monopoly."

SCHOONER DESTROYED BY GASOLINE EXPLOSION

YARMOUTH, N. S., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The two masted schooner Mattawa, owned in St. Johns' N. F., was destroyed by a gasoline explosion resulting from a fire last night shortly after sailing for St. Pierre, it was learned today. The crew escaped in boats.

The fire started from a backfire of the gasoline auxiliary engine, and spread to a cargo of 35 barrels of gasoline. The vessel was just off the entrance to the harbor channel as it sank.

Havoc Wrought By Wind in Los Angeles

Houses Were Wrecked and Trees Torn Up—Gale Was of Short Duration.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A terrific wind storm mowed a swatch of havoc in the Los Angeles region of southern California today and then departed almost as quickly as it came.

The gale tore off the dome of Mt. Lowe observatory, near Pasadena, and cracked its huge telescope in two. The wind at times reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour and wrecked houses, tore up trees, fanned into flames two fires that menaced many fine buildings and crushed several airplanes.

Chester Hammack, a 13-year-old boy, was killed when he grasped a 4,000 volt electric line which had blown down near his home near Pasadena. So far as known that was the only death in the storm.

One of the fires burned over several hundred acres of the Verdugo hills back of Glendale, near here. The other fire was in the Flint Ridge district where it burned over a large area including one home. Both fires were under control tonight after hundreds of fighters battled the flames most of the day.

The Glendale fire reached within a half mile of the Oakmont Country club and menaced many costly homes in the district. This fire was caused by the breaking of a high tension electric line in the gale.

In Glendale, the gale smashed a hangar and wrecked the airplanes in it. At Burbank, the wind partly unroofed a school house and razed a church under construction. It tore down electric light poles and broke many plate glass windows. At Altadena, one house was toppled over and many trees and poles were broken and uprooted.

Three airplanes were crushed at Brea, southeast of here, when the hangar at Tremaine Aircraft company collapsed. Several oil derricks were destroyed.

FIVE PERSONS WERE SHOT AND KILLED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Five persons, two of them policemen, were shot and killed today and two others wounded when a negro with a fancied grudge against a packing house employe set out with a pistol to seek revenge.

The negro, Ralph Elliott, died the victim of a bullet fired by a mortally wounded policeman after a police squad had charged into a negro rooming house on the south side to be met by a fusillade from Elliott or his negro companions.

Elliott, a former employe of the Omaha Packing company, was discharged after a quarrel with James Ellis, another negro, and today he waited for Ellis at the gate of the plant. When Ellis appeared, Elliott fired one shot, killing Ellis. Starting to run, Elliott met Donald McNeilly, a white employe, whom he shot and wounded.

As Elliott dashed from the packing company gates he ran into Charles Miller, 63, employe of a chemical company.

"Run ———" shouted the Negro brandishing his pistol. Miller started to run then apparently became confused and turned toward the killer. Elliott fired and Miller dropped dead.

The crazed Negro then rushed to a South Side rooming house where a detective squad located him several hours later. Two policemen, Lieut. Edward Murphy and Sergeant James Keegan went through the front door and three others went to the rear entrance.

There were half a dozen shots and when other policemen arrived Keegan lay dead at the entrance to Elliott's apartment, and Elliott, dead, still grasping a pistol, in the kitchen. Murphy, a wound near his heart, sank to the floor. Nearby lay a second Negro, badly wounded. He was so badly wounded that he could not be questioned.

FRENCH CHAMBER VOTES CONFIDENCE IN POINCARE

PARIS, Feb. 9—(AP)—The chamber of deputies gave the Poincare government a vote of confidence today at the end of the long debate on M. Poincare's financial program. It was considered also a vote of gratitude. The final vote is on the order of the day, which was adopted 370 to 131.

Throughout the debate which lasted more than two weeks, the speakers from every group, excepting the communists, recognized that Premier Poincare had saved the franc from complete collapse and had prevented France from falling into a financial and economic abyss.

The socialists and extreme radicals demanded immediate stabilization of the franc at the present rate. The premier declared that the stabilization of the franc was not possible at this time. He declined to say when or at what rate it would be stabilized. Subordinating the final operation to realization of all prerequisite conditions.

The radicals, who are combating the union government, in an electoral campaign, endeavored to rally their group against the government, but their hostile order of the day was rejected by 275 to 212, after which the chamber voted confidence in the government.

ROCKEFELLER TO TESTIFY IN THE TEAPOT DOME CASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—The senate inquiry into the operations of the ephemeral Continental Trading company of Canada will be reopened Saturday with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recognized head of the Standard Oil interests, as the chief witness.

Rockefeller accepted a telegraphic subpoena today from the Teapot Dome committee, but at the same time advised Senator Walsh, of Montana, the prosecutor of the investigation, that he still was "without information which has not already been submitted to the committee."

BAN FILM DEPICTING THE CAREER OF EDITH CAVELL

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The London Mail says that Germany's protest against the film depicting the career of Edith Cavell, British nurse who was executed as a spy in Belgium during the war, has succeeded. The British foreign office has notified the board of film censors that great resentment probably would be caused if the film were shown in its present form.

FESS SAYS THAT COOLIDGE WANTS TO GET OUT OF OFFICE

The Senator From Ohio Stated That He Had Gotten His Information Direct—Declaration Was Made in the Senate During a Lengthy Speech Against the La Follette Anti-Third Term Resolution—Vote on the La Follette Resolution Was Forced Over.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Belief that the next republican convention might turn to President Coolidge again, was expressed by Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, in the senate today during a lengthy speech against the LaFollette anti-third term resolution.

Under fire from all corners of the democratic side of the chamber, the Ohio senator declared, however, that he had "gotten it direct," that Mr. Coolidge means "what he says and wants to get out of office." Finally he related the details of the famous white house visit after which he told newspapermen that he had been called down for advocating another term for the president.

The possibility of another term for Mr. Coolidge was the subject of today's debate which forced over again a vote on the resolution of Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, declaring against more than two terms for a president and commending President Coolidge for observance of this precedent.

Answering the rapid fire queries from the democratic side, Senator Fess insisted Mr. Coolidge would face no dishonor in accepting the nomination in the face of his statement last summer that he did not choose to run again and his amplification in December of that declaration.

Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, took the opposite view and declared the president would be acting "in very bad faith" if he accepted the nomination after "enticing" other candidates into the field.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, pressed Senator Fess to establish his views in this regard were those of Mr. Coolidge and the Ohioan declined to speak for the president.

Fighting back, Senator Fess declared the democrats were fearful that Mr. Coolidge would run again. But Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, replied that "the senator is hugging to his breast one of the delusions he frequently embraces."

Senator Reed, who is considered a democratic presidential candidate, insisted that Mr. Fess was actually arguing for the renomination of the president.

"I protest," Reed said, "in the name of Senator Willis from Ohio, the republican leader, Mr. Curtiss; the English statesman Herbert Hoover, the great dirt farmer, Mr. Lowden, and in the name of the great republican party that with all its faults it is not absolutely forced to nominate one man."

Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, described Mr. Fess' remarks as "the nominating speech for a third term for President Coolidge," and asked if this did not affect the candidacy of Senator Willis. Fess replied he was speaking on his own authority and Willis smiled as he added he "thought he spoke in harmony with his colleague."

CLARK ELIMINATED FROM CONTEMPT CASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Sheldon Clark, wealthy oil operator of Chicago, was eliminated today from the list of six persons charged with criminal contempt of court because of the Fall-Sinclair oil jury surveillance.

In sustaining a motion to dismiss the charges against Clark, Justic Siddons ruled that his connection with the case was "casual and accidental." The Chicagoan, he said, had come here to testify in the oil trial as a character witness for Harry F. Sinclair and in his capacity of a friend twice was asked to hand reports made by Burns detectives of the shadowing activities to Henry Mason Day, who hired the agents.

"I could not convict you of contempt of court" said Justic Siddons, "and send you to prison or impose a fine upon you because I have not been convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of your guilt."

The elimination of Clark leaves Sinclair, William J. Burns, W. Sherman Burns, C. L. Veitsch and Henry Mason Day facing the criminal contempt charges.

TELEVISION NOT YET PRACTICAL INSTRUMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Transoceanic television has been successfully demonstrated but the newest radio development will require further research before it becomes a practical instrument of modern progress.

Television between the new world and the old was established last night when a man and a woman, in London, seated before a strange electrical eye, were seen by a group of persons in a New York suburb.

The machine that John L. Baird, of London, invented to send visions of moving people across the ocean did what it was built to do, as far as other people went at the first demonstration, but it balked at transporting the image of its creator.

Transatlantic television was demonstrated for the first time from a London laboratory to the home of R. M. Hart, in Hartsdale, N. Y., just outside New York city; and visions of a reporter and another reporter's wife, distorted thought they were transported 3,000 miles through the ether.

FIRE IN THE BUSINESS DISTRICT OF MERIDEN

MERIDEN, Feb. 9.—(AP)— Fire of unknown origin threatened a large building in the business district for a time and caused damage estimated at several thousand dollars to four retail stores here tonight. Great volumes of smoke poured through the block and a score of roomers in a lodging house and several patients in doctors' offices were forced to the streets.

The blaze was confined to the E. T. Sills stationery store which suffered the greatest loss. Firemen were forced to work in relays because of the suffocating smoke which could not escape on account of the density of the atmosphere.

32 MEMBERS OF MAFIA GANGS SENTENCED TO JAIL

PALERMO, Sicily, Feb. 9. —(AP)—Thirty-two members of a gang alleged to have Maifia connections in Sicily today were sentenced to various terms in jail in a continuance of the government's campaign to stamp out the "Maifiosi."

More than 300 other defendants are being held for other tribunals and their trials are expected to be held shortly.

Not long ago the government moved against another large group of alleged "Mafiosi" and many of them were given heavy sentences.

KANSAS CITY SURE OF THE REP. NATIONAL CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—William Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, tonight set at rest all rumors that the republican national convention might not go to Kansas City.

After a meeting of a part of the committee, which has charge of convention arrangements, Butler declared that there was not and never had been any thought of revoking the decision to hold the June convention in Kansas City, because of inadequate housing accommodations.

SPLIT IN HAVANA ON THE DUTIES OF STATES

HAVANA, Feb. 9—(AP)—Three hours intense discussion today in the subcommittee of the Pan-American conference's committee on public international law, failed to harmonize the conflicting views regarding the rights and duties of states. The subject at issue was on the right of one country to intervene in the internal affairs of another. It was found impossible to discover a formula which should appear to all countries to protect their independence and territorial integrity.

The United States and Argentina again were reported as taking opposing positions in the discussion which was behind closed doors. Charles E. Hughes, of the American delegation, favored the text of Maurtua report on this important question, in which, although the sacredness of the independence of every country was emphasized, it was subordinated to the observance of the rights of other states.

ONION GROWERS SEEKING AN INCREASE OF IMPORT DUTY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. —(AP)—Onion growers from many sections of the country testified today before the tariff commission in an effort to obtain a 50 per cent increase of the import duty on that vegetable under the flexible provisions of the tariff act.

While the growers declared that the competition of the Spanish and Egyptian crops was causing them heavy losses, representatives of those two governments were on hand to explain the American growers' problems on theories of domestic competition and agricultural conditions.

Senator Gooding, of Idaho, member of the senate agricultural committee declared that justice demanded that onion growers be given as fair a chance in the domestic market as American manufacturers are receiving.

HIT AND RUN DRIVER HELD IN BONDS OF $5,000

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Stanley Warren, for whom a warrant charging manslaughter had been issued today in connection with the death of Mrs. Margaret Duchez after she was struck by an automobile on Commonwealth avenue last night, surrendered himself at the district attorney's office this afternoon. He was taken into the municipal court, pleaded not guilty and was released in $5,000 bonds for a hearing on March 1.

Warren is a son of Mrs. Prescott Warren, Boston society woman and radio auction bridge lecturer. She accompanied him when he surrendered.

Mrs. Duchez, a domestic employed by a Back Bay family, was hit by a car which sped away without stopping.

WATSON ENTERS FIELD FOR REPUBLICAN NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The republican presidential political field was further broadened today with the anouncement that Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, would be a candidate for the nomination at Kansas City, next June.

The Indiana senator is the third member of the senate to announce his candidacy and the ninth senate member of one party or the other to have either announced or received some indorsement for the nominations.

Coincident with Senator Watson's anouncement members of the Indiana congressional delegation, including Senator Arthur Robinson, pledged their convention support to him and invited nationwide republican adherence.

BORAH ASKS "DRY" VIEWS OF HOOVER AND WILLIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Secretary Hoover and Senator Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, were invited today by Senator Borah to make a public expression of their views on prohibition.

Calling attention that their friends had placed them in line for the nomination for the presidency, Senator Borah said he was sure they would feel free to express themselves "upon this important issue."

A similar questionnaire recently was addressed by Senator Borah to Senator Curtis, of Kansas, an avowed candidate for the presidency, who replied that he was in favor of the vigorous enforcement of the prohibition laws.

WILLIAM BROOKS IS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE FOR THEFT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 9—William Brooks, 27, of 28 Union street, alleged petty thief, was sentenced to 30 days in Brooklyn jail at the police court session this morning, when found guilty by Judge Frank H. Foss of the theft of sundry articles from three stores. The state evidence was to the effect that Brooks had been "lifting" articles from three local stores during a period extending over three weeks. The young man was arrested by Officer Arthur Hurley when toilet articles, underwear and rubbers were found in his possession. Brooks pleaded guilty.

Frank A. Grabber, 24, of Amston, a college student, was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a license and he was fined five dollars and costs, amounting to $12.52. A woman, recognized as a town character, was sent to jail when she lacked funds to pay the costs of the case as well as costs imposed at previous court appearances on a charge of intoxication. A suspended 30-day jail sentence was also put into effect. The state was represented by Attorney Harry S. Gaucher.

Services for James Coyne of East Derry, N. H., were held from 32 Jackson street, at 8:45 o'clock this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Andrews' church, Colchester, at ten o'clock. Rev. Phillip J. Mooney, the pastor, was celebrant. Francis Shea, the organist rendered Abide With Me as the remains were borne into the church. The mass was sung by a trio composed of John Congdon and Francis Shea, and Mrs. Michael E. Sullivan of this city. Mrs. Sullivan rendered Ave Maria at the offertory and as a waiting hymn Francis Shea was heard in Some Sweet Day. The recessional was by the trio. Friends of the deceased in Colchester were bearers. Burial was in the Coyne family plot at St. Andrew's cemetery where a committal prayer was read. Arrangements were by E. E. Hickey.

See! These safe suds soak clothes whiter

I USED to be dead tired every washday because I had such a heavy wash and it was such a hard job for me.

But no more drudgery for me! Now I soak my clothes whiter and brighter than I was ever able to scrub them.

I use Rinso. It makes our water wonderfully soft and suds. These rich, safe suds soak out all the dirt and stains for me. I don't even bother boiling—clothes come so white and snowy.

This "no work" way is fine on my hands. They never get red or coarse now. This easy way saves wear and tear on the clothes, too.

Just ask your grocer for

JEWETT CITY

WINTER PROVES TOO MILD FOR TRAPPERS' BUSINESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 9—Not since the open winter fifteen years ago has the local trapping industry made so few catches, as since the beginning of the season last October. The big wooded districts off to the south and east of the borough, are the haunts of several of the common fur-bearing animals, and each year a dozen or more trappers put in considerable time in their capture.

During a recent winter when one snow storm followed another, with but a day or two between, one trapper, a professed amateur, cleaned up $410 on skunk skins alone. Besides that, three foxes and 20 muskrats, pushed his season's receipts up to nearly $500. One of the lads from down in the edge of the Voluntown long woods, said today, that with practically no snow this winter all animals can get plenty of food, so are sure to give traps a wide berth. Then again, the absence of the tell tale snow tracks leaves the trappers uncertain as to whether game is about or not. Mr. L— declares himself to be a trapper of the humane sort, which seems proven when it is known, that with his record of 47 skunks in one season, not one was taken with a steel trap. "A skunk," he says, "will go into any old trap;" and a dead fall with the figure "4" trip, is humane and sure. Muskrats he gets in steel traps, but always in the water, where they drown in a couple of minutes. "Foxes," he says, "especially the regular old time red, I don't catch in a steel trap because I can't. I ain't smart enough, and I don't believe any one else is, around these diggins. I tried for years to pinch an old red vixen! No go!"

From a comparison of the last five games between the All Stars and the Speed Girls it is evident that Miss Lillian LaChappelle is planning to carry off the season's honors.

Wednesday evening, the score stood in favor of the Speed Girls, by a margin of 21 pins. Hig hsingle 100, high total 262, Miss La Chappelle.

The score:

SOUTH WILLINGTON

Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., manual training is given in Hall Memorial school every Tuesday from 1 to 3, under supervision of Supt. Garrison.

With approval of the architects, plans for the new dormitory to be given Judson college at Burmah by the Willington Baptist church, the $38,000 already raised in the last five years for the project will be released at once and work on the hostel, as it is called, will be started as soon as practicable. The new building, Willington hall, will be built of brick, with tile roof and broad verandas all around the latter, partly as a protection against the driving rains of the monsoon. It will accommodate 128 students and several instructors, in single rooms, to give privacy and opportunity for study. Confidence that the building could not be duplicated in this country for $200,000 was expressed by the architects in their letter to Miss Rosa O. Hall of this town, who is in charge of the church's interest in this connection. The estimate of the cost in Rangoon is $40,000, only $2,000 of the complete sum being needed now.

ASPIRIN

To break a cold harmlessly and in a hurry try a Bayer Aspirin tablet. And for headache. The action of Aspirin is very efficient, too, in cases of neuralgia, neuritis, even rheumatism and lumbago! And there's no after effect; doctors give Aspirin to children—often infants. Whenever there's pain, think of Aspirin. The genuine Bayer Aspirin has Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

DANIELSON

LOCAL FREIGHT AGENT TRANSFERED TO SAUNDERSDAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 9.—Charles F. Mitchell, who has been agent for the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. company at the freight station, has been displaced by L. J. Paquin, who has been agent at Hills Grove, R. I., under the seniority rule that permits of bidding in available stations on the system. Under the same rule, Mr. Mitchell is to become station agent at Saundersdale, Mass., near Southbridge.

Mr. Mitchell has been agent here for about two and a half years. Previously he had a long term of service as clerk in the Putnam freight yards and also had some service here as clerk years ago. His going away from Danielson is a matter of regret to the public and especially to those who have been in frequent contact with him in a business way. He has been unfailingly courteous and obliging and it has been a pleasure to do business with him.

Mr. Paquin, the new agent, is an experienced and capable railroad man in the branch of the service that has claimed his attention for years and Danielson is assured every possible attention to its freight service under his administration here.

E. S. CARPENTER REACHES ADVANCED AGE OF 90 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 9.—If it were generally known that today was the 90th birthday of Edward S. Carpenter, as it was, Danielson people likely would have showered him with good wishes, anniversary cards and felicitations that many times would have included the wish that he may reach a full century of life—and then still keeping reaching out for a record of longevity unmatched in local annals.

Mr. Carpenter is something more than a personality in Danielson—he is an institution. He has been here since 1861, coming from Putnam to make this his home. In the nearly 67 years that have since elapsed, he has seen the development of what was little more than a hamlet into one of the most thriving, energetic and ambitious communities in eastern Connecticut.

His residence here covers the period from about the beginning of the Civil war. In all of the years since then up to the time he elected to retire from all public offices about a decade ago, he had served the borough in one official capacity or another. He has been chief of police, chief of the fire department, borough tax collector, constable. For forty years he was Chief Carpenter of the police force. For forty years he was borough tax collector. For six years, from 1882 to 1886, he was chief of the fire department. Piling up long service records, he was tyler of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., for half a century. He served as janitor and caretaker of the Baptist church for forty years. And so the record goes. One recalls that he was manager of Music hall, now the town hall, for a generation, and he was Danielson's theatrical producer through all that period, there being no other play houses. Just to employ his spare time he had a bill-posting business. All of which may indicate that Mr. Carpenter was never given to sitting about idly by.

At the present time, Mr. Carpenter happens to be confined to his home on Spring street, because of injuries he sustained in a fall in the yard a week ago last Monday. Unless he fails to measure up to all his past records for being sprightly and up and coming, he will be out again within a few days. At 90, he is a marvel of agility and ability to do things. He is not an old man except in years as the world looks upon age. And Danielson salutes him on his 90th birthday and wishes him well and many more years of useful life and all the happiness it can give him.

The building situated at the corner of Main and Academy streets on the site for the Brooklyn Savings bank's new building are for sale, same to be removed from the premises before April 1; also for sale the three-story brick building, 116-120 Main St., occupied as a business place and with offices and hall. Apply to S. W. Bard, treasurer, 95 Main street.—adv.

The body of Thomas J. Moran, who died Wednesday in Cleveland, is to arrive here on a boat train Saturday morning.

More different towns were represented by basketball fans at tonight's game in the town hall, as told on sport page this morning, than at any other such game here in years.

Routine matters were taken up and disposed of at yesterday's monthly meeting of the board of selectmen.

S. Cady Hutchins, who is ill with pneumonia, remained in a critical condition today.

One bad menace to safe travel will have been removed when the new bridge authorized built at Central Village, on the Norwich trunk line highway, comes into use.

George A. Harwich, of Providence, was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

Mrs. Rose Caron and daughter, Lillian, who were so badly burned at their home on Furnace street a Saturday night last month, are steadily recovering from their injuries.

The rains, fog and high temperature of the past 48 hours have undone about all that last week's cold weather accomplished toward building up an ice crop.

There appears to be some misunderstanding as to when the Dairymen's institute is to be held at Brooklyn. To clear this up it may be stated that the date is Friday, February 17, not Friday of this week.

This morning the funeral of Charles Green was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGorty, in Elmville, with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem and there were numbers of friends in attendance. Burial was in St. James' cemetery. The bearers were Charles Reynolds, James Reynolds, Joseph Norton and Thomas McKone. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Funeral services for Rufus Howard were held this afternoon at the Foster Center church, Rev. A. R. Macdougall, of the Rice City church, officiating. Burial was in the Sand Hill cemetery in Foster. The bearers were Edmond Moore, Ethan Moore, Anthony Shippee and Walter Potter. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

George O'Neil, a Plainfield man, is to appear in the town court here Friday morning to answer to a charge of embezzlement. For more than a week he has been held at the county jail in Brooklyn in default of bonds. Missing more than 18 months, he was arrested in Providence toward the end of last month and returned here. He will answer to a charge of embezzlement in connection with the taking away of an automobile that had been entrusted to him to sell. At the time of this transaction he was engaged in he automobile business in Plainfield, where at one time he was the proprietor of a pool room.

The success of the textolite picker in a world-wide market already is assured. This is the product for which the E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing company of Danielson has been appointed sole distributor by the General Electric company throughout the United States and all other nations of the world where textile enterprises are conducted. It appears that sales of the pickers have been in such volume as to outstrip production, which is not yet on a full volume basis. W. Irving Bullard, of the Jacobs company, arrived in Europe this week to organize sales companies that will handle the textolite pickers in the British Isles, continental Europe and other nations served from that part of the world. Trade publications have paid special attention to the new picker during the last fortnight and have particularly featured that the Jacobs company of this town and Charlotte, N. C., have been appointed exclusive world-wide distributors of the product, which promises to largely revolutionize the textile picker industry.

Friday afternoon at four o'clock a reception will be held in the Baptist church for Miss Nagasaki, of Japan. Miss Nagasaki is a beautiful Japanese doll, valued, with her outfit, at $200. She is touring the country under the care of the Committee on World Friendship Among Children. There will be an impressive program at four o'clock in which several local children will take part. The doll will be on exhibition from four to five-thirty, and a most cordial invitation is extended to all who desire to see her.

With red fox pelts bringing $20 each, and a little more for particularly good specimens, this season and the kill of reynard so frequently reported, there are those who have been given to pondering over taking up fox-hunting as a money-making proposition during the winter months. Take it from an old fox hunter who has followed the sport for considerably better than a generation that there is no money in it. "I figure the pay, everything considered, about a cent a day," this veteran of the runs and trails said today. "Considering one's time, the investment in gun, the cost of ammunition and the general wear and tear of a hunt, $20 for a fox pelt is little enough—when you get one."

"Your fox-hunting enthusiast doesn't hunt for the money there is in it—he is out for the sport, and it's a good and healthful sport. But don't let anyone tell you there is money in it, no matter what pelts are bringing. There isn't."

Sufferers from Rheumatism and Neuralgia Agony

Here's Sure Quick Relief.

Here is marvelous news to all who suffer from swollen, painful joints in shoulder, foot, ankle, knee, thigh, and to all who are tortured by stiff, cramped muscles. An amazing new French formula known as Dr. Beaupre's Treatment for Rheumatism has been used successfully in thousands of cases both here and abroad. It works with astonishing rapidity. Usually one package, containing a 10 days' treatment is sufficient to clean up the most painful cases. Chronic sufferers sometimes require a second and third package.

No matter what you may have tried before, you owe it to yourself to give Dr. Beaupre's Treatment a trial. Just ask any good druggist for a package of Dr. Beaupre's Treatment for Rheumatism. Take it according to directions and see for yourself how quickly all Rheumatism agony is banished.

PUTNAM

SUPT. THAYER CLAIMS FIRE ALARM BOXES ARE O. K.

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 9.—Charles T. Thayer, superintendent of the Putnam fire alarm system, has stated that he has tested all boxes on the circuit and he has found them to be in first class condition. Superintendent Thayer said that the alarm from Box 36 on Woodstock avenue, on Sunday evening rang a series of perfect strokes and that the fire trucks were not thrown off their course by the alarm from the box ringing the call of another box.

A new industry going under the name of the National Novelty company, has leased the property of the Putnam Box corporation on Truesdell street, and is to begin operations in Putnam soon. The new company will manufacture paper novelties, hats, streamers and other paper specialties. The new concern is backed by two young men who have been connected with a Providence concern of the same nature.

Manufacturing machines for the trade will start the wheels turning as soon as they arrive.

The French organizations of the Children of Mary of St. Mary's church observed their golden jubilee Tuesday evening in St. Theresa's hall on Marshall street. Whist was played and instrumental and vocal selections were rendered by members of the order.

The prize winners in the whist games were Miss Jeanne Benoit and Miss Aline LaBossire for the ladies, and Rev. J. D. Casey and Rev. W. A. Routhier for the men.

A supper for 145 was served, with the pastor, Rev. U. O. Bellerose and his two assistants, as special guests. Souvenirs were given to each one present. These were book marks bearing the picture of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the patron saint of the order.

After the regular meeting of the Rebekahs, held Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' hall, a whist party was held by a committee of the order The first prize, a buffet set, was won by Mrs. Russell, of School street. The gentlemen's first prize was won by Fred Card, it being a patent pencil. On February 22, the Rebekahs will entertain their friends with an "Old Fashioned Clothes dance." Each member may bring two guests and they must be attired in clothes of the days gone by.

Basketball fans of Putnam and Plainfield have been anxiously awaiting the return game to be played at Putnam between the two schools. At the first game, played at Plainfield, Putnam defeated her rivals by a two-point margin, the score being 26 to 24, in the last 17 seconds of play. When the Plainfield boys go on the floor this (Friday) evening they will meet the Putnam boys that have only met with one defeat this season, and a fast game is expected by all the fans.

Doctors, members of the staff of the Day Kimball hospital met at the institution on Tuesday evening and dined. After the supper, there were interesting talks and discussions. Those present were Dr. S. B. Overlook, of Pomfret, Drs. K. T. Phillipps, M. J. Bullard, of Putnam, Dr. E. R. Pike, of Woodstock, Dr. R. M. Paine, of Thompson, and Dr. R. M. Tanner, of Danielson.

A pool table belonging to the Anslem Mayotte post of the American Legion has been placed in the Boy Scout club rooms on School street through the courtesy of the members of the legion. The scouts are enjoying the new sport in the club They have expressed their thanks to the members of the post for loaning of the table.

Laretta Audette, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hormidas Audette, died at her home in North Grosvenordale on Tuesday. The cause of her death was given as heart failure. Funeral services were held from St. Joseph's church in North Grosvenordale on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. J. A. Desormault officiating.

The marriage of Alphonse Remy, of Webster, to Miss Marie Chadut, of North Grosvenordale, took place in St. Joseph's church in North Grosvenordale on Wednesday morning. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Mathieu, pastor of the church. After the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to New York.

Miss Alice Alvord, of Walnut street, who has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, has recovered from injuries that she received in an automobile accident that happened on School stret a few weeks ago.

Miss Sadie Zaitas, who has been employed in Norwich, has returned to her home here for the remainder of the winter.

Miss Anna Maynard, of Wauregan, has been visiting a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maynard, of Bullok street.

Many Putnam people motored to Fall River, Mass., this week to get an impression of the large amount of damage that was done by the great fire that swept that city recently.

Mrs. Eugene Brousseau, of Wilkinson street, has returned from a visit from Atlantic City where she has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Ogden. Mrs. Ogden was formerly Mrs. Percy Waterman, of this city.

FIRE HAZARDS EMPHASIZED

Before a legislative committee in Massachusetts, counsel for fire insurance companies, opposing an investigation of rates charged, made the statement that what was necessary was an investigation of the fire hazards in that state and of "firebugs" and not of the fire insurance companies.

It is not very difficult to see the justice of his declaration when we stop to think of the many fires and the large losses and stop to consider how many of those fires were absolutely needless.

Just at the present time the big fire in Fall River is fresh in mind. It seems possible that the fire loss there will be fixed somewhere about $9,000,000. That is to be numbered among the heavy losses that ought not to have occurred. Investigation shows that it probably started from a fire which had been kindled in the mill proper for warmth by the workmen engaged in tearing down the mill. Not properly cared for or not put out it furnished the beginning of a conflagration that wiped out millions of dollars worth of property and dealt a terrific blow to Fall River before it could be conquered. Since it is estimated that if the loss is as heavy as $9,000,000 it will mean a loss of 38 cents to the fire insurance underwriters for every dollar of premium earned, provided other fire losses average the same as they have for the past five years, it can be readily seen what an effect one to say nothing of the many other needless fires has upon fire insurance rates.

The idea of keeping down the fire hazards is constantly put before the people and yet there are repeated instances being brought to attention which show how little consideration is given to matters which would have an important influence upon relief which is too often sought in other ways.

The burden upon the insurance payers is bound to be increased through needless fires and through the activities of those who set out to destroy the property of others. The easily eliminated hazards are often the worst trouble makers, as well as the most neglected.

IMMIGRATION LAW CHANGES

Over the question of immigration there is a constantly changing opinion. Experiments and new conditions prompt demands for changes and the result is that there is seldom a congress which does not have to wrestle with some alteration in the immigration laws.

Measures are before congress which call for the extension of the quota system to countries of the western hemisphere. Hitherto our neighbors have not been included in such a plan. Conditions have been disclosed however which indicated that the purpose of the immigration law was being defeated, that surprisingly large numbers were coming across the borders and as the result there have been indications that efforts were to be made to place a check thereon in order to overcome the defeat of the purpose of the restriction arrangement.

What such restrictions will be remains with congress to say. It would be possible to let in those from neighboring countries on the same basis as all other immigrants or more liberal arrangements can be made.

According to a bill which has been submitted by Senator Watson of Indiana and which has the approval of Secretary Davis of the labor department, a quota of 10 per cent. of the nationals here in 1890, instead of 2 per cent., would be fixed. This would considerable restrict in some instances and not in other. The quota for Canada would be so large than it would allow more to come in that actually came in under no restriction last year, while with Mexico it would reduce the number materially. In the latter case provision would be made for the admission of those needed as workers when it could be shown they were needed.

For European countries there would be no change, except that the breaking up of families would be guarded against by allowing no heads of families to come in unless the rest could be provided for under the quota, while wives and children of those who came here before 1924 would be admitted up to 30,000. What congress will decide to do rests among the uncertainties.

LATIN AMERICAN TRADE

In view of the efforts put forth to increase our trade with Latin America and the success that has been attained in that direction for the past decade or more, attention continued to be directed that way for the purpose of learning whether we are gaining, losing or holding our own.

Without any question we got an unusual opportunity for development of our trade during the days of the World war. We made the most of it with the result that American goods got a chance which never existed before. Our trade gained and it has for the most part been held though conditions and changing prices have indicated that we were not maintaining our position.

It would be possible to infer such from the figures for 1927 which show that while our world export trade showed a substantial gain over the preceding year there was a decrease of some over 2 per cent. in our exports to Latin America and a loss in imports of about 6 per cent. If we didn't look further that might indicate that the European countries were regaining the business which they formerly held.

When we stop to consider the analysis of this trade situation as made by Chief Elder of the Latin American division of the department of commerce, it is found that there were good reasons for those decreases and that they were not caused by European gains. He accounts for the decrease in exports by the conditions which prevailed in Mexico alone and he shows that while there was a drop in the values of imports there was just as large a volume, so that we imported just as many goods but the values had taken a drop.

In our trade with South America it is not to be expected that we can continue to do business there and have it increase solely because our competitors are laboring under a temporary handicap. The fact is that dependence could not be placed upon such trade. It would be here today and somewhere else tomorrow and it has long since been apparent that it is merit, methods and willingness to serve which will maintain this trade at the desired level.

COLONEL SMITH'S NEW MOVE

The decision of Colonel Smith of Illinois to resign as United States senator-elect from that state promises to bring to a further test the question of that state's representation in the senate.

When the senate refused to seat him it is declared that he would not resign, that he would present his claim to a seat to the next congress and in the meantime the state would be without half of the representation to which it is entitled. He placed the responsibility for that upon the senate. The senate placed it upon Colonel Smith.

In the latest decision it has apparently been decided to hasten matters and to bring the people of the state to the further support of the man who was selected to represent them through another election. This will at least give Illinois a chance to express itself. His election was upheld by the supreme court in that state and through his declared intention of entering the primary for the special election to be held in April there will be a chance for the voters to say whether they insist upon him as their senator or want someone else in view of the senate's action.

The inference is that Colonel Smith is convinced that he can be re-elected. He believes that if such is the case the senate will be obliged to accept his credentials and give him the seat to which he maintains he is now entitled. If he loses it will mean the end of the controversy and in which case Illinois will get that much quicker the representation to which it is entitled in the United States senate.

DISABLED EMERGENCY OFFICERS

In support of a bill before congress, which has received the approval of the senate and now awaits the action of the house, it is contended that those emergency officers who served in the war and were disabled should be entitled to the same retired compensation that is paid to disabled officers of the regulars.

The situation is one which apparently calls for additional legislation. Provisions are made for the regulars. There is no question about that, but when the emergency officers have sought the same relief or help it has been found that they were not included in the provisions. Just why this is has not been placed before congress to decide. It would appear that any and all of those who rendered service for their country during the war are entitled to be treated alike. If they have been wounded or disabled, it is quite as hard to bear for those who rushed into the emergency from another occupation as it is for any of those in the regular service. Their wounds are as painful, their medical treatment is as costly, their handicaps are as great yet they find that the government has failed to make provision for government help for them similar to the regulars.

Just why there should be any discrimination among the disabled whatever his status is difficult to understand since the hardships are the same in all cases. The senate has declared there should be none. It recognizes the unfortunate place in which the disabled emergency officer finds himself and seeks to supply the remedy. It remains to be seen what the house will do.

A STRING OF PEARLS.

"I see by the paper where a man lost a package of $10,000 worth of pearls and it was picked up by another man who restored them to him the very same evening," said Miss Nangle, "which reminds me—

"Now, just let's get that cuticle off which adds so to the refinement of a person like you are.

"Yes. It was Mrs. Alexis Monypenny before she was married, was walking with her mother in Notre Dame at Paris, France, which was made famous by Lon Chaney acting a terrible pathetic hunchback in it, and it was very dark although a bright sunshiny day outside.

"So she was walking through there with her mother and looking up at the organs and other wooden carvings when she was encountered by the obstacle of her foot touching something. She stooped down by reason of it being so dusky and it was a string of pearls, which was a dreadful shock as she had none and these were of both the very heavy and long variety and probably real in spite of imitations so that it is almost impossible to practically be sure.

"She and her mother fell into a quick consultation about what should they do with the pearls, for there was not no one in sight, not even one of those fancy-dressed characters like in the pictures, to who a person could hand them over until called for.

"And while they pondered what should they do, for there would be many red tapes if taken to the American Express, and out of their way that day besides, a party of both men and women came around from behind somewhere, and her mother said she wondered if they dropped them. No sooner said than done, and the young lady, with the pearls hanging graceful in her hand steps up to the party and asks them in English, for such they appeared to be, did they lose some pearls. But not so, for they answered her in American, what pearls? She then explained all.

"Long afterward it come back to her that a gleam passed betwixt the eyes of the party, but at the instant of excitement and so on she did not note a delay in an answer by one of the women that responded she had lost the pearls. Mrs. Alexis Monypenny, as she now is known to all and sundry, placed the pearls in the hands of the woman, and with a pleasant greeting of farewell returned to her mother, and their examinations of carvings and stones and so on they resumed.

"In a very brief period both she and her mother convinced each other they had committed a dreadful error by returning the string of pearls casual and no proof of ownership, which if imitation was a loss of not more than only fifty or seventy-five dollars, but if genuine unestimable and a tragedy to their rightful owner. So then in great trial they proceeded to watch for advertisements of 'lost, a valuable string of pearls.'

"Will you just lay your hand in that warm water a while?

"Well, she worried and fretted something terrible, and also her mother. So one day, being invited out for tea in one of those places where you eat when you go off to foreign cities like Paris is, why, one of the male contingents was this young slick sort of Alexis Monypenny, and he offering to eventually escort both she and her mother back to the hotel in his car a friendship sprung up between both of them, with confidences about remorse of double texture that if the pearls was real a crime in giving them careless like she did, and equally if but a good imitation, then if any one was to prove finders, as I said to Bertha, keepers and losers weepers, why not she have kept them herself and so on, instead of mere interlopers as it were?

"And so when a tear dropped, why, Mr. Monypenny laughed, and said she was too honest for this world, and needed a keeper her own self, and of course the pearls was not real or would have aroused a serious uproar, and so on, until sweet vows was exchanged between both of them, and she is one of my every-other-Tuesday customers for a water wave and shampoo.

"Now! Your hands look elegant. Thank you. See you some more!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sad But True

Mr. Editor: I am sending in the following letter which was found in the New York World and which I feel is well worth reading, both for the fun of it and more especially for the all too bitter truth it contains. I quote: "Counselor Sidney S. Leonard sends me this letter which he received in reply to a request for payment:

Dear Sir: I beg leave to inform you that the present shattered condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to send you a good check to take up the one for $6.89 which for some unexplainable reason was turned down by my bank.

"The state of my present financial condition is due to the effect of federal laws, state laws, county laws, corporation laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws, mother-in-laws, common laws and outlaws, that are foisted upon the unsuspecting public.

"Through these various laws I have been held down, held up, walked on, sat on, sand-bagged, flattened and squeezed until I do not know where I am, what I am, who I am, or why I am.

"These laws compel me to pay a merchant tax, capital stock tax, excess profit tax, income tax, real estate tax, property tax, state auto tax, city auto tax, water tax, light tax, amusement tax, cigar tax, street tax, school tax, real tax, surtax, syntax and carpet tacks.

"In addition to paying these taxes, I am requested and required to contribute to every society and organization that inventive man can organize. The children's home fund, the policemen's benefit, the Doreas society, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Boy Scouts, the Jewish Relief, the Belgian Relief, the Near East Relief, the gold-diggers home, also every hospital and every charitable institution in town, the Red Cross, the Black Cross, the White Cross, the Purple Cross and the Double Cross.

"The government has so governed my business that I do not know who owns it.

"I am suspected, expected, inspected, disrespected, examined, re-examined informed, required, commanded and compelled until all I know is that I am supposed to provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race and because I refuse to donate all I have and go out and beg, borrow and steal money to give away I am cussed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down and robbed, until I am nearly ruined, so that the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what in the ——— is coming next.

"Begging your indulgence and sympathy, I am

Pessimistically yours.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Bernt Balchen, who is the first to announce an attempted around-the-world flight for next summer, is an air jack-of-all-trades who accompanied Commander Byrd on the transatlantic flight of the America. Balchen, a former lieutenant in the navy of Norway, is at the same time pilot, navigator and mechanic and, according to his associates, a star in each branch. His name was first prominently mentioned in connection with air exploits when he flew over the Arctic in 1925 in search of the missing expedition of Roald Amundsen and a year later he was stationed at Spitzbergen with Amundsen's North Pole expedition. Shortly before he joined the America personnel for the transatlantic flight, Balchen took out first citizenship papers, thus keeping intact the all-American line-up for the voyage to Paris.

It was the same old story. Father had failed to "keep batch" properly at home while Charles, age five, and his mother were visiting in the country.

"Muvver, things is just awful," said the youthful critic, earnestly. "He's got dirty dishes in the sink, 'bacco all over our dresser, and ashes on the rug. What you goin' to do about it? Bawl 'im out?"

The Packard Six 2-passenger Convertible Coupe

It Costs You No More To Own a Packard Six

PERHAPS you are one of the thousands who have long wanted to own a Packard but drive a $1500 car because you feel you cannot afford Packard Six ownership.

If so you will thank us for convincing you that it costs no more to own a Packard Six.

We can convince you as we have convinced many other "half-price" car owners. All we need is a pencil, a piece of paper and thirty minutes of your time. It's easy.

It costs no more to operate and maintain a Packard Six than a car at half its price. The sole item to consider is the naturally higher first cost of a truly fine car. But you will own and drive a Packard twice as long—and enjoy doing it. You will be ahead financially at the end of five years.

Come in and see the new Packard Six models and let us appraise your present car. We will apply its highest market value to the cost of a new Packard and the small size of the remaining twelve payments will surprise you.

How To Save Coal—
Number 4
If You Have A Hot-Air Furnace

1. Have fire-box gas-tight. All cracks must be cemented or a new section put in, or coal gas will be carried to the rooms.
2. Regulate window or cold-air box so as to avoid too great a current of outside air, especially on very cold days.
3. Keep water container in air-jacket filled. Set jars of water near registers which send out the most heat.
4. Hot-air pipes should pitch well upward from the furnace, should be of sufficient diameter, and should be wrapped with asbestos. A separate pipe for each room with a turn damper near the furnace is a good rule. Label each pipe so that certain rooms can be shut off at the furnace when it is desired.

WEDDING

Tetreault—Hebert.

At Plainfield Monday morning, at St. John's church, Miss Loranda Hebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hebert, and Archie Tetreault, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tetreault, were united in marriage. Attending the bride was Miss Amelia Tetreault, while Homer Hebert was best man. Miss Antoinette Hebert and Isabel Sinlord unveiled the bride as she was a member of the Children of Mary society. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hebert, violinists, and Miss Theresa Sullivan, organist, furnished music while Miss Lida Hebert and Miss Theresa Sullivan sang the wedding solos. The bride was gowned in white taffeta, wore a bridal veil caught with orange blossoms and her bouquet was white roses and orange blossoms. The bridesmaid was dressed in light tan georgette with petal pink hat to match and carried pink roses. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was aquamarine prayer beads; the groom gave the best man a fountain pen. The wedding breakfast was at the bride's home on Community avenue. Rev. Father Landry said grace. Relatives and friends attended the breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Tetreault left for a honeymoon trip to New York where they have friends. On their return they will be given a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tetreault, on Saturday evening. They will begin keeping house in a newly furnished apartment on Packer street.

The bride received many gifts from friends and relatives in Moosup, Danielson, New Britain, Jewett City, Norwich, Plainfield and Hawaii.

The bride was given a miscelaneous shower Friday evening when a number of friends called to surprise her. Many friends will wish them much happiness in their marriage.

DIRECTS PAYMENT OF $100,000 FOR STOCK IN COTTRELL AND SONS CO.

Payment by Arthur M. Cottrell of Stonington of $100,000, with interest, for 500 shares of common and 500 shares of preferred stock of C. B. Cottrell & Sons company is directed by Judge C. L. Avery of the superior court in entry of judgment in accordance with opinion of the supreme court, which was filed here Thursday with Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the court.

This closes the litigation over the millionaire estate of the late Edgar H. Cottrell, in which his widow, Leone Balfe Cottrell, and her minor children, Nicholas, Leone, Elizabeth and Edward H. Jr., were the plaintiffs against Charles P. and Arthur M. Cottrell of Stonington, individually and as executors of the will of Edgar H. Cottrell.

Suit was brought in September, 1922, claiming declaratory judgment, discovery, equitable relief by way of injunction, cancellation and vacation of certain contracts, andan accounting. Judgment was given in the superior court in March, 1924, granting the plaintiff's prayers for relief in part and denying them in part. The plaintiffs appealed to the supreme court, which handed down its opinion and directed that judgment be given in accordance therewith.

Hull, McGuire and Hull were attorneys for the plaintiffs and Herbert W. Rathbun for the defendants.

Judge Avery's entry of judgment was in substance as follows:

The court having heard the parties, finds the issues as follows:

That the true value of the shares of capital stock of C. B. Cottrell & Sons company owned by Edgar H. Cottrell did not exceed the par value thereof and the values fixed in the claimed written appraisals annexed to the claimed contracts of 1908 and 1915.

That Charles P. Cottrell acquired no right, power or privilege of purchasing all or any of the shares of the capital stock of C. B. Cottrell & Sons company owned by Edgar H. Cottrell at his decease by virtue of the claimed contract of 1908, and the claimed will and claimed codicil of said Edgar H. Cottrell or the claimed contract of 1915.

The claimed contract of 1908 and the appraisals claimed to have been made pursuant thereto were not improvided acts, the enforcement of which would be unconscionable and inequitable. Neither were the claimed will and claimed codicil of Edgar H Cottrell, to the claimed contract of 1915 and the appraisals made persuant thereto.

The claimed contract of 1908 and the appraisals claimed to have been made pursuant thereto were not void because of mental unsoundness of said Edgar H. Cottrell and, or, any undue influence practiced upon him by the defendants. Neither were the claimed will and codicil of Edgar H. Cottrell, to the claimed contract of 1915 and the appraisals under it, and to the transfer of the shares of stock by Edgar H. Cottrell to the defendants or either of them in or about 1921.

The claimed contracts of 1908 and 1915 and the appraisals claimed to have been made pursuant thereto contravene the statute of wills and the statute of frauds and are unenforceable.

The claimed will and the claimed codicil of Edgar H. Cottrell do not contravene the statute of wills.

The value of both common and preferred shares of stock in C. B. Cottrell & Sons company owned by said decedent at his death was $100 per share.

On May 23, 1921, Edgar H. Cottrell, Charles P. Cottrell, and Arthur M. Cottrell executed a contract whereby Edgar H. Cottrell agreed to sell, assign, transfer and deliver to Arthur M. Cottrell 500 shares of the preferred and 500 shares of the common stock of C. B. Cottrell & Sons company at $100 per share of preferred and common stock, making a total price of $100,000, and Arthur M. Cottrell agreed to purchase said stock at said price; that certificates representing said 500 shares of preferred and 500 shares of common stock were issued to said Arthur M. Cottrell, representing the transfer to him of said stock from Edgar H. Cottrell; that Arthur M. Cottrell has never paid the price of said stock or any part thereof.

Whereupon it is adjudged and decreed as follows:

1. That the defendants, Charles P. Cottrell and Arthur M. Cottrell, as executors of the last will and codicil of said Edgar H. Cottrell, are hereby enjoined from conveying the shares of stock of C. B. Cottrell & Sons company owned by Edgar H. Cottrell at the time of his death to the defendant, Charles P. Cottrell of 1908 and 1915 or the provisions of the will of Edgar H. Cottrell insofar as they refer to the aforesaid contracts of 1908 and 1915, without in any way, however, affecting the general powers given to the executors in and by said will;

2. That the defendants, as executors of the will of Edgar H. Cottrell, are hereby directed to transfer and deliver certificates of stock representing 500 shares of common stock and 500 shares of preferred stock of C. B. Cottrell & Sons company to Arthur M. Cottrell, pursuant to the terms of the agreement of sale and purchase, upon receipt from Arthur M. Cottrell of payment therefor of the purchase price, to wit, $100,000, together with interest thereon from May 23, 1921, to the date of payment thereof, and shall be made not later than Jan. 21, 1928; and

3. Said Arthur M. Cottrell is directed to make payment of said purchase price to wit, $100,000, together with interest thereon from May 23, 1921, to the date of payment thereof, which shall not be later than Jan. 21, 1928, upon said delivery being made; and that the plaintiffs recover of the defendants their costs.

DEATH OF ROBERT FRANCE OCCURS IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Robert A. France, 82, president of Joseph Parker and Sons company, blotting paper manufacturers of Westville, died at his home, 16 Dwight street, today of pneumonia.

He was formerly superintendent and general manager of the Chelsea Paper mills, in Norwich, and a member of various Masonic branches in that city.

Mr. France, who was of Scotch ancestry, was a resident of the Greeneville section of this city while he was connected with the Chelsea paper mills there up to about 1890-1891. He was prominent in the city government, having been a member of the common council and president of the water board. He was also active and prominent in Masonic affairs in this city, and was the oldest living past master of Somerset lodge (1876 and 1878), the oldest living T. I. Master of Franklin council (1882) and the oldest living past commander of Columbian commandery, No. 4, K. T., (1879-80). He was also a member of Franklin chapter, King Solomon lodge of Perfection, Van Rensselaer council, Princes of Jerusalem, Norwich Chapter Rose Croix and Connecticut Consistory.

He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Lindsey, of Greeneville, and after her death he married in 1876 Miss Helen Holbrook, sister of Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Dr. James France, of Wilmington, Del., and a sister, Mrs. Mary Mabrey, of this city.

COLLEGE TRUSTEES REGRET PUBLICITY OVER DISPUTE

HARTFORD, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The recent controversy between President Benjamin T. Marshall, of the Connecticut College for Women, and Professor John Edwin Wells, head of the English department at the college, was not discussed at the regular meeting of the board of trustees of the college held this afternoon at the Hotel Bond, except "to deplore the unfortunate publicity that the dispute was given in the newspapers," according to Colin S. Buel, of New London, secretary of the board.

Mr. Buel said that, since only nine of the 16 members of the board were present at the meeting, only minor routine matters were discussed and that the meeting was "absolutely barren" of any discussions or action which would be of interest to the public. He said that President Marshall was one of the trustees who had not attended the meeting but was unable to give any reason for Mr. Marshall's absence.

Owing to the small number who attended the meeting today, Mr. Buel said that it would probably be necessary to call another meeting of the board before the annual meeting which is to be held in May. Mr. Buel said that it is possible that at this next meeting of the board the committee will make their report of findings and that, at that time the board will have some statement to make regarding the matter. President Marshall has not submitted his resignation as head of the college to the trustees, Mr. Buel said

Their numbers included quartette and solo selections humorous monologues and whistling solos and imitations which were received with enthusiastic applause.

NORWICH ELOPERS WERE STOPPED IN SPRINGFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 9—Miss Lillian Sweezey, 17, of 105 Oakridge street and Daniel Perkins, 22, both of Norwich, Conn., who eloped Monday with the idea of being married in this city had their plans rudely interrupted by police late yesterday afternoon. Officers Michael Curley and George Henry, patrolling their beats in the vicinity of Columbus avenue, saw the couple carrying heavy bags and stopped them for questioning. Their stories were conflicting and the officers decided to take the two to police headquarters for a more thorough questioning.

At police headquarters detectives learned that the couple had run away from home and were bent on being married. It further developed that the "romance" was being perpetrated without knowledge of the young woman's parents. It was learned that the couple started on their elopement venture with $18 between them, most of which money constituted last week's salary of Miss Sweezey. But then the romance which had its inception in a Norwich mill where both worked had been brewing for some time and the youthful lovers decided to take their chances on matrimony.

Laughing at all barriers the two left Norwich and went to Stafford Springs, Conn., thence they came to this city where despite their pleadings with police Miss Sweezey's parents were notified. Late last night Miss Sweezey's brother came to police headquarters and his sister was released in his custody. The romance was blasted as far as he was concerned but she staunchly defended her lover before leaving. Young Perkins was held over night and released this morning.

BOWLING LEAGUE GIVES TO LA FLAMME FUND

Moved by their sympatry for Kenneth La Flamme, of Montville, the teams of the Industria bowling league which has just ended its season, have contributed the proceeds of the season to the fund for youg La Flamme. The amount is $20, which would ordinarily have been used to provide for a closing banquet, but the team members generously decided that a better use for the money this year would be to place it in The Bulletin's fund for the unfortunate young man. The money was turned over to The Bulletin Thursday night.

The teams comprising the league are from the International Silver Co., Yantic Woolen mill, Norwich Mill Weave room, United States Finishing Co., American Thermos Bottle Co., and Eastern Conn. Power Co.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT OVER FORT HILL COLLISION

After deliberating one hou. and 50 minutes the jury in the court of common pleas at New London Thursday morning returned a verdict for the defendant in the case of Walter S. Swan, of West Mystic against Emil Hicki, of Poquonoc Bridge. Judge Charles B. Waller accepted the verdict, which was reported by Foreman George L. Burgess, of Groton. Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Harry C. Brogan represented the defendant.

Swan claimed that on April 8, 1927 at the foot of Fort Hill, the Hicki car, because of negligent operation and failure to grant the right of way by the defendant, crashed into the plaintiff car. He asked $250 damages.

The defendant set up a counter claim of $500 damages, denying the allegations and claiming that the collision was caused through the negligence of the plaintiff.

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

In the interval between holidays the work of the various committees of the Woman's auxiliary of the hospital is steadily going on. Generous donations of reading matter and delicacies for the pleasure of the patients are continually received; although old linen for use at the hospital is given, it is used in such quantities that the committee makes a special plea for this much needed article. It may be sent to Mrs. Charles A. Saxton, or if she is notified, it will be called for.

Visitors from Christ church parish furnished ice cream and cake, also provided a musical program on January 10.

Under the auspices of Grace circle, King's Daughters, Master Robert Glassbrenner, violinist, accompanied by Miss Mary Louise Hull, took part in a musical program on January 15.

A great improvement has been made in Wards B and C by putting in steam heat, an addition to comfort and saving in coal.

Renovations of A1, the semi-private room floor, and A2, the private room floor, have been in progress. New ceilings have been put in the corridors and in some of the rooms alnotex was used under the plaster, definitely reducing the noise as well as making the corridors lighter.

The room taken care of by the Ladies' auxiliary of the United church has been completely renovated; new ceiling, the floor done over, walls and furniture freshly painted. Many of the old gas and electric fixtures have been replaced by more modern ones.

The results of most operations are not as evident to the eyes as ten months old Tony's. Tony came in with a hairlip which completely ruined his winning smile, but went home with an upper lip that was a credit to any child.

During past weeks the isolation ward has been a busy place, at times filled to capacity.

One scarlet fever patient, when asked if he were very miserable said, "I have never been so comfortable in my life."

The work of making surgical dressings goes on every Thursday, from two until five o'clock at the nurses home, under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Sayles, who would be very glad of more helpers in this department.

Magazines, postcards, jelly, preserves, fresh fruit, Christmas gifts for childrens' ward, cakes for Christmas, plum pudding, cranberry sauce, linen, ice cream, money for Christmas turkey, gift of $100, books for isolation ward and gifts for wards were donated by the following friends:

Canterbury Loyal Temperance Legion, donation committee, ice cream committee, Ladies' of Congregational church, Taftville, Ladies of Spiritual academy, fourth grade, Norwich Town school, Junior guild, United Congregational church, Ladies' of Central Baptist church, Miss Porteous, Angus Park, Miss Taft, Laurel Hill, Donald Gregson, Mrs. Roy C. Judd, Mrs. Sabourine, Woman's auxiliary, Ernest Lincoln, Mrs. Frederick Sayles, Wallace S. Allis, Mrs. A. H. Chase, Miss Mary Richards, Mrs. Charles D. White, Mrs. Edward D Fuller, Mrs. Harold T. Robinson, Mrs. D. A. Pitt, Miss Caruthers.

Spoke at Salvation Army Meeting.

Mrs. George H. Strouse, of Bozrah, spoke Thursday evening at the Salvation Army hall, Cliff street, on the text Ephesian 1-7 and in her talk denounced the evolutionary theory and the attacks on the Bible and Jesus Christ as damnable heresies, as it was only through Jesus Christ as revealed in the Bible that we can be saved. The devastating storms in Russian and Africa and other places, besides Vermont and the Mississippi valley and Los Angeles, the earthquakes in Jerusalem and Portugal, the famines in China and the Near East betoken greater calamity as a warning to seek God, she declared.

BOY SCOUT CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE ISSUES SPECIAL APPEAL LETTER

Only $3,470 of the $6,500 of the Boy Scouts campaign was in the hands of the finance committee Thursday night.

Owing to unforseen circumstances over half of the solicitors have not been able to get to their prospects and get their returns in as yet.

A special letter of thanks has been sent to all subscribers with a request that they help locate a few workers or an additional subscription.

This letter is as follows:

Norwich, Conn.
February 9, 1928

Dear Friends of Boys:

Thanks ever so much for the splendid spirit of cooperation indicated by your generous investment in the future manhood of Norwich through your contribution to the Boy Scouts.

Due to causes beyond their control only about half of those who had planned on helping us found it possible to get in their report or work on the campaign list a syet. For this reason only one-half of the of the amount necessary to carry on the Scout program has been secure

If each person to whom this letter is written would find it possible to secure someone to be a call on the prospects now on the lists, or to possibly get someone to send in a contribution, we feel sure the entire amount would be subscribed at once.

We are hoping each of those who have contributed so generously will help in locating a new investor in the boys of Norwich or in the locating of a new volunteer worker.

We do not want to ask too much of anyone but the Scout pragram must be cut in two or sufficient funds raised to carry it through.

This special appeal, we hope, will meet with your hearty support. A subscription blank is published each day in a paper for the use of friends of boys.

May we say, again, that the Scout council thanks you most sincerely for your splendid spirit of cooperation.

LOUIS M. CRANDALL,
Chairman Finance Committee.

A complete list of those workers who have put the campaign over with the fine cooperation of the subscribers will be published as soon as the full subscription is announced at the victory dinner when the campaign has been successfully completed. Many clubs have not been heard from yet.

While the letters keep coming in telling about "Scouting" and the wonderful good it is doing in the whole country and while it is believed the people want to support the Scout program the fund is only half completed. Scouting must go if the funds don't come and the chairman of the finance committee still believes the money will come when the citizens realize that it is waiting for someone to come get it. It is hoped by the committee that many will use the coupon in the paper and the mail.

SANGOR WINS OVER TAYLOR; BRUCE FLOWERS BEATS FINNEGAN

COLISEUM, Chicago, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Joey Sangor of Milwaukee, contender for the world's featherweight championship, was declared the winner over Buddy Taylor, bantamweight titleholder, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10 round of scheduled 10 round battle here tonight.

Taylor at the time fell victim to what appeared to be a foul blow but was ordered to resume fighting after a five minute rest. He was unable to do so, with the result that the judges awarded the verdict to the freckled faced Milwaukee youth.

The bout, the ourth meeting since 1926, was unequaled in the middlewest for viciousness and desperate punching, since the memorable fight between Stanley Kitchel and Billy Parke, in Milwaukee 20 years ago.

The pair slugged like a couple of longshoremen for six rounds with little to choose between them. They stood toe to toe in the center of the ring trading punches first one having the lead and then the other.

Sangor's best showing was in the third round when he forced Taylor into the ropes under a wicked shower of lefts and rights to the head.

When the Terre Haute blonde appeared to be sliding off the ropes perhaps on the verge of a knockout he suddenly came back and carried the fight to Sangor. Taylor backed up in the fifth, a rare procedure for him, under Sangor's slashing attacks but it was only momentarily for he cut loose with a sudden burst of speed that had Sangor bewildered. The punch that ended the battle appeared to be a low sweeping left hook that appeared to land on the groin. Tayler grabbed himself and sank to the floor apparently in pain. There was a hurried consultation between two judges, referee Phil Collins, and members of the Chicago athletic commission at the ringside. It was decided to give Taylor a five minute rest, with the instruction to him to resume fighting. He was unable or refused to leave his chair at the end of that time and his handlers then stretched him on the floor of the ring while his seconds worked frantically over him.

The confusing ending of the battle caused an uproar from the crowd, one of the largest of the season. They Booed Taylor for refusing to continue. The match was witnessed by a sell out capacity crowd. More than ten thousand with receipts around $40,000.

The weight advantage that Taylor conceded was showing disastrous effect upon him at the finish of the sixth round. He scaled 121 pounds, giving away five pounds to the Milwaukee featherweight.

Flowers-Finnegan.

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Bruce Flowers, Negro lightweight of New Rochelle, N. Y., defeated Dick Honeyboy Finnegan, of Dorchester, in a sensational 10-round bout here tonight. In the final round the boxers exchanged blows toe to toe from gong to gong.

In the early rounds Finnegan jumped into the lead but beginning with the sixth round Flowers took command, scoring frequently with rights and lefts to head and body. The action in the tenth round brought the 10,000 spectators to their feet.

Flowers was credited ith winning five rounds and Finnegan three, while two were even. Finnegan weighed 132 1-2 pounds and Flowers 134 1-2.

SOCCER GAME AT J. B. MARTIN SUNDAY

The J. B. Martin Soccer team resumes activities Sunday afternoon at J. B. Martin park in tackling Schaefer's All-Stars of Ledyard. This is a team composed of former players on the New London team of the old State league and the Taftville bunch stands ready to get its stiffest test of the year.

The Martins are expected to rely on their regulars who have pulled them through in their two starts this year.

Toronto Beats Montreal

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 9—(AP)—The University of Toronto defeated the University of Montreal by 3 to 2 in a loosely played Intercollegiate senior hockey fixture here tonight.

BOXING JABS

The amateurs are running into their own nowadays around eastern Connecticut.

Willimantic and Norwich have two clubs, New London one and Putnam one in operation.

The show in Willimantic tonight starts a busy time of it for the simonpures. Next Thursday there is another card in the Thread City, Friday there is one here, the 24th the Duwells open up and this, to say nothing of regular shows in Putnam by the Putnam Sporting club, by Joe Connelly in New London and probably by a new club in Danielson.

But the Putnam and Duwell shows are sanctioned by the A. A. U. with the others comprising somewhat of an independent circuit.

Tommy McCarthy figures on beating Red Dupree.

The feathers have it tonight with the cards at New York and Chicago.

AGGIES ON NORTHERN TRIP FOR WEEK-END

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 9—The Connecticut Aggies' varsity basketball squad left here tonight by train for Orono, Me., where the University of Maine basketball team will be played tomorrow night. On Saturday the Aggies will clash with the University of New Hampshire quintet at Durham, N. H.

Both contests shape up as hard games for the Aggies and the team will have to be in top form to win both contests. The New Hampshire game will probably be the hardest of th two, for the Wildcats showed enough stuff to battle Vermont on practically even terms at Burlington last week. Vermont, it will be remembered, overwhelmed the Aggies a week ago.

In addition to Coach Louis Alexander and Manager Horace Murphy, the following eight players are making the northern trip: Captain Arthur Williams, Ray Ryan, Harold Watson, Henry Schildrgen, Myer Ellovitch, Willard Eddy, Rhoar Flydal and Lee Duffy.

AMATEUR BOUTS SLATED FOR WILLIMANTIC TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 9—As the amateur card of simon pures who will appear at the Al-Pierre Tabarin this (Friday) night is being completed by Matchmaker Rudolph H. Miller, there is good prediction that the fans will be treated to a real show of the manly art. Young Aurthur of Colchester and Lyman Gary of Stafford Springs will meet in the heavyweight bout. Promoter Patterson of Hartford is coming out with a quartet of fast boys, two of whom have yet to taste of the canvas. Norwich will likewise send a delegation of four and two Springfield, Mass., amateurs will complete the card. Thread City punchers who will don the gloves include Young Bicknell, K. O. Kid Carpenter, Mickey Casy and Young Bernier. The judges will be H. N. Bullard and Daniel F Daley. William E. Jackson will be timekeeper and Trenor A. Rice of North Windham referee.

TWO GAMES AT Y GYM SATURDAY EVENING

In the abscence of an Academy game in the city Saturday night two games, regarded as very promising have been lined up.

In the main game the C. F. C. with eleven wins in twelve starts will tackle the Silk Sox, leaders in the Quinebaug Valley league while the Y Emps, who have been going great guns of late will have it out with the Orioles from New London composed of Bulkeley and Chapman Tech students.

Both of these games shape up as productive of real action throughout and a large crowd is expected.

TRANSFER OF NORWICH BAY STATE MEETING SETTLED

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Anouncement was made tonight at the annual banquet of the New England Horsemen's association that a 2:11 pace for a purse of $25,000 will be held during the Windsor, Conn., race meeting in July. This establishes a record for the Bay State circuit. It was further announced that Stafford Springs, Conn., will succeed Norwich in the circuit, taking over the dates of June 19, 20 and '21, originally assigned to Norwich.

COCHRAN SWAMPS SCHAEFER IN INDIANOPOLIS EXHIBITION

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 9—(AP)—Welker Cochran, California billiard wizard, swamped Jake Schaefer, 18.2 billiard champion, here today in an exhibition match, 400 to 57. The Californian, who recently lost the title to Schaefer, took just six innings to run up his score. He had high runs of 162 and 133.

CHARLEY ROOT FINALLY SIGNS WITH CUBS

CHICAGO, Feb. 9—(AP)—Charley Root, the pitching ace of the Chicago Cubs, came to terms on his 1928 contract today, after a conference with Manager Joe McCarthy in Los Angeles, according to word received by President William Veeck. The agreement price was not disclosed.

JOE FABER EXPECTED TO BE BIG HELP AT MONTREAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—If it were possible to get a whole team of French baseball stars George Stallings and Walter C. Hapgood would like to have them for the Montreal club of the International league. As it is Bucky Gaudette and Joe Faber will have to please the French majority in the Canadian metropolis when the International league returns after many years absence for the opening game there May 2

Hapgood, in an interview here today, declared Stallings would have a team in the thick of the fight from the first day and that he expected the new park in Montreal, seating 25,000 would be filled and over-filled more than one day the coming season.

"We are in the best minor league city in the world," said Hapgood. "Montreal is the fifth city in size in North America, which means it is larger than all major league cities excepting New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit. And this great population is as baseball mad as any city in the world. We have a good team for them and will have a stronger one if money can buy it.

The Montreal players for the most part are veterans of the 1927 Jersey City club. The Skeeters were sold to Montreal and later the Syracuse franchise was sold to Jersey City along with the Rochester players. So there has been quite a juggling of players in the International this winter. The fans will see many new faces.

Stallings will train his pitchers and catchers, as usual, on his great Georgia plantation. These men will go down just after Washington's birthday and will put in two weeks of light baseball practice, horseback riding and wood chopping. They will hunt and kill their own quail and partridge and will sit in front of the fireplace in the evenings and listen to Mars George's ideas of baseball.

The pitchers who will help Stallings in the plantation chores are Roy Buckalew, Jersey veteran and distinguished as the finisher of many games last year; A. L. Carlton, signed at Dallas; Jim Caplin of Jersey; Kirl Dunagan, bought from Portsmouth; Chester Falk, bought from St. Louis and last year with the Buffalo champions; Bob Grody of Brooklyn and Jersey; Kenneth Newton, bought from Manchester and who has played many semi-pro games at Montreal; Bob McCormick, a youngster of Monroe, N. Y.; Bob Shawkey, obtained from the Yankees; Leon Williams of Jersey; and Rufus Smith, a southpaw on option from Detroit. He has seen service at Providence and is a college man.

The main squad will train at Jackson, Miss. In addition to the batterymen there will be Frank Stapleton for first. He was 1927 manager at Bridgeport. He is left handed in both hitting and throwing. Red Holt may stage a comback.

At second will be Chick Fewster, hero of many big league battles obtained from Baltimore. Joe Faber, a Frenchman, bought from York, will be at short. He was the pick of the N. Y. P. league last fall. Chester Fowler will be on third. Cincinnati paid about $15,000 to Minneapolis for this boy. Last year he played at Nashville but balked on going south again.

In the outfield are Bucky Gaudette, Rabbit Whitman and Joe Shannon, all from Jersey, Tom Gulley, bought from Little Rock and F. C. Newell, from the Michigan sand lots. Stallings had Joe Shannon and his twin brother at Boston in 1915.

Olympic Boxing Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—Leading simon-pures from Canada, Boston, Philadelphia, Buffalo, New Haven and New York will clash in an International Inter-City olympic talent boxing tournament at Madison Square garden Saturday night. Sixteen bouts in every divisoin from flyweights to heavyweights are slated.

American League (Pro) Basketball

At Philadelphia: Philadelphia 29, Cleveland 23.

'BOUT SPORTS

The loss of four men to the Academy none too well-founded basketball squad is a serious blow. It will take plenty of real fight to win these two week end games for the Red and White and upon the shoulders of the six remaining members of the squad falls this burden. The team is well fixed at the guards with Capt. Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix but the offensive department, weak as it was, is thrown into a panic with the loss of Pingree, who has scored nearly as many points as the rest of the team put together. Lloyd Jarvis will take much of the offense onto his willing shoulders and faint memory recalls one or two other times when Jarvis has pulled the Academy through and this may be another of those delightful occasions.

Norwich is to get plenty of fighting from now on, it seems. The announcement of the Duwell's entering the indoor field came as joyous tidings to the seemingly sports-hungry Norwich public, who, when they get something good, patronize it. Meanwhile, the Pastimes are planning for another card a week from tonight and no doubt they will get the fans again for they seem to please with their semi-monthly jousts down at Olympic hall.

Interscholastic Sports

Bulkeley basketball team is getting in quite a bit of work in preparation for a second meeting with the Academy.

Ellis is doing most of the scoring for this team.

Wilby ever in Waterbury still reigns supreme in the state. She tackles Commercial of New Haven Saturday night, however, and that ought to be a real tilt. It will be remembered that Commercial was the only other team besides Wilby, to win over Naugatuck this year.

The Coast Guard Junior Varsity is being installed the favorite over the Academy Saturday afternoon at the New London Y.

The Academy has a busy week end and hopes are not as bright for victory today as they were before. Ineligibility hit the squad.

Les Pingree of the Academy appears to have a rival for high scoring average per game on Bill Cruse of Danbury High. He has 136 points in 8 games for an average of 17 points a game.

GEHRIG'S ALL-STARS WIN FROM DANIELSON TOWNERS, 52 TO 31

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 9—The much talked about Lou Gehrig and his All-Star team made its appearance tonight in Town hall before a large and excited crowd of fans and defeated the Danielson Town Team by the score of 52 to 31 in a very clever exhibition of basketball. The minute Gehrig made his appearance on the floor the fans went wild and applauded him very heartily, continuing to do so throughout the entire first half.

Towners Start Well

Danielson had a very good start and held the lead through the first ten minutes but after the All-Star team got organized it was a different story and the half finally ended 26 to 15 in their favor. Gehrig played the entire first half and certainly proved to the fans that he knows quite a bit about basketball as well as baseball and although he did not score he played a very pretty game of basketball. The second half opened finding McCrystal playing for Gehrig and for about ten minutes there was as beautiful an exhibition of pass-work and shooting as has been seen on the local floor in some time.

Gehrig Pleases

Dutch Eggerts was the mainstay of Gehrig's team, making 19 points and his work was in a class all by itself. Eggerts is one of the brainiest players in the game and a very accurate shot. He received a great ovation from the fans on several occasions which he was very deserving of. Gehrig missed three close shots that were purely "hard-luck" affairs. Lou autographed nearly 50 baseballs during the evening.

Schofield again starred for Danielson and although missing several very pretty shots was able to make 16 of their 31 points, which explains itself.

Summing up the game it could be said that it was a very interesting one and that Lou Gehrig's All-Stars are one great basketball team.

Next week the South Manchester Recs will play in Danielson and a great game is assured.

Any official who is interested in taking the examination should get in touch with the Secretary of the Board, L. R. Nixon, 140 Maple street, New Britain. All applications should be in not later than February 15th.

TEST OF N. B. A. POWER EXPECTED BY MANDELL FUSS

NEW LONDON, Feb. 9—(AP)—The strength or weakness of the National Boxing association with representation in 26 states, will be brought out in the event that the Illinois state athletic commission sanctions the non-title bout between Sammy Mandell and Jackie Fields, tentatively set for February 23 in Chicago, it was said tonight by Thomas E. Donohue, president of the association.

Donohue recently ordered Mandell, Mickey Walker, and Joe Dundee, national lightweight, middleweight and welterweight champions respectively, to sign to defend their titles before February 16 or else face the alternative of having the championships declared vacant.

Mandell's act in negotiating for a non-title bout is in violation of this edict, Donohue said, and if the Illinois commission of which Paul Prehn is chairman, favors the bout, Mandell according to the rules will be suspended in the 26 states which recognize the N. B. A. Donohue is now wondering whether the N. B. A. is strong enough to enforce the suspension if the matter comes to a showdown.

Donohue tonight wired Prehn with regard to the Mandell-Fields bout and he expects an answer by tomorrow.

COLUMBIA STROKE MAY BE INELIGIBLE FOR OLYMPICS

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—Eric Lambart of New York, stroke oar of Columbia's Intercollegiate championship crew as a result of scholastic difficulties, head coach Richard J. Glendon disclosed today, unless he makes up his deficiency Lambart will be lost to the crew which is a strong contender for the right to represent the United States at the Olympics this year.

KLEVENOW RESIGNS AS MIDDLEBURY COACH

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., Feb. 9—(AP)—Marshall M. Klevenow, coach of football and baseball at Middlebury college for the past three years, has tendered his resignation effective at the close of the current college year, it was announced today. Klevenow today declined to comment on a report that he was negotiating with a Wisconsin college to become coach of football and baseball.

FITCHVILLE WINS CLOSE GAME FROM EMP THIRDS

The Fitchville Rovers won a close game from the Y Emps Third team, Thursday evening, at the Y gym by an 18 to 17 score. Steinman, Steve and Homack were best for the winners while Berghinzo played well for the losers.

Hall Loses

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—Allen Hall was knocked out of his first place tie with Willie Hoppe in the American League three cushion billiard tournament tonight by Otto Reiselt who won by 50 to 39 in 44 innings. Reiselt had a high run of four to six for Hall.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—There may be a shock in store for those observers taking it for granted that the Army-Navy athletic break this year is just a passing squall and that everything will be smoothed out for a renewal of relations in 1929.

Present indications are that the split not only is likely to exist next year but for some years to come. Unless there is a radical switch in policy on the part of one or the other of the service institutions.

Since congressional activity and peace overtures from other sources failed to shake the point of view of either academy it has become increasingly evident that neither is inclined to do any yielding.

With a similar situation existing another year there is no more likelihood of a get-together or a compromise in 1929 than there has been in the past few weeks of maneuvering that culminated in each school filling the date previously assigned for the inter-service gridiron clash on Nov. 24.

The Navy, in its demand for a three-year varsity standard of eligibility, feels it has gained public support widespread enough to justify its attitude. The Army, on the other hand, feeling that a contract has been broken regardless of any eligibility issue, is equally as firm in its view that fairness demands retaining its traditional standard of equal-opportunity for all.

Right now no one in authority at Annapolis or West Point will give even the slightest support to the idea that either retreat from its present attitude.

Nevertheless some observers profess to see the suggestion of a 1928 get-together in the Navy's arrangements to play Princeton on an Oct. date after engaging the Tigers this year as a final opponent on Nov. 24 at Philadelphia.

It is possible that both academies, subject to administrative changes, may be playing safe and leaving a loop-hole for readjustment of their schedules. The indications are, however, that both are proceeding with arrangements for their 1929 playing slates on the assumption that no inter-service game will be included.

The Army already has scheduled Notre Dame for 1929 and would like to make this game the climax clash on the schedule. The rivalry between the Cadets and Hoosiers is keen and long-standing. The game has played to capacity crowds at the Yankee stadium during the past few years in a setting that has rivaled in interest the service game itself.

West Point's relations with prominent mid-western schools has been developed steadily to a point where four opponents from that area come east to meet the Cadets this fall. The University of Chicago's being talked of as a possible 1929 opponent for the Soldiers. In addition to return the visit here, the Army might consider a journey to Lincoln to meet the Cornhuskers next year.

National League Hockey

At Ottawa, Ont., New York Rangers 0, Ottawa 0.

BASS MEETS TONY CANZONERE TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—After a year of bickering, with little ring action to relieve the monotony, the featherweight division, once the stamping ground of many great fighters, appeared today to be headed out of fistic obscurity.

Tony Canzoneri, bounding New York Italian who once sharpened his punching sights on the Levee Kids of New Orleans, and Benny Bass, body slugger from Philadelphia, are scheduled to start the movement tomorrow night in a 15 round match for the 126 pound championship in Madison Square Garden. And all along the line, the featherweights old and young, are preparing to join the parade.

After a year's suspension following a tainted bantamweight title match here last winter, Charley Phil Rosenberg, retired 118 pound champion, will fight in the featherweight division under the management of Bill Duffy, a handler of Jack Dempsey. Bushey Graham, Utica star set down for the same period for entering into a double set of contracts for a match with Rosenberg, likewise has decided to campaign as a featherweight in the future. The suspensions of both probably will be lifted next week by the New York state athletic commission.

N. F. A. HAS TWO GAMES FOR WEEK-END

With but six veterans on the squad to carry on, the Academy basketball team sets out tonight on a stiff week-end program that brings it to North Grosvenordale and New London. Not even favored with the advantage of the home court the Red and White is battling big odds in the Tourtellotte game tonight and the Coast Guard Junior varsity tilt tomorrow afternoon.

Tourtellotte, playing on its dwarfed court at North Grosvenordale this evening will stand a good chance of avenging for the defeat administered here a few weeks back. That tilt went overtime before the locals managed to win, 26 to 24. Tourtellotte, playing nice basketball then, has improved greatly, while the Academy has also improved a lot but the recent ineligibility occurrence will hurt their chances considerably.

The Academy will probably take the floor with Dave Tigar at the forward position left vacant by the transfer of Joe Viau to center, where he replaces Les Pingree. Lloyd Jarvis will be at the other forward with Capt. Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix at the guards.

Tourtellotte is expected to rely on practically the same lineup that has been trimming them all up in the northern end of the state and it will probably be Canty and Bousquet at the forwards, Rydosewski at center and St. Marie and Mayhew at guards. The game starts at 8:15 and a substantial cheering section is planning on accompanying the locals to give them much needed help.

BREAKS WORLD'S 150 YD. SWIM RECORD AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 9—(AP)—Walter Laufer, former Cincinnatian, now competing for the Lake Shore Athletic club of Chicago, broke the World's record for the 150 yard backstroke swim tonight at a Central A. A. U., meet here in the Lake Shore A. C., pool. His time of one minute, 40 4-5 seconds, lowered the former world mark by four seconds, and also lowered the American mark by one and one fifth seconds.

Interscholastic Sports

Windham lost to Bulkeley in Hartford Wednesday 24 to 22, in two over time periods. It was her first scholastic defeat of the season.

In another game in the Capitol City, Weaver gave Commerce of Springfield a bad beating to make up for a win that this team holds over the Green.

Chapman Tech and Windham ought to provide some excitement tonight at New London. It is the feature spot of the week hereabouts. Tech stands a good chance of winning this time.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 9—(AP)—Spring football practice at Harvard university will start March 19, it was announced today. The spring training session will continue for three weeks under Head Coach Arnold Horween, of Chicago, who is expected to announce his staff of assistants before the session begins.

The Naval Academy, during eight seasons of competitive boxing, has never lost a dual match.

Pipe smokers:

Sounds like tall talk for a ten-cent tobacco!

BUT... men who used to pay a quarter or more per package — men who wouldn't smoke any but imported tobacco — these same men tell us that Granger Rough Cut beats any tobacco they ever smoked for coolness, mellowness, and full rich flavor.

Well... we set out to make a pipe tobacco, and nothing else. So Granger is aged, made, cut, and packed for pipes — and pipes only! There's nothing like doing one thing and doing it well!

Buffum, Jr., Mrs. George B. Utter and son, Charles, and Mrs. Walter Smith Price left this morning on the New England express for Boston on their way to Bethel, Me.

WEDDING
Ryan-Dow

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 9—Miss Ruth Irene Dow, daughter of the late Charles T. Dow, a New London stenographer, and Vincent Thomas Ryan, a store manager in New London, were united in marriage in Westerly Wednesday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Francis Vincent, M. S., pastor of the Immaculate Conception church. It was understood tonight that the couple slipped away from New London and were married unknown to friends.

The continuous sounding of the fire siren on the Clyde Mills, Inc., on Main street Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock brought Reserve Police Officer Robert M. Kessel and later Chief Thomas E. Brown from police headquarters to learn the cause of the whistle blowing. Many others were attracted to the streets adjoining the mill. The superintendent of the fire alarm service arrived soon and it was not long before the long blast was stopped. It is said that an attempt is being made to change the pitch of the whistle, and during the experiment the whistle became stuck and the long blast followed.

Pawcatuck lodge, No. 90, A. F. and A. M., Russel Hemphill, worshipful master, held a stated communication Thursday evening.

Workmen have completed laying the terra cotta tile on the Broad street side of the roof of the addition on the east side of the public library building. At the Morrone & Castagna block on Canal street plasterers are giving the third and last coats to the walls and ceiling of the store on the ground floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison S. Archie have left for New York and will sail for a vacation visit to Bermuda.

John Hoxie, 82, of Hopkinton, died at 11 o'clock Tuesday night at the home of his brother-in-law, John Carpenter, near the village of Alton. He was born in 1846 and was a lifelong resident of Hopkinton dying in the house in which he was born. His life occupation had been that of a farmer. He never married.

Mr. Hoxie had lived alone for years on the Old Boss farm in the Tomaquag district. He has been in feeble health for some time, but had been looked after by neighbors.

He was found last week to be very ill and friends had him removed in the Westerly ambulance to the house of his childhood, the home of his childhood, the home of his brother-in-law, John Carpenter, where he has since been cared for by a nurse and a physician.

Mr. Carpenter, who also lives alone and has been in poor health of late, is improving. His daughter, Mrs. Smith of Westerly, has been at the home caring for her father and keeping house for him and his brother-in-law.

The sixth annual Westerly Automobile show opened Thursday under the auspices of Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion. Under direction of Hawkins of Norwich a colonade of white pillars joined with lattice work and covered with vines has been erected to enclose the approach to the main entrance. At night the colonade is lighted by a festoon of electric lamps.

The interior is attractively decorated with the Legion colors, blue and gold, also with evergreen and red, white and blue bunting. Thirty-one different models of automobiles are being exhibited by 13 dealers.

NOANK

GAS FROM CABIN STOVE PUTS CREW TO SLEEP

Boat Annie L, came from Newport, R. I., after a 10 days' fishing trip and tied up at the town dock. Capt A. Brown and Mate Gordon Clark were the crew, these two fishermen were overcome by gas from the stove in the cabin during the night, while in that city. The Corn Cob club was holding a meeting in the rear room at Mrs Jane Carson's store, First Vice President Walter Welles being in charge. As each one got his yellow corn pipes out and all were puffing away, in walked Gordon Clark and wanted to become a member of the new club. So Godfather John Ashby of the gang said bring him in. Mate Clark told about the night in Newport, where the stove gas put him and his captain away for a few hours. As the clock struck 9 Capt. Brown banked the fire for the night and both men turned in after a hard day on the salt water. Getting on toward morning another boat crew lying alongside noticed that the Noank fishermen were sleeping late so Paul Steward went to ask if they were going out fishing. He found the cabin filled with gas and could not wake the men. A doctor was sent for and Capt. Brown was taken to a hospital being worse off than Mate Clark. In the afternoon, at 4 o'clock after they had worked over him, Clark came to. He said "Gee! What a feeling it is!" Capt. Brown came out of it later. The mate said, "We are both well now and no more stove gas for us!" He talked for 25 minutes and was given a big hand by the corn cobbers. There was a lunch of sandwiches and cake, with olong tea, from which Smiling Eddie Ellis read the future of the members in the tea leaves.

IS A HEALTHIER STRONGER GIRL

Because She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America. This is possible thru the magic of the humble tin can.

In one of the canning establishments, Julia Schmidt was employed. It was complicated work because she did sealing and other parts of the work. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she forced herself to work when she was hardly able to sit at her machine. At times she would have to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition.

She tried various medicines. At last, a friend of hers spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Miss Schmidt gave it a trial.

"Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes. "I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Julia Schmidt's address is 112 Willow St. Silverton, Oregon. For sale by all druggists.

LIVING ON A $75,000 INCOME.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

I've just been reading about an unmarried woman in some small Nebraska town, with an assured income of $75,000 a year from inherited property, whose affairs have got into court because she alleges that she can't live and pay her bills on that amount.

It seems that the terms of her tenure are such as to make the sale of any of the property invalid without a court order. The income is regular and certain. But she may not, without judicial authorization, break in upon the principal.

As she owes various tradesmen something over $30,000, which they naturally would like to be paid, but whom she simply cannot pay out of her beggarly $75,000 a year income, she has applied to the court for permission to sell $150,000 worth of securities, in order to get money enough to pull through with. In which formal court hearing the facts about her estate, her income, her debts, etc., have been brought to light.

Unfortunately, so far as I could discover, no schedule of her actual living expenses has been made out. Such a document would be highly interesting to some of us who are living on 1 per cent. or less of her income. For there are more people in this country today who are compelled to get through the year with $750 or less than there are who have $75,000 or more for the same purpose.

However, while a resume of her spendings would be curiously amusing, it really hasn't much bearing on the big moral involved in her case.

That moral is that, no matter how big one's income is, it is seldom if ever just as big as he'd like to have it.

The "Who's Who" of the American world shows numerous millionaires and multi-millionaires with annual incomes larger than even this Nebraska woman's, who are still digging away at their businesses trying to get "just a few millions more." True, they already have enough to keep a whole pack of wolves from their doors. But a few dollars more are absolutely essential to give them the latest plaything they've set their hearts on. It may be a palatial mansion costing a thousand dollars a brick on land costing a thousand dollars an inch; it may be a new and bigger yacht; it may be control of some transcontinental railroad system; it may be a gallery of "old masters" whose genuineness even the experts can't agree upon, but whose market price the dealer is very sure about—it may be almost any ambition or fad. Whatever it be, it calls for more money. And, till they get that added money, they actually feel as poor and perhaps are in spirit as the man who wants a silk shirt but whose income limits him to chambray, or the woman who wants a pigeon-blood ruby as big as a hen's egg but whose allowance forbids her even a string of Tecla pearls.

Did you ever know a young and amitious farmer whose farm was quite big enough? Who didn't want Smith's place to square up his boundaries, or Jones' to give the additional potato-land he needed, or Robinson's timber lot to supply the lumber he wants for his proposed new barn?

Did you ever know an enterprising and up-to-date merchant who didn't want to sell 50 per cent. more goods this year than last—and make 50 per cent. greater profit?

Did you ever know a woman who didn't want at least one more hat than she has?

Did you ever know a man who smoked fivecent cigars from necessity who didn't wish he could afford Reina Victorias at $50 a hundred?

Did you ever know a wage earner who didn't want bigger wages than he was getting?

If you ever did know any such curiosities you must have seen them in some museum of freaks. They're not walking around the everyday world loose.

According to one old saying "Man wants but little here below." This isn't quite accurately worded. It is unquestionably true that man "needs" but little here below, but he "wants" the earth and the moon and a first mortgage at 7 per cent on the solar system. It's not sure even that would satisfy him. It must never be forgotten that what a man needs and what he wants are two widely different quantities.

Some time ago a Philadelphia physician whose benevolence took him into many poor homes which couldn't afford to pay his fees decided to find out for himself just what a man could live on under the stress of extreme poverty. He was accustomed to dining at a swell club of the sort wherein one usually gets the very highest quality of food prepared in the most appetizing way. He gave up his club for a month, bought his own supplies, prepared them himself, and lived on them for the month—at the rate of 75 cents a week. He didn't eat any steak smothered in mushrooms nor drink any Chablis or champagne. But the food was all nourishing in quality and adequate in amount. He didn't go hungry. He didn't get sick. At the end of the test he found himself of exactly the same weight as when he began and, as he rather unwillingly admitted in better than usual physical and mental condition.

Compare, if you please, the experience of this hard-working doctor in a big city, living on 75 cents a week, with that of the small-town Nebraska woman who simply "can't live" on $75,000 a year.

Both are exceptions, you may say. Yes, in the amounts stated they are. In the principle involved they are not.

You and I think if we only had $75,000 a year assured income we'd be happy and contented. Probably we'd both would be—for a time. But sooner or later, we'd find uses for it all and suddenly bring up against the fact that we wanted a new Rolls Royce and lacked the money to pay for it. And then we'd be just as unhappy and discontented as when we were living on chuck steak and boiled potatoes, and riding on the trolley.

The simple truth is that one can live on pennies—if he has to. He can also spend millions if he has 'em to spend.

There is no evidence of the existence of a heaven of unalloyed and supreme happiness on this earth. We shall have to wait for that development in some other sphere. A somewhat irreverent "skit" in a recent newspaper "colyum" made me snigger. I'll confess. It regarded a lady who appeared at St. Peter's gate and asked admission. He inquired:

"What were you on earth?"

"Some called me a gold-digger," she truthfully replied.

"H'm'm'm," said the saint. "I don't think we can let you in on account of the pavement."

But our brief and much alloyed life on earth could be rendered vastly more comfortable than it usually is if we would use the gumption with which all are measureably endowed in making the most of what we have.

"Not what we have, but what we are

according to one poetising philosopher. Another even older philosopher summarized the secret of happiness in one phrase: "I have learned, in whatever station God puts me, to be content."

Naturally, even such solid hunks of wisdom as this need to be interpreted reasonably. For instance, if one finds himself recovering from a debauch in a pig-stye it is not to be assumed, offhand, that his residence therein was divinely appointed. The responsibility for being there should be laid on the bad rum drunk the night before, not on an overworked Providence. If, instead of spending the money for dubious liquor, he had bought some corned beef and cabbage and taken them home, he would have wakened with a clear head in his own bed, with the prospects of a Jigg-ian dinner ahead of him at mid-day.

There is a poverty, caused by accident or bereavement or other comparable causes which calls loudly for sympathy and aid.

There is also a poverty, caused by inefficiency, by extravagance, by shiftlessness and laziness, by silly desire to make an outward show, which deserves neither sympathy nor coddling.

Here is a woman with an income of $75,000 a year pleading poverty as vigorously as if her income was but a dollar a day. You and I believe that her claim is all nonsense.

She could live on her $75,000 a year. And we know it.

Likewise she could live on a dollar a day. And we also know that.

She couldn't have everything she wants on a dollar a day. Neither, it seems, can she on her $75,000 a year.

The condition of poverty, as you'll readily see, is not dependent on the amount of income involved, but in the use made of the income received. It is not what we get that we live on but what we spend. If we spend more than we receive we're poor; if we use less than we get we're rich.

Recall the eastern story of the king whose magicians told him he could recover from his illness only by wearing the shirt of a happy man. So his emissaries scattered over the whole known world, to hunt that happy man and confiscate his shirt. But they didn't find one. Everybody questioned had some lack or need or unfulfilled desire. No one was completely happy. Returning to the palace to report their failure, they passed a dirty beggar lying in the sun by the roadside.

"Are you happy?" interrogated the head magician. "Happy as a clam at high tide," replied the beggar. "Isn't there anything you want that you haven't got?" "Nary a thing." "Hoopla!" shouted the searcher, "at last! we've found a happy man. Quick, give us your shirt." "Shirt?" queried the beggar. "Lord love you, I haven't got one!"

You may class this as a fable or as a parable. It tells a big truth in an effective way, nevertheless.

After all, despite parables and preachings, most of us would like to take the job of living on $75,000 a year. Down in the bottom of our hearts we think we could make a go of it—and be happy!

THE FARMER.

The net tonnage of American ships passing through the Suez canal reached 668,635 during the first six months of this year, or more than twice as much as for the entire year 1919. Many of the American vessels were tankers which discharged mineral oil cargoes in India and returned in ballast, or went on to the Sonde islands and returned laden with benzine for Europe.

Peter Gets a Wetting

If you would play a trick, watch out
And know just what you are about.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit had formed the habit of visiting the spring-hole in the swamp on the edge of the Green Forest on the chance of seeing Jerry Muskrat or Billy Mink or Little Joe Otter. There was a very convenient hollow stump close by. In it Peter felt quite safe. At the same time he could look out and see what was going on.

At last there came a night when Jack Frost worked as he had not worked before all winter. It was still that night and oh! so cold. Every once in a while there would be a report like a gun in the Green Forest. It was the splitting of a tree by Jack Frost. More than once Peter was so startled that it seemed as if he jumped almost out of his skin.

Early the next morning Peter was over by that spring-hole. At first he noticed no difference in it. It looked like smooth black water. But when Peter went down to the edge of it he discovered that instead of smooth black water it was smooth black ice. The spring-hole had frozen over, a thing which could happen only in the very coldest of cold weather.

"Huh!" said Peter. "There is no use in staying here today. I won't see Little Joe Otter or Billy Mink or Jerry Muskrat. I may as well go home to the dear Old Briar-patch."

Now, to get home Peter had to be on the other side of the Laughing Brook. There was a certain place a little farther up the brook where he was in the habit of crossing. But why go away up there when he could cross right where he was? He could cross right on the ice that covered the spring-hole. Peter ventured out on it a little way and then sat down. It was fun to sit out there where he had never been before. Somehow from there things looked different. Yes, sir, things looked quite different. Peter was just making up his mind to keep on when, happening to look down, he saw something that made him rub his eyes. Some one was moving right under him. He looked a second time. It was Jerry Muskrat. Jerry was swimming under the ice. He was crossing to the other side of the spring-hole. A thought popped into Peter's head. He chuckled.

"Jerry didn't see me," said Peter to himself. "He didn't see me at all. I'll get right over him and then I'll thump on the ice with all my might. It will be a great joke to scare Jerry Muskrat. I wonder what he'll do and where he'll go."

So Peter hurried after Jerry Muskrat. By this time Jerry had reached the middle of the spring-hole. Peter was so full of his plan for scaring Jerry Muskrat that he didn't notice any difference in the ice. He didn't notice that it cracked a little as he hurried along. In a moment he was right over Jerry Muskrat. Then Peter stopped and with all his might he thumped with those stout hindfeet of his. You know Peter is a very good thumper. This time he was too good a thumper. You see, he was out on very thin ice. He thumped only that once. That once was enough. Peter went right through into the water. He never did know whether he scared Jerry Muskrat or not. He was too scared himself to think of any one else. That water was wet, as water has a way of being; also, it was cold. And, to make matters worse, the ice kept breaking as fast as Peter tried to crawl out on it.

EKONK
(STERLING HILL)

Rev. Lydia Hartig and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Gallup attended the funeral of Rev. T. Edward Davies at Westminster Sunday afternoon.

The meeting of Ekonk grange was held in Grange hall Monday evening. The third and fourth degrees were conferred on a class, after which a harvest supper was served. Four visitors from Moosup Valley were present.

Miss Harriet Sherman of Greene, R. I., was a visitor at Edwin S. Gallup's Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Colburn is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Frink entertained Mrs. Frink's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kritermyer, of Moosup Sunday.

Many from here attended the funeral of Miss Carrie Newton Sunday at Sterling M. E. church. Rev. Mr. Adams officiated. Mrs. Gilbert Randall and Mrs. Charles Gibson sang Miss Newton's favorite hymn, "In the Garden," and "Abide With Me." Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved sister, who is an invalid now in Florida. In one week her mother and sister were taken by death.

The Ladies' Aid society of Sterling Hill was entertained by Mrs. Walter Frink Tuesday afternoon. Eleven were present and blocks for a quilt were pieced. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Cards have been received from Miss Florence Douglas, who with her father is spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Elisha Bitgood of Hope Valley visited his sister, Miss Mary Bitgood, at her home here recently.

NORTH STONINGTON

Miss Constance Pendleton, accompanied by three college mates, has been home for a few days during the mid-year examinations at Wheaton college, where she is a junior.

The Woman's union of the Congregational church, held an all-day sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. Amos Wheeler, Wednesday. A picnic luncheon was enjoyed at noon, a feature being a birthday cake in honor of Mrs. John D. Avery.

The Women's league of the Baptist church held a White Cross sewing meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elmer E. Maine. Tea was served.

Miss Lila Thompson is ill.

The Farm bureau held a meeting in the Congregational vestry Friday. Rug-making was the work in order.

The Road to the Old Red Schoolhouse

Here rose the sunny hillock where the strawberries blossomed white,
In golden-hearted promise filled with magical delight,
And when the June days lengthened sent a fragrance through the air,
To stay our loitering footsteps with a lure beyond compare.

Here lay the shaded hollow where the jeweled partridge vine
Wove well an emerald carpet in those days of auld lang syne,
Circled with dewy, drooping fern, a wondrous fairy ring—
We knew that could we come at night we should hear the fairies sing!

Here drowsed the old fence corner where the blackberries' thorny hedge
Held all but hearts full dauntless on its rampant outer edge;
What honor crowned that gallant knight who, blithe and unafraid,
Broke through, and won ambrosial sweets for some proud little maid!

Here bloomed the sweet wild roses, pink-flushed, like the dawning sky,
Along the old stone wall they trailed, so bright and fair and shy,
And yielded lovely tribute for the smiling queen who reigned
In the Little Old Red Schoolhouse, worn, and low, and weather-stained.

Here stood the low-crotched maple where the robins built each year,
And let us watch their grave affairs, without one sign of fear:
And when their fledglings turned to flight, with greatly daring wings,
Was ever glee so high as ours, who watched those flutterings?

But that was long, and long ago! On all that happy way
Rise houses, houses, row on row, with smooth-shorn lawns and gay:
Yet some there are who still can see, with hearts too full for words,
The kind old country roadside, with its wildings, and its birds.

—Minnie Leona Upton, in Christian Science Monitor.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Bill Collector—"Your mistress promised to pay her bill this week."

Maid—"Not if I know it. It's my turn first."

The Master—"Who was the smallest man in history?"

Backward Bertie—"Please, sir, the Roman soldier who went to sleep on his watch."—Answers, London.

Patient—"I hadn't noticed."

Friend—"Good Lord, I had no idea you were so sick."—Wall Street Journal.

Doctor—As I said, you've just regained consciousness after the crash. I'm Dr. Peter, and—

Victim—O! For a second you gave me a shock. I thought you said you were St. Peter.—The Pathfinder.

Briggs—"Do you and your wife ever have any family jars."

Griggs—"They are not unknown in our menage. Margaret and I find them good things to preserve our temper in.—Boston Transcript.

Used Car Dealer—I'm willing to let you have this car for 10 days' free trial.

Herbert—And—er, then if that one isn't satisfactory could you let me have another one for another 10 days' free trial?—Honolulu Star Bulletin.

Prisoner—"I admit, your honor, that I was exceeding the speed limit, but I was afraid of being late at court."

Judge—"And what was your business in court?"

Prisoner—"I had to answer the charge of exceeding the speed limit."—Vancouver Province.

A huge truck skidded on the wet country road and overturned a farmer's market cart.

"You'd better go and tell your employer," the driver of the motor advised the frightened lad who stood looking at his load of vegetables strewn all over the road.

"He knows, mister," he said.

"But how can he knew?" persisted the truck driver.

"Because he's underneath!"—Montreal Star.

Buttons are made from dried blood plastic imported by Czecho-slovakia in hundreds of tons yearly, chiefly from Austria, Germany, The Netherlands and Switzerland. A better grade plastic, of which blood is the chief ingredient, is used for dyeing veneer and cardboard.

When John Q. Trimmer, now 93, of Mound City, Mo., heard of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, he made a vow that he would never shave again, and he has never broken his oath. He claims the distinction of being the only person who has not shaved since Lincoln's death.

Five day's work is required to make a straw hat in Curacoa. An ordinary harvest hat is woven by native women in eight to 12 hours, but Uncle Sam, who buys 60 percent of the yearly production, is much more particular and consequently the better hats are slowly and carefully made, trimmed, washed in sulphur and bleached in the sun. They sell for about $2.50 a dozen.

The breaking of another world fishing record recently occurred in South sea waters through the landing, with rod and reel, of a sailfish weighing 160 pounds and measuring 10 feet 7 inches in length. This fish, landed with rod and reel after a running fight lasting for two hours, is 79 pounds heavier than the former record catch. Samuel W. Tey, chief engineer of the Hawaiian board of health, made the catch.

PRICES ADVANCED WITH VARIETY ISSUES IN STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Relaxation in money rates, combined with favorable trade news, provided the background for a moderate advance in prices in today's stock market. Buying embraced a wide variety of stocks, but the return to market leadership of the standard industrials as dthe apparent cessation of selling pressure against the rails proved to be the outstanding features. Trading was in slightly larger volume than yesterday, but fell short of the 3,000,000 share mark crossed earlier in the week.

Call money renewed at 4 1-2 per cent, dropped to 4 1-4 and thence to 4. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, but an easier tone was reported in the bankers' acceptance market. The weekly New York federal reserve statement on brokers' loans, issued after the close of the market, showed an increase of $19,200,000, bringing the total to a new high record at $3,335,020,000. A decrease had been expected in many quarters. The 4 per cent. rediscount rate was continued by the New York bank, and the Kansas City federal reserve increased its rate from 3 1-2 to 4 per cent.

Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on General Motors common, announced after the market closed, was in line with general expectations, although hopes of a special disbursement were held in a few quarters. Wall street seemed particularly pleased at the strong financial condition of the company disclosed by the announcement that cash and marketable securities totaled $170,000,000, or about $25,000,000 above the total at the en dof last year. More than 20,000 shares of General Motors common changed hands during the day, the top price of 139 1-2 being only 1 1-2 points below the record high for the stock established last year, while the final quotation of 183 1-8 showed a net gain of 7-8.

Demand for U. S. Steel common was accelerated by reports of further improvement in the steel industry and predictions of an increase of more than 30,000 tons in the January unfilled orders to be made public at noon tomorrow. Steel closed 2 points net higher at 136 5-8 after having touched 147. Brooklyn Union Gas and Consolidated Gas reached record high levels on a revival of rumors of a merger of Metropolitan Gas and Electric Light properties.

DuPont soared 13 points to 335 and then eased to 322 on realizing. Among the many issues to show net gains of 2 to 6 points were Adams Express, American Zinc and Lead preferred, Christie Brown, Continental Can, Gold Dust, International Harvester, Midland Steel Products preferred, New York Air Brake, Texas Gulf Sulphur and U. S. Realty. Tobacco Products issues jumped about 6 points on the announcement that the company was to be liquidated.

Renewed weakness developed in some of the oil shares, Atlantic Refining and Pierce Oil preferred being the hardest hit. Montgomery-Ward and Vanadium Steel, which had been prominent in the recent advance, ran into heavy realizing and lost ground.

Atchison, Erie and St. Louis, San Francisco led the advance in the rails.

Foreign exchanges were slightly easier. Sterling cables yielded a small fraction to $4.87 1-4 and minor recessions took place in most of the continental rates.

Another bad break in rubber prices featured the mixed commodity markets. Wheat, corn, cotton and coffee prices all advanced moderately, but sugar prices continued to display an easier undertone.

PRICES ADVANCED WITH VARIETY ISSUES IN STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Relaxation in money rates, combined with favorable trade news, provided the background for a moderate advance in prices in today's stock market. Buying embraced a wide variety of stocks, but the return to market leadership of the standard industrials as ddthe apparent cessation of selling pressure against the rails proved to be the outstanding features. Trading was in slightly larger volume than yesterday, but fell short of the 3,000,000 share mark crossed earlier in the week. Call money renewed at 4 1-2 per cent, dropped to 4 1-4 and thence to 4. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged , but an easier tone was reported in the bankers' acceptance market. The weekly New York federal reserve statement on brokers' loans, issued after the close of the market, showed an increase of $19,200,000, bringing the total to a new high record at $3,835,020,000. A decrease had been expected in many quarters. The 4 per cent. rediscount rate was continued by the New York bank, and the Kansas City federal reserve increased its rate from 3 1-2 to 4 per cent.

Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on General Motors common, announced after the market closed, was in line with general expectations, although hopes of a special disbursement were held in a few quarters. Wall street seemed particularly pleased at the strong financial condition of the company disclosed by the announcement that cash and marketable securities totaled $170,000,000, or about $25,000,000 above the figure at the en dof last year. More than 200,000 shares of General Motors common changed hands during the day, the top price of 139 1-2 being only 1 1-2 points below the record high for the stock established last year, and the final quotation of 138 1-2 showed a net gain of 7-8.

Demand for U. S. Steel common was accelerated by reports of further improvement in the steel industry and predictions of an increase of more than 30,000 tons in the January unfilled orders to be made public at 5 o'clock tomorrow. Steel closed 2 points higher at 146 5-8 after having touched 147. Brooklyn Union Gas and Consolidated Gas reached record high levels on a revival of rumors of a merger of Metropolitan Gas and Electric Light properties.

DuPont soared 13 points to 335 and then eased to 332 on realizing. Among the many issues to show net gains of 3 to 8 points were Adams Express, American Zinc and Lead preferred, Austin Nichols, Continental Can, Gold Dust, International Harvester, Mid-Continent Steel, Products preferred, New York Air Brake, Texas Gulf Sulphur and U. S. Realty. Tobacco Products rose jumped about 6 points on the announcement that the company was to be liquidated.

Renewed weakness developed in some of the oil shares, Atlantic Refining and Pierce Oil preferred being the hardest hit. Montgomery-Ward and Vanadium Steel, which had been prominent in the recent advance, ran into heavy realizing and lost ground.

Erie and St. Louis, San Francisco led the advance in the rails. Foreign exchanges were slightly lower. Sterling cables yielded a small fraction to $4.87 1-4 and minor concessions took place in most of the continental rates.

Another bad break in rubber prices followed the mixed commodity market. Wheat, corn, cotton and coffee prices all advanced moderately, but sugar prices continued to display an easier undertone.

Power Rate Revision
SCHEDULE "E" POWER

Available only to customer having demands for 10 Kv.a. or more.

Rate:
(1) A Demand Charge.
For the first 40 Kv.a. per Kv.a. $2.50
For all additional per Kv.a. $1.50
plus (2) An Energy Charge.
For the first 50 Kw. hrs. per Kv.a. of demand per month, per kw. hr. .03
For all additional energy, per kw. hr. .01

Discount:
Energy supplied to a customer at primary voltage will be metered at such voltage and the customer allowed 5 per cent. in the billing to cover transformer losses. In such cases transformers will be furnished by the department.

Determination of Demand:
The demand charge for any month shall be based upon the maximum 15 minute integrated demand, exclusive of demands due to short circuits, lightning, etc.

Minimum Bill:
The minimum total charge for any month shall be an amount equal to the demand charge at the above rates based upon the average of the three highest monthly demands occurring during the 12 months ending with the month under consideration.

Special Rule:
Where the total use of energy for lighting purposes is less than 25 per cent of the total consumption, such lighting energy may be included under this schedule. The customer shall furnish and maintain all transformers to supply such energy whenever the customer uses secondary metering.

BUILDINS OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

With the advent of extreme weather for a few days during the past week building operations were slowed down a trifle but not enough to make any serious difference in contracts. Work went on without interuption except in cases where outside cement work was necessary.

During the past week several buildings have been completed and are now ready for occupation. The new Silberman addition is practically completed and with the interior work going along at a rapid rate the building will be ready for occupation.

The work of remodeling the store in the Wauregan block on Main street is almost completed and it is expected that the restaurant will be open for business on Saturday. An attractive restaurant has been made in the store with entrance to the Wauregan lunch bar kitchen. A balcony has been built around three sides of the room and here about 10 tables will be set. A lunch counter with three sides is located in the center of the room. Food is prepared at one end of the room in open view of the customers and everything is exceptionally neat and sanitary.

At the Norwich state hospital work on the ward buildings goes uninterrupted and although it will be several months before the work is complete good progress has been made and the contractors are well ahead of their schedule.

At the new home of Dr. J. J. Donohue on the Norwich-Taftville road the building is practically complete. Grading of the grounds will start just as soon as the frost is out of the ground this spring.

In other sections of the city a good deal of work has been done during the past few days. At the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton a number of building permits have been filed and await approval before building will be started.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 5 sales of real estate as compared to 11 sales for the same week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the corresponding weeks were $22,150 and $15,950.

There were six sales of real estate in New London during the past week, three less than for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $64,145 and $116,800.

Building Permits.

Marked gains in building construction in Connecticut are reflected in the record of building permits issued in the building centers in this state reported in The Commercial Record. The total of permits issued during the past week was 240, an increase of more than 100 over the corresponding week in 1927. The total of estimated construction costs was $1,054,626, against $405,000 for the like period a year ago.

Following plans for a remodeling of the first floor and extensive alterations of the upper floors of the Neptune building at State, North Bank, Atlantic, and Potter streets, one of the most conspicuous buildings in the vicinity of the parade, workmen have made rapid progress on the tearing out of much of the original structure on the first floor of the building to effect the changes planned by the Alling Rubber Co., which recently purchased the brick structure. Plans were prepared by Architect Fred S. Langdon.

The most drastic changes planned are those of re-arranging the first building to effect an entrance from State street without climbing stairs. This work necessitates the tearing out of the old flooring and the establishment of new supports on a new level several feet lower than the original level. While this work is being done it has been necessary to provide substantial props for the upper structure to prevent any possibility of collapse. Under the new plans two stores will be provided with entrances from State street, a small one in the middle of the building and a larger one at the southeast corner. The present store space with entrance from North Bank street will be entirely remodeled to conform with modern design and will possibly also be extensively altered as to floor level. The upper part of the building will be fitted for use as modern office space.

A local contractor has completed work on the construction of a substantial frame grandstand at Mercer Field for the Bulkeley School Athletic Field, Inc. The new structure is 41 by 54 feet roofed over by a broad sloping roof to the back, with entrances to the grandstand from either end facing the field. The sides are broaded up to the bottom of the seat levels and the spaces below the stands are closed in for such use as might be needed. The grandstand contributes much to the appearance of the field and together with the regular clubhouse and facilities completes the building equipment necessary. Heavy and fine appearing timbers were used in the construction enhancing the appearance and providing for all possible strain.

With the brick sidewalks practically finished, work on the roofing of a new apartment house, being built in West street, is expected to be finished in the near future with subsequent speeding of the interior work being anticipated with the inclosure. The new building has a 37 foot frontage and is 90 feet deep, and three stories in height. Plans call for 12 apartments, six of three rooms and six of four rooms, and all finished in modern fashion with all improvements.

Work is being pushed on the enclosing of the fourth of as many new cottages being built in Glenwood avenue for Dr. Oliver Winship. The new houses are of various modern architectural design each having provisions for all modern improvements and conveniences and each being distinctive in itself.

A New London builder has completed work on enclosing the second of two new cottages in Lester street. The new structures are of frame construction, 24 by 24 feet with sun porches and open porches of modern design. From private plans the new dwellings will have all modern improvements. Work is being done by the day under supervision of the owner.

A new cottage is being framed in Neptune avenue by Michael O'Connell for himself. The new structure is 20 by 36 feet, of modern design and will have every modern convenience and improvement including special features of the builder.

School Work Completed.

Work in connection with the adapting the Miller building in Bank street to use by the Opportunity classes formerly houses in the Cofit Street school has been practically completed and school sessions resumed in the new quarters.

Westerly.

Building operations outdoors were but slightly impeded by the light fall of snow the first of the week. At the Chester block in process of erection on Railroad avenue the past week brickmasons began laying the face brick on the iron girders for the second story street front of the two-story business block. Most of the steel work and wooden support for the second story roof of the building is already in place.

At the addition to the east side of the Westerly Memorial and Public Library building on Broad street metal workers have nearly completed placing copper gutters and valleys in position so that the laying of the terra cotter tile roof can be started.

With favorable weather this week the work of placing a granite course on the cement foundation walls of the new Central Westerly Fire Station Headquarters building on Union street can be started as some of the wooden form of the cement walls have already been taken down. There is much of the electrical supplies already delivered on the site, in the nature of conduit pipe and fittings which will be placed in the building walls and floors by electrical sub contractors, Pucci Electric Shop. As anticipated, last Friday afternoon found the last of the concrete for the foundation cement walls poured by workmen for sub contractors, A. M. Gencarelli & Co.

On the first or store floor of the Morrone and Costagna business block being completed on Canal street plasterers will soon have completed the work of placing the third coating on side walls and the beamed ceiling. An outside chimney has been erected on the east side of the Leibovitz wooden business block on High street while the rear of the A. and P. store on first floor has been curtained off that carpenters may work without disturbance of store occupants.

Westerly Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossie and Building Inspector Thomas Wills have issued the ollowing zoning and building permits for the fourth week in January.

Jan. 16. A. Clifford Shinkle, Cincinnati, O. Reshingle entire "Shinkle Cottage," Bluff avenue, Watch Hill, with white cedar shingles. R. A. Sherman Sons' company, contractors.

Jan. 23. William H. Corbin, Hartford. Reshingle roof, Seaward cottage, Meadow Lane, Weekapaug, with slate-coated shingles. New Art Tile Roofing company, Norwich, contractors.

EVERETT, MASS., ROCKED BY EXPLOSION THAT KILLED AT LEAST TEN PERSONS

At Least Fifty Persons Were Injured, Many Seriously—Havoc Was Wrought by Explosion of a Unit of Ten Large Stills in the Refining Plant of the Beacon Oil Company—Nine Charred Bodies Have Been Recovered From the Debris—Flames Shot Up to a Height of 80 Feet Above the 100 Foot Structures—Dense Smoke Hampered the Work of Rescue—About 300 Persons Were Employed in the Entire Plant, of Whom 150 Were in the Section Chiefly Affected by the Explosion.

EVERETT, Mass., Feb. 10. —(AP)—With a concussion that rocked this city and was felt for many miles beyond, a unit of 10 large stills in the refining plant of the Beacon Oil company here, exploded late today, causing heavy loss of life. Early tonight the known dead numbered 10, but it was believed that other bodies lay covered in the red-hot ruins of the still section. At least 50 were injured, many seriously.

Nine charred bodies had been taken to an Everett undertaking establishment, and Vito Raneso, of Everett, one of 30 injured taken to the Massachusetts General hospital, died there of burns. Some of the bodies recovered were so charred that police officials said their identity might never become known until a check-up of missing employes had been made.

The plant of the oil company occupied a tract of about 50 acres on the bank of the Mystic river in East Everett, opposite Charlestown. The affected form one unit in a total of 25 in the plant. President R. E. Wyble of the company said that the explosion probably was caused by the failure of a low pressure still. In the refining process the crude oil is first carried through coils and vaporized at low pressure. The gases are then cooled and redistilled at higher pressure. Kahle said he did not think any high pressure still had exploded.

It was shortly after 3 o'clock that the explosion came, shaking Everett and the Charlestown section of Boston and shattering windows for a wide area about the plant. The stills blew up singly instead of in unison. Flames shot up to a height of 80 feet above the 100 foot structures, and a pall of dense smoke hung over the plant, hampering the work of rescue. Ambulances and fire apparatus were sent from Boston, Chelsea, Malden, Revere and other nearby points.

About 300 persons were employed in the section chiefly affected by the explosion, as well as in the section chiefly afected by the explosion. Most of those killed were at work about the stills, but in the machine shop nearly four men lost their lives. That building and a boiler maker's shop adjoining suffered severely from the explosion and fire. When the fire was brought under control about two hours after the first shock six of the stills had fallen and the other four were severely damaged. President Kahle set the property loss at $75,000.

Less than 100 feet from the burning stills were six tanks each holding 40,000 gallons of refined product. None of these exploded although several fires started about them. Other sections also escaped because the high pressure from the outside prevented the fire following through the underground pipes by which crude oil was forced to the stills. Much of the damage was caused by oil spreading along the ground.

It was several hours after the fire was brought under control before the ruins cooled sufficiently to permit of a close search for bodies. It was believed that at least two other bodies lay under the ruins where one could be seen by firemen.

An inquiry into the cause of the explosion was started immediately by the state department of public safety, Inspector Edward F. Torrigan being detailed to this work.

Scores of relatives of employes who had not yet been accounted for gathered about the gates of the plant and about the undertaking rooms where the dead lay, awaiting news of the missing. At 7:30 the identified dead were:

John Collins, Cambridge; Michael Gilligan, Malden; Joseph Landrigan, Everett; Flynn MacIntosh, residence unknown; Vito Raneso, Everett.

The body of Landrigan was taken from the ruins about 7 o'clock. He had been pinned down in the collapse of a brick wall and it was necessary to saw through a piece of piping before his body could be extricated.

Of the injured taken to hospitals only 16 remained under treatment tonight, the others having been sent home after their hurts had been cared for. Five of those at the Massachusetts General hospital were in a critical condition. They were Charles C. Poirier, of Everett; Exrial Mugford, of Wakefield; William McVey, of Malden; Patrick Flaherty, of Dorchester and Jeremiah Trottman, of South Boston. At the Whidden Memorial hospital in Everett, the name of Paul Shea, of East Lynn, was on the danger list.

In addition to those treated at the Massachusetts General the Whidden Memorial and the Chilsea Memorial hospital in Chelsea, a score were given first aid treatment at the Emergency hospital of the oil company at the plant.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

CATERHAM VALLEY, Surrey, Eng., Feb. 10—(AP)—Richard Kearton, noted naturalist whose writings and photographic closeups of birds and animals are widely known, died at his home, yesterday.

VIENNA, Feb. 10—(AP)—Baron Ludwig Hatvang, noted Hungarian publicist, who was sentenced last week to seven years imprisonment for the alleged calumination of the Hungarian government, has offered to free his wife from their marriage.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 10—(AP)—Aggressive war must be outlawed, but war for legitimate defense in the application of the covenant of the league of nations or in the execution of a league decision is justifiable in the view of a committee of noted experts who today presented a report on the means of the promotion of international security.

BIDS RECEIVED FOR THE PACIFIC COAST LINES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—Bids for three Pacific coast shipping lines were received today by the shipping board and turned over to the Merchant Fleet corporation for study and report.

Four offers were received, all on the five year guaranteed operation plan, under which the ships would be paid for in seven and a half years.

For the 21 vessels of the American Australian Orient lines operating to Australia, New Zealand, Philippine Islands, China, and Japan, a joint bid of $1,931,756.50 was received from the Matson Navigation company and the American Hawaiian Steamship company.

The bidders agreed to monthly sailings from Los Angeles and San Francisco to Japan and China and to sailings monthly from Seattle, Tacoma, San Francisco and Los Angeles to New Zealand and Australia.

K. D. Lawson, on behalf of a corporation to be organized bid $1,065,000 on eleven vessels of the Oregon Oriental line and guaranteed to maintain monthly sailings from Portland to Japan and North China and semi-monthly sailings from Portland to South China and the Philippine islands.

Puget sound interests bidding for the Tacoma Oriental steamship company yet to be formed, offered $896,306 for the seven ships of the American Oriental Mail line. They guaranteed monthly sailings from Seattle and Tacoma to Japan, China and the Philippine islands.

The Admiral Oriental lines of the Dollar interests, bid $670,357 on the American Oriental Mail line. Complete interchange of ports was contemplated in both bids on this line, which were the only competitive offers received.

RADIOPHONE BETWEEN BERLIN AND WASHINGTON

BERLIN, Feb. 1—(AP)—Radio telephonic communication between Berlin and Washington was inaugurated at 4.30 this afternoon with conversations between German and United States officials in the two capitals.

Chancellor Marx, confined to his bed with an attack of sciatica, refused to let his illness prevent his scheduled part in the history making performance, and when connections had been made entered into a conversation with Undersecretary of State Robert E. Olds at Washington.

Chancellor Marx was followed on the phone by United States Ambassador Schurman, who, in the presence of correspondents and newspaper photographers, carried on a chatty conversation with the undersecretary, the words of Olds being received so distinctly that even those gathered around could hear them.

To Mr. Olde' evident "good morning" Mr. Schurman replied, "It's afternoon here." And then without raising his voice he continued, "the last wonder we had here came when Chamberlin and Levine dropped out of the air on us. I suppose, however, we should expect still more marvels of this kind in the near future."

Olds was heard to reply in a facetious tone, "it might be more expeditious to carry on our business with the embassy by means of the wireless telephone."

Schurman answered him, "That's fine. Hope you will do it."

SEARCHING FOR DEPUTIES AND THEIR PRISONERS

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 10—(AP)—Search for two deputy sheriffs and their two prisoners who disappeared Tuesday after leaving here for the state reformatory at Pendleton, Ind., seventy miles distant, was spread over the middlewest tonight after Sheriff C. M. Johnston returned from a day of running down valueless clues in Indiana.

Photographs of the convicted men and descriptions of all four missing persons were sent to police departments throughout the central western states. Several radio stations also broadcast descriptions.

The deputies, John P. Grove and Wallace McClure, started for Pendleton four days ago with the prisoners, Samuel Baxter and John Burns, handcuffed in the tonneau of their automobile. Nothing has been heard from then since, except a report that the two convicts were in Danville, Ills., Tuesday afternoon, visiting an aunt of Burns.

SECRETARY KELLOGG HAS RETURNED TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—Secretary Kellogg returned today from his trip to Canada and said he never enjoyed a visit more in his life. Speaking of his reception at Ottawa, the secretary said that while Canadian hospital was proverbial the manner in which he was received by the governor general, Viscount Willingdon; the prime minister, Mackenzie King, and the officials and members of parliament, had been beyond his anticipation. The secretary was particularly interested by the archives buildings at Ottawa which he thought was one of the most interesting exhibits in the world.

Luncheon For French Fliers at White House

President Coolidge Formally Welcomed Aviators Lebrix and Costes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—President Coolidge and the American congress today formally welcomed the French trans-Atlantic fliers, Lebrix and Costes.

A luncheon was given in their honor at the White house where Ambassador Claudel, Assistant Secretary William J. Carr of the state department and General Pershing also were guests. Later the aviators visited the senate and house, where they were received with applause.

Immediately before the White house luncheon, the aviators were welcomed informally at the National Press club by newspapermen of the capital. J. Fred Essary, of the Baltimore Sun, president of the club, received them and showed them through the new club rooms.

The fliers set aside the afternoon to visit Bolling field to see that their plane is in condition to undertake the flight tomorrow morning to New York and the proposed transcontinental flight a few days later.

On their visit to the capitol, Costes and Lebrix first went to the house, and from there they were accompanied to the senate by Speaker Longworth. There Vice President Dawes received them in his office and later took them to the floor of the senate. The senators passed in single file to shake their hands. As they stood with Ambassador Claudel before the vice president's dais.

Lebrix and Costes expressed themselves as delighted with their reception at the capitol.

"The vice president and Mr. Longworth were most cordial," said Lebrix "and spoke of the long friendship that has existed between the aviators of American and France."

When asked about their proposed transcontinental flight, the two Frenchmen said they expected to encounter no difficulties.

"The Rockies are easier to cross than the Alps," laughed Costes.

DETECTIVES GUARDING PRESIDENT COSGRAVE

LONDON, Feb. 10—(AP)—When William T. Cosgrave, president of the Irish Free State landed at Southampton today, from the liner Olympic he was met by detectives who will remain with him until he is safe once more in his quarters at Dublin.

This was an unnecessary precaution so far as President Cosgrave himself was concerned, the free state official laughing at the idea of come one wishing any great ill will, and scouting the theory that published reports of a plot against Governor General McNeil were more than a practical joke.

Cosgrave, who is spending the night in London and will return to Ireland tomorrow, could not be induced to say anything at all about either Eamon de Valera, opposition leader, or prohibition in America.

SENATE INQUIRY INTO COAL STRIKE PROBABLE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—A two-barrelled senate inquiry into the Pennsylvania coal strike situation was in the offing tonight as a result of the day's developments at Capitol Hill.

After a plea by representatives of the miners, the senate interstate commerce committee deferred action on the Johnson resolution for an inquiry by that committee, but Chairman Watson said a prima facie case had been made out and that the resolution would be reported favorably.

A RUSH EXPECTED FOR OPERATORS' LICENSES

HARTFORD, Feb. 10—(AP)—Unless there is a decided increase in the number of applicants for motor vehicle operators' licenses within a few days, considerable congestion is looked for in the final days before March 1, when new licenses become effective, it was said at the state motor vehicle department today. Applications are approximately 2,000 below the number issued at this time last year, notwithstanding the fact that about 30,000 more drivers are expected to be licensed this year.

FOUND IN GUTTER WITH BULLETS IN HIS BODY

BOSTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—A man giving the name of Louis Tucker, 28 years old, of the Back Bay district was found lying in a gutter in the South End tonight with three bullets in his body. He was taken to the City hospital by a taxi driver but was unable to tell what had befallen him. His condition is critical.

Abraham Lincoln.

Oh, slow to smite and swift to spare,
Gentle and merciful and just!
Who in the fear of God, didst bear
The sword of power, a nation's trust!

In sorrow by thy bier we stand.
Amid the awe that hushes all,
And speak the anguish of a land
That shook with horror at thy fall.

Thy task is done; the bonds are free;
We bear thee to an honored grave,
Whose proudest monument shall be
The broken fetters of the slave.

Pure was thy life; its bloody close
Hath placed thee with the sons of light,
Among the noble host of those
Who perished in the cause of Right.

Havana Lavish in Its Tribute to Lindbergh

Every Honor the Cubans Could Command Was Bestowed Upon the Hero.

HAVANA, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Crowds such as within the memory of Havana police officials Cuba has never seen before paid a noisy tribute to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh this afternoon.

Cubans most of them were, but there were Americans too, enough of them that when island military bands played the Star Spangled Banner, an audible chorus could be heard singing the refrain. Cuban youths climbed about the dais of the statue of Jose Marti to put themselves head and shoulders above the masses that thronged the prado while the city's firemen, armed with long spiked poles, maintained lines in a semblance of order so that Lindbergh, President Machado, Ambassador Judah, and others of the offical party might pass through to the pavilion in the center of the famous parkway.

On that pavilion exactly at noon, Mayor Gomez presented the American flier with the keys to the city, and expressed the wish he would avail himself of its every offer. The Cuban ambassador to the United States, Orestes Ferrera, translated Lindbergh's little speech of thanks into Spanish for the benefit of the assembled multitude and as its gist—that relations between the countries of the Americas might be improved immeasurably he thought as a result of progress in aviation—was borne to them they broke renewed cheering, of which perhaps "Viva Lindy, Viva Lindy!" was the only cry that could be distinguished.

When the flier had finished his brief say-so, President Machado grasped his hand and appeared on the verge of giving him an "embraso" but smiled and spoke with him for a moment instead. Cheering drowned out what they said, and none save perhaps themselves kows just what passed between them.

An hour before the ceremony of the keys this morning, Lindbergh had received the gold medal of the Havana province, presented him by Governor Yncian, who told him that all Havana thanked him for the honor of his visit, and hoped that he might find his stay pleasant, to which Lindbergh replied that it had been one of the most pleasant experiences of his life and one he would always remember.

The medal presentation took place in a room in the state department quarters that had been the conference room of Spanish and Cuban governors. Assembled in it were a hundred or more representing the elite of Cuban officialdom and society. Outside the throngs awaited the reappearance of the flier, of whom they had seen only a little as he entered, the official party pausing just a moment at the threshold of the building. Lindbergh was all smiles but it was only for his hosts and the Cuban people as a whole he brightened. A group of Cuban beauties who thrust themselves to the front for what crumbs of the man's bounty of favors he might bestow upon them had their trouble for nothing it seemed. The flier passed them without so much as a glance.

It is Lindbergh's plan to leave Havana at down Monday, flying directly to St. Louis in one of the longest non-stop ventures of his entire Pan-American tour.

$300,000 FIRE DAMAGE IN FRANKLIN, MASS.

FRANKLIN, Mass., Feb. 10—(AP)—Fire which started in the projection room of a motion picture theater destroyed the Morse Opera house block in this town tonight with loss estimated at $300,000. Firemen from Woonsocket, R. I., Milford, Millis and Wrentham answered the call of the Franklin department for assistance.

The block was of brick and wood construction with six stores on the street floor. The stocks of all were destroyed. The records of the Western Norfolk District court which occupied a part of the building, were saved.

The fire in the theater broke out near the end of a show and the audience left without disorder at the request of the manager.

THREE APARTMENT HOUSES RUINED IN ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 10—(AP)—Fire which started with an explosion has burned three apartment homes and is threatening the whole block at Mediterranean and North Carolina avenues in the Negro belt of the city.

The fire was largely confined to three structures on Mediterranean avenue. According to fire officials the blaze was started by the explosion of a still.

SENATE PASSED ANTI-THIRD TERM PRESIDENTIAL BILL

LaFollette Resolution Was Passed by a Vote of 56 to 26—18 Republicans and One Farmer-Labor Member Joined With 37 Demorats in Passing the Measure—Four Democrats and 22 Republicans Voted in the Negative—An Amendment by Senator Fess to Have the Resolution Apply to "Elective" Terms Was Rejected 73 to 5.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—The senate went on record today, 56 to 26, in favor of the retirement of presidents "after their second term."

By this vote the resolution of Senator Lafollette, republican, Wisconsin, declaring the precedent established by Washington and other presidents had become "a part of our republican system of government" was approved after four days of debate revolving about its application to President Coolidge.

The second paragraph of the resolution commending "the observance of this precedent by the president" was withdrawn by Senator Lafollette after Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, had moved to strike it out.

However, an attempt by Senator Fess to word the resolution to apply only to second "elective" terms was overwhelmingly rejected, 73 to 5. This move which would obviously except President Coolidge from the scope of the resolution was supported only by Senators Bingham and McLean, Connecticut; Waterman, Colorado, and Fess and Willis, Ohio, republicans.

Administration republicans had contended that the paragraph reflected upon Mr. Coolidge who, they contended, might still accept "in good faith" the republican nomination. Some democrats had assailed the paargraph as not accepting "in good faith" the announcement of the president that he did not choose to run.

Senator Lafollette who said he proposed his resolution because Charles D. Hilles of New York, and "other powerful factors in the party" were seeking to draft the president, withdrew the paragraph but, he said, "it was apparent from statements by his friends here that the president has not foreclosed his renomination."

"I had added that paragraph" Lafollette explained "in all sincerity because I thought President Coolidge by his statement had definitely eliminated himself from the race and was observing his tradition."

As adopted the resolution which does not call for house concurrence, reads:

"It is the sense of the senate that the precedent established by Washington and other presidents of the United States in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

The vote follows:

For the resolution:

Republicans: Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Capper, Couzens, Curtis, Cutting, Frazier, Gillett, Gooding, Howell, Johnson, Lafolette, MacMaster, Norris, Nye, Sackett and Schall—18.

NERVE-WRACKING FLIGHT IN STINSON-DETROITER

HARTFORD CITY, Ind., Feb. 10—(AP)—After a nerve-wracking three hour fight with the elements, a Stinson-Detroiter six passenger airplane piloted by Eddie Stinson and carrying five passengers including Miss Ruth Elder, trans-Atlantic aviatrix, landed on a farm one mile north of here early tonight after finding it impossible to land at Detroit, the plane's destination. The plane made a safe landing and no one was hurt.

Eddie Stinson, famous Detroit aviator, was piloting the plane which had gone to Chicago this morning from Detroit with a party of Detroit men and women to take Miss Elder back to Detroit.

After a flight of one hour and forty minutes on the trip back to Detroit, Stinson found it impossible to land at the Detroit flying field because of a heavy fog bank and because ice was rapidly forming on the wings of the plane, the pilot said at a hotel here tonight.

Driving his plane up into the air again in an effort to find a rift in the clouds and fog Stinson said he battled for several hours in an effort to keep the plane in the air while attempting to find a landing place. Stinson finally landed his plane north of here, many miles south of Detroit, where it will be left until morning when the trip to Detroit will be resumed.

TWO DEATHS CAUSED BY CARBON MONOXIDE GAS

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 10—(AP)—Two men were killed in closed garages in Bridgeport and in Fairfield today by carbon monoxide gas from cars with running motors. Both deaths are believed to have been accidental. Henry C. Johnson, 25, of 1865 Fairfield avenue, a mechanic, was found dead tonight in a private garage on Ash street, Fairfield, where he had been repairing a car. He was discovered by William Young, of Grasmere, Fairfield, owner of the garage.

John J. Crowley, of 87 Waldorf avenue, a salesman, was killed by carbon monoxide gas in a closed garage at 233 Schofield avenue, Bridgeport. A boy entered the garage at one o'clock and discovered Crowley, lying under the car with a screw driver in his hand. The engine was running and Crowley's head was not far removed from the exhaust vent of the machine.

When Johnson was found at 5:30 p. m., he was in the front seat with his feet hanging outside the front door of the automobile.

FREAKISH WEATHER AGAIN VISITS THE BRITISH ISLES

LONDON, Feb. 10—(AP)—The British Isles again today suffered weather freaks. Late in the afternoon there was a sudden fall in the temperature of eleven degrees, with a terrific gale, accompanied by thunder and lightning, snow and sleet. This lasted about forty minutes, and London was in temporary darkness.

The wind, especially in Ireland, was of hurricane force in some places, eighty miles an hour, with torrential rains.

Thus far many minor accidents and property damage by lightning have been reported, but no fatalities.

THOMAS A. EDISON WILL BE 81 YEARS OLD TODAY

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 10—(AP)—Thomas A. Edison, reaching his 81st milestone tomorrow, is looking forward to the event chiefly because Mrs. Edison has promised him strawberries for luncheon.

Mr. Edison for the past year has been suffering from intermittent attacks of an ailment which physicians call "a fancy name" but which Mrs. Edison describes as "old fashioned dyspepsia," and has been on a strict milk diet.

ROBBERIES IN PULLMAN OF ROYAL PALM LIMITED

ATLANTA, Feb. 10—(AP)—A Pullman car melee, which had its origin when passengers aboard the Southern Railway's Royal Palm Limited discovered just as the train reached here they had been robbed, and undertook to search a fellow passenger, apparently was cleared up tonight.

Robert Garland and Frank Russell recently released from federal prison here, and passengers on the train, were said by officials to have confessed to the thefts.

One complaining victim appeared at the police station clad only in his pajamas, and these had suffered much in his attempt to search another passenger as a suspect. Another man continued his journey to Cincinnati without money or his false teeth. His pockets had been rifled of both.

An amazed terminal patrolman, unable to cope with the situation single-handed suggested moving the controversy to headquarters. The entire party, including baggage, was loaded in a patrol wagon, and carried to police headquarters. A search of baggage disclosed a suit of clothes for the pajama attired traveler, and after questioning Garland and Russell were held.

HOLDING OFF DEADLOCK AT HAVANA CONFERENCE

HAVANA, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The Pan-American union committee of the Pan-American conference today clung to formalities of procedure to postpone the hour when it may have to declare that its labors have ended in a deadlock.

Consideration of a sub-committee report was deferred as a means of holding off the deadlock. This report announced that it was impossible to reach a unanimous agreement among the members regarding the contents of the preamble to the newly proposed convention to regulate the activities of the Pan-American union.

In the meantime the committee considered the individual articles of the convention regarding which the sub-committee had obtained accord, the delay thus interposed in debate on the preamble was felt to offer an opportunity which might lead to the discovery of a formula which would accommodate the Argentine contention that Pan-Americanism tends toward the abolition of excessive tariff barriers while also pleasing to the other delegations which are all solidly against Argentina in this particular matter.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS MUST RECOGNIZE BROTHERHOOD

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 10—(AP)—The federal court injunction which union leaders have vigorously opposed as a weapon used against labor in industrial disputes, brought three officials of a railroad face to face with jail terms here today for a fight waged on the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson gave three executives of the Southern Pacific lines of Texas and Louisiana the choice of occupying jail cells for an indefinite stay, or obeying his decree establishing a "company union" and making the brotherhood the official labor body of the 3,500 clerical employes of the road in the two states.

NICARAGUAN REBELS KEPT ON THE MOVE

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 10—(AP)—The rebel General Sandino is apparently on the move most of the time with his forces which are variously estimated at between 100 and 300. He does not remain long in one place. He is reported to have been seen within the last few days about 40 miles northeast of Matagalpa.

It is asserted at marine headquarters that the scope of his operations has been narrowed and that from this on he will not be able to move with the same freedom he enjoyed a couple of weeks ago.

RESOLUTIONS RELATING TO TEACHING PROBLEMS

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Resolutions relating to teaching problems in schools were introduced at the opening meeting of the Connecticut State Teachers' association convention at the auditorium of the New Haven high school today, will be acted upon at the session tomorrow. One of the most important of the resolutions is of particular interest to Junior high schools throughout the state and it provides that four points instead of three points be credited to English in the curriculum.

The annual convention brought hundreds of visiting school teachers here today and the number will be swelled to a much larger figure tomorrow when several of the various groups which make up the state teachers' association hold separate dinners and meetings.

TWO SCORE MEN TRAPPED IN MINE IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 10.—(AP)—About two score men were trapped by fire in the Hollinger mine at Timmins today and as the rescue work went forward, their wives and children waited at the shaft head, weeping and praying.

Four bodies were brought out but several hours after the fire broke out in excavations 550 feet underground rescue crews had not yet been able to reach the place were 31 more miners were believed to be imprisoned, their escape, if they were still alive, cut off by fumes from the fire.

All work in Timmins was halted and the citizens turned out in force to offer assistance in the rescue work.

G. Williams, general superintendent of the mine, took personal charge of the work, leading rescue parties on frequent descents into shaft number 11 in hope of eventually getting below the fourth, fifth and sixth levels where the men were trapped and finding some outlet for them.

BROADCASTERS ISSUE AN APPEAL TO CONGRESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—The National Association of Broadcasters issued an appeal to put an end to "hesitation and delay in both houses of congress" lest broadcasting and the whole radio industry collapse.

"The federal radio commission," the appeal read, "is practically paralyzed, because it can take no action unfavorable to any broadcasting station without the almost certain probability that some senator or congressman will use the incident as a reason for opposing the confirmation of one or more of the commission's members."

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN THEIR HOME

CUMBERLAND, Md., Feb. 10—(AP)—Four children of ages from 8 years down to 8 months, were burned to death today at Spring Gap, near here, when the mother of one of them left them alone to visit a neighbor. The home of Winter Garland, father of the other three, was destroyed by the flames.

LIQUOR GETS 25-YEAR ARMY VETERAN IN TROUBLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—(AP)—A veteran of three wars with 25 years of United States army service, Capt. J. Leland Bass tonight faced dishonorable discharge after an army courtmartial found him guilty of transporting liquor in his luggage.

The verdict ended one of the longest army trials of an individual on record growing out of the discovery of some government liquor among Capt. Bass' effects when he was transfered from the Sixth Corps Area Headquarters here to Selfridge Field, Mich. The captain pleaded that the liquor had been placed there by some one else and said he knew nothing of its presence among his belongings until notified by federal authorities.

Counsel for the captain immediately gave notice of an appeal to the army judge-advocate who has the right to uphold or reverse the court martial.

Capt. Bass stood at attention as the verdict was read, then executed an about face and marched from the court without displaying emotion.

TO HAVE SPEEDY REPORT ON EMPLOYMENT SITUATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—A speedy report to Governor Alfred E. Smith on the New York unemployment situation was promised by industrial Commissioner James A. Hamilton, at the close of a hearing today on the subject.

At the meeting, which was attended by a special committee of 22 appointed by the welfare council of the city of New York, representing 2,200 social organizations, the commissioner reported the ratio of unemployed had jumped from 134 men for each 100 jobs in December 1926, to 215 for each 100 jobs in January 1928.

A Salvation Army representative said five daily bread lines have been established by that organization on the Bowery as against one a month ago.

Commissioner Hamilton indicated his report would be prepared as speedily as possible, and said he would seek additional figures before completing it.

COUNSEL HOPES TO STAY SENTENCING OF HICKMAN

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10—(AP)—Belief that William E. Hickman could not be sentenced for the slaying of Marian Parker until the court rules on a motion for a new trial next Tuesday, was expressed today by the legal defenders of the youth who was found sane by a jury in superior court yesterday.

Defense Attorneys Jerome Walsh and Richard Cantillon based their declaration on an agreement in court yesterday to ignore the usual rule that arguments for a new trial must be heard within 48 hours after a verdict is returned, and instead, present their argument Tuesday.

This agreement said the defense lawyers, may prevent the court from passing sentence upon Hickman, which Judge J. J. Trabucco set for tomorrow, until the motion for the new trial has been disposed of.

WESTERLY

ATTORNEYS REFUSE FEE, JUDGE IS ASTONISHED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 10—In the third district court, Friday morning before Judge Oliver H. Williams, there were no criminal cases to be tried.

The civil case tried was that of John F. Nolan, auto dealer of 527 Mountain street, Providence, against Raymond W. Champlin, Broad street, Ashaway. Attorney Dunn for the plaintiff stated that the action was one of trover and conversion in which an Essex coach was purchased on four notes of $25 each and one for $28, Oct. 11, 1927, Champlin executing a lease on a conditional bill of sale but had failed to make more than one payment.

LeRoy C. Rush, of Comstock avenue, Providence, testified that he had been in the employ of Nolan for six years, knew Champlin, from whom he had received a check for $36 which went to protest and he had paid $1.62 protest fee. Coming to claim the auto, under the bill of sale, the defendant, represented in court by Attorney Roche, claimed that he did not know where the car was as his brother had it and later no trace of the car could be found. Cross examination by Attorney Roche showed a balance of $110 due. Attorney Dunn informed the court that in an envelope with papers on the case his stenographer had found a check for $10 from Mr. Champlin which he did not want and which Mr. Roche claimed he had no authority to accept.

Judge Williams for the plaintiff, to recover $112.02 and costs of court. Action may follow this case under Rhode Island banking laws. Before the attorneys were dismissed Judge Williams said this occasion was a unique one, in the annals of this district court, where two lawyers refused $10 checks.

Other business was disposed of as follows: New writs entered before the calling of the docket. Jacob Rickert vs. John Pallazolo. If unanswered, continued one week; Frank Iacano and Co., Inc., vs. Anna DeBartolo. Continued two weeks; William C. Johnson vs. Ahtone Brommer. Assigned for trial Feb. 17th by agreement of counsel.

Civil docket. Luippold Mineral Waters, Inc., vs. Beppo Beumenot. Continued two weeks; Gavitt Furniture company vs. Agnes and Arthur E. Fraser. Continued one week; John Nelen vs. Raymond F. Champlin. Ready; E. B. Atmus vs. Reuben T. Holland, allas. Book account for $98.80 declared defaulted and passed for proof of claim; Newman F. Tuckerman vs. Albert Fisher. Continued two weeks as case is in process of settlement; Navard J. Lord vs. Tefft Motor Mart of Arctic, R. I. Capias asked for by Attorney Roche and ordered held.

Following adjournment, Judge Williams heard several cases in juvenile court, in chambers.

The attendance was much better Friday, the second day of the automobile show under the auspices of Harold Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion. The colonnade approach blown down by the high winds early Friday morning was replaced.

The presence of the lieutenant governor, now Acting Governor Norman S. Case was missed, due to the 30 day suspension of such activity out of respect to the memory of Governor Pothier. Arriving about 5.30 p. m. Friday, as the guest of the show, was State Police Commissioner R. T. Hurley of Hartford. Met by members of the committee with an escort of Westerly motor police officers, George L. Madison and Robert M. Kessel, the inn was visited where the following banquet was served to nearly 100:

Mixed Fruit Cocktail
Rhode Island Clam Chowder
Celery Olives Mixed Pickles
Planked Swordfish
Roast Capon
Mashed Potato Mashed Turnip
Early June Peas Raised Biscuit
Pineapple Fritters Lemon Sauce

At the conclusion of the banquet the party adjourned to the show, to view this year's motor models. Music was furnished by Crandall's orchestra.

At the Champlon Memorial Nurses' home at Westerly hospital Thursday evening a party and reception was tendered Mrs. John Robert Atkin, before her marriage, Feb. 2, Miss Mona Mary Cox, a nurse at the Westerly hospital. Refreshments were served and a social time was spent.

Senator Howard E. Thorp of Westerly secured suspension of rules in the state senate Thursday to permit the passage of legislation amending the charter of Westerly fire district so that the village of White Rock can be taken into the district. The Westerly fire district tax levy will be made at 12 o'clock noon, February 16th, according to the vote of the adjourned annual meeting of the fire district December 6th, 1927, when a tax of 25c was voted on every $100 worth of real and personal ratable estate in the district. Immediate action was necessary so that the 48 holders of real estate, recently purchased in the village of White Rock, together with the mill property now owned by the Traco Finishing Co., can be included in the tax assessment and receive the benefit of fire protection furnished by the Westerly fire department and the lower insurance rate. The amendment bill was presented in the house for passage last week.

Geoffrey L. Moore was elected commodore the past week of the recently organized Westerly Boat club. Others elected are: Vice Commodore Sidney B. Alling; Rear Commodore Otto Seidner; Secretary Horace A. Dunning; Treasurer Edward P. Faulk; directors, Gurdeon B. Hiscox, George A. Sanders, Joseph M. Dussault and Harold Coon. Members of the club comprise owners of motor boats, yachts and those interested in sailing craft on the Pawcatuck river. A regatta will be held in the river or Little Narragansett Bay during the coming summer.

Friday, workmen were engaged in removing the last of the wooden forms about the cement foundation for the new Central Fire station. Upon the cement will be placed the granite blocks which are being cut at the Smith Granite Works and with favorable weather will be available next week.

Employes of the highway department were busy loading the branches and trunks of the elm trees on trucks to be taken to the White Rock tar mixing plant. The wood came from the large trees in front of the old town hall which are being removed to permit the lowering of Union street. A half section from the Main street side has been excavated by the steam shovel and men in the employ of the water works department Friday laid a temporary service main. The shovel will begin next week the excavation of the northern half of Main street and of Union street.

Mrs. Carleton Irish of Rockville, motored to Westerly Friday.

NOANK

VILLAGE WAR MEMORIAL MIGHT BE A BIG BOULDER

Can the village of Noank afford a war memorial? Fifty young fellows and sea captains heard the call of their country and went into the last war. When they came back the people gave them a big time and a committee had an honor roll prepared it was painted white and in black letters were the names of those who were in the army and navy. Two American flags were on it and it read: "Sons of Noank who served in the World war." It was placed on the church lawn near the liberty pole. Now half the names are washed away by the rains. If some one or a committee started a drive around the village to raise money it would be no trouble to get a war memorial. At the corner of Brook street, would be the spot for it. Other towns smaller than this village have memorials. Why can't Noank be up with the other places? One day last season a summer boarder from Groton Long Point stopped on the Store Hill and after taking out his glasses to read the names on the honor roll, turned to a resident of Noank and said "It is a shame that this village cannot have a better honor roll, for it is the prettiest spot around this section! Look at the trees and the water front. I hope some day that Noank will have a memorial for the ex-service men." It was reported that a large boulder was to be placed on Brook street with names cut in the rock. Has the plan fallen through?

The Methodist society held a roast beef supper in the church parlor Thursday. Although it was raining hard, 78 people gathered from the village and Mystic to enjoy the good things. At one table was the Golden Bar club, all young girls. Miss Marion McDonald, the president, was in charge and twelve members attended. Stories were told by Miss Irene Jensen. Six girls sang as Thema Meister played the piano. Mrs. Charles Butson was chairman of the supper committee.

Several Legionnaires of the village went to Stonington Thursday evening and attended the fair given for a new war memorial.

Coast Guard boat Cartigan a 125-footer came from New York Thursday and tied up at the shipyard for a paint job and repairs. It will take a week before the boat is ready for sea duty again.

Steve Richards is a carpenter at the shipyard.

The girls are receiving valentines about flappers and sheiks. The question is "Have you been to the post office yet? I think you've got a valentine!" A house carpenter, George MacCarthy, who works in New London, went to the post office after his mail and put down his dinner box to open his mail box. He received a funny valentine about a carpenter, but he took it as a joke, and went away laughing, so forgot his dinner box. When he was ready to eat, no dinner was in sight, so his mate, Dave Moran gave him some lunch to help keep his ribs together until supper time.

The fox this week has made it bad for drivers for they could cut it with a knife it was so thick. One local auto man was one hour and 30 minutes coming from New London, making only 10 miles an hour. Cars were just crawling over Fort Hill road, it was so slippery and their headlights could be seen only a few feet ahead of them; candles would give as much light.

Keith Ebbetts has returned from Baltic.

Everett Bogue has resigned from the section gang of the railroad.

MYSTIC

Members here of Connecticut chapter, Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, have received notice of the 27th meeting to be held in the sun parlor of Stratfield hotel, Bridgeport, Thursday, Feb. 23rd, at 11:15 with luncheon at 1 p. m. to 2:15 p. m. Greetings from Mrs. J. L. Buel, national president; musical program. Three members have died during January, 1928.

The Parent-Teacher association of Mystic Academy carried out its plans Friday evening in having all the grades from the third to the eighth in session for one hour, 7 to 8 o'clock. The exercises were carried on as at the regular daily session and were arranged especially for the benefit of parents having children in the school. It was pleasing to the teachers to see so many adults in attendance, especially the fathers, who cannot see their children in classes during the day time. It was such a success last year that it was voted at the January meeting to repeat the session. The association has benefited Mystic by bringing noted lecturers here and making the price of admission so low that any one could attend.

Mrs. Velo Sharkey of Jewett City was a guest over Sunday at Mrs. G. A. Kennedy's.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kendall attended the funeral of Mrs. Walter Drew, Tuesday.

If you are offered anything to drink in a Chinese home, it is a breach of etiquette to touch it before the moment you are about to leave.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DANIELSON

HELD RECORD BEING OUT WITH SLEIGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 10—Reference in this column that morning to Edward S. Carpenter's 90th birthday anniversary, including his various records of long service, brought to the mind of a number here today that he for years made another record that was not mentioned.

It has to do with having the first sleighride of the season each fall. For many years Mr. Carpenter enjoyed that speciality. There were years, when competition was getting before the first flakes of the first snowstorm touched the ground. Admittedly, the sleighing was not exactly good—hardly better than it would be hereabouts in July—but that was only incidental. There was a record at stake and a reputation to maintain. In a sense, Mr. Carpenter's annual first sleighride came to be regarded hereabouts as the official opening in winter, and never did the year fail to chronicle the incident.

PRIEST'S ISLAND TO BE STATE PARK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 10.—Of interest to all this section of the state is the report that the state park commission plans to open Priest's island, south of Putnam, to the public this summer. To make it easy of access a bridge must be built across the Quinebaug river, and it is said that this is to be done.

Many years ago the island was a popular pleasure resort during the summer months and is said to have been given its name because parish picnics were regularly held there by the pastors of St. Mary's church at Putnam. In the course of the past three decades the island has become heavily wooded and it is one of the beauty spots of this section. The waters of the Quinebaug sweep in a beautiful curve around the northern and eastern side of the island, which is spot of a number of acres.

The island for years was the property of R. H. Bradley of Putnam, but some eight to ten years ago he sold to the state, which up to now has held it as part of the state system.

Plans that one hears of now have to do with spanning the river with a bridge, clearing away undergrowth to make the island park spic and span and in other ways making it an inviting restful and picturesque place which to while away an hour or as long a period as one may like.

With Commissioners Dunham and Pierce of Hartford present, a meeting of local fire underwriters was held this afternoon at the Attawaugan hotel. Danielson men present were A. Van Woodworth, Attorney Leslie G. Bill, Norman A. Reeves, H. Wilbur, F. E. Storer and Lyon-Gauthier.

The commissioners and agents discussed various subjects pertaining to fire underwriting business. An object of the meeting was to bring underwriters into closer touch with each other, to help towards uniformity in writing business and conducting transactions relative to the insurance business.

It is stated after the meeting the commissioners are not partial or favorable to granting licenses to non-time agents and that to become such agents are barred.

Hearing of the case of George Lyon of Plainfield scheduled to be heard in the town court before Judge W. Felmer Woodward this morning was again adjourned for one week. Lyon is facing a charge of assault. He is represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam counsel.

One of the matters that will help toward the project of building a new stretch of state highway through the town running from Main at Hutchins corners to a point on the Providence state highway at Stearns hill is the information by the superior court at Westcott and Wilcox. Old timers home to sell a certain parcel of land it owns and through which the proposed new highway will run. The state has no particular need of several acres of land, and the money derived from its sale will be added to the trust funds of the institution.

Comparatively few residents of this city have as yet taken out hunting and fishing licenses for 1928. Several hundred such licenses are issued every year, a great many of them just prior to the opening of the fishing in April and many more just before the hunting season each fall. Relatively few take out licenses in January and February, the records show.

As the winter wanes there is a re-vival of the talk about the construction of a new hotel and a new theater in Danielson. There is also the discussion of a combination hotel and theater. It is known that some proposals for financing such a project have been made, and that the matter is being considered and has been for some time past, but there is no ground as yet for believing the project will be undertaken this year, much as it may be.

Danielson, it appears, has its full share of hero worshippers—and there is no harm in it. Much evidence was shown Lou Gehrig last night when he appeared at the Town Hall with his All Star basketball team. He was cheered repeatedly for doing nothing in particular but being on hand and playing an average good game. The crowd manifested its pleasure at seeing him and regarded the privilege as a nice little treat made possible through the alertness of the management of the Danielson Town tam.

It is a bit discouraging to have those who recall such things make mention of the fact that it is not well to place too much faith in the winter being practically over at this time in February. Forty years ago on the coming 12th of March came the worst snowstorm that occurred hereabouts since that time. That was a month later in the season than the present date. March of 1919 brought another very heavy snowstorm. Late February or March may yet produce enough to make up the average fall for a winter.

Here it is popping up again in mid-winter—the daylight saving question, as it applies to Danielson for 1928. In a little more than 60 days the matter will have been decided again. Present prospects are that Danielson will go on the fast time schedule. There are no new reasons for making the change. The old ones still apply. With the big eastern cities with which Danielson daily transacts important business on daylight time, mills and banks here find it difficult to do business with them satisfactorily unless they follow the same time. It is not so much a matter of choice here in Danielson as one of expediency.

Romain Goyette, class of 1929, Assumption college is to direct the Assumption Instrumental trio when it broadcasts a concert from station WTAG at Worcester next Monday evening from 8 to 8.30. Mr. Goyette's home is in Wauregan. He is the outstanding musician at Assumption college—a violinist of merit.

A meeting of Dorcas Rebekah lodge was held in Odd Fellows' hall this evening.

Proceeds from the junior class entertainment given in the high school auditorium this evening are to be added to the Athletic Field fund.

Last evening Major E. L. Darbie was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club his subject being The Why of The Special Troops.

Again, for the 'steenth time this winter, country highways hereabouts are cut deep by ruts and traveling over them is anything but a pleasure.

Dr. C. R. Garcin of Dayville escaped injury when his car skidded on a slippery highway surface and was damaged.

Children of the American Revolution are to be entertained by members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., at St. Alban's parish house next Tuesday afternoon.

Mary F. Stearns of Willimantic will be the speaker when the W. C. T. U. meets in the parlor of the Westfield Congregational church next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Clarence Chase of Jewett City has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Alice Pray of School street.

As during the current week, three meetings of Killingly's board of relief are scheduled for the coming week.

Indicating the extensive manner in which hatching is being done hereabouts this season, it may be mentioned that there are at the present time 12,000 eggs in one incubator down at the Squaw Rocks farm, and that is only one of the incubators in use there.

A Well Child conference is scheduled to be held at the town hall building next Tuesday afternoon.

A Patriotic program was given tonight in G. A. R. hall, members of the G. A. R., W. R. C., and Sons of Veterans attending.

Frank E. Matthews has been appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. Annie M. Armington, who died recently at Attawaugan.

The new stockhouse for LaBelle and Page, on Railroad street, near the New Haven road tracks, has been closed in. Work on the structure started a few weeks ago.

Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett of Hartford is to be speaker at the March meeting of the Danielson chamber of commerce.

Members of the Sewing society of St. Alban's church held a meeting in the Parish house this afternoon.

Numbers visited the Baptist church this afternoon to see the Japanese doll. Miss Nagasiki, mentioned in this column this morning.

Rev. James H. George of St. Louis, a former rector of St. Alban's church, is in Danielson a few days, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Reed. He is now secretary of the mission activities of the Episcopal church in St. Louis.

PUTNAM

WEBSTER MAN FINED FOR BREACH OF PEACE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 10—Benjamin Johnson of Webster was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bert Johnson of Woodstock on Thursday evening upon a complaint from his wife, who lives in Woodstock. Johnson was taken to the Putnam police station by the sheriff and on Friday morning he was brought up before Judge A. C. Scranton Jr., and Grand Juror S. H. Peckham. Johnson was represented by Lawyer C. A. Torrey of Putnam while his wife was represented by Lawyer A. Macdonald, Jr., of Putnam. The charges that were used against the Webster man were breach of peace and drunkenness. Johnson obtained a decree of divorce from his wife some years ago and she stated that he had been troubling her recently.

The court fined the defendant $10 on each count and costs of $18.18. A jail sentence of thirty days was remitted.

The local board of fire underwriters will hold a banquet at the Putnam inn on Tuesday evening February 14, in honor of Judge Lucius H. Fuller's sixtieth anniversary in the insurance business.

Judge Fuller has been continuously in the insurance business since February 14, 1868. During this long period of time he has made many friends in Putnam and surrounding towns. One of his popular advertisements of his long established business is his large calendars that are seen in nearly every business establishment and home in the city. Although in his seventy-ninth year Judge Fuller is still active in his business, and he is seen around the streets daily working on his policies.

Joseph Foley of Manchester who was killed on Thursday evening when a truck which he was driving skidded and turned over, was a frequent visitor in this city. Mr. Foley was a cousin of Mrs. Bernice G Delaney of this city. The accident happened in Coventry.

Mr. Foley was engaged in the trucking business and he drove through Putnam quite often while on his trips. He is married and leaves a wife and two children.

Former Mayor Victor Chapdelaine returned from Canada on Wednesday. The former chief executive of the city had been at St. Ours attending the funeral of his brother who died last week.

Many Putnam basketball fans motored to Danielson Thursday evening to get a glimpse of the famous New York Yankee baseball player, Lou Gehrig, himself. During the post baseball season Gehrig has been playing basketball in the team called the Gehrig's All Stars composed of professional players.

The Putnam followers of this sport enjoyed the evening and got a thrill in seeing Babe Ruth's close second exhibit his skill at the famous winter indoor sport. Although Lou Gehrig was the big drawing card he did not have a hand in the large number of baskets that defeated the Danielson boys by a score of 52 to 21.

Boy Scouts of America, Troop 1, Putnam are to hold their annual Parents' night in the Scout club rooms on School street on March 1. The members of the troop have been preparing all kinds of scout events to exhibit to the mothers and fathers. Plans are being made to stage the event in the form of a rally with the members of the Danielson troop if possible. The committee in charge of the affair consists of Scout Herbert Keach, chairman, Howard Tourtellotte, Herbert Lepier and Joe Donovan.

Miss Bertha Child of Simmons college, was a recent visitor in Putnam. She being called here by the death of her uncle, John F. Carpenter.

Robert Brownlie of Bolles street is confined to his home suffering from a facial disease.

Many promotions in Scout rank have been made by the troop committee in the local troop of Boy Scouts. Many of the younger boys have been promoted from tenderfoot scouts to scouts of second class rank. Scout Howard Tourtellotte has been promoted from a second class scout to a first class scout. Scouts Herbert Kasch and Niel Bulger are the first members of the troop to blaze the trail to merit badge rank. They have successfully passed examinations for bicycling and swimming. Other scouts are working on their first class examinations. The troop is taking in many new members and the ranks are still open for more. Boys interested in joining should communicate with Scout George Connell, who has charge of recruiting the new boys.

The weekly card tournament between the K. of C. and the Odd Fellows was held in the Kaceys hall Thursday evening. This was the ninth weekly encounte rand after all ninth weekly encounter and after all back and held their rivals to a 7 to 7 tie. This play was the most interesting that has been fought out over the tables since the tournament started. The total score for the nine plays still leaves the Kaceys ahead by a score of 98 to 42. The tie has made the Odd Fellows grit their teeth and they are determined to come back next week and put the Kaceys down to a defeat. The next play will be held in Odd Fellows' hall on Thursday evening.

JEWETT CITY

HANDLING DAY-OLD CHICKS SUBJECT TO P. O. ORDERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Postmaster William T. Crumb has received the following revised regulations for postal employes in handling the shipments of day-old chicks, which have already commenced arriving at this office:

See that all shipments are definitely and completely addressed.

Do not give food or water to chicks while in transit.

Dispatch as quickly as possible and deliver to address promptly upon arrival at office of destination.

Do not place in mail bags or cover with other mail matter.

Do not expose to heat or cold, or place near hot pipes, stoves, or radiators.

Protect them from all extremes of weather.

Do not change the ventilation by punching additional holes in the containers, as it is the shippers' duty to provide proper ventilation.

Caution mailers as to the possibility of shipments made on Friday and Saturday reaching office of destination on Sunday, when no Sunday service is performed, thus necessitating the chicks remaining in the post office until the following morning. The same is true when shipments are made one or two days before a holiday.

Remember that day-old chicks are mailable only when the addressee can be reached before the chicks are 72 hours old, and that every shipment must bear a special handling stamp and be given the same expeditious handling, transportation, anddelivery according to mail of the first class.

Manager J. F. Barnett has been able to buy the great screen play, The Student Prince, which he will show at the Finn theatre.

The funeral of William Winterbottom was held in Hourigan Bros. funeral parlor Thursday afternoon, Rev. J. W. Carter conducting the service. Burial was in Jewett City cemetery. The bearers were John Serrier, Edward Day, John Farley and John Winterbottom. There were flowers from the relatives, who came from New Bedford, Adams, Springfield and Westerly.

Sunday evening at the Baptist church there is to be special music arranged by the men's committee. There are to be solos by Mrs. G. H. Prior and selections by a girls' quartet.

The banks and library are to be closed Monday.

Grandmother Knew

there was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Musterole gives the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears.

Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

A Safe Rule

If, when you invest, you make it a rule never to buy a bond or a stock your bank would not accept as security for a loan, you are on the right track. Save here, and talk over your investments with an officer of the bank.

"ORGY OF EXTRAVAGANCE"

When the senate put through the Jones bill providing for permanent government ownership of the merchant marine it was apparently determined to go through with such expense regardless of cost. There was little or no consideration given to the expense involved and no thought given to the effect of government competition upon private enterprise.

When the bill was presented calling for appropriations for independent government offices, which includes the shipping board, there was an interesting discussion in regard to the salaried officers regularly employed and those specially employed, each of which class called for appropriations of over a quarter of a million. If such was the case under present conditions with the government endeavoring to get rid of ships, some of the senators began to wonder what might be the result of the recently declared intention of having the merchant marine permanently operated by the government. Jumping into the discussion Senator King told what he knew about the shipping board, how it had been getting larger and larger appropriations and during all the time it has been piling up losses, and it was his statement that "there has been an orgy of waste and extravagance in connection with the activities of the shipping board."

Yet, the shipping board appears to have been responsible to congress and it would appear from the action of the senate that it had been so successful, done such wonderful things that it desired to have it take command of such work as a permanent thing, go as far as it liked and put it in control of this new government ownership undertaking. The senate must have known what the board was doing, how it was spending money and what extravagances were being practiced. Yet it hasn't hesitated to take action that would put it in a position to go much farther than it has ever gone before, and while it would be doing that it would be driving out of business the private capital that is now invested in American shipping. It can't be expected that private capital can compete with the conditions which are complained about by Senator King.

RIDE SOLICITING

Pointing out that 8600 children were injured and 310 killed by automobiles in Massachusetts last year, the representative of the automobile dealers and garage men in that state appeared before the legislative committee on highways and motor vehicles in that state and urged the adoption of a law that would impose a fine of $10 to $25 upon those found guilty of "soliciting rides and the unauthorized riding on motor vehicles."

The children killed were in many instances boys who jumped on or off the back of wagons or trucks and got in the way of other vehicles because of their own acts. The legislation it is believed would help to bring about greater safety in the highways, but it is also aimed at that increasing number of hitch hikers who line the highways seeking rides. The list isn't restricted to boys for there are girls as well as women who solicit rides and it is general as well as the safety aspect has given full emphasis by the proponents of the proposed law.

For a considerable part drivers of autos are not disposed to yield to the pleas of the thumb jerkers seeking rides. They are mindful of what has happened to others in being held up, in being sued for accidents in which such persons were injured and in the complications which have developed in other ways. There is also the effect upon the persons soliciting rides which might well get consideration from the committee in view of the extent to which the practice has grown, many depending upon going from one place to another through rides solicited from motorists. The situation is one which does not prevail solely in Massachusetts.

BRITISH SUBMARINES

The announcement which comes from London to the effect that Great Britain has just awarded contracts for any new submarines is not to be taken as the answer to the statement which was just made by Secretary Kellogg of the state department that the United States is ready and willing to abandon submarines when the other powers feel the same way about it.

Great Britain is one of the countries which is in the same frame of mind that the United States is concerning underwater boats. It would like to see them outlawed. It has even urged such a policy and would have approved it at the time of the Washington conference. It is a nation which places great dependence upon its merchant vessels and it fully understands the menace which submarines are to such ships. It believes that it can defend itself without resort to such vessels provided other nations are willing to abandon them.

However, it isn't ready to throw away such a weapon as long as other nations cling to it. It has laid out its building programme and made provision for the addition of six more submarines at this time. The contracts have just been awarded without regard to the efforts and discussion in this country for the purpose of eliminating submarines. In the natural course of events such action would probably have been taken anyway, and it attracts attention now solely because of the talk about subs developing from the loss of the S-4 in this country.

Getting the nations to join in a movement to restrict the submarines, to say nothing of scrapping them, will not be the easiest thing to accomplish. Those which are strong for them do not look upon the situation surrounding the submersibles in the same manner that others do. They find in them an advantage which serves their particular position and purpose and they indicate that they are not going to be easily pried away from their attitude. And as long as that is so others must make their own defense preparations.

THE CANAL AND THE SARATOGA

Have we reached the limit in size of warships or are they to be made bigger in the future? The sending of the big aircraft carried Saratoga through the Panama canal is the basis for asking the question. The huge ship made the transit successfully and can do it again, but it is evident that no great increases can be made in the width of warships if it is expected that they are to make use of that waterway.

It was fully known in advance that it would be a tight squeeze. There was a clearance for the ship of about two feet but that is a very small amount when vessels of such a size are involved. It has been demonstrated that the use of the canal is not denied to the carrier but in that demonstration proper credit must be given to the manner in which the big ship was handled.

The Saratoga is a craft that has been developed since the canal was built. It has a width of 106 feet and a length of 888, by no means a vessel easy to handle in the locks where it could barely slide through. It was a slow process, with the ship moved slowly along by nine electric mules, but so skillfully done that the locks were not damaged and no harm befell the Saratoga. This can be the better appreciated when we stop to realize the task involved in manipulating such a craft by moving it so steadily but slowly that it could be restrained from crashing against one side or the other with so little leeway.

In the course of the talk that has been indulged in concerning a new canal and the largement of the present one, the Saratoga furnishes additional ground for it. If a new canal is built it becomes evident that consideration must be given to the possibility of even larger warships, while if there is to be any remodeling done to the existing locks of the Panama canal the question of widening in order to prepare for future requirements may well get attention.

It is not expected that the Saratoga will be making its way through the canal every week, but the benefit of the canal is going to be denied any ship which greatly exceeds the Saratoga's width.

WHAT DRASTIC ORDERS DO

Conditions a few years ago had developed to the point where those who had been successful in other kinds of holdups, or had noted the success of others, turned their attention to the United States mails. They were well organized, knew when valuable mails were being transported and managed to make some big hauls.

It got to the point where drastic measures were necessary. Marines were placed on the trains and they were given instructions to shoot to kill. That was not a secret order. It was widely proclaimed as was intended and it had its effect. It isn't recalled that those working under such orders have been obliged to shoot to kill, but it is interesting to note that there has been a marked decrease in that kind of business.

No longer ago than 1921, according to testimony before a legislative committee considering postoffice appropriations, a series of holdups resulted in the capture of more than $6,000,000 by the train robbers. Because of the methods adopted to combat that situation there has been a marked improvement and last year the 11 holdups resulted in the robbers getting less than $700,000 of which $241,000 was recovered. It is an improvement which has been followed by a yearly reduction in the amount required to deal with such a situation, but it has demonstrated the value of the method adopted for meeting a desparate situation.

Perhaps it is too early to get the idea that there is no danger of a return of big-loss years, but there seems to be little question but what the would-be robbers appreciate the fact that Uncle Sam intends to protect the mails and they are unwilling to take chances against the "shoot to kill" orders.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

This tradition about the ground hog on Candlemas day is not only standing out far reaching. How thrilled we were on this auspicious day to see this animal verify his reputation! How the innocent little fellow with blinking eyes and soft tread came carefully out of his long hibernation, and with scared look sought his own shadow! Shall we ever forget that look of unutterable woe when his blinking eyes fell on his own shadow, which the clear sunlight made very distinct on the snow? With a groan of dispair he tottered back into his dark chamber, cursing his cruel fate. Poor little animal, don't take it to heart. You can't help it! We shall not miss you very much, because there are enough hogs left of another variety to keep us from being lonesome, and they, unfortunately, never hibernate.

It seems to the writer that there is a particular brand of swine that comes up for special treatment. Why doesn't some inventive astronomer rig up another Candlemas day in the calendar that will show up the shadow of the road hog so big that he will be glad to hide in his hole for periods of longer duration than six weeks? There is a gleam of reason in the act of the ground hog in coming out of his dark room on Candlemas day, because the little animal is emaciated from his long fast. Because of this abstinence, he begins to feel all gone inside and is about ready to eat anything. But the road hog has no such excuse. He has enough wrecked automobiles within his lair to last him for a year. If he did come out he would not look for his shadow, but for the shadow of an approaching auto and especially for the man at the wheel; he would be looking at the width of the swath he could cut along the street. The only safe place for the road hog is under the ground all the time.

There are many figures of speech used to express the trend of human life. One is that of a tree. A little shoot appears just above the soil. Under the combination of sunlight and air, heat and moisture, the little shoot grows both above, and under, the soil. Buds appear, then little twigs, then branches until at length we have the graceful maple or the stalwart elm. They serve their day and generation and then eventually mingle with the original dust. This is like the material life of man. There is, however, a mysterious something in humanity which this illustration fails to typify. The parallel that is sometimes drawn between the trend of human life and one taking a journey applies only partially. One starts from some definite place and journeys from one experience to another until that journey ends somewhere. This also is true only of one's earthly career.

Is there not much in human life that resembles a battle? We often speak of life as a battle, and so it is from infancy to extreme old age. In order to make a success of our lives this battle must begin early. Those who make the greatest success of their lives are ordinarilly those who begin the contest early and this trains them to meet opposition with greater ability. Nature prepares us for this conflict. Some one has said that "the little ones even come into the world with their fists clenched." Did you ever notice little babies lying in their cribs—how hands and feet are constantly in motion giving them stimulus! Notice the little ones in their earlier school age, how they run, jump, yell, and sometimes their little faces grow red and they shake their fists in one another's faces. But we need not fear, for usually they do little damage. It simply brings out the fighting instinct.

If we are to win out in the great battle of life there are many traits we must have, and, chief among others, is perseverance. One of the most tragic sights in this world is a human being who acknowledges that he is defeated; one who proclaims to the world that he has been beaten and that in the future he is only going to float like a dead fish with the tide. There is no more dismal sight in the world than a man with a dead spirit. A good illustration of this is an abandoned farm. One need not go far into the country in any direction without finding an abandoned farm. All over such a place are written these invisible words: "Somebody once tried to do things here but wilted in the process." When man stops working nature begin the work of demoralization. In time the chimney begins to lean, the roof sags, the paint washes off, the windows are broken, and fields that once grew corn now grows only a tangle of underbrush.

Is it not a bit strange that men who really have a fine quality of gray matter stored up in their cranium will sometimes run wild with strange fancies. I am not here alluding to the unfortunates whom one for a moment would suspect of insanity; but to those who are erratic or impractical. To illustrate the point some years ago one of our eastern Connecticut pulpits was supplied by an able doctor of divinity from New York. The church had gone through considerable trouble and needed to have its faith strengthened. But what they got was a sermon on The Physical Configuration of Heaven. He told his audience how many miles square it was; how many divisions it had, and how many people it would hold. This was something like what once happened at a public hanging. The criminal refused to speak. In the silence a man jumped up and said to take up the time he would speak on the "protective tariff."

Those of us who were getting ready to shed tears because the ice crop was doomed had better hold them back awhile because ice eight inches thick has already formed on some of our ponds. Even if it gets a little slushy in the middle of the afternoon in sunny spots, with the mercury on or near zero at sunrise with no wind, we may make up our minds that something is doing in the ice business. Haven't we known ice to be harvested in March? And in rare instances even in April? While there is life—or in the terms of weather—as long as New England can produce every known shade of weather in a single week we need not worry about ice. Suppose southern New England did slip up on the ice, we are within 75 miles of territory that never has failed to make ice in wintertime, and we are connected with that territory by railroads. If this should fail, there looms up in the distance just the pale outline of the electric refrigerator.

It would be almost a crime to let this part of February pass without a word concerning that lonely man who has done as much as any other to make it immortal. Whatever may happen to this "Colossus of the North" in days to come, just as long as it continues to function as a nation the name of Abraham Lincoln will be in the forefront. Is there not reason to believe that in the not far distant future, when all the old animosities created by the Civil war will have been so far forgotten, that the south will look kindly on that great man who did more to put the south on the map than any other that America has produced? There are some sores that take many years to heal, and slavery was one of them. It had struck its poisoned roots down deep into the nation's vitals. Lincoln settled the question that it should be slavery, rather than the nation, that should perish.

THE 119TH ANNIVERSARY OF LINCOLN'S BIRTH

Sunday Feb. 12th will mark the 119th anniversary of the birth of the greatest American of all time. A man who with his limited chances for an education rose superior to all the obstacles that confronted him, and became the head of this the greatest nation of the world—a country that guarantees to all the right of religious freedom and happiness.

The following is but a small tribute to the memory of a great and honored name, Abraham Lincoln, who after years of sorrow and troubles gave up his life to his beloved country, writes C. H. "Dad" Shaw of Passaic, N. J., formerly of Norwich, and through the medium of your beloved paper I hope I may reach and come in contact once again with some of my old school mates, who, like myself, are traveling down life's highway and who in looking back can perhaps recall some of the incidents of those early days, and can truly say "I lived in the day of this the one who had been chosen to lead the people in those dark days out into the glorious sunshine that we now enjoy." As the years roll on we look up to him as the greatest leader our country has ever known.

Abraham Lincoln was born Feb. 12, 1809, and died April 14, 1865. As we view the works of the ruler of the universe it would seem to be the purpose of God to send into the world at certain periods a messenger to carry on His wondrous work. We need only to turn back to pages of history to note that the questions that perplex the minds of the men of those days were worked out and perfected by some master mind, who appeared at the opportune time. Secular history is full of such instances and in spiritual history we find Christ, Moses, Wickliff, Luther, and in other walks of life there looms up confucius and Mohammed, who each filled out their allotted work and then passed on with that vast army that had gone on before.

And so it seems that at that vital moment of this country's existence, when a great wrong was crying to the almighty for justice, God in his infinite Wisdom selected from out of the then almost unknown west to carry out a certain work, a man the memory of whom will never die while life lasts and the love of man's fellow man lives. One who today is held in the deepest love and veneration—Abraham Lincoln. History records many great characters, but it is doubtless if in all profane history there can be found a man of a more lovable character or one who possessed the finer qualities of what make up the good points of real man to a greater degree than was found in this man of whom it could be said, "He was one of God's noble men." His lowly birth seems to have laid the foundation on which to build his great temple of character, and his living next to nature in the great outdoors formed the physical as well as the mental structure which was needed in after years to carry on the master's work to a successful end and to surmount the almost impossible obstacles that were incident to the struggle between brothers who were engaged in the bitter strife between the north and the south. While it is generally conceded that he was the humble instrument and through his efforts 4,000,000 slaves were emancipated, he is not generally credited with the fact that through his determined stand, he made the nations of the world, which looked upon this country with jealous eyes realize that this good old U. S. A., was to be ranked as a world power, for they were waiting a favorable opportunity to seize us and close us down as a nation.

Lincoln began the great task of building up the army and navy, not only to put down the rebellion, but to make clear to the foreign nations that our war strength was not at such a low ebb as they supposed it to be. While the emancipation of the slaves was a great and humane deed, and in itself worthy of giving lasting fame, that of educating the nations of Europe as to our strength and resources in times of necessity was greater and more far reaching. What sunshine and moisture are to vegetation, so too is the soul of a man. Lincoln was not what was called a handsome man for he was gaunt of form and with his face was lined by care. But the outward shell covered that jewel, within. His heart prompted all his utterances, all his determinations, and all his words of wisdom. He was ever ready to listen to a cry of distress. Though he was the president of the greatest country under the sun, he did not look upon himself as the ruler. Rather was it as the servant of the people. His sense of justice was acute and he possessed that God-given power to temper justice with mercy. He was a man not ashamed to shed a tear, when he thought of the sorrows and sufferings of his people.

While president it was a standing order that no one with a petition to save a life should be turned away from the white house doors, and here is a story to show the innate goodness that was his at all times. At one time, Thad Stevens was given an audience with the president and he was accompanied by a woman who had come to plead for the life of her son. Lincoln listened to her story. The woman could scarcely talk, and with the tears running down her cheeks, she pleaded for the life of her boy, her only boy. The president dashed away a tear from his eye and turning to Stevens said, "Thad is this case worthy of my attention?" and the answer was, "Yes, I have followed it up and it is a case worthy of your help." The president, turning to the woman said, "Madam, your boy will come back to you, and you tell him to be a good boy for he has a good mother."

The woman could only thank him and as she walked away with Stevens she turned to him and said, "It is a contemptible lie for they told me he was a very homely man and I can say he is the handsomest man I have ever seen." She did not see the outward man but could see the imprint of God in his features through the light that shone through his eyes.

Although he was what might be called a rough diamond, still there was a something about him that attracted even his enemies, for in life there is bound to be such. His nature seemed to breathe goodness and honesty of purpose and his heart went out to all suffering and more particularly the poor and oppressed. No one had said God must have loved the poor for he created so many of them. No one ever appealed to him and was turned away. He never cared for pomp or show. Neither had he any leaning toward any particular creed or color, for he looked upon himself as the servant of all the people and all appealed to him alike. He said, "I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true. I am not bound to succeed but I am going to live up to what light I have. I must stand with anyone who is right. Stand with him while he is right and part with him when he goes wrong." His remarks at all times and on all occasions were without question of the highest order and served to be almost of divine origin.

Consider for a moment his address at the battlefield of Gettysburg, not at that time the principal oration of the day. It was hardly noticed, but as the years rolled on the beauty of his language stands out as a jewel among the classics in the English language. He is now only a memory and today belongs to the ages. His one thought at all times was to right any wrong that appealed to him and at that time a great injustice of slavery was calling aloud to the Almighty for help and he bent all his energies to right this grievous wrong and at what a cost! It was with the loss of his own life through the bullet of an assassin and then he passed on to his Maker and with his task complete, he is now and ever will be held in the deepest respect. As we of today look back with the deepest reverence, we can but say, When he died all mankind suffered an irreparable loss not only to his own beloved country but all the world and its people. We can also say, he was one of God's noble men.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Facts Worth Remembering

Mr. Editor: You would think that even a partial student of scripture today would not need to be informed that even the four gospels that we have do not contain all the words that Jesus said nor all the acts which he performed.

In fact one of the evangelists on this point supposes that if all these had been written out in full, it would have overcrowded the libraries of the then known world.

It is a venturesome hazard therefore, for one, with only this limited record before him, to draw conclusions by affirming that Jesus said nothing about this or that subject or that he did not mention certain well known historic events.

The apostle Paul himself credits Jesus with an important saying that the reader will look for in vain in any of the gospels. (Acts 20-35).

"Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

Besides this, the careful reader will find even in the gospels references by implication when not direct that confirm every doctrine of Christianity—ethical or theologic, which Jesus taught concerning himself.

Sin and redemption, for example he sets forth thus "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so must the son of man be lifted up, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life."

The type and the antitype are here very clearly set forth, as also the necessity implied by the word "must".

His second coming. This he says will be as sudden and unforeseen as the deluge of Noah's time; a world event, that he treats as a fact historic.

The fall of man. It was not necessary to depict the story of Eden and the temptation. His reference to the Devil as a murderer from the beginning is a satisfactory reference to the sad scene that overtook our first parents. Satan abode not in truth because there is no truth in him, when he speaketh a lie he speaketh of his own, for he is a liar and the father of it. (John 8-44).

Any Sunday school scholar would be dull who can read this description and not recall the event of man's first disobedience and the fruit of that forbidden tree whose mortal taste brought death into the world and all our woe.

Men Long in Masonry

Mr. Editor: Your correspondent from Jewett City makes a rather startling statement in The Bulletin of Feb. 9th in regard to the doings of Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 76, A. F. & A. M. I beg to disagree with the statement that Brother Leprelet Logse of Mt. Vernon lodge is the oldest member of the Masonic fraternity in the world. Neither do I agree with the claim that Mt Vernon lodge has the honor of raising the oldest member of the craft on this planet.

On the roll of membership of Wooster lodge, No. 10, A. F. & A. M., of Colchester, is the name of Brother Edwin P. Hanks, initiated in this lodge in 1856 and is now living at Jersey City, N. J. Brother Hanks has, therefore, been a Mason and a member of Wooster lodge, No. 10 for a period of three score and ten years. We do not claim that Brother Hanks is the oldest Mason in the world, because we know of others Masonically older.

A year ago Wooster lodge buried Brother Nathaniel Foote, a lineal descendant of the founder of Colchester Brother Foote was initiated in 1853 and fell a little short of rounding out his three score and ten years as a Mason.

Next in order comes Brother Frank D. Otis, initiated in 1863, now hail and hearty at the age of 82, and 59 years a Mason.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Peter Almost Gives Up.

Though grim despair may grip you fast,
Still cling to hope until the last.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter was in despair. He had reason to be. He was in the middle of the spring-hole in the swamp where the Laughing Brook leaves the Green Forest to enter the Smiling Pool. He was wet and he was cold and he was the worst scared rabbit that ever was.

What was Peter doing in the spring-hole? He was trying to get out. You see, he had broken through the ice.

Then how he pulled and kicked and scrambled.

He had started to cross on the ice and had seen Jerry Muskrat swimming beneath the ice. He had thought it would be a great joke to thump on the ice and give Jerry Muskrat a scare. He had tried it and had thumped himself right through into the water. Now, as you know, Peter isn't fond of the water at any time of the year. He isn't a good swimmer, although he can swim. If it had been merely a matter of just swimming across to the other side, Peter wouldn't have minded so much. Certainly, he wouldn't have been in despair. He would have known that he could get there.

But this ice made all the difference in the world. You cannot swim through ice. Peter kept trying to climb out on the ice. He would get his forepaws up there and try to pull himself out. Then the ice would break again and in Peter would go. His teeth chattered with the cold. He swallowed a lot of cold water and some of it choked him. He knew his strength couldn't hold out long in such cold water, but he kept on struggling, kicking with his big hindfeet and pawing at the ice with his front feet.

"I wish I hadn't tried to play a joke on Jerry Muskrat!" sobbed Peter. "I wish I had never left the dear Old Briar-patch. Mrs. Peter will never know what happened to me. I never can pull myself out on that slippery ice, even if it doesn't break. Oh, dear! I would almost rather be caught by Reddy Fox than to be drowned. I hate water! Yes, I do; I hate water! I wish I could swim like Jerrk Muskrat. I wish somebody would come along and pull me out. Oh, dear! I know I can't get out myself."

But all the time Peter was kicking and scrambling and continually breaking the ice in front of him and moving a little nearer shore, although he didn't realize this. But he was growing more and more tired. It was getting where it seemed to him he just couldn't struggle any longer. Despair gripped him. He was almost ready to give up. Yet all the time down inside there was hope. He wouldn't have admitted that he had any hope, but it was there just the same. It was this wee bit of hope that kept him kicking and struggling. But the shore was a long way off. Really, it was a very short distance, as distance goes—only a few feet—but it was a long way for one struggling in icy water.

"I just can't try any more!" sobbed Peter. And just then one of his kicking hindfeet touched something hard. He thrust down his other hindfoot. It also touched something hard and firm. Peter found that he could stand on it, with his front feet out on the ice. It was an old sunken log that Peter was on. He had found it just in the nick of time. It gave him a chance to rest a bit. It gave him a chance to get his breath. It gave him a chance to look about and see just where he was.

Just off to one side a little way was a good-sized stick frozen in the ice. Peter could just touch it with his forepaws. If only he could get his forepaws over it he might be able to pull himself out. Perhaps, now that his hindfeet were resting on that old log, he could jump a little. He drew a long breath. Then he did his best to jump. It wasn't much of a jump, but it sent him forward enough for him to get his forepaws over that stick. Then how he pulled and kicked and scrambled! In a minute he was out. He was out where the ice was thick enough to hold him. You never saw any one move quicker than Peter did in getting off that ice on the bank.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Viscount Esher, the new governor of Windsor castle, is 75 years old and for half a century has been a well-known figure in British public life, though never an active politician in the strict sense of the word. Lord Esher was educated at Eton and Cambridge. For several years he acted as private secretary to the Marquis of Hartington and in 1880 entered parliament. He was prominent in the organization of the territorial forces and after the war he held the important position of chairman of the war office reconstruction committee. Lord Esher is well known in the literary world. Among his best known books are "The Correspondence of Queen Victoria" and "The Girlhood of Queen Victoria." He has been deputy governor of Windsor Castle, a trustee of the British Museum, and a governor of the Imperial College of Science.

Sunday Morning Talk

A NOBLE LIFE.

On Feb. 12, 1809, a babe was born in a log cabin, located on Nolin creek in Larue county, Kentucky, which was then a new and almost wild country. They gave him his grandfather's name, Abraham—Abraham Lincoln. The cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born on that cold winter night was forlorn and hardly habitable. At night the stars were plainly visible, shining through the roof. The boy had but very few chances to improve himself. The young man of today under such circumstances, he would not dream of looking forward to an education. He would read or study by the fire-light. His books were "Aesop's Fables," Robinson Crusoe, "Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress," History of the United States, and Life of Washington. He read these many times. A good foundation of a studious mind and a determination to overcome all obstacles and at the last to be accounted the most noble and the greatest man our country has known. His was a kindly heart, always ready to lend the helping hand to any one in trouble.

What wonder Secretary Stanton said of him, as he gazed upon the tall form and the kindly face as it lay there, switten down by the assassin's bullet, "There lies the most perfect ruler of men who ever lived."

George Bancroft said of him, "The grave that receives the remains of Lincoln receives the costly sacrifice to the Union. The monument which will rise over his body will bear witness to the Union; his enduring memory will assist during countless ages to bind the states together; and to invite to the love of our one undivided, indivisible country."

Clement XIV., by reason of his wide sympathies and tolerations of diverging views, has been called the "Protestant Pope."

NO MORE OVEN-WATCHING. The Lorain Self-regulating Oven of the Direct Action Gas Range frees women from the drudgery of cooking by old guesswork methods. Now all oven cooking and baking can be done by measured temperatures, automatically maintained by the Lorain Red Wheel.

Unless the Gas Range has a RED WHEEL it is NOT a LORAIN

There are many reasons for the popularity of the Direct Action Red Wheel Gas Range. Five of the most important reasons are:

1. You can bake without preheating the oven.
2. The Broiler is above the oven to save stooping.
3. You can bake slowly and broil quickly at the same time.
4. You can "stretch" the oven capacity for big bakings.
5. Direct Action Ranges have the Red Wheel of the genuine Lorain.

WAUREGAN COFFEE SHOP IN ATTRACTIVE APPEARANCE

Re-decoration of the large store on the Franklin street side of the Wauregan hotel property has just been completed by the hotel management which will conduct the Wauregan Coffee Shop there.

In the center of the room is the lunch bar inside of which are the coffee urns and in one corner at the rear is the kitchen, equipped with range, griddle, toaster, ice box and all the necessary appurtenances, all in plain sight so that all cooking will be where patrons can see how the food is prepared. Ventilators over the urns and the range provide for carrying off all odors.

A interesting feature is the elevated balcony around the sides and rear where tables are arranged that will provide an attractive afternoon tea feature for ladies. There will be girl waitresses for the tables and countermen at the lunch bar.

Ceiling and walls have been re-finished in attractive design, all woodwork has been varnished and new floor covering provided in cork-linoleum.

Later on the present lunch bar in the hotel is to be used as a grill room, which will connect with the Coffee Shop through a doorway at the rear.

All furniture and fixtures will be installed in the Coffee Shop so as to be ready for the opening Monday morning.

OBITUARY

Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis

The community was shocked Friday to learn of the death of Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, 63, pastor of Taftville Congregational church since October 1922. Rev. Mr. Crowdis had an attack of pneumonia several months ago and had not been entirely well since that time, but he had been able to attend to his ministerial duties. On Friday afternoon shortly after dinner he was taken ill and died at his home before a doctor who had been summoned could reach there.

Mr. Crowdis began his pastorate in Taftville on the first day of October, 1922, coming to that church from Southampton, Mass. He was born in North-East, Margaree, Nova Scotia, and as a young man went to Boston, where he worked for some time before starting to prepare for college with the ministry in view. Most of his preparatory work was done in Monson academy, at Monson, Mass. He entered

REV. EDWARD G. CROWDIS

Princeton university and was graduated with the class of 1899. After college he spent three years in Hartford Theological seminary and his early ministerial service was in Wisconsin.

Later he came east and filled pastorates in Kennebunk, Me., and in Kingston, near Plymouth, Mass. Following this he was called to Union Congregational church, in Tuckahoe, N. Y., near New York city, and from there he went into Y. M. C. A. war work. He spent over a year at Camp Meredith, N. J., in the hospital department. When the armistice was signed and the larger part of the Y. M. C. A. war work ended he was called to the Congregational church at Southampton which preceded his Taftville pastorate.

When in Princeton he was a member of the varsity football team, playing guard on two champion Princeton elevens, teams that defeated Harvard and Yale in 1898 and Yale in 1898. He is survived by his wife, a brother, Charles in Boston, and a niece, Mrs. Douglass of Montreal, Can.

His ministeral work in Taftville had endeared him to the members of his congregation who will feel his loss severely and sympathize deeply with his wife in her bereavement.

FUNERAL

James McLaughlin

Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock the funeral of James McLaughlin, whose body was found in the Shetucket river Tuesday evening, was held at the parlors of Undertakers Cummings and Ring. A requiem mass followed at St. Patrick's church at 10 o'clock and the celebrant of the mass was Rev. John J. Reilly. Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ and at the offertory sang De Profundis. As the waiting hymn Mr. LaFontaine sang Abide With Me and at the recessional played Chopin's Funeral March.

The burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Reilly conducted the committal service. The bearers were John Winters, Patrick McCarthy, John Fitzgerald, Andrew Riley, Henry Bolduc and Edmund McDonough. The mourners present included people from New Haven and other cities and there were a number of beautiful floral forms.

CONG. MINISTERS MET WITH REV. E. G. CROWDIS

When the New London Congregational Ministers' association held its February meeting at Taftville Tuesday, with Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, there was an attendance of twenty-two, including visitors. Rev. Mr. Crowdis died suddenly Friday, to the sorrow of all.

The moderator of the meeting was Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, D. D., of New London. In the absence of the secretary, Rev. Allen Shaw Bush, on account of illness, Rev. Dwight C. Stone, of Hanover, was made secretary for the day.

The paper was given by one of the visitors, Rev. S. R. Bunker, a former missionary in Africa, now one of the state missionaries working under the Raymond fund in New Canaan. Mr. Bunker gave a very interesting account of certain features of his work, both in Africa and Connecticut, which he illustrated in a measure by showing pictures belonging to a number of his lectures.

The Canadian wheat pools, which dispose of their members' grain, comprise many thousands of members, and at the present time they handle roughly about half of the entire wheat crop of the Dominion.

VERDICT OF $2,750 FOR DEATH OF BOY IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

At the Friday short calendar session of the superior court in New London, with Judge C. L. Avery presiding, judgment by stipulation in the sum of $2,750 for the death of six-year old John Nelson Angeles was entered in favor of Mrs. John Nelson Angeles, of New London, in her suit against Henry Graicerstein, of Hartford. She is the administratrix of the estate of the little boy who was killed by Graicerstein's motor truck about a year ago at the corner of Jefferson and Lincoln avenue.

Foreclosure For $36,000.

Judgment of foreclosure by sale in the amount of $36,000 was entered in favor of the National Bank of Commerce against the P. Schwartz Co.

Sheriff Sidney A. Brown, Attorney Henry L. McGuire and Robert A. Keefe were appointed a committee of sale. Judge Avery set April 4, at 2 p. m., as the day for sale.

In the case of Joseph Schwartz against the P. Schwartz Co., F. LeRoy Harwood, receiver, was awarded compensation in the amount of $2,500 and Attorney Morris Labchansky, counsel for the receiver, was given a similar sum.

Approves Colchester Sale.

Approval of sale and of deed, and allowance of $15 to each of three appraisers, Attorney J. James Floyd, Attorney John T. Quinn and Charles Malona, and the award of $125 and expenses of $4.30 to the committee of sale, Attorney Henry L. McGuire, was granted in the foreclosure case of Pashofsky against Sukhovirsky, and others. The property was sold for $3,565 and was located in Colchester.

The supplemental judgment will be signed by the court very soon but was held up Friday because of a dispute on the proper manner of arriving at the charges of the tenants-in-common of the balance after attorneys' fees and incidental costs of the matter were paid. Emil Sukhovirsky was ordered by the court to receive $382 more than Pashofsky because he put in more money towards the improvement of the property.

Attorney Troland figured the sum one way and Attorney McGuire figured another way.

Moon Heirs to Plead.

An unusual issue came up when a motion for final judgment or judgment of interpleader was made in the case of the National Bank of Commerce, trustee, against Willard B. Moon, and others. Judge Christopher L. Avery gave judgment of interpleader and the heirs to a certain trust fund must plead, within two weeks if they are going to otherwise, the court will decide the issue.

When John Moon, of New London, died years ago, he left a trust fund. His sons were the late Jesse A. Moon and Willard B. Moon, who recently died.

Under the terms of the will of the late John Moon, Willard was entitled to his share only if he separated or divorced his wife. About a year ago, according to Attorney Frank L. McGuire, Willard put in a claim for his share of the interest, on the grounds that he had separated from his wife. This matter was pending in the courts for he would have to have presented proof that he had separated from his wife.

He died recently and now his widow, through Attorney Arthur M. Brown, seeks what was due him for having been separated from her. Incidently, Mrs. Moon is administratrix of her late husband's estate and the National Bank of Commerce, which, according to Attorney McGuire, simply "holds the stake," wants to know whether any of this money is due her before it is divided between the widow and four children of the late Jesse A. Moon, namely Spencer Moon, Marion Moon, John Moon and Sidney Moon.

Attorney McGuire said that the fund was in the neighborhood of $11,000.

The matter now stands that if any of the heirs wants to plead, he may, if they don't Judge Avery will adjudicate the matter. It was intimated by attorneys for both sides that all the widow of Willard could possibly get of it would be not over $500 and that from the share Willard could have received had he proved his separation.

One of the heirs, John Moon, is represented by Attorney Henry L. McGuire.

An application for substitution of Mary Ducy as party plaintiff was granted in the case of Yodice against Pelton, and others.

Temporary Alimony.

Mary A. Capaldo, of New London was given $5 a week temporary alimony, peding the trial of her suit for divorce against Benedetto Capaldo.

Judge Avery took the papers in the motion for jugment in the case of Caracausa against Martini.

The court also took the papers in the motion for more specific statement in the case of Pereiva and wife against Vargas.

WIFE SUES HUSBAND FOR SHARE IN PROPERTY

Suit has been brought in the superior court by Mrs. Donalda B. Gregory against her husband, Louis Gregory, both of Norwich, to compel him to carry out the terms of an alleged trust agreement regarding certain real estate, 81 and 83 Hunters avenue, Taftville.

Papers in the suit, which is returnable in March, alleged that the husband and wife bought the property from Narcisse Boisvert on Feb. 1, 1907, with money accumulated through their joint earnings in which Mrs. Gregory contributed one-half.

By mutual consent the title was put in the name of the husband who it is claimed, promised to hold it as trustee for his wife. Since then she alleges that she has worked as a mill hand at times and has invested all her earnings, amounting to $3,000, in the upkeep and improvement of the Hunters avenue property. She claims that $300 which she inherited in 1918 also went into the property for repairs and upkeep.

Mrs. Gregory brings suit to compel her husband to keep his claimed promise to convey to her a half-interest in the real estate, also that the property be sold and proceeds be distributed between the parties, and that Mr. Gregory be restrained from transferring or mortgaging the real estate to third parties.

ARRESTS INCREASE FOR GAME LAW VIOLATIONS

Arrests for violations of the fish and game laws throughout the state in 1927 totalled 612, an increase of 80 over the number in 1926, it is announced at the office of Superintendent John W. Titcomb of the state board of fisheries and game. This increase is due largely to better and more extensive enforcement of the law, rather than to a greater number of violations, it was said.

Eighty-eight wardens, consisting of one full-time warden in each county, and 10 part time deputies, were working under the state board. Arrests were made in 128 towns of the 169 in the state, showing, according to officials, a careful patrolling system in every county.

More arrests were made in Fairfield county than in any other, with a total of 144, as compared to 99 in 1926. Hartford county reported 115, with 87 in the previous year. Middlesex county reported only 24 arrests, a decrease of 14. Other counties reported arrests as follows: New Haven 121, New London 53, Windham 28, Litchfield 59 and Tolland 68.

The town of Newtown, in Fairfield county, reported 35 arrests for fish and game law violations, more than in any other town in the state. But one arrest was made in Farmington, seven in West Hartford and four in East Hartford.

More fishermen were convicted of disobeying the laws than hunters, 224 convictions being reported for the followers of the rod, and 267 for the huntsmen. Twenty-two arrests were made for loaning licenses, obtaining licenses under false statements, or refusing to produce licenses upon the demand of landowners.

Fishing without a license was the cause of more arrests and convictions during the year than any offense, with 152 found guilty. Sixty aliens were arrested for owning or carrying guns and 53 people were convicted of hunting without a license. Hunting in the closed season, which includes Sunday, caused 45 convictions.

Five men were convicted of using dynamite in trout streams, and 25 were found to be hunting and killing deer illegally.

Recovering From Shock

George Henry Partridge of the Pines on the Military highway, who recently suffered a slight shock, is confined to his home while recovering. He is an old railroad man who was retired on the pension list after 52 years of service in the roadway department of the N. Y., N. H. & H. company. He was made general foreman under Superintendent C. C. Elwell and was in full charge of the work trains at the time of the extension of the railroad trackage when the Norwich and Worcester tracks were connected with old terminal at Allyn's Point to the main line of the New Haven railroad at Groton.

Eagles Grand Aerie

Norwich aerie has received word that the grand aerie convention in August is to be held in Columbus, Ohio, instead of in Los Angeles.

VALENTINE PARTY HELD BY WOMAN'S GUILD

The Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church had one of their most enjoyable meetings of the season Friday afternoon at the Community house when a valentine party program was carried out after the short business meeting at which the president, Mrs. Walter F. Lester, presided and a particularly entertaining talk upon a "Trip to North Cape" had been given by Miss Nancy E. Lucas. Her talk was illustrated with pictures shown by the balopticon which was operated by Miss Mary Lucas.

Refreshments were served at small tables arranged around the room and decorated with red candles, with valentine favors and candy hearts. There was also a beautiful birthday cake for Miss Elizabeth F. Pullen, the pastor's assistant.

Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., and Miss Nancy Lucas poured; Mrs. Harold E. Robbins, Mrs. Marcus Lee, Mrs. Harvey M. Briggs, Mrs. William H. Oat, Mrs. Christopher March, Mrs. A. H. Abbott and Miss Betty Zumbro served, the refreshments being in charge of Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson.

ELECTRIC BOAT CO. TO ABSORB SHIP & ENGINE

Stockholders of the New London Ship & Engine Co. of Groton are to vote at the annual meeting on Feb. 21 on the proposal to liquidate the company, terminating its existence as a separate corporate entity but continuing operation of its business as a branch or division of the Electric Boat Co. As part of the plan, worked out by the directorates of both corporations, all outstanding stock of the New London Ship & Engine Co., will be called in and holders may receive in lieu of it, equal value in shares of the Electric Boat Co., or they may sell their stock outright.

Stockholders are informed that value of the New London Ship & Engine Co. stock will be determined by market quotations at the close of business on or before March 19, 1928, and that the Electric Boat Co. has agreed to deliver $105 of aggregate market value of its stock for each share of first preferred stock of the New London Ship & Engine Co.; that where equal number of shares cannot be arranged, the difference will be made up in cash. The stock has a par value of $100 and it is pointed out that the $105 quotation of the Electric Boat Co. is not to be confused with the optional redemption price of $125 per share, not payable upon a liquidation of the company.

H. G. L. club Meeting.

The H. G. L. club held their February meeting Friday evening at the home of Miss Elizabeth Whitehead, of 11 Division street. The business meeting was followed by enjoyable games. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Nancy Pitcher.

Those present were the Misses Frances Young, Mary Llewellyn, Frances Hill, Nancy Pitcher, Ruth Harris, Helen Spicer, Marion Krohn, Elizabeth Whitehead and Lucille Hayden.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Frances Hill, of 87 Washington street.

THREE EXHIBITIONS NOW AT CONVERSE GALLERY

During the remainder of February and through March both the Converse gallery and Slater Museum will be open to the public on Sunday from 2 to 5. Entrance will be through the front door of Slater museum. In Converse gallery until Feb. 25, there will be three special exhibitions: The Cizek posters, which The Bulletin described on Thursday, a collection of coins loaned by Charles Paliocha, and the collection of thimbles recently presented to the museum by Mrs. Ostrander of New York city.

INVITES STATE MISSIONARY SOCIETY TO MEET HERE

The Woman's League of the Central Baptist church, at a regular meeting Friday evening at Bushnell chapel voted to extend to the Woman's State Missionary society an invitation to hold its state meeting in this city in May. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. George A. Ashbey and the reports of the secretary, Miss Ruth Hamilton and the treasurer, Mrs. Gilbert S. Raymond, were received and accepted.

Following the business meeting the Twilight club, presented, in a most creditable manner, a play, New Brooms (1876).

The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Bunkum, Marion Pendleton; Mrs. Livesleep, Marjory Hill; Mrs. Armstrong, Marie Weeks; Mrs. Tellitall, Jeanne Johnson; Mrs. Wakem, Bernice Staplin, sub for Caroline Norris; Miss Susan Tribble, Julia Ludlow; Mrs. Sassafras, Jessie Hill; Miss Maloney, Florence Bellows; Mrs. Spaniel, Ethel Brown; Mrs. Ernest, Helen Pendleton; Mrs. Hanover Hampton Murdock; Ruth Blatherwick; Lydia Armstrong, Helen Pilcher; Mabel, Hazel Bates; Bobbie, Beatrice Adams; Helen, Dorothy Miller; Rebekah, Virginia Rogers.

Several original charades were given under the direction of Miss Eugenia Dean, with the following participating: Viola Hill, Dorothy Gildersleeve, Anabelle Harbeck, Anita March, Emily Hill, Mrs. Louis Allen and Mrs. Wallace Harbeck. Mrs. Arthur F. Wymnn led the devotional period which preceded the business session of the league. Light refreshments were served at the close of the evening's program.

TOO MANY TAX LIENS ALLOWED SAYS BLODGETT

In taxation document No. 369, just published by State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett and now being sent to all tax collectors, mayors, wardens, first selectmen and municipal counsels, attention is called to "unfortunate financial conditions" existing in some towns of the state through failure of "care-free collectors" to assume the "full responsibilities of the office" and their allowing too many tax liens. The commissioner finds that certain collectors fail to heed the budget plans of boards of finance and as a result burden their municipalities with debts.

The purpose of the document is to explain fully the next tax lien law, chapter 300, public acts of 1927, which is applicable everywhere in the state and is considered by the commissioner of the utmost importance. He commends the act because of its intention to bring about "the discontinuance of unfortunate collection practices."

This new law, says the commissioner in the introductory paragraph of the document, "is of particular concern to collectors of taxes. It is effective and applies to taxes laid on the list of 1927 and to subsequent years. The money shown on the rate bill to be due from each taxpayer must be collected and accounted for to the treasurer within the time prescribed by the statutes, otherwise the budget requirement is not met and certain deficit ensues. Annual deficits are the forerunners of annually increasing municipal debts, annual deficits compel annual borrowing, and this is the parent of and is responsible in very large measure for the unfortunate financial conditions which obtain in a number of municipalities and sub-divisions of this state. In a very large percentage of the towns wherein budget requirements have not been annually met, a study of the policy and plans of the collector therein discloses that he chooses to impose on his community the luxury of too many tax liens with its resultant debt.

"This law will not work a hardship on any of the collectors who are faithful to their official obligations. It is not likely to meet the favor of care-free collectors who give no heed to the painstaking work of boards of finance and selectmen in preparing budgets. Such collectors as fail to observe the provisions of this new lien law are likely to subject their respective communities to immediate losses which will be noticed by the public, and responsibility for such official conduct will be promptly fixed. This is wholly desirable, as tending to sharpen the activities of indifferent collections. If some of the communities of the state can be brought to know the amount of losses which have been in recent years sustained through the indifference of their collectors, it is foreseen that an unsympathetic public ear will be given to such of the collectors as find fault with the enactment of this statute."

MADE 413 ARRESTS FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

State police seized and destroyed liquor to the value of $815.43 for each arrest for violation of the prohibition laws during the last fiscal year, according to the report which Commissioner Robert T. Hurley will submit to Governor Trumbull. The state police arrested 413 persons for violations of the liquor law, slightly more than 10 per cent of the total number of arrests made during the year, and seized and destroyed liquor to the estimated value of $336,775.

During the 12 month period, the state police received 9,483 complaints and made 3,787 arrests, including 2,228, or 58 per cent of the total number, for violation of the motor vehicle laws, and 624 for miscellaneous offenses.

The current report for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, shows a decrease in many categories from those reported for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926. This, Commissioner Hurley explained, is because during the winter of 1926-27, the department had 30 fewer men than it had the preceding year, replacements being added about July 1, 1927, and spending a month in training.

During the preceding fiscal period, 634 out of a total of 4,851 arrests, or 13 per cent, were for violation of the liquor laws and liquor with an estimated value of $160,736 was seized and destroyed. During this period 2,815 arrests, or 58 per cent of the total number for the period were for violation of the motor vehicle laws.

During the last fiscal year, the state police patrolled 1,255,316 miles as against 1,407,726 miles during the preceding period. The current report records the recovery of stolen property to the value of $49,932.60, as against $66,452 for the preceding period.

The number of places used for theatrical entertainments increased from 356 during the preceding year to 357 for the period covered by this report, with an increase of 29,164 in the seating capacity, making a total of 251,359 seats. The report records 230 places classified as theatres, that is, used only for public entertainment, throughout the year, with a seating capacity of 182,539, as against 213 such theatres with a seating capacity of 166,340 during the preceding period.

There were 16 theatre fires in the state during the period covered by the report, an increase of four over the previous period. Most of these fires were small, being caused by the burning of films within the projection booths.

During the fiscal period covered by this report, there were 161 theatre managers' licenses renewed, as compared with 146 in the preceding period, and 57 new licenses issued to managers, as compared with 59 in the preceding period.

Billboard advertising showed a considerable increase over the preceding year, as did the number of companies engaged in this business, according to the report. The number of licensed bill boards increased from 4,359 to 6,102, the number of licensed advertisers from 177 to 417, and the number of square feet of licensed advertising from 2,327,947 to 2,642,766.

There were 467 new permits issued to carry concealed weapons, an increase from 435 in the preceding period. Permits for magazines for the storage of explosives decreased from 24 to 23 and [illegible] transportation of explosives from 186 to 156.

During the year covered by the report, five auctioneers were licensed, three such licenses were renewed and one was revoked. The state sealer of weights and measures made 5,219 inspections, visiting 341 towns and 460 places.

The report shows 1,589 fires reported to the state police superintendent as state fire marshal, of which 80 were reported as incendiary. In five of these cases there were successful prosecutions. In the preceding period 82 incendiary fires were reported, resulting in two convictions. According to Commissioner Hurley many fires are wrongly reported as incendiary, so the one conviction out of 100 reported incendiary fires would be a good average.

So successful have been recent experiments in the British Isles with luminous golf balls that the "Royal and Ancient" game may shortly be as popular an evening amusement as it is a daytime one now. It is hoped that a supply of these balls, which are treated with a specially prepared phosphorescent paint, will be placed on the market shortly. Their flight can easily be followed, and they shine on the grass like huge glow-worms. Night golf has already been played on several well-known courses in Scotland.

LOCAL BOXERS FARE WELL IN AMATEUR BOUTS AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 10. — The Windham A. A. presented nine fast boxing bouts at its opening show at Al Pierre Tabarin before a crowd of over 600 tonight. Most of the bouts were speedy and genuine knockouts figured in two while a technical knockout stopped a third one.

The first bout was between Young Bicknell, 120, of Willimantic and Boots Larry, 122, of Norwich. Bicknell took the first round and drew blood from Lary's nose but the second round went to Lary while in the third Bicknell registered a knockout with the round nearly gone. Lary broke his right hand in the second but gamely continued fighting as long as he was able.

The second bout brought into the arena Young Bernier, 115, of Willimantic and Kid Dosh, 113, of Norwich. At the end of the regular three rounds the judges and referee agreed on a draw. An extra round brought a decision for Dosh. This bout was one of the best of the evening.

The next bout was a fast go between Joe Kerr, 133, of Hartford and Harry Hooper, 135 noted simon pure of New London. Kerr stood up under a severe battering and a decision was given in favor of Hooper.

The fourth bout was a bloody rip-tearing battle between Joe White, 129, of Hartford and Baby Jannes, 130, of New London. With White holding in the clinches the bout for a time looked like a wrestling match until the Hartford battler sustained a badly cut left eye and smeared with blood went in to do injury. Both fighters were inclined to fall through the ropes and at one time in a tight clinch landed in the lap of several spectators. The sponge was thrown in and the bout awarded to Jannes.

Moriarty Wins

At the opening of bout five Frank McLean went in as substitute referee for Trenor A. Rice. This bout in which Mush Moriarty, 144, of Norwich, faced Mickey Casey, 147, of Willimantic was billed as one of the best goes. In the opening round, however, both men went through the ropes and Casey was knocked out when his head struck the floor. After a rub-down by his seconds the referee ordered the fight to go on. The bout was decided for Moriarty on points.

In the sixth bout Steve Polinsky, 122, of Colchester proved too fast for his game opponent, George Kray, 123, of Hartford. After a classic exhibition of three rounds Polinsky received the decision.

The seventh bout proved nothing short of a hoax. Lyman Gary, 182, of Stafford Springs, bald-headed and soft crackled like an egg-shell under a rain of blows by Young Wenish, 175 of Colchester. After two seconds of this slaughter Wenish got the decision on a technical knockout.

Young Carpenter, 165, of Willimantic and M. Compagne, 161, of New London gave the fans a pleasing round-and-a-half with Carpenter gradually weakening and finally taking the count of ten early in the second round.

Vic Darr Draws

The final bout was a classy exhibition between Vic Darr, 138, of Norwich and Antone Polinski, 140, of Colchester. The bout was declared a draw.

The officials of the show were Rudolph H. Miller, announcer; H. N. Bullard and Daniel F. Daley, judges; Trenor A. Rice and Frank McLean, referees.

TRIPLE STRUGGLE IN PRO COURT LOOP

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The race for individual scoring honors in the American Professional Basketball league has developed into a three-cornered struggle between Dave Banks, of the New York Celtics, Nat Hickey, of Cleveland, and Benny Borgeman, of Fort Wayne.

On the basis of points scored in games up to and including Feb. 7 announced today, Banks and Hickey are tied at the top with 273 points Borgeman, with 262, is within striking distance of the leaders. Banks and Hickey have compiled their totals in exactly the same manner—213 field goals and 47 fouls. Topel, of Rochester, trails Borgeman by ten points for fourth place, with Tom Barlow, of Philadelphia, right on his heels.

The 213 field goals Banks and Hickey have tossed through the cords heads the list in that department. Borgeman holds third place chiefly through his uncanny foul shooting ability, the Fort Wayne forward having scored 106 points on free tries, to lead the circuit in this respect.

Philadelphia maintained its lead over the Celtics in team scoring, having tallied 1135 points in 26 games. The Celtics, however, in 25 contests trail the leaders by only five points

HARVARD TO MEET FLORIDA IN 1929

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 10—(AP)—Harvard university and University of Florida will meet on the gridiron on November 2, 1929, for the first time in seven years, according to announcement of the Harvard Athletic association today.

The game will be played in Cambridge.

The University of Florida game is the third thus far on the Harvard 1929 schedule, arangements already having been made to play the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor on November 9 and Yale at Cambridge on November 23.

Harvard met the University of Florida eleven in 1922 and defeated it 24 to 6.

NO EVIDENCE THAT BUD TAYLOR WAS FOULED

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—(AP)—No evidence of a foul was found today when Bud Taylor, bantamweight champion, appeared before the Illinois State Athletic commission for investigation of a claim of an illegal blow which unsatisfactorily terminated his battle last night with Joey Sangor of Milwaukee.

The commission, represented by its chairman, Paul Prehn, heard several witnesses, including Taylor and his manager, Eddie Long, but after the examination, Prehn asserted the referee's and judge's vote giving the decision to Sangor on a technical knockout in seven rounds would stand.

Two physicians, one representing the commission, examined Taylor but could find no swelling, discoloration or mark of a blow on the spot where Taylor claimed Sangor's gloved fist landed.

The referee, Phil Collins, testified the blow appeared to him as fair and one of the judges, Edward Klein, was of the same opinion. The other judge admitted he was in no position to determine where the blow landed.

Long said the blow was delivered in such a manner that it was possible for it not to leave a trace. He held it was a glancing punch, striking Taylor on the edge of the groin. Long contended that no count was started by the referee or the time keeper and that the allowance of five minutes for Taylor to recuperate was an admission that a foul had been committed.

"If the punch was legitimate," Long argued, "why give the man on the floor longer than the regulation ten seconds to recover?"

Taylor joined in his opinion.

The commission admitted a count should have been started but said that Taylor, in sinking to the floor, said he would be all right within a couple of minutes and therefore no count was started.

'BOUT SPORTS

Joe Faber will be leaving shortly for his biggest step yet in baseball. He is going into a fast infield in Montreal for aside from the fact that Chick Fewster, former major leaguer, will be working beside him at second he will also have Frank Stapleton, former Kacey player here and lately manager of Bridgeport in the Eastern. Stapleton was slated for the Yankees in the latter part of last year as an understudy to Lou Gehrig but that deal never amounted to much.

Soccer returns for Norwich after a few weeks' rest. The Martins have a very unknown quantity for the opposition and for that reason they are much perturbed, probably fearing that Schaefer will bring up the Fall River or Bethlehem Steel on them on their day off.

It was too bad Danielson didn't have better cooperation from the weather Thursday night for the Gehrig game. After scooping the entire state, or in fact southern New England the elements started in tossing a few baskets with the result that the expected capacity audience didn't materialize. Instead, there were as many as 100 empty seats. Gehrig makes some picture in a basketball suit. He may be large and all that in a baseball uniform but when he comes out to strut his stuff on the basketball court he is a regular man mountain. However, in matter of weight and height Danielson matched him in Jerry Fay who jumped center the latter part of the game for the owners.

A merry battle between the sanctioned and un-santioned looms in the offing in eastern Connecticut, at least, in attendance matters. Willimantic has one club of each kind and so has Norwich while Putnam's show is sanctioned and those in Danielson and New London are not. In Norwich the Duwells have a larger hall and better facilities at the armory, which is a big pre-game advantage although the Pastime seems to have pleased so far and no doubt they will hold most of these patrons. In Willimantic both clubs use the same hall, Al Pierre Tabarin so it's pretty nearly even-stephen in the Thread City.

New London is already agitating about its baseball league the coming summer and that's a point that should be taken up in Norwich soon. New London has a well-founded league that has become more or less a municipal institution. Norwich had a most successful loop last year in the Industrial league and there is every reason to believe that with the foundation laid in 1927 a venture this season would rise to even greater success. One thing most needed for this success is a suitable playing field and the Academy campus fills all qualifications.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The crowd sort of disappointed at Danielson. The weather probably was the chief cause.

Gehrig made a fine impression. He showed clever floorwork and general all-round play although not scoring.

The Taftville Crescents continue to win on their home floor.

However, in the Y. M. A. quintet of Webster next Tuesday night they are meeting a tough one. This team beat the Crescents last Sunday.

The Plainfield Pros have another chance at the Philadelphia Royal Colored Giants next Wednesday. Millville maintained its unbeaten record around eastern Connecticut at the expense of the Pros Wednesday.

The C. F. C. deserves better support than they have been getting so far. They play tonight and with a record of 11 wins in 12 starts to back them, they are the favorites over the Putnam Silk Sox.

The Y Emps are rapidly filling up the few open dates on their schedule. The latest addition is the Versailles Cubs for Thursday, Feb. 23.

The Baltic Maroons would like to challenge the Norwich Shamrocks. Arrangements can be made by calling 2451-32 between 6 and 7 p. m.

The Norwich Boy's club, a new one for basketball hereabouts play the Taftville Whirlwinds as the preliminary to the Crescents game next Tuesday.

HUDLIN WANTS MORE THAN $10,000 FROM INDIANS

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Feb. 10—(AP)—Willis Hudlin, the sensational contribution of Wagoner, Okla., to the big leagues, expects to get more than $10,000 from the Cleveland Indians for his services during his second year in the majors.

The 19 year old pitcher was credited with winning more games than any other hurler on the roster of the Indians last year, his first in big time company.

Rithough he has returned the first contract sent to him, Hudlin anticipates no difficulty in coming to terms, he said.

1928 OLYMPICS OPEN TODAY AT ST. MORITZ

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 10—(AP)—The 1928 Olympics get under way tomorrow—opening day of the winter sports competition.

Due ceremony will mark the inauguration of international athletic rivalry with a winter sports parade as the principal precompetitive feature.

On the eve of actual competition the Scandinavian countries ruled favorites to capture a majority of the winter sports laurels. In some events, however, they were expected to meet with stiff competition from other countries, particularly Canada and the United States.

Canada Hockey Favorites

Canada was an overwhelming favorite to retain the laurels it won in 1924 hockey. The dominion representatives, the Toronto Grads, are rated so high that they have been given the unprecedented honor of being chosen arbitrarily for the finals. The remaining ten nations entered in the hockey competition have been divided into three groups, the winner of each to play Canada in a series of three matches February 17 and 18 and 19. With the United States unrepresented, there appeared to be no nation capable of extending the Canadians in the finals.

The executive commission of the international Olympic committee cleared up one dispute surrounding the hockey event today when in effect it ruled out the French protest against the make-up of Great Britain's team. The French had charged that two Canadians were members of the British aggregation. The committee, in its ruling, qualified Great Britain for play in the preliminary rounds in which it is entered against France, Hungary and Belgium, until February 13. The commission gave no indication of what its final decision would be should the Britons survive this play which will have been completed by February 13.

U. S. Has Even Chance

The United States is being given an even chance to win in several of the winter sports events. Anders Haugen, former national champion, Rolf Monsen and Charles Proctor present a formidable American front in the ski-jumping contest. Both Canada and the United States have crack entries in the speed skating events, the former being represented by Charlie Gorman and Ross Robinson and the United States by O'Neil Farrell, Eddie Murphy, Valentine Blalis and Irving Jaffe. Beatrix Loughran, of New York, is one of the favorites in the figure skating competition. The United States has one heavy favorite in John Heaton, of New York, entered in the bob sleigh event. Heaton finished first in a field of 44 in the St. Moritz Bob Sleigh Derby yesterday.

TILDEN PLEADS FOR TWO U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAMS

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—(AP)—William T Tilden II, of Philadelphia America's premier tennis star and mainstay of the Davis cup team for the past eight years, made a valiant plea today at the annual meeting of the National Lawn Tennis association for the selection of two United States net teams to carry the country's colors in the quest to regain the Davis cup.

"Now that the United States has decided to play through the American zone," Tilden said, "it would be advisable to keep a team at home and send another abroad for six weeks of practice under conditions as they exist in Europe. Playing conditions are entirely different overseas and if the team wins on the United States soil it will be required to go to Europe and play in the inter-zone finals immediately, which would jeopardize our chances of winning back the cup from France."

Tilden's plea is an outgrowth of his plan to go to Europe in April with Francis T. Hunter, prospective second ranking American, to play at Wimbledon, St. Cloud and other continental tennis centers.

Approval of the national rankings and the selection of the national officers are on schedule tomorrow. The name of William M. Johnston, the "Little Bill" of tennis, is not expected to be on the list due to his lack of activity last year, although a member of the Davis cup team.

EDDIE BRODY WINS ON T. KAYO AT BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 10. —(AP)—Eddie Brody, 127, of Bridgeport, won a technical knockout in the second round over Eddie Watts, 127, of Waterbury in the Elks' amateur bouts here tonight. In the semi-final, Charlie Howard, 150, of Stamford, won the decision from Pete Curran, 150, of Bridgeport. Other results follow:

Stevie Knapp, 110, won from Joe Collins, 115, Bridgeport.

Mike Teronto, 160, Bridgeport, defeated Hank Scott, 157, Stamford.

Tommy Brown, 116, Norwalk, defeated Eddie Lawson, 117, Waterbury.

Wesleyan Trims Tufts

MIDDLETOWN, Feb. 10. —(AP)—The Wesleyan basketball shooters led Tufts all the way in a contest which ended with a score of 43-14 here tonight. At half time, Wesleyan was leading 24-5 and Tufts had made just one field goal. In the second half, several Wesleyan substitutes were put in.

TONY CANZONERI WINS DECISION OVER BENNY BASS IN FURIOUS BOUT

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, tiny, cleanout featherweight who once blacked shoes on the wharves of New Orleans, tonight donned the purple of champions after a 15-round battle with Benny Bass, bulldog of Philadelphia.

Rarely has the huge Garden, packed to the very eaves, seen such a display of cleverness, speed and punching power as the 21-year-old New Yorker summoned to stave off the rush of the threashing body-puncher. Never was such a gathering of fans treated to more dogged exhibition of grit and stamina and courage than Benny Bass summoned in the final stages of his despairing bid for the title.

For ten of the fifteen rounds, Canzoneri slashed the bunchy-muscled Pennsylvanian with solid drives to the head and body. Coolly, with the skill of a master, Tony stalked about his slower opponent, beat him consistently to the punch, and almost closed Bass' left eye.

Bass Down in Third

A volley of left and right hooks to the jaw sent Bass reeling in the third session and as he strengthened up Canzoneri floored him with a crashing right to the chin. Bass took a count of eight and was on one knee when the bell rang and that was the only knockdown of a fight that was sprinkled with situations where both boxers, forgetting science for slugging battered each other to the very borderline of insensibility.

Not until the match was over and a doctor was called to the dressing room, was it discovered that Bass fought from that disastrous round on with a dislocated right shoulder and a possible fracture in the collar bone about an inch from the breast bone. The crowd had left the building, still echoing boos of Bass for his alleged foul tactics in the early rounds. But at the same time cheering a game, desperate stand in the closing five rounds that nearly turned the fight to the Pennsylvanian, when the injury was discovered.

Bass Rallies

As early as the eighth round, Bass, repeatedly warned for low punches that the crowd believed intentional, began to strike his stride. His smashing right hand caught Canzoneri flush on the chin and Tony smiled. Again in the ninth, beautifully timed left and right hooks to the chin spun the New Yorker around. But he continued to pile up points.

Gradually the head smashing and vicious slashing to the body slowed Tony, apparently more than he realized. In the final five rounds, Bass, a raging, tearing midget crammed with dynamite in either hand, hammered Canzoneri about the ring. Tony was almost out in the tenth and reeling in both the eleventh and 12th sessions. A sharp right hook gashed Canzoneri's left eyelid in the 13th.

Crowd In Uproar.

Throughout the last two rounds as the crowd stood and cheered, Bass piled in, banging, ramming a steady stream of belts to Canzoneri's midsection. Tony met him at his own game, although not too successfully, and managed to pull the title out of the fire of an assault that nearly wiped out the margin of the earlier rounds.

Canzoneri succeeds to the title vacated by Kid Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., more than a year ago. His victories over Johnny Dundee, champion before Kaplan, Bud Taylor, and a host of lesser featherweights, gained him the New York State Athletic commission choice for the title. Bass was the nominee of the National Boxing association, ruling body in 26 states, through victory last September over Red Chapman, of Boston.

Preliminaries.

Al. Winkler, Philadelphia, stablemate of Benny Bass, bested Bobby Burns, of New York, in an eight-round semi-final. Winkler smashed the local lightweight solidly and nearly floored him in the fourth and fifth rounds, but Burns came back to open a deep gash over Winkler's left eye in the final session. Winkler weighed 133, Burns 136.

Benny Schwartz, Baltimore bantamweight, defeated Johnny Green, of New York, in the opening eight-round bout. Schwartz proved too strong for the local youngster, punishing him badly with short left hooks to the body. Green weighed 120 1-2, Schwartz 118.

Joey Kaufman, sharp-shooting Coney Island lightweight, battered out an eight-round decision over Armando Sheckels, of Belgium, in a bruising go. Kaufman weighed 134 1-2, Sheckels 135.

Sammy Farber, 119 1-2, of New York, defeated Mickey Connelly, 117, of Paterson, N. J., in the opening four-rounder.

CONN. AGGIES WIN UNIQUE GAME

University of Maine, 3; Connecticut Aggies, 24.

MARTINS PLAY LEDYARD TEAM SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin park the local soccer team will boot it out with Pete Schaeffer's All Stars of Ledyard.

This game should prove to be the banner attraction of the season mostly because Manager Schaeffer has collected a bunch of well experienced players together who have seen service across and in this country also. Manager Schaeffer, who would not let his lineup be known other than to say that most of his players represented New London in the old state league some years back. He also said he would take his hat off and give all the credit that is due, should the Velvetmen defeat his team. So it looks as though the locals are taking on a stiff proposition.

T. Addison will referee Sunday's game, while Gregory and Laycock will act as linesmen. The kickoff will be at 2.30 p. m.

In Westerly Today.

Today (Saturday) the Martin men travel to Westerly for a return match with Cottrell A. F. C., of that city. After a two weeks' layoff this game should limber up the boys for Sunday's battle.

The Martin Men will lineup for both games as follows: Goal, Murphy, full-backs, Headen, Gley, or Smith, half-backs, Joubert, Seidel and Lucas, forwards, Labenski, Hargreaves, Decelles, Eccleston, Penin and Troeger.

PUTNAM ADDS ANOTHER TO STRING; PLAINFIELD VICTIM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 10—Putnam High school basketball team defeated the Plainfield High school squad here tonight by a 34 to 12 score. The locals had little trouble in taking the game, having their own way all through the encounter. Smith and Davignon sometimes were a puzzle to the locals, the duo ranking 12 points for the visitors. Leo and Cody were the high scorers for Putnam, getting 10 and 20 points respectively. In the preliminary tussle, the Putnam High school girls lost to the Putnam girls by a score of 36 to 16. RAY CONGER BEATS DR. PELTZER AT CHICAGO

By Charles W. Dunkley

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

RIDING CLUB, CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Dr. Otto Peltzer, the famous German runner, met his master in Ray Conger, former Iowa State star, in a special 1,000 meter race tonight.

Conger, in a marvelous burst of speed, beat the tall, blonde German to the tape by ten yards in 2:37. Conger is champion miler of the Missouri Valley conference.

It was the German champion's first defeat since his invasion of America.

Ray Dodge of the Illinois A. C. who lost to Peltzer in New York a week ago, later acquaing the German of el-bowing him on the turns, finished third. About two yards back of Dr. Peltzer, with Leo Larrivee of the Chicago A. A. fourth. Conger ran under the colors of the Illinois A. C. tonight.

The time was much slower than the world's indoor record of 2:26 2-5 made by Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A. last year. This was attributed to the soft dirt track, which held too much moisture to make it fast; the sharp turns and short straight-aways. The track was ten laps to the mile, and was cuppy and wavey in spots.

Conger, rated as one of the outstanding runners in America won the race by coming from behind in the last lap after Larrivee a one-time Georgetown runner, had set the pace for three laps.

The tall German, fleetest half miler in the world, and holder of four other world marks, started out leisurely in the lead, followed in order by Dodge, Dodge, Conger and Larrivee. The same order was held at the end of the first lap.

In the second lap, Larrivee sprinted into the lead with Dodge second, Peltzer third and Conger trailing.

Dodge jumped into the lead at the end of the third lap, with the German holding second place with Larrivee third and Conger fourth. Then the big Bertha of the German cinder path made a desperate bid to get out in front. He succeeded, holding it until the end of the fifth lap, followed by Dodge, Conger and Larrivee.

With half a lap to go Conger, running two yards behind the German, and Dodge made a supreme effort in the final dash to the wire, overtaking the German, pushing into the lead and drew away from him every step, with the capacity crowd of 5,000 cheering in the excitement of the German's defeat.

As Conger shot ahead of him, Peltzer, seemingly all arms and legs exerted every ounce of reserve strength to catch the Iowan, but his challenge was fruitless.

The German was crushed by his defeat, his first in his two American races.

"I have nothing to say except to congratulate Mr. Conger," Peltzer said.

Peltzer May Race Hahn.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—The New York Times will say tomorrow that it has learned that Dr. Otto Peltzer, German runner, has received permission to run a mile race in the Knights of Columbus games here on Feb. 29. This will bring Peltzer against Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A., considered America's greatest middle distance runner.

Yankees Have 35 in Roster.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The New York Yankees will go into training at St. Petersburg, Fla., with a squad of 35 players, Secretary Edward G. Barrow announced today. He added that all, with the exception of four players, have signed contracts for 1928.

C. F. C. MEET PUTNAM SILK SOX TONIGHT

C. F. C.	Putnam.
Lambert, lf	lf, Bugbee
Brown, rf	rf, Hannifan
Nell, c	c, Cody
Moberg, lg	lg, Nelson
Davis, rg	rg, Tourtellotte

The C. F. C. go after their 12th victory of the season tonight at the Y gym in meeting the Putnam Silk Sox, leaders of the Quinebaug Valley league. The locals appear to have picked a tough nut this team for it has been mowing them down with regularity in the northern part of the state.

The C. F. C. will use their strongest lineup in an endeavor to turn back the invaders. The local boys have not lost on their home floor this season, beating many strong clubs while their only setback was in Hartford at the hands of the Central Baptists.

In the other game on the evening's program the Y Emps will tangle with the Orioles of New London, a team composed of Bulkeley and Chapman Tech students who should give the fast-stepping local junior quintet quite a battle. This game starts at 8 p. m. and preparations have been made for a large crowd.

NOTES OF SPORT

The season's schedule prepared for the University of Virginia track team calls for dual meets with Princeton, the Army and the Navy.

The most popular events on the program of the Winter Olympic Games at St. Moritz, judged by the number of entries, are speed skating and the two long-distance skiing races, for each of which 15 nations have entered.

An extraordinary feat of strength has been demonstrated in England by Saxon Brown, said to be the world's strongest boy, when as the result of a challenge, he held the ropes against two horses pulling in opposite direction.

Feb. 21-28 are the dates for the famous Dog Derby in Quebec.

Washington (N. C.) high school boasts of a girls' basketball team which has won 28 straight games.

The Western Association has abandoned the idea of expanding into an eight-club circuit for the coming season.

This season's swimming team of the University of Chicago gives promise of being one of the best at the Midway institution in some years.

Independence, Kas., which once held a franchise in the Western Association, has decided to try its luck with that organization again this year.

In England roller skating has retained its popularity with the public to a far greater degree than it has in almost any part of the United States.

Robert Wells, a former player with the Kansas City American Association team, may become manager of the Springfield team of the Western association.

The University of Pennsylvania will be host to the National Collegiate Athletic association swimming championships to be held on the last two days of March.

The Mississippi Valley league, one of the most prosperous of the minor baseball organizations, has decided to play its usual 126 game schedule this season, opening on May 4.

The Blue Devil is the emblem of the Duke University basketball team and on the backs of their jerseys the players have embroidered a most striking representation of his Satanic majesty.

Holland Park Rink in London, the largest roller-skating rink in Europe and the scene of many notable championships, is to be converted into an automobile factory at the close of the present season.

For the ninth consecutive year the Chicago Cubs, on their Spring training tour, have arranged to play a series with the Kansas City American association team on the latter's home grounds. The St. Louis Browns also will play a series with the Blues in Kansas City.

Kapok, filling for mattresses and life-saving appliances, is exported from Java by thousands of tons yearly. It resembles cotton, but grows in long pods on trees. Natives deliver the pods when ripe to Chinese dealers, who employ women and children to remove the floss from the husks by hand. The United States paid Java $4,864,000 for 7,900 pounds of kapok last year and has increased its purchases this year.

POETRY

The Seed Harvest

In February, if the days be clear,
The waiting bees still drowsy on the wing,
Will guess the opening of another year
And blunder out to seek another spring,
Crossing through winter sunlight's pale-lit gold,
Like chrysalises sets catching on the willow,
Athletic like lambs tails in the early fold,
Dusting with pollen all his brown and yellow.
But when the rainy afternoon turns cold
And unders equalls buffet the chilly fellow,
He'll seek the hive's warm waxen welcoming
And set about the chambers' chaste mould.

And then pell-mell his harvest follows swift * * *
All over England, from Northumbrian coasts,
To the wild sea-pink blown on Devon rocks,
Over the merry southern gardens over
The gray-green bean-fields, round the Kentish coasts,
Through the frilled spires of cottage hollyhocks,
Go the big brown fat bees, and wander in
Where dusty spears of sunlight cleave the barn,
And seek the sun again, and storm the whin,
And in the warm meridian solitude
Hum in the leather round the mouldard tarn.
—V. Sackville-West, in "The Land."

Sea Captains' Houses

Old rooms, closed rooms,
Full of musty treasures,
Pampas grass and teakwood,
Curious carven things;
Grinning Chinese idols,
Lovely Canton vases,
Old rooms, closed rooms,
Is you something sings;

Sings of sailing vessels,
Brave in all their rigging,
Off for Madagascar,
Or slipping round the Horn?
Indian Sea typhoons,
Hatches closely battened,
Cargoes rich in heirlooms,
For children yet unborn.

High rooms proud rooms
Paneling and carving,
Marble fireplaces,
And crystal chandeliers;
Faded Turkey carpets,
Cornices of gilding,
High rooms, proud rooms,
Faithful through the years.

"Maybe not," answered the other, "but a whole lot of people think it is, and I'm not egotistic enough to try

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS.

On Sunday, Feb. 5th, the Ladies auxiliary to Murphy-Rathbone post, No. 189, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of New London, was instituted and the officers installed with appropriate ceremonies, at the Catholic Women's club hall, No. 159 State street, New London.

The instituting and installing officer was Mrs. Rose Langley, of Danbury, department president, assisted by Mrs. Rosamond Jacques, of Norwich, as conductress, Miss Helen Shanahan, of Waterbury, department senior vice president, and Mrs. Estelle Richards, of Danbury, department secretary.

The following officers were installed: President, Miss Josephine Irlandi; senior vice president, Mrs. John A. Connor; junior vice president, Mrs. Joseph Sullivan; treasurer, Mrs. Spencer Moon; secretary, Miss Thelma Douglass; chaplain, Mrs. Herbert Harvey; conductresss, Mrs. Daniel Acquis; trustees, Mrs. Bogdon Cutmes, Mrs. Gladys Murphy and Mrs. Joseph Perrone; color bearers, Miss Marion Moon, Mrs. Earle Murphy, Mrs. Gates and Mrs. Cutmes.

The meeting was opened by Commander Friscoman of Murphy-Rathbone post, who turned it over to Department Commander William Dibble, who welcomed the new auxiliary, and congratulated the post on its progress. He then presented Mrs. Langley, department president of Connecticut, who proceeded at once to institute the auxiliary, and install its officers. Following this, instructions were given in the ritualistic proceedings of the organization.

Following the ceremonies, refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed by all. Several cornet solos were rendered by Comrade Spencer Moon, accompanied by Mrs. Moon at the piano. All present joined into the spirit of the occasion, by singing all the familiar songs, so popular during 1917 and 1918.

Among the officers of Connecticut department present were Department Commander W. P. Dibble, of Meriden; Joseph Perrone, deputy chief of staff; Leo L. Jacques, Norwich, department inspector and council member; Mrs. Agnes Hunt, Middletown, guard at national; Mrs. Rose Langley, department president; Miss Helen Shanahan, Waterbury, department senior vice president; Mrs. Estella Richards, department secretary; Mrs. Rosamond Jacques, department council of administration; Mrs. Catherine Dibble, department guard.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, met in Slater hall Wednesday evening with an attendance of 73 patrons and several visitors. Worthy Master Albert W. Lillibridge presided over the business meeting. It was voted to give $5 to the Boy Scouts fund. Alfred V. Brown, chairman of the entertainment committee reported on the whist and pinochle held in the afternoon which netted the sum of $10 to be turned in to the building fund. The prizes were as follows: Pinochle Mrs. A. J. Wholey with score of 7510, second, Mrs. Hallie, third, Mrs. Leirich 7300; whist, Mrs. H. A. Sherman, first, second, S. M. Toomey, score J. Lavallee, score 39. These card parties are to be given every second Wednesday of each month by the entertainment committee. After a short recess the meeting was turned over to Lecturer with the following programme: A [illegible] by Mrs. Helena Church, greatly appreciated by all; [illegible] address by Margaret [illegible]; violin and piano solo by Jean [illegible]; a pantomime, Wanted, a Wife, ably carried out by the following Leon[illegible] Woods, Christina Bode and [illegible] M. Marsh. Refreshments were served by Division A which consisted of sandwiches and coffee.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton Tent No. 7 Daughters of Union Veterans was held Tuesday evening in Buckingham Memorial with the president, Mrs. Lillian B. Newbury, in the chair.

The Secretary's report was read and accepted.

It was voted to contribute $5 each to the Boy Scouts drive, and the La Flamme fund.

An invitation was received from Ann Rogers Lyon tent, No. 1, of New London, to attend a Lincoln's birthday supper on Friday, Feb. 17th at 6.30 p. m. and was accepted. A number of the members are planning to attend.

At the close of the next regular meeting, Feb. 21st, a patriotic entertainment celebrating Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays will be given. This is in charge of the patriotic instructor, Mrs. Helena M. T. Church. The members of the tent are cordially invited as are also the members of the G. A. R., the Woman's Relief corps and the Sons of Union Veterans.

The meeting closed in usual manner by salute to the flag and sing of Star Spangled Banner.

B'NAI BRITH AUXILIARY

The Rose of New England auxiliary, No. 40, Independent Order B'nai Brith, held an important business meeting at the Buckingham Memorial Thursday evening. It was decided to donate a sum of money to the LaFlamme fund, also to a needy family, whose case had come to the attention of the auxiliary. Several new members were voted in and plans were discussed for a masquerade dance to be held at the Wauregan hotel for the benefit of the war office, which the auxiliary is helping to support.

MOOSEHEART LEGION.

Women of Mooseheart Legion held their regular meeting in Moose home Thursday evening with Senior Regent Minnie Smith presiding.

It was voted to give each Legionnaire bringing in a member, a fountain pen. The chairman of the entertainment committee reported a very substantial sum on the recent whist and pinochle held at the home and also announced another whist and pinochle for next week.

Post Regent Teresa Watters appointed Past Regent Vera Sterry to act as her assistant in the Junior Legion.

It was voted to hold a whist and pinochle every other week in different Legionnaires homes to increase the fund for Wallingford. The first is to be held next week at the home of Past Regent Teresa Watters, 14 Cliff street.

After the business meeting, a Valentine social was held with various games, the winners being Mrs. Florence Beresford and Mrs. Teresa Watters. Refreshments consisting of coffee, sandwiches and cake, and a beautifully decorated valentine cake, donated by the senior regent, were served by the refreshment committee, chairman, Mrs. Jensen, Mrs. Nellie Dow, Mrs. Annabel Emback.

EAGLES

There was a large attendance at the weekly meeting of the joint initiation and campaign committee of Norwich Aerie, F. O. E., No. 367, at Eagles home on Wednesday evening when the team captains of the various sections of the city reported the progress they have made during the past week.

It is just thirty years ago that the first subordinate aerie was instituted in the state of Connecticut, New Haven holding the honor of being first with Waterbury second, and Norwich aerie, No. 367, third.

The local aerie was organized twenty-five years ago, on April 15, 1903, with 103 charter members on Main street in the Austin block where they made a steady growth until they moved into larger quarters on Stetucket street on or about the first of May, 1920, continually growing until finally they purchased their home, Cliff street, during Past Worthy President Nadolny's administration in June, 1925.

Today Norwich Aerie, No. 367, is among the foremost of the fraternal organizations of the city.

With the cooperation of the membership at large the committee are determined to have the largest class initiated on February 26, that has been initiated in the history of the aerie.

The following sub-committee were appointed by Worthy President Petrone:

Publicity committee, Charles McIntyre, Joseph P. Gadle, Jr., James Dwyer, John McKenna, Timothy Fields; entertainment and initiation, Timothy Fields, W. R. Hastedt, E. J. Mullins.

The sub-committee consisting of James Dwyer, John Pragoda, J. L. Mullins, John Oney and Timothy Fields served an appetizing menu after the meeting.

Meeting was adjourned until next Wednesday Feb. 15.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The regular business meeting of Mercier Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus was held Tuesday evening in the rooms on Broadway, Miss Mary Hammil, president, taking charge. The question of the next card party to be held in the assembly rooms was taken up and it was decided that the degree team, of which Mrs. Hannah Eirmann is chairman, would take it in hand. The members seem very much pleased with the idea of holding these card parties every month if possible, as it adds quite a little to the social activities of the society. Inasmuch as the rooms were filled to capacity at the last social, the degree team is looking forward to accomplishing equally as much at the February card party.

Miss Frances Kelly, chairman of the Valentine card party and dance to be held at the Wauregan hotel, reported that everything is in readiness and the city seems to be pretty well canvassed in the sale of tickets. All members on the committee are working very diligently for the success of the annual social and it is hoped that all the members of the assembly will find it possible to attend the affair.

It was reported that plans are being made for an entertainment to be held the early part of April by the diocesan bureau for the purpose of raising funds to enable the bureau to continue and increase, if possible, its much needed charitable work.

Miss Margaret Daly is in charge of the next meeting to be held Feb. 21st which is to be in the form of a Valentine social. All the members are expected to make every possible effort to attend this meeting as it promises to be very entertaining.

COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST.

Nevin-Carver Circle, No. 1335, held its regular meeting Monday evening in Foresters hall with Chief Companion Teresa Watters presiding.

Past Chief Ethel M Hoelck was elected as deputy of the circle.

A membership drive was started and plans were made to increase the activity of the circle.

Irritating soft corns find relief in

Wilbur Coon Shoes
(Made-to-measure fit in ready-to-wear shoes)

MAYBELLE

A wonderful new strap shoe that will fit without getting on unusually hard-to-fit feet.

Available in 200 Sizes and Widths
AAAA to EEE Sizes 1 to 11

Soft corns result from perspiration, caused by the toes being cramped in the front of the shoe.

"But," you will say, "I have always been careful to have my shoes fitted long." Yes, they were long enough when fitted, but, the shoe didn't fit at the waist and instep.

Your foot creps forward. Then your shoe was too long behind, too short in front.

Let us fit you with a shoe that hugs your foot firmly at the instep and waist. We can do it easily in Wilbur Coon Shoes, for they are made in special measurements, enabling us to fit your foot snugly where most shoes run too large.

A shoe fitted our way will never become short. Your foot is held in position and cannot creep forward.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week, James McGuire was elected head of Wolf Tone Circle, F. E., at the circle's annual meeting. The circle at that time had over 40 members and was planning to agitate the cause of Irish freedom. They were endeavoring to secure General Bourke to deliver an address here in March, 1878. The Wauregan Hook and Ladder Co. members were making plans, that week, for their annual masquerade dance. On the whole, the week in Norwich half a century ago was a quiet one. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of February, 1878, are as follows:

Monday, Feb. 4, 1878—The streets presented a merry appearance Saturday, as everyone who had teams of their own, or could hire, was trying the sleighing and listening to the tinkling of the bells. The sleighing was very good about the city and the temperature mild.

At a meeting of Wolf Tone Circle, F. E., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: James McGuire, center; Daniel McCarthy, vice center; Patrick Moriarty, treasurer; John F. Moran, secretary; John Foley, receiver. The sentinels and guards are to be appointed by the circle. The circle is now in a prosperous condition and numbers over 40 members. They intend to agitate the cause of Irish freedom, the coming spring, and are in hopes of getting General Bourke to speak early in March.

The cutting of ice has begun at the Greeneville reservoir and a large force is employed in gathering the harvest. The work was begun when the ice was six inches thick, but every night now adds an inch or two.

Wednesday, Feb. 6, 1878—The services in memory of the late Edwin W. Church, who was drowned in the North sea, were held at Uncasville, Sunday, the sermon being given by the Rev. W. Crafts. Friends of the deceased were present from New London, this city and elsewhere.

A hearing was had before Justice Thomas, yesterday, on a suit brought by Clerk Park of the superior court against the town of Norwich for the sum of about $50 and interest, claimed by the plaintiff, as due him on a transaction nearly four years ago. Judgment was rendered that plaintiff recover $57.13.

The hill on West Main street is merry every evening with the long array of coasters trying the speed of their favorite runners and the friendly rivalry contributes to the exhilaration of the sport. Three or four double rippers were on the hill last evening, one of which was capable of carrying 16 persons, and a considered one of the biggest things out about here in its line.

Thursday, Feb. 7, 1878—Bryant's Minstrels had a good sized and enthusiastic audience last evening. The ballads were especially appreciated and Hughey Dougherty always succeeded in winning deserved applause. As a carnival of fun, the entertainment was a complete success.

Our Universalist friends are arranging another of their always welcome and always entertaining fairs and festivals. Keep your well eye on their advertisements and look sharp to see what is coming.

COLCHESTER

BODY OF JA"ES COYNE BROUGHT FROM N. HAMPSHIRE

The body of James Coye who died at his home in East Garry, New Hampshire, Tuesday, was brought here for burial in the family plot in St. Andrew's cemetery. Requiem high mass was sung at 9 o'clock at St. Andrew's church by Rev. Philip J. Mooney. Surviving Mr. Coyne is a son, Joseph Coyne of Melrose, Mass., and three daughters, Miss Katherine Coyne, Mrs. John O Thomas and Mrs. Margaret Murphy, all of East Garry, N. H. Mr. Coyne was a former resident of this place and was a boot maker in the old Colchester Rubber Co. When the factory was closed he moved away.

Charles L. Strong was in Hartford Thursday.

Norman E. Frazier of Norwich was a caller in town Thursday in the interests of the S. N. E. Telephone Co.

Several members of Oliver Woodhouse lodge, Knights of Pythias, were in New London Wednesday evening, attending the 59th anniversary of Trumbull lodge. A banquet was given at the Mohican hotel. A fine program was given by professional entertainers.

A special town meeting was held in Grange hall Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock to see what action if any would be taken concerning taking off the trains on the branch railroad. The first selectman was empowered to consult legal authority as to what mode of procedure, if any can be taken on the matter. The attendance was not as large as was expected.

F. M. Farnsworth of Hartford was a business caller here Thursday.

A Kentucky man recently married his aunt. As he is now his own uncle he will probably wear his watch regularly.

FINAL QUOTATIONS WERE GENERALLY LOWER IN STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Erratic fluctuations in today's stock market reflected the mixed character of the day's news developments. Final quotations were generally lower, with some of the declines in the active issues running as large as 5 points, but there was also a sprinkling of gains equally as large. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume, compared with recent sessions, the day's sales falling below 2 1-4-million shares.

The announcement of an increase of 803,073 tons in the January unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, bringing the total above 4,000,000 tons for the first time since March, 1926, was about in line with Wall street's expectations. A few traders who bought stocks on the theory that the gain might run as high as 400,000 tons dumped their holdings with the result that well common sank to 144 3-8 and then snapped back to 146, off 5-8 net on the day.

General Motors dividend action was also fairly well discounted, and the stock closed practically unchanged at 138. After the close of the market directors of Yellow Truck and Coach passed the preferred dividend, but the General Motors Corporation, which has a large interest in Yellow Trucks, offered to purchase Yellow Truck preferred at $93 cash a share. As against a closing price of $92.25 today, up to May 11, 1928.

Establishment of a new high level in the volume of brokers' loans, which was reported after the close yesterday, brought some fresh liquidation into the market by traders who feared that further measures might be taken to force a reduction in the total. Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent as against an opening rate of 4 1-2 per cent yesterday and held steady at that figure all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. Directors of the Cleveland Reserve Bank met today and voted to continue the 3 1-2 per cent rediscount rate, being the first central institution to maintain the lower rate after the New York bank had increased its rate to 4 per cent at today's meeting.

United Cigar Stores crossed 34 to a new peak on buying influenced by the announcement that George Whelan had accepted the presidency of the Tobacco Products Corporation to work out a plan to dissolve that corporation and divide the assets among stockholders. Tobacco products issues also were under accumulation, but profit-taking cut down the early gains. About 80 per cent of United Cigar Stores common is owned by Tobacco Products.

Atlantic Refining rallied 6 points to 103 on the declaration of the regular dividend, previously reported in danger. Most of the other oils lost ground in reflection of poor trade conditions. Rubber shares were heavy on unconfirmed reports that the "rubber pool" established by the leading rubber companies had lost heavily as a result of the recent collapse in rubber prices.

Foreign exchanges held firm with sterling cables quoted slightly higher at $4.87 7-16.

Commodity prices were mixed. Cotton rallied more than a dollar a bale on reports of improvement in the trade situation but grain prices were heavy. Coffee futures were slightly firmer and sugar quotations held steady.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Feb. 14—Club No. 2 meets in Buckingham Memorial.

BUSY BUT INTERESTED.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters:—It has been a long time since I have written a line to the Corner but I can assure you it is not because I have not thought of you a great many times I have. I have been and am most busy these days. Beside running the cafeteria at the high school and doing all my own work I am taking a course in the night school here. Am taking typewriting and shorthand and it takes all of my spare moments to get my lessons. There is never a Social Corner day that Whirlwind and I don't say "Oh, how I wish I could go to the Social Corner today." I look for the paper the first thing the mail carrier leaves on Saturday to see what everyone is doing. I want to thank the dear thoughtful sister that always remembers to send me a lovely calendar every year. I hope all the happiness you deserve comes to you, and more quite some.

Whirlwind is confined to the house most of the time on account of the condition of our invalid mother and I to my work so we do not get a chance to get together very much. There are so many of the sisters I would like to ask after: Olga and her sisters; Sis Hopkins; Helper; Balsam Fir; Teresa; Priscilla; Mavis; Theda; Rosemary; Slow; Auntie No. 1; Betty and most of others who have at different times sent me a little word of cheer.

My health is a little better than it has been at home yet. There are times when I wish I were where he is so I am unable to see him at present, but I am right or I would hear of it. What a wonderful winter we have had so far.

How are you and your family, Mrs. Twice Twenty and family? It seems as though we were just as busy as we have not been able to any of the meetings but we hope we are not forgotten.

Thanks for all in trouble or sickness and a kindly thought for the sick and for not too late a Bright and Happy New Year to each and every one, the editor included. Music: How is Effie M. and all the sisters could put any time in the Social Corner that would bring work I would appreciate it so that are not too expensive. Well, I'll stop and get something for my supper to eat. I think I would be able to come Sundays if they did not come every week-end.

Love to all and for the Corner always.

VALENTINE PARTY MENUS

Dear Corner Editor: Sisters and Sisters: When the Saturday morning Bulletin arrives at your home, the first thing for you may look to be a Valentine menu for lunch and as I am sure that there is one that I have to say want it, I will send it in. Miss M. F. S. also W. S.: I will please you as you have so many times in Norwich.

St. Valentine Menu: Tomato consommé, bread sticks, shrimp salad in tomato aspic, small baking powder heart salad with cream cheese, cherry heart cookies and candies, red punch. I have recipes that are contained in this menu to the Corner sev-

Another menu for a Valen-

In these menus you will find things. They are not only easy to make but are appetizing and at-

The tulip is so pretty for a table and also red hearts pasted are effective.

Cook bread with a quest shape, gravest breach of which is held guilty. To sit down with the stranger within the gates is immediate mark of friendship, symbol of the standard. The stranger was expected to eat up to. Among all the various ethical codes of the old days of knighthood, none more charming than the ceremony of breaking together.

Thus this bread breaking is shown by offering the guest a cup of tea, a sandwich, partly because we like to linger and at greater ease drink warming cup; but further because it symbolizes hospitality and loyalty; a closer acquaintance and the service. It is as much as to say, "You must be my friend!" Mr. and Mrs. Jones happened to dinner: it seems unhospitable to shut them leave our threshold without offering some repast. Occasionally we do the matter; we offer something unusual for an evening lunch to our friends go home with upset stomachs. We should use good judgment in selecting dishes for the evening, bread-breaking with chance calls. While our custom is just as beautiful and important in meaning as the ceremony of the medieval baron, only simple food need be served. It indicates the same, that we value and desire friendship and will welcome them again. They appreciate the kindness shown. Keeping this always in mind, by planning well, we should be able to produce a lunch so quickly and easily that we do not have to be cluttering up the kitchen long absent from the guests. Even where a maid attends entertainment of this impromptu kind generally falls to the lot of the mistress. A cup of hot chocolate and a few wafers, a plate of sandwiches with coffee, a bite of cake with cider, rootbeer and toasted water crackers, slices of cake with grape juice or shrub, any of these simple semblance of the bread and salt when is sufficient to offer the chance evening caller.

An invitation to a neighbor to "come in for the evening" however casually given, calls for some light refreshments. It may be a chafing dish affair with all the fun and excitement of its visible preparation or merely a simple beverage with a sandwich and a sweet. To omit such a slight evidence of a hospitable spirit would seem a violation of the age-old feeling about guests.

The most time a long and heavy meal is not desirable. In our own home we seldom indulge in food between dinner and bedtime. If for any reason we loose sleep between ten o'clock and one, nature seems to demand something to support the unrested body and to take the place of energy—restoring sleep, we feel hungry before midnight, but a little satisfies us. An apple or a doughnut, a cup of cocoa is usually enough and this we must keep in mind when determining what to serve others. It is a mistake to confuse our excuse for an evening lunch with out desire to extend a bountiful hospitality.

Preparations should be made early for invited friends. Paper napkins may be used when serving informal evening refreshments. And for a large gathering like a card party, the buffet system may be used, the guests sitting or standing some distance from the serving table, no covers being laid. For one or two friends especially if the chafing dish is to appear, a group around the dinner table is far more satisfactory. Doilies are prettier than tablecloth at this time. The menus this month suggest suitable combinations for a Valentine party and I do hope that some of the readers will try the menus sent herewith.

ETHELYN.

MOTHER PRESTON'S RECIPES.

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: It is hard to make old-fashioned ginger bread and cakes satisfactorily unless you use the best molasses. I prefer the New Orleans molasses which is light colored, and also of excellent quality. I can use it three times a day with my bread instead of butter. Here are a few recipes for molasses.

Sponge Ginger Bread: Mix half a cup of butter, one cup of molasses and half a tablespoon of ginger; set before the fire until warmed, then add one cup of sour milk, two eggs, one teaspoon of soda dissolved in a very little warm water and flour enough to make a thick batter. Bake in a loaf.

Ginger Coffee Cookies: Use one cup of molasses, one cup of strong coffee, one cup of brown sugar, one-half cup of lard, one-half cup of butter, one tablespoon of ginger, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one teaspoon of soda, three teaspoons of cold water, flour to thicken. Beat the buttter and lard well together. Dissolve the soda in the water, stir it into the molasses, and add to the buttter and lard. Add the spice and coffee and sufficient flour to make a soft dough; roll the dough three-quarters of an inch thick, cut the cakes out, and bake them 15 minutes.

Ginger Snaps: Soften half a cup of butter and mix with it the same amount of brown sugar, half as much lard, and one cup of molasses; add one teaspoon of ginger, half a teaspoon of ground cloves, three ounces of preserved orange peel, one teaspoon of salt, and half a teaspoon of soda dissolved in one tablespoon of boiling water; mix well, add one cup of sifted flour, turn out on a well-floured dough-board, knead, roll out as thin as possible, cut in circles and bake in a quick oven. Snaps to be crisp should be baked on a bright day.

As I have been making many pumpkin pies lately thought I would send my recipe.

Pumpkin Pie: Cut a small sugar pumpkin in quarters, remove the seeds and place it skin down, in a deep dish and make until soft. Then scoop out the pumpkin from the shell and sift through a fine colander. Thicken one cup of boiling milk with a little flour. Cook until smooth and stir into the prepared pumpkin. Beat the yolks of two eggs, add one cup of sugar, a fourth of a teaspoon of salt, ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg and when well mixed add the whites beaten slightly. Mix this with the pumpkin, adding more salt or sugar if needed. Line a deep pie plate with rich pastry, putting on two notched rims, fill with the pumpkin mixture and bake slowly until it puffs and is brown.

Many thanks to you, Kitty Lou, for your very pretty pin ball. I had one given me many years ago when I was a little girl and it is as good as new now.

Sister Ethelyn: I guess you make as much steamed pudding as I do from what I read in last Saturday's Social Corner. Maybe some time you would like to use buttermilk to make them with. When you do need it, come out this way. You are welcome to some.

Joan: I see you would like to have me come to the gathering but the way I stand it will be quite a while for me to get to them.

With best wishes to the Corner,

MOTHER PRESTON.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: What a lovely day it has been (Sunday) and the snow all gone. It makes you think spring will soon be here.

What a nice time everyone had at the last meeting of Club No. 5. Yes, we all missed Kasha. The first time I ever saw her to remember her, she and her husband stood up with a couple that were married in the German church. The bride and groom are both living, he being in business on Main street. That was a good many years ago.

Wurdy Bell: You are doing your part all right, reading and writing.

Joan: Try and make that visit with the sisters who have asked you to come and see them. You would have a nice time.

E. L. M: Did you ask for the butter scotch pie? Anyway, I'm sending the recipe.

Butter Scotch Pie: 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 of melted butter, 3 egg yolks, 2 cups milk, teaspoon vanilla.

Mix cornstarch and sugar together, add butter, egg yolks and milk. Cook in double boiler until thick. When cool put in pie shell already baked. Cover with the beaten white of two eggs and two tablespoons of sugar and two of water.

THE FEATHER STITCH

Dear Readers: I hardly think I can explain the mode of working the feather stitch but I will try.

To work the single feather-stitch imagine four parallel lines an equal distance apart. Now put your needle under the material, and bring it out at the top of the imaginary line (left). Hold the loose thread down with your thumb, and insert your needle in the material putting the point in on the imaginary line, (right) about one eighth of an inch below the first insertion, and bringing it out on the inner right line. Another eighth of an inch down and above the head-down thread, pull you thread through evenly and you will have your first stitch.

Repeat, working from left this time. Insert the needle one-eighth of an inch further down the outer left line, holding the thread down with your thumb, and bringing the point out on the inner left line above the held-down thread, and one-eighth of an inch further down.

You will notice that when you are working on the left line, you must bring your needle out on the imaginary inner left line, and when working on the right, you must bring your needle out on the imaginary inner right line.

The width of the feather stitch may vary at will, but in all cases must be kept uniform, throughout. In this way, many variations may be obtained.

For double feather stitching, work exactly the same way as single feather stitching, only this time, work twice to the right and twice to the left all the way down.

The couching feather stitch is very much like the ordinary feather stitching. A bunch of threads of one color is laid on the material of a contrasting color, and the feather stitch is worked over it, from side to side. The needle picks up the material in a straight line, instead of slightly obliquely, and each stitch starts where the one above ended. Another use for feather stitching for a leaf. This is nothing more or less than an ordinary feather stitching, worked more closely and on broader lines.

After becoming thoroughly familiar with the feather stitch, you will be ready to apply it to some pretty simple article for home or holiday gift. A dresser scarf, stamped with butterflies stencilled in pale pink, blue and yellow, may have the design outlined in feather stitch, in white cotton floss.

I worked the bodies of the butterflies in satin stitch, the tendrils and the markings on the wings in stem or outline-stitch. The edge of the wings I outlined in the feather-stitch.

I scalloped the edge and button-holed it in white, and then sewed a fine white lace on the edge which was very dainty in combining it with the buttonholing.

There are countless other ways in which feather stitching may be used. It makes an especially pretty finish for infants' and children's dresses, and is an excellent stitch in which to embroider any article that is to be develop in a scroll design.

I hope I have helped you. This is my first attempt in writing and explanation how to do feather stitching.

The sister who wished to take out the grease spot, can use sulphuric ether. Just pour a little on a cloth, place the spot on the dress over a piece of blotting paper and rub it gently and it will remove the grease spot.

KITTY LOU.

SUGGESTS CONTEST FOR CLUBS.

Dead Editor and Social Corner members: The Social Corner page of last Saturday's Bulletin reminded me of how it used to be when quite a bit younger than now, and not as many members. With the number of new members we have now our page ought to have as many letters every week.

Don't you think it would be nice for each member to tell the number of their club when writing, then at the end of each month, write see which club has written the most letters.

Also if anyone can tell, to write how many belong to each club.

Another anniversary of our Social Corner page is drawing near. I wonder if Theoda could tell us how many have departed in the past year?

I thank your Social Corner member for the pretty and useful calendar I received.

Peggy Alder: Don't you think you had better take that trip we were speaking about?

Joan: Was so pleased to meet you in N—.

Daisy Dean: Have you been to N— since I saw you there?

Moses Wife: Why so silent? You must hase lots of new members up your way. Did any of you get to Danielson? I hope to meet you all at some of the gatherings this summer.

Buffalo: We miss your letters. Have you a picture of M—H—? It not please let me know.

Noneso pretty: When there comes a deep snow, come up and we will slide down hill, providing you and 1492 will let me ride up the hill. You could take turns drawing me.

Lular Wylie: You may come too, if you want to. Maybe we could find a "double-runner."

U. C. E. Did you receive the letter I sent you? If not please let me know.

Kocha: I think you must be a great favorite with the girls from what I hear.

I. J. B: Are you ready to go shopping again with me? Maybe we could get a d— that would suit us.

Saturday Eve: Was pleased to see your name once more. Now you must write again soon.

Votami: What has become of that yeast cake?

Bonie: Wish I could have seen you while in N—. Am glad you could get out to the meeting.

If not too late will wish you all a Happy New Year, only one month has gone.

KEZIAH DOOLITTLE

GREETINGS FROM PAPA'S BOY

Dear Social Writers One and All: I feel as if I wasn't a Social Corner writer any more but being one of the first writers I still cling to my strings of the Corner. I see a few old timers keep writing but somehow I cannot find time to write as much as I would like, although I enjoy the Corner as much as ever.

A Social Corner Member: Maybe you think me a slacker, or something, and I don't blame you if you do, but I received your little calendar and have it hung where I see it every day and appreciate it, so if not too late please accept my thanks for same.

Butterfly: What do you do with your rugs? If you don't mind, send some along. How large are they? and how are they made?

Olga: Was very glad you received your ring you lost. I watched that adv. for a long time, wishing I might be the lucky one.

Chelsea: Do you attend the Corner meetings? I would like to but don't see my way clear at that time.

Balsam Fir: Your nice letter was enjoyed while I was in the hospital and was read many times, as all my mail was. Am glad your son is so well after his dreadful accident.

Diamond: Come on and shake up your pen and write while you are waiting for your varnish to set.

Elizabeth: Am glad you have such a nice home for the winter. We enjoyed our evening there very much.

Club: How are you all? Did you sell yet, or near it? Your son's photos were fine as I saw them at V.

Will ring off now, with best wishes to all.

PAPA'S BOY.

A PERFECT DAY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank the Corner Member for the potted plant-calendar. It is lovely. I had the pleasure last Wednesday of meeting George Washington and his wife Martha, also Abraham Lincoln, at the meeting of Social Corner Club No. 5. They hold their age well, and we found them very charming. We enjoyed a bountiful dinner, and the social time following was very entertaining. I met many old friends, and called it a perfect day.

Best of wishes to all Corner members.

CADY.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Editor: I would like to join the Social Corner. I spent the day there last month and had a delightful time. I would like to join Club No. 4. For my pen name I will take

CLUB NO. #3 PATRIOTIC FESTIVE

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: The Historical social, under the leadership of Washington-Lincoln-Valentine held at the Buckingham Memorial Feb. 1st by Club No. 3 was a great success, largely due to the committee in charge. The tables were tastefully decorated with table runners of national colors and with vivid brightness of ripe red cherries and blood red hearts. The tables were very attractive and a fitting place for a social menu. Before serving, the devotional part was given by singing Blest Be the Tie That Binds Our Hearts in Christian Love. Our efficient hostess, Elva, with helpers, served a delicious feast greatly enjoyed by those present, though the inclement weather prevented many members from attending—and they missed a rare treat. A short intermission and then Director Elva staged a unique and enjoyable program. The central attraction was the patriotic figures of George and Lady Washington and Abraham Lincoln (impersonated) by Calamity Jane, Prudence and Lonesome Pine. A ringing applause greeted them as with stately grace and military steps they slowly circled the hall to special seats assigned to them. From a silk hat to buckled shoe the transformation was complete. Readings, singing, dancing and short sketches from the Grand Army men, social chats with guests made a full program. But as General Washington issued orders to march we all marched around the hall in a grand march to a standing halt and sang the last song of an afternoon program.

RAISIN PIE AND OTHER RECIPES

Dear Sisters: Black-eyed Susie wished a recipe for raisin pie. I have over one dozen raisin pie recipes but this is my favorite. A Sacramento newspaperman who sent this recipe says it was originated 20 years ago by a Missouri housewife. It is easy and inexpensive to make:

Raisin Pie: Filling, one cup white sugar, 1 cup boiling water, butter the size of an egg, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 cup seedless raisins, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Method: Boil sugar, and water, butter, thicken with cornstarch dissolved in cold water; add raisins; when partly cool fill crust; bake until set. Cover with meringue and brown in oven. I make two crusts to mine, for I don't care for the meringue.

Here is a recipe for pie crust that never fails:

Pie Crust: 3 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup shortening, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 scant teaspoon baking powder; sift dry ingredients three times; work into flour lightly with fingertips; use enough cold water or milk to bind. Then roll out lightly. The above makes two large or three small pies.

A $100 Lemon Pie: 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 lemon, 4 eggs, 3-4 cup sugar, 3 teaspoons cornstarch. Put water into double boiler with the butter; wash lemon, grate the rind, adding this to water and butter; squeeze 4 tablespoons lemon juice into a cup, separate eggs, beating whites and yolks separately, add to the yolks sugar that has been mixed thoroughly with cornstarch; add lemon juice and beat well; add this mixture to boiling water, butter and lemon rind; beat continually and thick; beat whites of eggs until stiff and separate into two parts, adding one portion to thickened mixture and fold in carefully. Pour this into baked crust.

Meringue: To remaining whites add sugar and lemon juice; beat well; pile on pie and brown.

GUESS WHO.

LINCOLN DAY

Dear Editor and Members: "His memory is the pride of that dear land, he served with each day of his noble life; his name, so long obscured by clouds of strife, is written high by Time's unerring hand. One, only one, is traced above his own; "The Father of His Country" first, and then, "His Country's Savior" wrote the blazing pen, and year by year each one has brighter grown. Not only his pre-eminence of mind and honesty of purpose, won this place, but that sincere unselfishness, entwined with every deed, gives him this love and grace. He who once bore his country's burdens in his heart, has of her fame and greatness now become a part."

These words by Ninette M. Lowater is my tribute today to our beloved Lincoln.

I wish to report the passing of one of our Social Corner sisters, Mrs. John Caswell of Plainfield, Conn. Pen name, "Jack's Wife."

Our loss is her gain.

ASKS FOR A RECIPE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I do not want to be a slacker, and wish to answer to the roll call of 1928, I will try and write a few lines. I cannot attend the meetings as I have to work every day, but I think of the good times you must have.

Milk Maid: How are you and Milkman? Hope he is feeling better. Come up and see us when you get a chance.

F. B. C.: Did you get home all right? Come again this week if you can.

Joan: Some day when I can get away I will run up and see you.

Mother Preston: If you have the recipe of the old fashion walnut bread would you please send it?

If I could write nice letters like some of the sisters I would write often. Will sign off for this time hoping all the sick are on the gain.

DUDLEY'S WIFE

ADVICE ABOUT CALLAS

Dear Social Corner: It is so long since I wrote that I don't know but I shall be disowned, and I feel quite guilty, but felt that I must thank the kind unknown friend who sends us the calendars every year, and as I am very fond of flowers, I like it better than any I have ever had. I used to raise so many plants and have as many now as my somewhat limited space will permit.

Winter Robin: I think I can help you about your callas that don't bloom. At least, I can give you the rule that I tried years ago and read in a floral publication.

About the first of June turn them outdoors under some spreading bush where they will be somewhat sheltered, on the sides of the pots.

Don't let them stand up as they would get too wet, and then go away and forget them till about September. Then bring out to the light and sunshine and begin watering and give a little fertilizer occasionally and once in a couple of weeks set the pots in dishes of very warm water, almost hot, and let them soak up all they will. Maybe they won't respond to this treatment, but mine did. I used also to have what was called the Johnsonian lily or Amaryllis John sonii, which I treated in much the same way, only that I put it away in a dark frostproof cellar or cupboard through the winter, with no water, and let its leaves die if they wanted to, and about the first of March I would bring it out to the sunshine in rather a cool place at first, and give it water and fertilizer and the buds would start almost before the leaves. Easter lily bulbs and hyacinths are potted in the fall and set away in the dark to make roots. The hyacinths will usually begin sprouting in the dark and then have to be brought out, whether you are ready for them or not. A good many plants and bulbs seem to need the resting or dormant period. One of the most beautiful plants I ever had when it was in bloom was a yellow tea rose that hadn't done especially well through the summer in the garden. In the fall I dug it up carefully, set it in a large pot with good rich soil and put it down cellar. By the way, I mean a dry cellar and not a wet or damp one, which would probably cause them to rot. The leaves all dropped off and one would have thought it was dead, but in February I brought it up and put it in a sunny window, not near a fire, and began watering, and at once I began putting out new shoots with buds, and through April and May it was a mass of beautiful yellow roses and buds. Winter Robin will not be as apt to remember me as I remember her, but I used to live in old Westminster, too. Her mother was a friend of mine, and a "friend indeed", being one of those who are termed "handy in sickness," and she has helped me out in times of trouble and "sat up" with me by night when I was sick, for those were the days when, if there was sickness in a family, the neighbors all took an interest, and went to see what they could do for the afflicted ones. At least if they had any faculty at all for nursing they could take their turn at sitting up with the patient at night and give the family a chance to rest.

I don't consider it was probably as efficient care as a trained nurse or hospital would give, but either of those were far off and unobtainable for most people, and somehow or other lots of us got well after all.

I should like to ask Butterfly where she gets material for so many rugs. It must be she makes them for others, as she could never make use for so many, and unless one has a very large family I can't see where so many rags come from. There are only two of us, so I am having hard work to find rags enough for one rug, not wishing to cut up anything wearable and having in mind the woman who had such a craze for making striped rag carpets in the time when rag carpets were the proper thing. Her husband said his red flannel undergarments were not safe a minute unless he put them in the bank in his own name, and his blue overalls went into a ball of carpet rags before he had worn them a dozen times.

I think I shall knit mine in strips and sew them together. I have made several that way, and now I will say "Good Morning" to all, and hope Winter Robin has better luck with her callas.

ENJOYED DANIELSON MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: I don't want to be too much of a slacker, so thought I would write a few lines this rainy morning. It is like spring this morning, but never mind, spring will soon be here. I enjoy reading the letters very much and have tried quite a few recipes and have had good luck, too.

I attended the meeting in G. A. R. hall, Danielson, and had a lovely time. There was a good program, plenty to eat, and enough left to feed a good many more, and everyone is so pleasant to each other, just like a large family. They will make you welcome; if you don't believe it, just join and see. Glad to see so many sisters from East Killingly and those that walked 7 1-2 miles. They had good courage, all right. Guess they won't forget their first meeting.

Peggy Alder: We miss you at the meetings with the good cookies.

Irma: How did the sausage come out? Wish I had been there to have some with you.

I can see Butterfly past once in a while I guess she is the champion rug maker, all right.

My sympathy goes to the sick ones and those in trouble.

Brown Bread: One cup graham flour, 1 cup meal, 1 cup flour, 2-3 cup molasses, 2 handfuls bran, Kellogg's, 2 level teaspoons soda dissolved in milk, salt. Mix with milk like cake dough and put in pail with cover on with holes in the top. Bake one hour.

Season's greetings to all.

HOLLYHOCK (Club No. 4)

THE LESSON OF THE SQUIRRELS

Dear Editor of the Social Corner: I was surprised to receive the prize for my letter telling how to make a rug. I thank you. I have been away from home, which explains why I have not said "Thank you" before. I have been in the home of a sick brother who is a great sufferer.

I have called on Little Sister and seen the nice rugs she has been making this winter. She could give instructions about them as she makes very pretty ones.

We had two snows since I have been here, but they are nearly gone now, and I am very glad. I like the bare ground best.

I am making tatting in my spare time which can be of use some time.

There are four gray squirrels which come every day and eat corn and squash seeds from their table out the back door. They are fat and very cunning, taking a kernel of corn in both front paws, and eating the part they want; then dropping the hard part, and repeating it till they are satisfied. It is interesting to watch them. So we can learn a lesson from them that God provides for His own. Let us trust Him. Best wishes for all the members.

SISTER BARBAR.

GETTING NEAR SPRING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is a rainy morning so I will take the time to write some letters which have been sadly neglected; also in answering the 1928 roll call.

I have been feeling guilty for some time, especially last Saturday when I saw so few letters from Club No. 6. I guess E. L. M. was the only loyal one.

Nevertheless, the page was full and running over with the letters from other club members, and all so interesting.

I enjoyed the article describing Zervla's trip to Cape Cod. My son, with some other boys, has been invited to spend the spring vacation there with a school friend. I hope he visits those places she describes.

Haven't we been having a delightful winter? Soon we will see the pussy willows and hear the peep frogs and everything will take on new life. Then comes Easter, which symbolizes the Resurrection, to me one of the happiest times of the year.

E. L. M.: They say misery likes company. I am glad to know that I was not the only one who couldn't see through the windows. I had the same experience as you did.

It will soon be time for our Corner meeting again. I hope we have a good attendance, as everyone seems to enjoy themselves. It surely is a "social" meeting.

With very best wishes to all members and sympathy to those in trouble,

TOPSY (Club No. 6)

REMEMBRANCES ON 81ST BIRTHDAY

Dear Social Corner Editor: Will you kindly allow me space in the Social Corner page to thank all the members for the many and beautiful cards sent me on my 81st birthday, Feb. 1st. Also the many letters with their cheery messages, and Aries, True Blue and Milksham for the pretty handkerchiefs. It was indeed a very pleasant birthday. I received nearly fifty cards.

I truly appreciate your kindness.

A SURPRISE FOR CLUB NO 2 MEETING.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank all the sisters that sent me cards at Christmas. Hope we all will be able to meet at the Buckingham Memorial, Feb. 14. I think it would be nice if each of us would bring in a new member or some one with us. We can try.

Why is it that some of the Social Corner members attend other clubs and not their own? We can not expect to make a success of a club if we do not patronize it and help. It is all right to visit other clubs, but I think we ought to patronize our own, in preference to others.

Now we hope that all of Club No. 2 will be at our next meeting, as we have a surprise for them, and as many from other clubs as can come.

Stranger in the City: Well I had to laugh, too. To think you were such a busy woman, teaching school, and attending to your household duties. Ha! ha!! that is one on Kochia. He will have to guess again.

U. C. E.: Am still looking for that visit.

Me Too: Was glad I met you that day in the Boston store. Hope it will be so you can attend our next meeting.

Scottie: How is the sick member getting along? Hope it will be well soon. Had a nice time at your house with Red Rose, Necia, Dearie and Robin. Missed True Blue and White Dawn.

Red Rose: Am looking for that piece of Washington pie.

Black Eyed Susie: Haven't seen you in so long a time. Have almost forgotten how you look. You must come to our next meeting, as we need you. The violin is all ready, so please do not disappoint us.

Necia: I look across the street, but do not see you. Have you disappeared again?

True Blue: Missed you up to Scottie's. Hope your sister is getting along nicely. How is everything progressing?

Firefly: Am surprised to see you at Dew Drop. Don't we have nice times there? Are those people you like to come with related to you? Don't forget our next meeting, and bring along C Sharp.

Here is a requested recipe for Mock Angel Cake—One cup sugar, 1 1-3 cups of flour, 1-2 tespoon cream tartar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon salt. Sift all together four times. Heat one cup of milk to scalding point by putting in a dish of water, then add slowly to other ingredients, beating all the time; 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites, beaten to a stiff froth, then fold in. Bake in ungreased angel cake tin 35 to 40 minutes.

COUNTRY SISTER.

REGRETS DEATH OF JACK'S WIFE.

Dear Corner Members: It was with much sorrow I read of the passing from this life of Social Corner Sister Jack's Wife.

Ormandine: You have my heartfelt sympathy in your hour of affliction in the loss of your dear mother. Try to bear your trouble as you know "God's will must be done."

Mrs. J.: I received your letter. I know you will see this as you say you always look for my letters. Was sorry to hear of your mother's trouble. Hope by this time she is feeling better. Quite an expense if she has many of those trips to make, and to also go to a specialist, as well.

Black Eyed Susie: Guess our letters crossed in transit. Some joke, eh!

Linnette: Just heard of your recent experience. Lucky for you it wasn't your latest purchase. I should say you must have been some frightened. I know I should have been and you all alone, too.

Interested Reader: Some "budget." Thank you, do the same again in the near future. They are always very acceptable. I think I just discovered the same on my windows on the west side, but it certainly could not have been the spray from old ocean. What do you say?

Sarilla: Was very glad to receive the nice cheery letter from you both. Will answer it soon.

V. B. A.: I cut your piece of poetry out and pasted it in my scrap book. Wish I had had it last week as I made one of those dollies and sent it off for a kitchen shower for a bride-to-be.

Best wishes from

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

A BRUSH BRAID RUG.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: This is just a wonderful day and I like to tell you Sisters what kind of a rug I am braiding. It is what is called a brush braid rug. The braid is like that they used to use for the bottom of skirts before my time. I have nine colors, first a light grey with two colors of tan, then a dark grey with dark brown and then a light blue with still darker grey almost drab, then another blue with garnet and so on.

Here is a way I have of fixing my slips or petticoat straps: Sew on one side of the strap three clasps and on the other side one to clasp into the side of the strap where the three are. Sew one a little way about the other and then when putting on a dress a little shorter than the other, why just raise or lower one side. Are many of the Sisters getting ready for their spring sewing? I am doing some of mine. This is the month of great men's birthdays and so why shouldn't my hubby and myself be glad to come in with them and both of us celebrate on the same day, Feb. 16. I have had pussy willow since the second of January. I put them in the south window and they are out nicely.

Soon time for the little baby chicks. How many Sisters are going to have big flocks?

Yes, Olive, I will say No. 1 members are slow to write, but I try from time to time to drop a line. It's a pleasure to sit down and see a page full of good chatty letters. It is next to meeting with them all.

WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN

Dear Social Corner Friends — During this month our thoughts naturally turn to Washington and Lincoln. Much as I enjoy biographies of The Father of his Country, they never fascinate me as do those of Lincoln, partly no doubt because his early opportunities were so superior to those of the pioneer lad. The story of Lincoln's journey from log cabin to White House is a most alluring tale to me. As a child I thought there was something miraculous about it and it seemed to be accomplished almost in one leap but the details of his life gleaned from many biographies, some stressing certain phases of his career, some emphasizing others, have shown me in my mature years that if this journey was a miracle that miracle was wrought very largely by himself. Some may call it an accident but the more I study his life the less accidental does it appear to me. From his earliest years there was in him a latent ambition, an inward urge that no unfavorable environment, no setback, no failure or sorrow could quench. Devious as the path at times may seem, the goal, I believe, was long the same. I prefer to regard Washington as a man rather than a demigod and I feel the same about Lincoln. He if he went down to defeat now and he had more of that which we call the divine in his nature than most of us possess. His opportunities for education and advancement were few but he improved them as they came and what is better still he made opportunities. In fact, it seems to me that from a boy he was "out to win" and that in his lexicon there was no such word as fail. If he went down to defeat now and then it was only to come up again with pride a bit hurt perhaps, but with a greater determination to succeed than before. One of the most marked things about him was the process of evolution that went on in him until his death. He grew day by day, not only in mental power but spiritually as well.

It was not Lincoln the rail splitter, nor Lincoln the politician, but Lincoln the statesman, refined in life's fiery furnace who said, "With malice toward none, with charity for all." That was the spirit that conquered his foes. Seward, who looked down on him during the early part of his administration learned to look up instead and it was Stanton, his would-be successor, who, when he saw his chief expire, paid him that glowing tribute, "Now he belongs to the ages." His name indeed is "one of the few, the immortal names, that were not born to die." In my scrap book are many verses written in his honor, but among them all I find none that I like better than the following from the pen of one of our members.

"His memory is the pride of that dear land
He served with each day of his noble life;
His name so long obscured by clouds of strife,
Is written high by Time's unerring hand.
One, only one, is traced above his own;
The Father of His Country, first, and then,
His Country's Savior, wrote the blazing pen,
And year by year each one has brighter grown.

Not only his pre-eminence of mind,
And honesty of purpose, won this place,
But that sincere unselfishness entwined
With every deed gives him this love and grace.
He who once bore his country's burdens in his heart
Has of her fame and greatness now become a part."

How fine to see the page overflowing with interesting letters. With friendly greeting to you all.

CALL FOR THE OLD WRITERS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters—This time of year always reminds me that I joined the Corner five years ago this month, and one of the special times I must get a letter off.

One of the first members to meet me was Frances, and then my old time friend Wandering Jew welcomed me. I felt at home at once, and am always pleased to be present. I think of you on club days and am there in spirit. Business keeps me away, as I am teaching, not occasionally, but every day.

To a Social Corner Member — Thanks for my calendar, which is very attractive.

Huldy—Glad ye uare having a good time and meeting friends. Recognized who our lady doctor was.

Scottie—Sorry about your injury. Why not see an osteopath, and you'll run and not be weary. I had an injury in October to my foot, and that is what fixed me up right.

Double Fuschia—Long time since I saw you, but some day I'll lift the latch and say "Hello."

Marigold—Thank you; it is pleasant to know we are remembered.

Betsy Bray—Would like to see you again.

Mary France—A cold? Well, I've had mine, so do hope yours is better. Sorry I can't come down so we might have a wedding anniversary celebration all over, I suppose.

Practical Polly, Eliza Jane and Theoda—Hope all is well with you, and would like much to see you.

Roxanna Wince—Does some one have a birthday about now? If so, congratulations.

Last Rose of Summer—Next summer you and the girls must come down.

Rose Lee—Do you still get out on Sunday afternoon too? Have wanted to. Best wishes to all the rest.

Let's see more of our old writers' names.

Yours for the Corner,

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

GREETINGS FROM VIOLET.

Dear Social Corner Friends one and all: It has been a long time since I wrote but have had so many things to keep me busy haven't had time.

Joan: How are you this fine weather. Suppose you went to the Social Corner gathering.

J. E. T: Where art thou Haven't heard from you in a long time. Hope you and hubby are enjoying good health.

Aries: Hoped to see you at church in Norwich a couple of weeks ago. Saw Red Rose and several other Social Corner sisters there. Speaker was fine. Just wished you could have heard her.

L. T. H.: Your letter received. Will answer soon. Am sorry you have a hard cold. We are all having them too. E's arm is doing nicely. The twins are going to send you a birthday greeting. Ha-ha.

Crimson Rambler: Have you lost your pen or what? Why do I never hear from you? It has been around 11 or 12 years since I was at your house and enjoyed the Social Club gathering and every thing grand to eat. Write me some time. I'd love to hear from you! Best wishes to all the Corner Members.

VIOLET.

INFORMATION SOUGHT FROM CORNER MEMBERS.

To the members of the Social Corner:—I am not a member of the Social Corner but read the page in the Saturday's Bulletin with much interest. I would like very much some information in regard to some one who does hand weaving. I have a quantity of silk stripes all sewed ready to be woven, but haven't been able to find anyone who does this particular kind of work. If any of the members can give me any information on the subject it will be greatly appreciated.

I have seen some portieres made of silk stripes woven that were very artistic. Hoping to hear from someone who can give the desired information, to a constant reader of the Social Corner.

RAISIN PIE.

Dear Social Corner: We got a call down for so few letters from club No. 1 so now I have got my pen in hand here is a good recipe.

Raisin Pie: One cup of raisins seeded and chopped, one half cup boiling water, add one egg beaten with one half cup of sugar, two tablespoons of flour, and a pinch of salt. Cook until it thickens. Flavor with scant teaspoon of vanilla and bake with two crusts.

THINK MANY OTHERS SHOULD WRITE.

Dear Social Corner Members: Everyone I am sure had a good time at Club No. 1 February meeting. Our hostess served an excellent dinner, and the Valentine plate cards, yellow flowers and candles dressed in our Corner color added to the attractiveness of the bountifully set tables. It has been some time since I wrote to the Corner, but I think there are others who have been silent as well as myself. I think White Clover, California Girl and others whose pen names I cannot recall, ought to write, too.

I was asked to send in my recipe for American chop suey so here it is.

American Chop Suey: Simmer three large onions in butter, add one cup rice, mix and take from pan. Cook in same pan one pound hamburg steak, then add onions and rice, and one can tomato soup, mix and season with salt and pepper.

Greetings for 1928 to our editor and Corner members from

DOESN'T WANT TO BE FORGOTTEN

Dear Social Corner Sisters: My letters are few, but I take pleasure in reading the letters of others; they are very interesting.

LEGAL NOTICES

Power Rate Revision
SCHEDULE "E" POWER
Available only to customer having demands for 60 Kv.a. or more.
Rate:
(1) A Demand Charge
For the first 40 Kv.a. per Kv.a. $2.50
For all additional per Kv.a. $1.50
plus (2) An Energy Charge
For the first 30 Kw hrs. per Kv.a. of demand per month, per kw. hr. .03
For all additional energy, per kw. hr. .01
Discount:
Energy supplied to a customer at primary voltage will be metered at such voltage and the customer allowed 5 per cent. in the billing to cover transformer losses. In such cases transformers will be furnished by the department.
Determination of Demand:
The demand charge for any month shall be based upon the maximum 15 minute integrated demand, exclusive of demands due to short circuits, lightning, etc.
Minimum Bill:
The minimum total charge for any month shall be an amount equal to the demand charge at the above rates based upon the average of the three highest monthly demands occurring during the 12 months ending with the month under consideration.
Special Rule:
Where the total use of energy for lighting purposes is less than 25 per cent of the total consumption, such lighting energy may be included under this schedule. The customer shall furnish and maintain all transformers to supply such energy whenever the customer uses secondary metering.
Character of Service:
The department will furnish the customer, on application with the character of service it will supply.
Published in accordance with General Statutes Act of 1898.
CITY OF NORWICH GAS AND ELECTRICAL DEPARTMENT.
Jan. 31, 1928.

ATTENTION SIDEWALKS
The ordinances of the city of Norwich impose a penalty of $5 upon any owner, occupant or person having the care of any land or buildings abutting the public highways of the city where there is a sidewalk, either graded or paved, who fails to have removed therefrom all snow, sleet or ice within three hours after it shall have been deposited, or within three hours after sunrise when the same has fallen in the night season, and also upon any such party who fails to have the snow on such sidewalk removed or properly sanded within two hours of its becoming so deposited during the daytime, for each successive period of four hours thereafter that it so remains after proper notice given.
This will give notice to all affected by the foregoing ordinances that the same will be strictly enforced and anyone failing to comply therewith prosecuted from this time forward.

NEW LONDON BAKER'S CARELESSNESS CAUSES FIRE IN UNINSURED SHOP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb 10.—The New England bakery, 33 Truman street, owned by Fritz Vogt, was damaged this afternoon by one of the most stubborn fires that the New London department has been called upon to combat in a long time. The fire burned remarkably fast because of the contents of the one-story structure being of an inflammable nature. But for the fact that the building is of brick construction that would undoubtedly have been destroyed. As it was the loss suffered by Vogt will be large for the damage is estimated at $3000, both to stock and the building. Vogt did not carry any insurance the having decided less than a year ago to let his insurance lapse because of the high rate.

The fire was discovered about 2:30 o'clock by one of the few employes in the building for most of the help are employed at night. Flames were noticed in the rear of the bake-shop working toward the ceiling. An alarm was sent in from Box 33, corner of Truman and Hempstead streets. On the arrival of Chief Thomas Shipman and the five apparatus, the roof was a mass of flames and with the high wind fanning the blaze the fire spread rapidly. Great clouds of black smoke were being carried high into the air and it was believed that several residences close to the burning bakery would ignite. As a precautionary measure Chief Shipman had a second alarm sent in which resulted in every piece of the city's fire-fighting equipment being rushed to the burning building. Three lines of hose were stretched at the corner of Truman and Hempstead streets and a like number from the hydrant at the corner of Truman and Blackhall street. With firemen directing the half dozen streams into and upon the burning building the fire was gradually conquered. The firemen experienced their hardest task in subduing the flames in that part of the building between the ceiling and roof where a space of about 10 feet existed. As is usual in fires so located, the flames are hard to reach.

Much of the stock used for the making of bread, pies and cakes stored in the bakery shop proper was either damaged or destroyed, but a carload of flour that was brought to the bakery yesterday and stored in the cellar, it is believed, escaped damage for the firemen exercised excellent judgment when they first arrived at the burning building by covering the large quantity of flour with canvas. It is believed that this valuable stock will not suffer damage, for as soon as the fire had been extinguished, the pumper of the Northwest Hose company was put into service and the water pumped into the street.

The fire originated from the carelessness of a baker, and who discovered the blaze. The baker had dumped the ashes taken from a boiler used in providing heat for the building and deposited them on the floor. The steam from the hot ashes was of such volume that the baker opened a rear door, providing a draught through the structure and then went to another part of the building. In the meantime the ashes had ignited the greasy floor and when the fire was discovered the flames were leaping to the ceiling. There was no opportunity to attempt to extinguish the fire so the occasion to the box and turned in the alarm.

John Stack, formerly of New London, died this afternoon at the residence of his daughter at Richmond Hill, N. Y. Mr. Stack was of advanced years and had resided here until about six months ago when he moved to the residence of his daughter, going to Richmond Hill because of ill health. He was a member of New London lodge of Elks and F. I. Allen Hook and Ladder company. Mr. Stack was a plasterer and had been employed by the leading contractors of this city until his health became impaired.

FORMER MONTVILLE COACHMAN, GEORGE G. BOLTON, DEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 10.—George B. Bolton, 75, died this morning at his home in Waterford, after a lingering illness with heart disease. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Nelson Avery, of Lyme, and a grandson, George Raines, of Waterford. Mr. Bolton was for 25 years employed by the late Charles S. Johnson of Montville, as coachman. He had long been in ill health, a condition that prevented Mr. Bolton from engaging in labor.

PRESIDENT MARSHALL TENDERS RESIGNATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 10.—As was anticipated, the conflict at the Connecticut College for Women between President Benjamin T. Marshall, John Edwin Wells, professor of English, and Allen B. Lambkin, business director, has resulted in President Marshall tendering his resignation to become effective July 1. The resignation was tendered at a special meeting of the trustees at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, yesterday afternoon. Those trustees in attendance, attempted to keep secret the fact that President Marshall had resigned. However, it was learned this morning that the head of the college had decided to end his relations with the institution, although the meeting of yesterday did not accept his resignation, deferring that course until a special meeting is called for that purpose, prior to the annual meeting of the trustees in May.

The resignation was tendered the meeting by Attorney Andrew Marshall, of Boston, brother of President Marshall, who addressed the trustees in behalf of his brother. President Marshall was not in attendance and was absent from this city today so that no statement was forthcoming from him.

It is known that for a long time that there has been clashes between Professor Wells and President Marshall and Business Representative Lambkin. It is said that Professor Wells has always insisted that students entering the college should be given additional instructions in English before entering upon advanced studies, while President Marshall contended that the students should take the advanced studies as soon as they entered college.

President Marshall and Business Representative Lambkin, it is reported, have been at variance a long time regarding the administrative conduct of affairs at the college and because of the wide difference of opinion on both matters between President Marshall and Professor Wells and Business Representative Lambkin, the whole affair culminated in the resignation. It is understood that, had President Marshall refrained from tendering his resignation, it would be asked for.

Letitia C. Gardner has sold to William R. Ryon an undivided one-third interest in a building lot on Ocean avenue and one-half interest in a lot adjoining the one purchased.

Letitia C. Gardner, guardian of Diana Gardner, has sold to William Ryon, an undivided two-thirds interest in a building lot on Ocean avenue and a one-third undivided interest in a lot adjoining the same.

Montford E. Ashburn, U. S. A., stationed at Ft. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Ashburton, of Clarksburg, Va., and Miss Elaine A. Sturges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Sturges, 52 Fitch avenue, were married yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church by Rev. Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the church. Earl A. Steidly, U. S. A., brother-in-law of the bride, was best man and Miss Ellen Colt attended the bride.

Mrs. Harry A. Maynard and little son, of Chicago avenue, Groton, have concluded a visit with Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Whitcomb, Bridgeport.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B Stoeckel today ordered the return of the driver's license of Mrs. Florence H Fitch, Hotel Mohican. The license was suspended ten days ago.

Patrolman and Mrs. Henry C. Sylvia, 100 Ocean avenue, will celebrate the 10th anniversary of ther wedding at their home Saturday night, the 18th inst. Patrolman Sylvia has invited all members of the police department who are not performing duty to be his guests that evening.

The New Haven Wrecking company which has the contract for razing the six houses on Water, John and Potter streets, recently purchased by the Connecticut Power company from the estate of Arthur H. Gager and the Gager-Crawford company, is rapidly nearing the completion of their task. But two of the houses remain to be demolished and this will accomplish the early part of next week. The bulk of the lighter of the timbers in the houses have been carried away by nearby residents to be used as firewood.

Thomas Smith, a stranger hereabouts, is the only prisoner locked up at police headquarters tonight and tomorrow he will be in the police court charged with vagrancy. Smith was picked up by Deputy Sergeant Frank Howard when he applied for lodging tonight. Smith has been a lodger in the tramp room every night for nearly two weeks, seeking a place to rest nightly and about the same hour each night. Captain Charles A. Finney has issued orders that constant providing of men with lodgings at police headquarters must end and has instructed the desk sergeants to cease the nightly swelters of sleeping accommodations to be presented in court.

The New London police were busy today checking up on a report that a series of safe burglaries men perpetrated in Worcester, Mass., last night. They believe that the gang, if the breaks occurred, was the same that operated in this city last Sunday morning when four automobile sales stations were entered and one garage and where safes were either blown open or the doors pried. An investigation was started to determine that fact for it was understood that the places given attention at Worcester were all automobile sales stations. The report was untrue for the police of Worcester stated that there had been no safes blown in that city. The report reached the New London police from an autoist, who said that he had just motored to New London from Worcester and that the blowing of the safes was discovered a short time before he left for New London.

The police received a telephone message from a resident of West street about 1:30 o'clock this morning that occupants of a house at 75 West street were making so much noise the neighborhood was disturbed, to such an extent that residents could not sleep. An officer was sent to the house where he was informed that in connection with a social time that had been in progress, dancing and singing had been enjoyed. The house is occupied by Robert H. Babcock and Forest Simmons.

Clinton Eldridge, of 302 Thames street, Groton; Miss Mary Schmidt, Saybrook; Mrs. John Cook and infant daughter, Bellevue place; Miss Catherine McGarry, 83 Lincoln avenue; Mrs. David H. Beamon, 209 Pequot avenue, and Master Sanford Glassman, 27 Squire street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The body of Mrs. Ellen M. Fay, wife of Lewis G Fay, of Worcester, Mass., who died yesterday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was forwarded to Worcester today where the funeral will be held with burial in Hope cemetery.

Dr. Daniel Sullivan has been called to Windham by the death of his mother, which occurred last night. Mrs. Sullivan was of advanced years and had been feeble for a long time.

There was no session of the police court today. One man, 73, a resident of Tenth street, was locked up last night charged with intoxication, having been arrested yesterday on North Bank street by Patrolman Elwood Bailey. The accused was liberated, but will be presented in court tomorrow.

Felice Bruno, of North Bank street, is confined to his home by illness.

Patriotic Pictures at Y. M. C. A.

Inasmuch as the birthday anniversary of the great Emancipator Abraham Lincoln falls on the coming Sunday, the local Y. M. C. A. management has secured a short feature picture of this great character.

It is a story of Lincoln which teaches a lesson applicable to present day social conditions. On a speaking campaign, Lincoln hears that the son of a widow who had once befriended him, is to be tried for murder. Lincoln cancels his next speaking engagement, walks twenty miles through the snow to the court house, and successfully defends the young boy in the trial. The feature is portrayed by Ralph Ince.

In addition to the above, an intensely interesting reel on "Shrines of American History" will be screened. This will portray several of the shrines that mean much to those who love their America, and will doubtless warm the heart with a new patriotism. Rev. G. F. Bailey will give a brief talk on Abraham Lincoln. Hugh Kinder will furnish timely music.

The public, fourteen and over, is invited. Free will offering.

TODAY'S EVENTS

On this date 185 years ago was born Jonas Galusha, who was six times elected governor of Vermont.

One hundred years ago today died De Witt Clinton, governor of New York and "father of the Erie canal."

Greetings to Thomas A. Edison, one of the greatest of living Americans, on his 81st birthday anniversary.

Geo. John J. Pershing will be awarded the Union league gold medal at the annual Lincoln day exercises of the league in Philadelphia today.

The opening ceremonies and start of competitions in the Olympic winter games will take place today at St. Moritz, the famous Swiss resort.

The United States Lawn Tennis association will hold its annual meeting in Chicago today, the first ever held by that body in the west.

Roanoke college, at Salem, Va., will be the meeting place of a notable gathering of religious workers today at the opening of a Christian World Education Conference.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre.

With George O'Brien in the leading role, Allan Dawn has directed a marvelous picture from Felix Riesenberg's successful novel, "East Side, West Side." This Fox film opens tomorrow night at the Bread theatre for four days.

Dawn planned the screen treatment of "East Side, West Side." He also chose Virginia Valli as the leading woman. O'Brien had just completed his part as the prize fighter in "Is Zat So?"

Although young O'Brien is well known to motion picture fans as the result of his portrayals in "The Iron Horse," "Fig Leaves," "Three Bad Men," and many others, this picture occasioned his first trip to the east and in it he has done the finest work of his career.

"East Side, West Side" is first the story of a rugged man's career and, second, the story of Greater New York. The scene sweeps from the river fronts, through the slums, along the Bowery, up Fifth avenue to Harlem, Morningside and Washington Heights. The novel has already become a best seller. In the vividness of his characterizations and the vigor of his narrative, Riesenberg has maintained the standard he set in his early books, "Under Sail," and "Vignettes of the Sea."

Since he directed Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood" and Gloria Swanson in "Zaza" and "Manhandled," Director Dawn has steadily maintained his reputation for producing powerful pictures. With the combination of a popular star and a well known story, Dawn has made another in "East Side, West Side."

Strand Theatre.

"The Flaming Frontier" showing Sunday night only at the Strand, commemorates the 50th anniversary of the massacre of Custer and the men of his command. The picture is a thrilling story of the early west. It abounds in Indians, cavalry troopers and western pioneers. The white house at Washington and West Point also appear in it. Among the most daring of the pony express riders is Bob Langdon, played by Hoot Gibson, who is a friend of Custers, played by Dustin Farnum. Through Custers' aid Langdon is appointed to West Point by Senator Stanwood, played by George Fawcett, whose daughter Betty, portrayed by Anne Cornwall, plays the heroine of the production. The destruction of an entire town is one of the thrilling spectacles of this great picture. William Fox presents another wonderful production, "The Blue Eagle," starring George O'Brien, Janet Gaynor, Margaret Livingston, William Russell and Robert Edeson. Sail with George O'Brien over the bounding main! See a great battle fleet in action! Witness the soul stirring episodes when a monster of the sea is attacked by a submarine. It is a vital, stirring story of the big city and the high seas. The great drama reveals the souls of those hardy fellows who follow the compass. George O'Brien and "Big Bill" Russell will give you the much talked of thrill of a lifetime in this throbbing drama. They both love to fight. They do fight. And how! This picture is taken from the story, "The Lord's Referee" by Gerald Beaumont. Don't miss seeing "The Blue Eagle."

Palace Theatre.

Today will be the last opportunity of seeing Pola Negri in "The Secret Hour," which is finishing a most successful three days' engagement at the Palace Theatre. This picture has received a great deal of favorable comment during its showing here as has also the vaudeville part of the program and the fact that the Palace has been playing to capacity audiences in spite of the unfavorable weather, speaks well for the quality of the entertainment.

On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the huge screen triumph "The Student Prince" will be the photo play attraction. To see this huge Metro-Goldwyn masterpiece is more than a mere entertainment, gripping and enthralling as that may be. It is a life experience.

The play has thundered down the years as one of the greatest dramas of the stage. It has been played in every land. It is a classic of classics. It has helped to make the fame of Mansfield, Bouciccault and other stars of the footlights.

Ramon Novarro, in the role Richard Mansfield played, is to the screen what Mansfield was to the stage. This is proved by the almost inspired way in which he enacts the role. Norma Shearer as Kathie to Novarro's Karl Heinrich shows a new side of her artistry—a great gift of characterization than anyone dreamed. Lubitsch, master director, builded wisely when he chose these two as the foundation of his great cast.

The wonderfully sweet love story of the prince and the girl in the inn, their love, the happy days in Heidelberg and the tragedy that follows, are worked out as the same simple story of the stage play—but set in gigantic spectacle; in court ceremonies so huge that they oppress—as they did the young prince in the story. Huge castles, great ceremonies; pomp and spectacle—these are the backgrounds of the play—hugeness—rules.

GREENEVILLE

FUNERAL

John H. Howarth

Friday morning at 8.15 o'clock, the funeral of John H. Howarth was held from his late residence at 523 Boswell avenue followed by a requiem mass at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Memorial church with Rev. Ludovic Paradis of Occum as celebrant. Mrs. Michael J. Farrell presided at the organ and at the offertory she rendered "Pie Jesu" and Abide With Me as a waiting hymn. Chopin's Funeral March was played at the recessional. The bearers were Jeremiah Shea, Thomas McHugh, William Wade, Andrew Clendennin, John Casey and John Kelly. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Frederick M. Corcoran conducted the committal service. Among the large attendance of mourners were people from New London, Pawtucket, Somerville and Southbridge, Mass. The floral tributes were both numerous and beautiful, mute testimony of the high esteem in which Mr. Howarth was held by his many friends in the community, also his shopmates at the Southbridge Finishing Co., who sent a huge beautiful standing wreath to the funeral.

The World Wide Guild girls of the Third Baptist church met Friday evening at the home of Miss Elinor Howarth, 378 Central avenue. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Henry Sebastian, the vice president, Miss Edna Miner, had charge of the meeting. The girls sewed on patch work and made some towels for a school in the south. They are planning to have a social some time this month to help swell their treasury. Mrs. Howarth served dainty refreshments at the close of the meeting.

On Wednesday evening the Ladies' Aid of the Third Baptist church, held a chicken supper in the chapel in honor of their past year's work. The menu consisted of chicken pattie, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, creamed onions, cranberry sauce, relish, pickles, pie, squash and apple pie and coffee. The supper was in charge of the president, Mrs. William A. Lund and she was assisted by the members of the society. The ladies invited their husbands and families to the banquet as their guests, and after the supper a social evening was held.

The H. I. sewing class of Auxiliary 11, A. O. H., met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jeremiah Shea of 710 Prospect street with 21 members attending. The class meetings are proving so pleasing that the attendance is growing greater at each meeting. Mrs. Dennis Sullivan, president, presided at the meeting.

The quilt that members are piecing is progressing nicely. Lamp shades, bags, and tiebacks are occupying other members fancy. At the close of the evening, sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Andrew Boyens, Mrs. William Shea, Mrs. Addie Levitsky and Miss Josephine Shea. The meeting next Thursday evening will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Sullivan of North Main street.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Learned of Versailles are spending the winter in California and are located at present at Catalina Island.

The German Shooting club of Lisbon has voted to make a donation of $10 to the Kenneth LaFlamme fund being conducted by The Bulletin.

George Hembold of Clinton, Mass., has accepted a position in Norwich and is making his home with his aunt, Mrs. Catherine Smith of Baltic road.

Fire company No. 2 was called out Friday noon for a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Bushnell and family on the Old Canterbury turnpike.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gley and family of Blissville have purchased a farm near Preston City and expect to occupy it in the near future.

A large crowd attended the mock trial "Who Stole the Mince Pie" presented by the Ponemah Mills Dramatists at Ponemah hall Friday evening. This was the same farce presented recently before the members of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association when they met in Taftville. The Dramatists were persuaded to put on the play for the benefit of the community and all who saw it realized its worth and enjoyed the comedy immensely. Those taking part were Arthur E. Atkins, Whitney Vergason, Harold E. Linderson, George W. Weller, Jr., Arthur Dufour, Alfred Linderson, John W. Brierley, Gustave Hedler, James B. Jackson, Conrad Ducharme, Leonard Pinaree, William Hassler, Clayton Sharples, Victor H. Davis, Arthur Satterstrum, Ralph Lillibridge, Albert Mathewson, Arthur Ouimet, David Lussier, William F. Chamberlain, Wilfred E. Linderson, Joseph E. Heselton, Ernest L. Davis. The committee directing the play and arranging for its presentation included Alfred Linderson, Harry E. Prentice and John D. Sharples. George N. Beardow had charge of tickets.

Mr. and Mrs. John Helm of Blissville are having their residence remodelled into two apartments. Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaBarre, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Helm and their three children who recently moved to Blissville from Merchants avenue, are to occupy one of the apartments.

Work is progressing rapidly on the two apartment houses being built for Mrs. Thomas Emerson on the Newent road.

Country roads were reported in very bad condition Friday morning after the storm which left the surface of the roads covered with ice. Milk dealers who live off the beaten track, stated that they had some difficulty in getting to the village on their regular schedule.

During Lenten season there will be special meetings at the Congregational church, beginning on Wednesday evening, Feb. 22nd, at 7:30 p. m., and each Wednesday evening at the same time, 7:30, up until the special series of Holy week. Tuesday and Wednesday and Friday at the same time, 7:30 p. m., that week

TWO UNDER ARREST CHARGED WITH BURGLARIES AT TIRE SHOPS, GARAGES

Charged with burglary, Harold Botham, Montville, and Siegfried Sonnenberg of Preston, both under 21 years of age, were brought to this city about 9:30 o'clock Friday night and booked at local police headquarters by State Policeman Peter Busch of the Groton state police barracks. They will be presented in the local city court this (Saturday) morning.

The youths, it is alleged, were responsible for a series of robberies in Norwich and vicinity, dating back to last September.

The places they are accused of robbing are automobile accessory stores, tire shops, and garages in Norwich, Franklin, Jewett City and Baltic. A good part of the stolen loot has been recovered by the state police and it is expected that more of the loot will be recovered shortly as the youths have, it is said, told the state police where they disposed of it.

Both accused have been suspected for some time past and this week one of the boys was taken in charge and taken to the state police barracks. It is understood that he confessed at the barracks that he was guilty of the breaks and implicated the other. One of the places the boys are accused of robbing was Gilman's garage at Bozrah where it is said a number of tires were stolen.

TWO GROTON HUSBANDS ARE GRANTED DIVORCES

Two divorces were granted by Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court short calendar session at New London Friday morning, he reserved decision in another case, a fourth case was postponed and two other cases went off.

Divorce for desertion was granted to Harold Leonard Pecor of Groton from May Congdon Pecor of New London. They were married June 20, 1918 and desertin was alleged on April 6, 1924.

Also for desertion, Albert M. Hewlitt of Groton was granted divorce from Lena Bunnell Hewlitt of the same town. Desertion was alleged on Dec. 23, 1917, which was over 20 years after they were married, Sept. 12, 1897.

Decision was reversed in the intolerable cruelty case brought against Russell Harris of New London, by Thelma Oram Harris of Quaker Hill. Attorney S. Victor Prince represented Mrs. Harris. Dr. J. J. Donahue and Dr. Joseph M. Ganey testified in behalf of the plaintiff, as did her brother, George Washington Oram. There are two children, the custody of whom the mother seeks. The couple was married Oct. 30, 1918.

The New London suit of Viola Jennings Hoyle against George W. Hoyle was postponed to next week and the two suits which went off the list were Thomas G. Mahon vs. Marie J. Mahon and Edward P. Chester vs. Lola Peyton Chester.

SPOKE ABOUT PHILIPPINES TO PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING

The Poquetanuck Parent-Teacher association held its February meeting Wednesday evening at the school house the president, Mrs. Appleton Main, presiding.

The program committee for March was appointed as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Appleton Main, Mrs. F. D. Miller, and Miss Frances Kingberger.

The association voted to give $5 to the LaFlamme fund.

A song- Drifting and Dreaming, was very pleasingly sung by Mrs. Carl Holdredge and Miss Louise Clark, with C. D. Geer at the piano.

James F. Connolly, the supervisor, gave an intiresting talk on the Philippines, speaking especially of the growth of education since the purchase of the islands by the United States. Mr. Connolly, who has spent nine years in the Philippines, was among the first group of teachers going there from the United States during the McKinley administration.

Following the program refreshments were served. The committee having the meeting in charge were Mrs. Robert McClure, Mrs. Thomas Nagle, Mrs. Charles Harkness and Mrs. George Mansfield.

GARDNER LAKE CAMP NAME FROM LOCAL BOOK

Mrs. Davidson, who is to open a camp for girls on the farm "Hopemead" Gardner lake, the coming summer, writes Norwich friends that she selected for her camp the name Natamis "my daughter," from reading the book, Hot Suns and The Great Whiteness, by Mrs. Gertrude B. Browne, (Mrs. William Tyler Browne) of Norwich. Mrs. Davidson is a sister of Ernest P. Roberts, of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose camp at the lake is well known.

FORMER PASTOR WILL PREACH AT TRINITY M. E.

Rev. Frederic W. Coleman, now of Stafford Springs, who was pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church from 1911 to 1917, will occupy the pulpit of that church at the Sunday morning service. Since leaving Norwich Mr. Coleman has served churches in Brookline and Cohasset, Mass., and Newport, R. I. During his residence here he made a wide circle of friends and many will be glad of the opportunity to hear him again.

Charged With Evading Responsibility.

Charged with evasion of responsibility, as an aftermath of an automobile collision on the Boston Post road in Waterford last Wednesday night, Ferdinand Winzen, of Lyme, was arrested in that town Thursday by State Policeman John K. Smith, of the Groton barracks, who ordered him to appear in the Waterford town court. It is charged that Winzen was the operator of a bus that failed to stop after sideswiping a truck operated by Michael Kelly, of Newport, R. I.

"Why Accredited Chicks?" will be the subject of the poultry dialogue to be broadcast from Station WCAC next Wednesday, February 15, beginning at 7:15 p. m. This will be given by Wallace S. Moreland and Francis A. Ryan.

BUEL ADMITS FACT WHICH HE HAD DENIED PREVIOUSLY

HARTFORD, Feb. 10—(AP)—Benjamin T. Marshall submitted his resignation as president of the Connecticut College for Woman at the meeting of the trustees of the college held at the Hotel Bond, Thursday afternoon, Colin S. Buel, of New London, secretary of the board of trustees, confirmed the fact that the resignation had been presented to the trustees when he was interviewed by telephone today.

Thursday afternoon, after the meeting of the trustees, Mr. Buel said that the meeting had been "absolutely barren" of any discussions or action which would be of public interest. He denied, at that time, that Mr. Marshall had submitted his resignation to the trustees and he repeated his denial of that fact later Thursday evening and reiterated the statement that "nothing but routine business" had come before the trustees meeting.

This afternoon, when Mr. Buel was again interviewed and informed of the unauthorized and unconfirmed report which had been made public concerning Mr. Marshall's resignation, he admitted that Andrew Marshall, a Boston lawyer and brother of President Marshall, had appeared before the trustees with a statement outlining what had been accomplished by President Marshall at the college since 1917, when he first became president and giving the reasons for his resignation as president of the college which was appended to the statement.

When asked why the board had not made this fact public after the meeting, Mr. Buel said that he did not consider that it was "any of the public's business." Mr. Buel defended his statement that the meeting had been "barren" of anything of public interest by saying that he did not think that the public would be interested in the fact that Mr. Marshall had submitted his resignation. Mr. Buel would not say why he had twice denied the fact that President Marshall had presented his resignation.

Members of the board of trustees of the college today were outspoken in their criticism of both Mr. Buel and George S. Palmer, chairman of the board, who has persistently refused to make any sort of formal statement regarding the matter, for their policy of silence, saying that such an attitude would react unfavorably on the college and was unfair to the public in general and the other members of the board of trustees.

LINCOLN PORTRAIT SHOWN IN SHADED PENMANSHIP

In the window of The Clever Craftsman on Broadway, which has been attractively arranged in patriotic decoration for Lincoln's birthday, an unusual feature is shown in a framed penmanship copy of the emancipation proclamation. The writing fills a large oval space and besides being an example of beautiful penmanship it has a unique arrangement of the writing in center which is so shaded as to form a portrait of Lincoln.

The work was done many years ago and bears the signature of E. C. Smith. It is the property of a Yantic woman.

BEQUESTS MADE TO THREE NORWICH RESIDENTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—Mrs. Mary Harrington, Mary Harrington and Mrs. Nellie Harrington all of Norwich, Conn., are legatees in the estate of the late Mary A. Kelley, according to the terms of her will. Each is bequeathed $1,000 from the estate of the decedent. There is also a similar bequest to a cousin, Nellie Kelley of Jordan's road, Willimantic.

Mrs. Kelley died December 17, and her will was filed for probate in the Surrogate's Court here today. She left an estate in excess of $10,000. Daniel J. McCullough, is named executor.

FINED FOR OPERATING WITH IMPROPER REGISTRATION

Sugmund Liskiewicz of this city, was presented in the city court Friday morning on a charge of operating a machine with improper registration numbers. It was learned that the machine is owned by Joseph Neville of this city, and he was arrested and presented in court also. Neville was fined $10 and costs and paid and the case against Liskiewicz was nolled.

DR. DONOHUE'S RESIDENCE SOLD TO HARRY MARKOFF

About the first of April, Dr. and Mrs. James J. Donohue are to move from Perkins avenue to their newly built beautiful home on Harland road, Norwich Town. At that date the new purchasers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Markoff will take possession of the Perkins avenue house.

GAVE ENTERTAINING TALKS BEFORE MISSIONS DEPARTMENT

The mission department of the Woman's Federation of Park Congregational church held its meeting Friday afternoon in the parlors of the Osgood Memorial. In the absence of the chairman, Miss Edith Bliss, Miss Alice Cogswell presided, reading from Isaiah 49, and offering prayer.

After the report of the secretary, Mrs. James N. Bidwell, had been read and approved, Miss Cogswell read from the February Missionary Herald, part of an article on the union of Christian churches in China. Also a letter which Miss Abbie Willard was circulating among interested churches, from Mrs. John Howland of Mexico, speaking of the great kindness of all their friends there, on the occasion of their leaving for their new home in Claremont, California. Having been so much occupied in cooperative work, all denominations have joined in this farewell. Mrs. Howland has been supported by the Eastern Connecticut branches.

Mention was made of the Schauffler Training school, and it was voted that the largest individual gift to the new dormitory came from Park church.

Miss Hannah Crowell, president of the federation, announced that Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn would read a paper "Bits About Connecticut" at the federation meeting next Friday, and any interested guest would be welcome.

The united prayer meeting will be held on Feb. 24 at Trinity Methodist churches.

After the business meeting Mrs. Rosamond Rhone gave a charmingly informal and delightful talk on Naurn or Pleasant Island, one of the smaller volcanic islands of the Pacific ocean, just west of the Gilbert group. She spoke at some length of the coral polyp, a sexless radiate, increasing by budding, having a mouth opening directly into its stomach, and a poisonous lasso for a weapon, alive but little else. Of these the islands are built, coral growing under water but not in the air; curious formations and caves being common. Natives fish for the deadly octopus, eels and large bivalves 6 feet long used to hold holy water in local churches. She spoke of the beautiful beaches which change with every tide, the lovely tracks made by shellfish and the mines where lime is found. She told of the life of the white population, and the natives, about 1,200 who judging by their houses were still living in the stone age. Alarm clocks, canned salmon and tobacco-sticks were favorites; foliage was tropical, but soil very scarce, a garden only the result of hard labor.

A rising vote of thanks was given for the delightful and instructive talk.

Tea was served by Mrs. Harrison Gray and Miss Alexandrine Trumbull, Mrs. W. Tyler Browne at the table. Attention was called to the attractive new china.

UNCASVILLE M. E. PASTOR INVITED TO RETURN

Rev. Myron E. Genter, of Norwich, district superintendent, spent Sunday with Uncasville Methodist Episcopal church. He delivered a helpful sermon at the morning worship, in the afternoon he held the fourth quarterly conference. All reports showed the church to be in excellent condition. The Ladies' Aid society has raised $1,000 during the year. It was voted to ask Rev. Charles Smith to return for another year. The officers are: Stewards, H. G. Dart, Elmer Beckwith, C. H. Hurlburt, Charles Carlson, A. C. Kellogg, R. H. Dodds, Fred Perkins, Robert French, Lester Dart, Mrs. C. E. Ramage, Mrs. J. Y. Miller, Mrs. C. Hope, Mrs. R. H. Melcer, Mrs. A. C. Kellogg, Mrs. A. B. Newton, Mrs. H. G. Dart, Miss Margaret Ungerer, Mrs C. H. Hurlburt, Mrs. Oliver S. Cooper, Mrs. Albert Gesnes, Mrs. W. B. Spiera, Mrs. A. W. Avery, Mrs. Chester Comstock, Mrs. R. H. Dodds, Mrs. Fred C. Rogers, Mrs. L. G. Newton; trustees, H. G. Dart, Oliver S. Cooper, Charles Carlson, C. H. Hurlburt, R. H. Dodds, Elmer Beckwith, Fred Perkins, Mrs. C. Hope, Mrs. R. H. Melcer; world service, Mrs. H. G. Dart, Miss Margaret Ungerer, Mrs. C. Hewitt, Mrs. R. H. Melcer, Mrs. L. G. Newton, Mrs. A. W. Avery, Mrs. W. Potter.

The Epworth league devotional meeting was held at Mrs. R. H. Melcer's home Sunday evening, the attendance being about 40.

WILL CONTRIBUTE TOWARDS RADIO AT CROMWELL

Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, met at the Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon. In the absence of the president, the senior vice president, Mrs. Althea V. Brown, presided. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. General orders were read in which much stress was laid upon Americanization and supporting a scholarship. It was voted to contribute towards a radio for the Cromwell home. Several who attended the school of instruction in New London told of the impressions received there. The Daughters of Veterans extended an invitation to all corps members to attend a patriotic meeting at the Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening, Feb. 21. The corps closed with the salute to the flag and singing America.

FRANCIS GILMAN GAINS SLOWLY AT HOSPITAL

At Backus hospital, where he has been a patient for a month following a very serious operation for appendicitis, Francis Gilman, of Lowthorpe, Washington street, is not yet able to sit up. However, Mr. Gilman's condition is encouraging and it is hoped that he will be able to return home in another week or ten days.

SIGNAL HONOR FROM ROME FOR BISHOP T. J. SHAHAN

A dispatch from Washington says:

The Holy Father has conferred upon the Rt. Rev. Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the Catholic University of America, the distinction of assistant at the Pontifical throne. Word of this honor, which comes on the eve of Bishop Shahan's retirement from the rectorate of the University, has just been received here.

Appointment as assistant at the Pontifical throne is a special distinction accorded only to prelates whom the Holy Father desires particularly to honor. Such bishops belong to the inner circle of the Pontifical family and on all solemn occasions are privileged to be in the immediate vicinity of the Holy Father. On such occasions they rank immediately after the Cardinals.

Prelates thus honored are also created Counts of the Apostolic Palace and have all the privileges of that office.

Bishop Shahan has a number of relatives in Norwich, to which city he came direct after his ordination in Rome. Before going to Washington university he was chancellor of the Diocese of Hartford, which comprises the state of Connecticut.

WILL BE SPEAKER ON LOCAL SANITATION PROBLEMS

Sanitation problems of Norwich will be the topic for the speaker next Wednesday evening at the civics round table of the Woman's City club in the club room at the Wauregan hotel. Dr. Sanford H. Wadhams of the state water commission is to present the subject, and as a member of the state sanitary commission is well qualified to speak upon local problems, which will be of interest to Norwich citizens. The civics' committee is inviting all men to attend the meeting as well as all members of the club.

At a round table meeting at 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon Mrs. William B. Birge will speak upon "The Gentle Art of Biography."

WE MODERNS CONTRIBUTE TO La FLAMME FUND

We Moderns met with Mrs. Prodell of Fourth street Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Manchester held the high score for the afternoon's play, 5,010. Mrs. Haines of Pomfret on the home economics committee, and Mrs. Lenny J. Whitman of Groton on the publicity committee. Mrs. Hallisey held the lowest score, 5,890. STONINGTON HALF-BROTHER NOT MENTONED IN WILL

Dr. Talcott Williams, director emeritus of Columbia University School of Journalism, New York and for many years prominent in the newspaper world, left his entire estate of $5,000 to his widow, Sophia Wells Royce Williams of 428 West 117th street. Dr. Williams died Jan. 24 and his will was filed for probate this week in the Surrogate's court.

The will, which indicated that Dr. Williams owned a small farm called Mersested, at Colebrook, Conn., listed as his other heirs-at-law Mrs. Cornelia Williams Chambers, a sister, of the American University, Beirut, Syria; Rev. William F. Williams, a half-brother, who lives at Calvary rectory, Stonington, Conn., and Sophie Wells Williams, a half-sister, of Bronxville, N. Y. No mention is made of any of these persons in the testament, which filled only one typewritten page.

JUNIOR CHURCH SERVICE GAINING IN ATTENDANCE

On Sunday morning at the Central Baptist church the pastor, Dr. David A. Pitt, will take as his theme "Prayer and the Purpose of God." The junior sermon will be "The Friendly House" and the boys and girls are bringing pictures to illustrate the 98th psalm. The junior church has been steadily growing since its beginning three weeks ago. Last Sunday 45 were in attendance.

The boys and girls have been looking forward to the beginning again under the leadership of Mrs. David A. Pitt of the Sunday afternoon chorus. This started with a goodly number last Sunday and will be held every Sunday afternoon until May from 5 until 6 in the assembly hall.

In the evening on Sunday the gospel service will be held in the assembly hall and the pastor will take as his theme "Lincoln and the Church."

Truth Is Stranger Than Fiction
Beginning Wednesday, February 15th, the Sparks-Shefte School of Music will present a series of advertisements concerning Modern Harmony and its importance in relation to piano playing. These timely articles will be a revelation to the music-loving public in general and prejudiced music teachers in particular in that they will contradict the statements of distorted musical minds and thus be open to refutation.
In reading this series, please do not misunderstand us. We have nothing whatever against classical music or its exponents. The best of classical teachers are doing a splendid work. But their aim is not our aim. "Art for art's sake" must of necessity be their slogan and ideal if they are to accomplish their purpose.
From time to time we will quote eminent musical authorities whose opinions on the Shefte Method, Harmony, Rhythm, and Jazz should convince you that the efforts of prejudiced musicians to conceal the facts concerning improvising and our instruction can be labelled with one word that everybody understands—applesauce.

A New Day Has Dawned
Why Home Washing is Waning
85c
is the average cost of our Rough Dry Family Bundle
When a woman has her washing done at home it is for one of three reasons: She feels she is saving money, or that her home equipment will get things cleaner, or that her home machine will be more careful with the clothes.
Ten years ago these beliefs were justified—but TODAY the facts are exactly the REVERSE.
The TROY LAUNDRY is more thorough and more careful than any home washing can be. We wash your clothes slowly and carefully for about ONE HOUR with eight changes of water. There is no scrubbing or rubbing and our washing formulas, made up by the National Laundry Institute, have been proven to be the best and safest method of washing clothes. A few years from now home washing will be a thing of the past.

GREENEVILLE

FUNERAL

John H. Howarth

Friday morning at 8.15 o'clock, the funeral of John H. Howarth was held from his late residence at 532 Boswell avenue followed by a requiem mass at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Memorial church with Rev. Ludovic Paradis of Occum as celebrant. Mrs. Michael J. Farrell presided at the organ and at the offertory she rendered "Pie Jesu" and Abide With Me as a waiting hymn. Chopin's Funeral March was played at the recessional. The bearers were eJremiah Shea, Thomas McHugh, William Wade, Andrew Clendennin, John Casey and John Kelly. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Frederick M. Cobolan conducted the committal service. Among the large attendance of mourners were people from New London, Pawtucket, Somerville and Southbridge, Mass. The floral tributes were both numerous and beautiful, mute testimony of the high esteem in which Mr. Howarth was held by his many friends in the community, also his shopmates at the Southbridge Finishing Co., who sent a huge beautiful standing wreath to the funeral.

The World Wide Guild girls of the Third Baptist church met Friday evening at the home of Miss Elinor Howarth, 378 Central avenue. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Henry Sebastian, the vice president, Miss Edna Miner, had charge of the meeting. The girls sewed on patch work and made some towels for a school in the south. They are planning to have a social some time this month to help swell their treasury. Mrs. Howarth served dainty refreshments at the close of the meeting.

On Wednesday evening the Ladies' Aid of the Third Baptist church, held a chicken supper in the chapel in honor of their past year's work. The menu consisted of chicken patties, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, creamed onions, cranberry sauce, relish, pickles, rolls, squash and apple pie and coffee. The supper was in charge of the president, Mrs. William A. Lund and she was assisted by the members of the society. The ladies invited their husbands and families to the banquet as their guests, and after the supper a social evening was held.

The H. I. sewing class of Auxiliary 18, A. O. H., met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jeremiah Shea of 330 Prospect street with 21 members attending. The class meetings are proving so pleasing that the attendance is growing greater at each meeting. Mrs. Dennis Sullivan, president, presided at the meeting.

The quilt that members are piecing is progressing nicely. Lamp shades, bags, and tiebacks are occupying other members fancy. At the close of the evening, sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Andrew Boyens, Mrs. William Shea, Mrs. Addie Levitsky and Miss Josephine Shea. The meeting next Thursday evening will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Sullivan of North Main street.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Learned of Versailles are spending the winter in California and are located at present at Catalina Island.

The German Shooting club of Lisbon has voted to make a donation of $10 to the Kenneth LaFlamme fund being conducted by The Bulletin.

George Hembold of Clinton, Mass., has accepted a position in Norwich and is making his home with his aunt, Mrs. Catherine Smith of Baltic road.

Fire company No. 3 was called out Friday noon for a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Bushnell and family on the Old Canterbury turnpike.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gley and family of Blissville have purchased a farm near Preston City and expect to occupy it in the near future.

A large crowd attended the mock trial "Who Stole the Mince Pie" presented by the Ponemah Mills Dramatists at Ponemah hall Friday evening. This was the same farce presented recently before the members of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association when they met in Taftville. The Dramatists were persuaded to put on the play for the benefit of the community and all who saw it realized its worth and enjoyed the comedy immensely. Those taking part were Arthur E. Atkins, Whitney Vergason, Harold E. Linderson, George W. Weller, Jr., Arthur Dufour, Alfred Linderson, John W. Brierley, Gustave Hedler, James B. Jackson, Conrad Ducharme, Leonard Finnres, William Hassler, Clayton Sharples, Victor H. Davis, Arthur Satterstrum, Ralph Lillibridge, Albert Mathewson, Arthur Ouimet, David Lussier, William F. Chamberlain, Wilfred E. Linderson, Joseph E. Heselton, Ernest L. Davis. The committee directing the play and arranging for its presentation included Alfred Linderson, Harry E. Prentice and John D. Sharples. George N. Beardow had charge of tickets.

Mr. and Mrs. John Helm of Blissville are having their residence remodelled into two apartments. Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaBarre, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Helm and their three children who recently moved to Blissville from Merchants avenue, are to occupy one of the apartments.

Work is progressing rapidly on the two apartment houses being built for Mrs. Thomas Emerson on the Newent road.

Country roads were reported in very bad condition Friday morning after the storm which left the surface of the roads covered with ice. Milk dealers who live off the beaten track, stated that they had some difficulty in getting to the village on their regular schedule.

During Lenten season there will be special meetings at the Congregational church, beginning on Wednesday evening, Feb. 22nd, at 7:30 p. m., and each Wednesday evening at the same time, 7:30, up until the special series of Holy week. Tuesday and Wednesday and Friday at the same time, 7:30 p. m., that week

Charged with burglary, Harold Botham, Montville, and Siegfried Sonnenberg of Preston, both under 21 years of age, were brought to this city about 9:30 o'clock Friday night and booked at local police headquarters by State Policeman Peter Busch of the Groton state police barracks. They will be presented in the local city court this (Saturday) morning.

The youths, it is alleged, were responsible for a series of robberies in Norwich and vicinity, dating back to last September.

The places they are accused of robbing are automobile accessory stores, tire shops, and garages in Norwich, Franklin, Jewett City and Baltic. A good part of the stolen loot has been recovered by the state police and it is expected that more of the loot will be recovered shortly as the youths have, it is said, told the state police where they disposed of it.

Both accused have been suspected for some time past and this week one of the boys was taken in charge and taken to the state police barracks. It is understood that he confessed at the barracks that he was guilty of the breaks and implicated the other. One of the places the boys are accused of robbing was Gilman's garage at Boxrah where it is said a number of tires were stolen.

TWO GROTON HUSBANDS ARE GRANTED DIVORCES

Two divorces were granted by Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court short calendar session at New London Friday morning; he reserved decision in another case, a fourth case was postponed and two other cases went off.

Divorce for desertion was granted to Harold Leonard Pecor of Groton from May Congdon Pecor of New London. They were married June 20, 1918 and desertin was alleged on April 6, 1924.

Also for desertion, Albert M Hewlitt of Groton was granted divorce from Lena Bunnell Hewlitt of the same town. Desertion was alleged on Dec. 23, 1917, which was over 20 years after they were married, Sept. 13, 1897.

Decision was reversed in the intolerable cruelty case brought against Russell Harris of New London, by Thelma Oram Harris of Quaker Hill. Attorney S. Victor Prince represented Mrs. Harris. Dr. J. J. Donahue and Dr. Joseph M. Ganey testified in behalf of the plaintiff, as did her brother, George Washington Oram. There are two children, the custody of whom the mother seeks. The couple was married Oct. 30, 1918.

The New London suit of Viola Jennings Hoyle against George W. Hoyle was postponed to next week and the two suits which went off the list were Thomas G. Mahon vs. Marie J. Mahon and Edward P. Chester vs. Lola Peyton Chester.

SPOKE ABOUT PHILIPPINES TO PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING

The Poquetanuck Parent-Teacher association held its February meeting Wednesday evening at the school house the president, Mrs. Appleton Main, presiding.

The program committee for March was appointed as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Appleton Main, Mrs. F. D. Miller, and Miss Frances Kingberger.

The association voted to give $5 to the LaFlamme fund.

A song- Drifting and Dreaming, was very pleasingly sung by Mrs. Carl Holdredge and Miss Louise Clark, with C. D. Geer at the piano.

James F. Connolly, the supervisor, gave an interesting talk on the Philippines, speaking especially of the growth of education since the purchase of the islands by the United States. Mr. Connolly, who has spent nine years in the Phillippines, was among the first group of teachers going there from the United States during the McKinley administration.

Following the program refreshments were served. The committee having the meeting in charge were Mrs. Robert McClure, Mrs. Thomas Nagle, Mrs. Charles Harkness and Mrs. George Mansfield.

GARDNER LAKE CAMP NAME FROM LOCAL BOOK

Mrs. Davidson, who is to open a camp for girls on the farm "Hopemead" Gardner lake, the coming summer, writes Norwich friends that she selected for her camp the name Natamis "my daughter," from reading the book, Hot Suns and The Great Whiteness, by Mrs. Gertrude B. Browne, (Mrs. William Tyler Browne) of Norwich. Mrs. Davidson is a sister of Ernest F. Roberts, of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose camp at the lake is well known.

FORMER PASTOR WILL PREACH AT TRINITY M. E.

Rev. Frederic W. Coleman, now of Stafford Springs, who was pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church from 1911 to 1917, will occupy the pulpit of that church at the Sunday morning service. Since leaving Norwich Mr. Coleman has served churches in Brookline and Cohasset, Mass., and Newport, R. I. During his residence here he made a wide circle of friends and many will be glad of the opportunity to hear him again.

Charged With Evading Responsibility.

Charged wth evasion of responsibility, as an aftermath of an automobile collision on the Boston Post road in Waterford last Wednesday night, Ferdinand Winzen, of Lyme, was arrested in that town Thursday by State Policeman John K. Smith, of the Groton barracks, who ordered him to appear in the Waterford town court. It is charged that Winzen was the operator of a bus that failed to stop after sideswiping a truck operated by Michael Kelly, of Newport, R. I.

Broadcast for Poultrymen

"Why Accredited Chicks?" will be the subject of the poultry dialogue to be broadcast from Station WCAC next Wednesday, February 15, beginning at 7:15 p. m. This will be given by Wallace S. Moreland and Francis A. Ryan.

BUEL ADMITS FACT WHICH HE HAD DENIED PREVIOUSLY

HARTFORD, Feb. 10—(AP)—Benjamin T. Marshall submitted his resignation as president of the Connecticut College for Women at the meeting of the trustees of the college held at the Hotel Bond, Thursday afternoon, Colin S. Buel, of New London, secretary of the board of trustees, confirmed the fact that the resignation had been presented to the trustees when he was interviewed by telephone today.

Thursday afternoon, after the meeting of the trustees, Mr. Buel said that the meeting had been "absolutely barren" of any discussions or action which would be of public interest. He denied, at that time, that Mr. Marshall had submitted his resignation to the trustees and he repeated his denial of that fact later Thursday evening and reiterated the statement that "nothing but routine business" had come before the trustees meeting.

This afternoon, when Mr. Buel was again interviewed and informed of the unauthorized and unconfirmed report which had been made public concerning Mr. Marshall's resignation, he admitted that Andrew Marshall, a Boston lawyer and brother of President Marshall, had appeared before the trustees with a statement outlining what had been accomplished by President Marshall at the college since 1917, when he first became president and giving the reasons for his resignation as president of the college which was appended to the statement.

When asked why the board had not made this fact public after the meeting, Mr. Buel said that he did not consider that it was "any of the public's business." Mr. Buel defended his statement that the meeting had been "barren" of anything of public interest by saying that he did not think that the public would be interested in the fact that Mr. Marshall had submitted his resignation. Mr. Buel would not say why he had twice denied the fact that President Marshall had presented his resignation.

Members of the board of trustees of the college today were outspoken in their criticism of both Mr. Buel and George S. Palmer, chairman of the board, who has persistently refused to make any sort of formal statement regarding the matter, for their policy of silence, saying that such an attitude would react unfavorably on the college and was unfair to the public in general and the other members of the board of trustees.

In the window of The Clever Craftsman on Broadway, which has been attractively arranged in patriotic decoration for Lincoln's birthday, an unusual feature is shown in a framed penmanship copy of the emancipation proclamation. The writing fills a large oval space and besides being an example of beautiful penmanship it has a unique arrangement of the writing in center which is so shaded as to form a portrait of Lincoln.

The work was done many years ago and bears the signature of E. C. Smith. It is the property of a Yantic woman.

BEQUESTS MADE TO THREE NORWICH RESIDENTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—Mrs. Mary Harrington, Mary Harrington and Mrs. Nellie Harrington all of Norwich, Conn., are legatees in the estate of the late Mary A. Kelley, according to the terms of her will. Each is bequeathed $1,000 from the estate of the decedent. There is also a similar bequest to a cousin, Nellie Kelley of Jordan's road, Willimantic.

Mrs. Kelley died December 17, and her will was filed for probate in the Surrogate's Court here today. She left an estate in excess of $10,000. Daniel J. McCullough, is named executor.

FINED FOR OPERATING WITH IMPROPER REGISTRATION

Sugmund Liskiewicz of this city, was presented in the city court Friday morning on a charge of operating a machine with improper registration numbers. It was learned that the machine is owned by Joseph Neville of this city, and he was arrested and presented in court also. Neville was fined $10 and costs and paid and the case against Liskiewicz was nolled.

DR. DONOHUE'S RESIDENCE SOLD TO HARRY MARKOFF

About the first of April, Dr. and Mrs. James J. Donohue are to move from Perkins avenue to their newly built beautiful home on Harland road, Norwich Town. At that date the new purchasers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Markoff will take possession of the Perkins avenue house.

GAVE ENTERTAINING TALKS BEFORE MISSIONS DEPARTMENT

The mission department of the Woman's Federation of Park Congregational church held its meeting Friday afternoon in the parlors of the Osgood Memorial. In the absence of the chairman, Miss Edith Bliss, Miss Alice Cogswell presided, reading from Isaiah 42, and offering prayer.

After the report of the secretary, Mrs. James N. Bidwell, had been read and approved, Miss Cogswell read from the February Missionary Herald, part of an article on the union of Christian churches in China. Also a letter which Miss Abbie Willard was circulating among interested churches, from Mrs. John Howland of Mexico, speaking of the great kindness of all their friends there, on the occasion of their leaving for their new home in Claremont, California. Having been so much occupied in cooperative work, all denominations have joined in this farewell. Mrs. Howland has been supported by the Eastern Connecticut branches.

Mention was made of the Schauffler Training school, and it was voted that the largest individual gift to the new dormitory came from Park church.

Miss Hannah Crowell, president of the federation, announced that Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn would read a paper "Bits About Connecticut" at the federation meeting next Friday, and any interested guest would be welcome.

The united prayer meeting will be held on Feb. 24 at Trinity Methodist churches.

After the business meeting Mrs. Rosamond Rhone gave a charmingly informal and delightful talk on Naurn or Pleasant Island, one of the smaller volcanic islands of the Pacific ocean, just west of the Gilbert group. She spoke at some length of the coral polyp, a sexless radiate, increasing by budding, having a mouth opening directly into its stomach, and a poisonous lasso for a weapon, alive but little else. Of these the islands are built, coral growing under water but not in the air; curious formations and caves being common. Natives fish for the deadly octopus, eels and large bivalves 6 feet long used to hold holy water in local churches. She spoke of the beautiful beaches which change with every tide, the lovely tracks made by shellfish and the mines where lime is found. She told of the life of the white population, and the natives, about 1,200 who judging by their houses were still living in the stone age. Alarm clocks, canned salmon and tobacco-sticks were favorites; foliage was tropical, but soil very scarce, a garden only the result of hard labor.

A rising vote of thanks was given for the delightful and instructive talk.

Tea was served by Mrs. Harrison Gray and Miss Alexandrine Trumbull. Mrs. W. Tyler Browne at the table. Attention was called to the attractive new china.

UNCASVILLE M. E. PASTOR INVITED TO RETURN

Rev. Myron E. Genter, of Norwich, district superintendent, spent Sunday with Uncasville Methodist Episcopal church. He delivered a helpful sermon at the morning worship. In the afternoon he held the fourth quarterly conference. All reports showed the church to be in excellent condition. The Ladies' Aid society has raised $1,000 during the year. It was voted to ask Rev. Charles Smith to return for another year. The officers are: Stewards, H. G. Dart, Elmer Beckwith, C. H. Hurlburt, Charles Carlson, A. C. Kellogg, R. H. Dodds, Fred Perkins, Robert French, Lester Dart, Mrs. C. E. Ramage, Mrs. J. Y. Miller, Mrs. C. Hope, Mrs. R. H. Melcer, Mrs. A. C. Kellogg, Mrs. A. B. Newton, Mrs. H. G. Dart, Miss Margaret Ungerer, Mrs C. H. Hurlburt, Mrs. Oliver S. Cooper, Mrs. Albert Gesnes, Mrs. W. B. Spiers, Mrs. A. W. Avery, Mrs. Chester Comstock, Mrs. R. H. Dodds, Mrs. Fred C. Rogers, Mrs. L. G. Newton; trustees, H. G. Dart, Oliver S. Cooper, Charles Carlson, C. H. Hurlburt, R. H. Dodds, Elmer Beckwith, Fred Perkins, Mrs. C. Hope, Mrs. R. H. Melcer; world service, Mrs. H. G. Dart, Miss Margaret Ungerer, Mrs. C. Hewitt, Mrs. R. H. Melcer, Mrs. L. G. Newton, Mrs. A. W. Avery, Mrs. W. Potter.

The Epworth league devotional meeting was held at Mrs. R. H. Melcer's home Sunday evening, the attendance being about 40.

WILL CONTRIBUTE TOWARDS RADIO AT CROMWELL

Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, met at the Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon. In the absence of the president, the senior vice president, Mrs. Althea V. Brown, presided. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. General orders were read in which much stress was laid upon Americanization and supporting a scholarship. It was voted to contribute towards a radio for the Cromwell home. Several who attended the school of instruction in New London told of the impressions received there. The Daughters of Veterans extended an invitation to all corps members to attend a patriotic meeting at the Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening, Feb. 21. The corps closed with the salute to the flag and singing America.

FRANCIS GILMAN GAINS SLOWLY AT HOSPITAL

At Backus hospital, where he has been a patient for a month following a very serious operation for appendicitis, Francis Gilman, of Lowthorpe, Washington street, is not yet able to sit up. However, Mr. Gilman's condition is encouraging and it is hoped that he will be able to return home in another week or ten days.

On State Grange Committees

Appointments made this week on the committees of the state grange were J. Warren Stark of Lyme on the auditing committee, Mrs. Ida Richardson of this city and Mrs. Caroline M. Haines of Pomfret on the home economics committee, and Mrs. Lenny J. Whitman of Groton on the publicity committee.

SIGNAL HONOR FROM ROME FOR BISHOP T. J. SHAHAN

A dispatch from Washington says: The Holy Father has conferred upon the Rt. Rev. Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the Catholic University of America, the distinction of assistant at the Pontifical throne. Word of this honor, which comes on the eve of Bishop Shahan's retirement from the rectorate of the University, has just been received here.

Appointment as assistant at the Pontifical throne is a special distinction accorded only to prelates whom the Holy Father desires particularly to honor. Such bishops belong to the inner circle of the Pontifical family and on all solemn occasions are privileged to be in the immediate vicinity of the Holy Father. On such occasions they rank immediately after the Cardinals.

Prelates thus honored are also created Counts of the Apostolic Palace and have all the privileges of that office.

Bishop Shahan has a number of relatives in Norwich, to which city he came direct after his ordination in Rome. Before going to Washington university he was chancellor of the Diocese of Hartford, which comprises the state of Connecticut.

WILL BE SPEAKER ON LOCAL SANITATION PROBLEMS

Sanitation problems of Norwich will be the topic for the speaker next Wednesday evening at the civics round table of the Woman's City club in the club room at the Wauregan hotel. Dr. Sanford H. Wadhams of the state water commission is to present the subject, and as a member of the state sanitary commission is well qualified to speak upon local problems, which will be of interest to Norwich citizens. The civics' committee is inviting all men to attend the meeting as well as all members of the club.

At a round table meeting at 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon Mrs. William B. Birge will speak upon "The Gentle Art of Biography."

WE MODERNS CONTRIBUTE TO La FLAMME FUND

We Moderns met with Mrs. Prodell of Fourth street Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Manchester held the high score for the afternoon's play, 8,010. Mrs. Hallisey held the lowest score, 5,890. The scores of the series up to date:—Mrs. Prodell 41940; Mrs. Retkowski 41300; Mrs. Manchester 40810; Mrs. Moran 39910; Mrs. Jensen 38260; Mrs. Hallisey 36610; Mrs. Busch 36300; Mrs. Hastedt 35990.

The members voted to give $4 to the La Flamme fund. The hostess served lunch after the cards. The club meets with Mrs. Hallisey of Hill street next week.

STONINGTON HALF-BROTHER NOT MENTONED IN WILL

Dr. Talcott Williams, director emeritus of Columbia University School of Journalism, New York and for many years prominent in the newspaper world, left his entire estate of $5,000 to his widow, Sophia Wells Royce Williams of 428 West 117th street. Dr. Williams died Jan. 24 and his will was filed for probate this week in the Surrogate's court.

The will, which indicated that Dr. Williams owned a small farm called Merested, at Colebrook, Conn., listed as his other heirs-at-law Mrs. Cornelia Williams Chambers, a sister, of the American University, Beirut, Syria; Rev. William F. Williams, a half-brother, who lives at Calvary rectory, Stonington, Conn., and Sophie Wells Williams, a half-sister, of Bronxville, N. Y. No mention is made of any of these persons in the testament, which filled only one typewritten page.

JUNIOR CHURCH SERVICE GAINING IN ATTENDANCE

On Sunday morning at the Central Baptist church the pastor, Dr. David A. Pitt, will take as his theme "Prayer and the Purpose of God." The junior sermon will be "The Friendly House" and the boys and girls are bringing pictures to illustrate the 91st psalm. The junior church has been steadily growing since its beginning three weeks ago. Last Sunday 46 were in attendance.

The boys and girls have been looking forward to the beginning again under the leadership of Mrs. David A. Pitt of the Sunday afternoon chorus. This started with a goodly number last Sunday and will be held every Sunday afternoon until May from 4 until 6 in the assembly hall.

In the evening on Sunday the gospel service will be held in the assembly hall and the pastor will take as his theme "Lincoln and the Church."

Truth Is Stranger Than Fiction

Beginning Wednesday, February 15th, the Sparks-Shefte School of Music will present a series of advertisements concerning Modern Harmony and its importance in relation to piano playing. These timely articles will be a revelation to the music-loving public in general and prejudiced music teachers in particular in that they will contradict the statements of distorted musical minds and thus be open to refutation.

In reading this series, please do not misunderstand us. We have nothing whatever against classical music or its exponents. The best of classical teachers are doing a splendid work. But their aim is not our aim. "Art for art's sake" must of necessity be their slogan and ideal if they are to accomplish their purpose.

From time to time we will quote eminent musical authorities whose opinions on the Shefte Method, Harmony, Rhythm, and Jazz should convince you that the efforts of prejudiced musicians to conceal the facts concerning improvising and our instruction can be labelled with one word that everybody understands—applesauce.

Why Home Washing is Waning

85c

is the average cost of our Rough Dry Family Bundle

When a woman has her washing done at home it is for one of three reasons: She feels she is saving money, or that her home equipment will get things cleaner, or that her home machine will be more careful with the clothes.

Ten years ago these beliefs were justified—but TODAY the facts are exactly the REVERSE.

The TROY LAUNDRY is more thorough and more careful than any home washing can be. We wash your clothes slowly and carefully for about ONE HOUR with eight changes of water. There is no scrubbing or rubbing and our washing formulas, made up by the National Laundry Institute, have been proven to be the best and safest method of washing clothes. A few years from now home washing will be a thing of the past.

THE HOOVER PRESIDENTIAL BOOM FORMALLY LAUNCHED

Secretary Hoover Has Given Permission For His Ohio Supporters to Enter His Name in the Ohio Primary Contest For the Republican Nomination—Will Refrain From Personal Campaigning in the Pre-Convention Primaries and Retain His Post at the Head of the Commerce Department.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Secretary Hoover today became an avowed candidate for the republican presidential nomination and gave formal permission for his Ohio supporters to enter his name in the Ohio primary contest.

In his first campaign statement, which took the form of a letter to Thad H. Brown, chairman of the Ohio Hoover for president committee, the secretary declared himself bound "to carry forward the principles of the republican party and the great objectives of President Coolidge's policies."

He indicated his intention to refrain from personal campaigning in the pre-convention primaries, and to retain his official post at the head of the commerce department.

"I have received, through you and others, requests from very many republicans of Ohio that I permit my name to be entered in the presidential primaries of that state," the letter to Col. Brown said.

"I do so," he added, laconically.

"I shall be deeply honored by whatever support the people of Ohio may decide to give me at the republican national convention. I shall be glad to serve the American people through the republican party in any way that I can in finding constructive solution to the many problems which confront our country.

"My conviction that I should not strive for the nomination, and my obligations as secretary of commerce, preclude me from making any personal campaign. I must rely wholly upon my friends in Ohio to conduct it and to conduct it in a fair manner and with steadfast regard for republican success in the state and the nation. It is my special desire that expenditure of money shall be strictly limited and rigidly accounted for.

"If the greatest trust which can be given by our people should come to me, I should consider it my duty to carry forward the principles of the republican party and the great objectives of President Coolidge's policies—all of which have brought to our country such a high degree of happiness, progress and security."

The letter signalled the beginning of a sharp contest for the Ohio delegation to the republican national convention. Since the Hoover campaign will face the already indicated opposition of Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, another announced candidate.

Anticipating this, the Hoover forces have sent into Ohio Walter F. Brown of Toledo, now assistant secretary of commerce, who carries the credentials of his chief and will aid the Ohio organization in naming the delegate slate which will be put before the state's voters.

The secretary's statement was regarded by his friends as sanctioning also the setting up of tentative organizations in other states, though his leaders in Washington were not willing to announce their attitude toward other state primary contests at the moment. The Ohio situation was regarded as an emergency, because the law enforces the necessity upon candidates of approving delegate nominees personally and before February 24.

Since President Coolidge's declaration last August that he did not "choose to run," Secretary Hoover's entrance into the race has been confidently predicted in all political circles. Senator Willis was a much earlier candidate, and the field has been added to by Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader, and Watson of Indiana. For Gov. Lowden of Illinois, while his announcement has been withheld, has been made the object of a delegate campaign in several states besides his own.

That Secretary Hoover was prepared to meet all the requirements of a campaign short of a speech-making tour has been understood by all of his supporters who participated in the discussions leading to his decision to enter the Ohio primaries. One of these will probably induce him next week to make a reply to the public queries addressed by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, to all presidential aspirants, which seek to fix definitely their views on prohibition.

The approaching primary elections in a number of states besides Ohio likewise will engage the attention of Hoover's supporters, although in at least one state, Illinois, there will be no primary campaign made in his behalf. A decision to remain out of the Indiana contest also is predicted.

Norway Was Swept By a Furious Storm

From 20 to 25 Lives Are Known to Have Been Lost—Millions of Fish Killed.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 12.—(AP)—From twenty to twenty-five lives are known to have been taken by the furious storm which swept in from the British Isles yesterday and ravaged the whole northern country. Shipping was demoralized and the sea was pounded with such force that millions of fish were killed and washed ashore.

Most of the casualties were reported from the vicinity of Soerland and Vestland where the gale attained its maximum velocity, crushing houses, barns and causing much property loss as well as live stock. Millions of dead fish were swept ashore along the coast and countless other millions floated on the sea. Scientists attribute the death of the fish to sulphureted hydrogen which came to the surface from the ocean bottom when disturbed by the tremendous force of the gale.

A fish famine threatens as house wives refuse to buy them fearing the fish are poisoned.

LINDBERGH HOPS OFF HEADED FOR ST. LOUIS

HAVANA, Feb. 13—(AP)—(Monday)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off for St. Louis at 2.26 a. m. this morning.

Eager to see the Lone Eagle start on his flight of some 1,200 miles to his home port of St. Louis, spectators began arriving at Columbia field at 1.15 a. m. this morning. Col. Lindbergh arrived at the field at 1.50 a. m. accompanied by Ambassador Judah.

As the Spirit of St. Louis emerged from the hangar accompanied by 25 attendants the Cuban band struck up a spirited march.

Shortly after 2 o'clock Lindbergh started the plane's motor.

"The motor sounds perfect," he announced.

Lindbergh decided to taxi the plane the whole length of the field to the far end from the hangar. He would then be able to take off in the face of the wind and have the whole length of the field before him.

Lindbergh appeared rested and smiling. Mrs. Judah arrived at the field with the flier and the ambassador.

As Lindbergh taxied down the field an automobile proceeded hi mto show the way over the dumpy ground. Before starting for the far end of the field Lindbergh stowed several sandwiches in the plane.

Some 1,200 miles of flying were ahead of Lindbergh before he reached his home port, St. Louis.

His route led from Havana to Key West, Fla., the only hop over water, then along the Gulf of Mexico to a point directly south of St. Louis, where he will turn directly north.

CHICAGO TO HAVE 19 STORY VARIEGATED SKYSCRAPER

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—(AP)—Chicago's first variegated sky-scraper, a 19 story apartment and exclusive shop building, is in the process of construction. It will be located on the northwest corner of State and Elm streets.

The first floor is to be of dark French blue terra cotta. The second, third and fourth floors will be a light blue green, the next ten floors will have an exterior of salmon colored face brick and the last five will be trimmed with multi-colored terro cotta composed of five hues with the salmon colored face brick background. Crowning the structure will be a mansard of copper which ultimately will be a rich green through the process of oxidation. All sides of the building are to be of the same material.

Shipping Delayed By Atlantic Gales

Tells of Thrilling Struggle of Tanker Varand on Its Maiden Voyage.

LONDON, Feb. 12—(AP)—All incoming shipping reports great struggles against the Atlantic gales of the past week. The steamship American Farmer, which arrived at Plymouth thirty hours late, sustained damage to its propellors four days out of New York and contended throughout its passage with the heavy gales.

The steamship Montclare bringing Lt. Col. Leopold C. M. S. Amery, secretary of colonies and dominions, from Canada after a long tour of the dominions, reached Liverpool 24 hours late. The British steamship Sandown Castle, from Tyne to New York, reported by wireless that it was returning to Queenstown with the forehold full of water.

A thrilling struggle of the sea was told in radio reports concerning the difficulties of the tanker Varand on its maiden trip from New Orleans to London. For twelve days the Varand had been in tow of the Dutch tug Zwarte Zee because of serious damage to its rudder post and propeller thought to have been caused by striking wreckage during a westerly gale one thousand miles west of Queenstown. Beside losing three blades of its propeller the ship had sprung a leak. Towing the helpless ship through the heavy seas became so difficult that another Dutch tug, the Seine, went to the assistance. The hurricane completely disabled the Seine, however, carrying away the compass, rails, and ventilators and wrecking the wireless apparatus.

The liner Muenchen left her course to assist the crippled tug and two other Dutch tugs, which had previously gone to the assistance of the liner Burgerdijk, also came to the aid of the Seine. The tug hobbled back to Queenstown under convoy. The last report received today said the Zwarte Zee was still towing the Varand 65 miles south of Valentia, Ireland.

Six of the crew were missing and believed drowned after the dredging vessel Grinkel sank in the Mersey river during the gale.

The lives of the crew of the British schooner Agnes Glover were saved through the pluck of one of the seamen, John Lewis. During the terrific gale of Friday, the schooner's anchor chains parted and she was being rapidly carried to sea, tearing through mountainous seas.

Lewis, at great risk of his life, climbed into the rigging and wigwagged an appeal for aid which was sighted from Holy Head. A life-boat put out and came close enough to the almost sinking schooner for the crew to leap to safety. Some were badly injured.

WOMAN AND A CHILD KILLED BY AN AUTOMOBILE

BRISTOL, Conn., Feb. 12—(AP)—A woman and a child, believed to be from Bridgeport, were killed and three other women and a boy were injured when the automobile in which they were riding was hit by a west-bound freight train of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, on the Center crossing in Forestville, tonight. Ambulances took the injured to the Bristol hospital.

Forestville is a suburb of this city.

27 STUDENTS DROPPED FROM STORRS COLLEGE

STORRS, Feb. 12—(AP)—Twenty-seven students, or 5.4 per cent of the body of 500 undergraduates, were dropped from Connecticut Agricultural college because of scholastic deficiency, according to an announcement to be made tomorrow by the college registrar. Of this group, seven are sophomores; two seniors, and one a special student.

Twenty-nine others were put on probation for low scholastic standing.

BEBE DANIELS REPORTED TO BE RESTING EASILY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12—(AP)—Bebe Daniels, screen actress who was injured in an accident yesterday during the filming of a picture, was resting easily today and physicians said she would be able to resume work soon. X-ray plates showed that she sustained a sprain and bruises.

The accident resulted when an improvised Pullman car in which Miss Daniels was riding mounted on a truck was swept off its moving foundation by an overhanging tree branch.

FATHER AND SON KILLED AT A GRADE CROSSING

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 12.—(AP)—A father and his son were killed today by a New York Central express train at West Albany. The men Nicholas Barnett, 72 years old, and Anthony Barnett, 49, both of Albany, were killed at a crossing when they failed to heed the approach of the express train. The crew of the train was unaware of the accident until it reached Albany.

LETTER ON PROHIBITION SENT TO SENATOR BORAH

Representative Laguardia of New York Suggests That Borah Inquire of Presidential Aspirants as to Their Willingness to Seek a $200,000,000 Appropriation For "Vigorous and Faithful Enforcement of the Law"—The New Yorker Declared That He Had Been Reliably Informed That in the Home State of the Idaho Senator Liquor Could Be Obtained in Every County.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—The suggestion that Senator Borah inquire of presidential aspirants as to their willingness to seek a $200,000,000 appropriation for "vigorous and faithful enforcement" of the prohibition law was made today by Representative Laguardia, republican, New York, in an open letter to the Idaho senator.

Declaring that Senator Borah should so define the term in his questionnaires to presidential candidates as to force them to declare themselves fully on this point, the New York wet inquired if it might not "be well to ascertain by real enforcement and the total cutting off of liquor supply whether or not the people of the country really want" prohibition.

Referring to the mention of his own state in the senator's list of questions, Laguardia inquired if candidates should not be forced to declare their willingness to permit the federal government to enforce the dry law equally in all states. He charged that "under the present system where with the meagre number of prohibition officials, enforcement, especially in the so-called dry states, is left entirely to the states, we have less than one half of one per cent enforcement."

The New Yorker cited the home state of the Idaho senator as an example, declaring that he had been reliably informed that liquor can be obtained in every county of the state.

"I am sure you will agree that ten federal prohibition men for every thousand square miles is a ridiculously low figure," he continued. "Bootleggers and law violators not working on any fixed hourly schedule require vigilance at all hours of the night and day. Therefore, ten men per thousand square miles working in two shifts instead of three would require at least 1,660 men for the state of Idaho."

Laguardia said that under the present system Idaho, Montana and Utah compose one prohibition district to which are assigned 50 agents, or one man to each 60,000 square miles.

"No wonder so many people vote dry in that section of the country," he added. "I am sure that your standing in the nation and congress as one of the foremost leaders of prohibition is such that you could easily prevail upon the treasury department to increase this personnel to 1,660 good agents for Idaho alone and make that state as dry as you would desire to see the whole country. Personally, I doubt that 1,660 men could do it, but it would give a good basis to figure the actual number of men required to enforce prohibition according to your formula in the rest of the states."

Laguardia declared that prohibition had passed the academic stage of discussion and "those who champion its continuance must be willing to demand all that is necessary to enforce it."

NEW WORLD'S RECORD OF 1,093 LOOPS IN AN AIRPLANE

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 12.—(AP)—A new world's record of 1,093 loops in an airplane as shown in figures recordered here was established at Wold-Chamberlain airport today by Charles "Speed" Holman, of Minneapolis, chief pilot for the Northwest Airways. The former record of 515 was established Feb. 4, by Gene Shank of St. Paul.

Lyle Thro of Minneapolis, also beat Shank's mark, when he looped 543 times.

Holman, who won the Class A cross-country air derby last fall, was in the air from 11.10 a. m. to 3.47 p. m. He used the same plane today in which he won the national race.

One hour and 58 minutes later he had taken off, he had completed 510 loops in the air to set the new figure. At 2.20 p. m. he had finished 800 turns. He came down at 3.47 after his 75 gallons of gasoline had been exhausted.

Though he ascended at 10.30 a. m. in his Class B ship his engine developed trouble and he came down at 2.35 p. m.

FATE OF TWO MISSING SHERIFFS STILL UNKNOWN

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The fate of two deputy sheriffs, John P. Grove and Wallace McClure, who have been missing since they started for the state reformatory at Pendleton last Tuesday morning with a pair of youthful prisoners, still remained a mystery today although hundreds of volunteers searched the surrounding territory for possible clues. Nor was there any further trace of the escaped prisoners, John Burns, 20, and Eamuel Baxter, 19.

Baxter and Burns were last seen definitely last Tuesday afternoon at Decatur, Illinois, where they left in a garage the automobile in which the party left here that morning for the penal institution. The automobile was discovered yesterday. A Chicago waiter yesterday reported seeing two men in Chicago Thursday who he believed were Baxter and Burns.

CHAIN OF MOVIE HOUSES FOR ORGANIZED LABOR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—A move looking to the control by organized labor of a chain of 1,500 moving picture theatres throughout the country was disclosed today by the International Brotherhood of Electric Workers in calling attention to a proposal by Hollywood studio electricians carried in the February issue of the electrical workers journal.

"Briefly stated," says the journal, "the plan is to make every labor temple, meeting hall and lodge room of different societies, who are friendly to organized labor, a moving picture theatre in a small way. There are approximately 1,500 labor temples in the United States and Canada, also approximately 5,000 meeting places."

The union men believe, the article adds, that eventually "union labor will form its own companies and produce the pictures as well as exhibit them."

29 MEN STILL TRAPPED IN HOLLLINGER GOLD MINE

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Twenty-nine men were known to be still trapped tonight in the workings of the Hollinger gold mine, where fire broke out on the 550 foot level Friday morning, among rubbish and powder boxes.

Mine officials estimated that of more than 700 men working underground when the blaze was discovered, all but 51 made thir way to safety. Twelve were rescued yesterday, and ten are known to be dead. The fate of the remaining 29 has not been determined.

GIRL KILLED IN HEAD-ON COLLISSION OF AUTOMOBILES

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—(AP)—One girl was killed and ten others injured early today when an automobile carrying Notre Dame university students crashed head-on into another at a street intersection.

The dead girl, Miss Helen Ferry, 19, Chicago, was hurled to the pavement fro mthe front seat. She died almost instantly.

The drivers of the cars, both slightly injured, were held by police who said that they were traveling rapidly when the head-on impact occurred.

LINDBERGH FLIES FROM HAVANA TO ST. LOUIS TODAY

HAVANA, Feb. 12.—(AP)—A start before sunrise tomorrow, a short hop across the Florida straits, a long flight over half dozen states; then Lambert field, home port of the travel-stained "Spirit of St. Louis," is the program of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh for terminating an epoch making flight initiated last December in a non-stop flight from Washington, D. C., to Mexico City.

Miniature flags of 13 countries have been added to those painted on the fuselage of the Spirit of St. Louis before the departure from Washington, recording visits to various nations of Europe. These latest additions represent Mexico, Guatemala, British Honduras, Nicaragua, Honduras, Salvador, Costa Rica, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela, Santo Domingo, Haiti, and Cuba. Two United States possessessions, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, were stops on Lindbergh's Pan-American tour.

The flying ambassador retired early tonight after a day devoted mostly to flights over Havana and to a final check-up on the condition of his monoplane.

MACHADO TAKES FLIGHT WITH COL. LINDBERGH

HAVANA, Feb. 12—(AP)—President and Mrs. Gerardo Machado accompanied Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on a flight above Havana at 8:30 this morning. The flight was the first ever made by the Cuban executive and when he alighted he had nothing but praise for Colonel Lindbergh who "piloted like the expert he is."

More than 20 delegates to the Pan-American conference also went aloft with the youthful colonel as did many Cuban government officials. From early morning until almost mid-day, Lindbergh continued to pilot the Fokker type eight-passenger plane of the Pan - American Airways company, picking up the next group as quickly as he alighted and discharged his passengers. Camp Columbia flying field was crowded with prospective passengers and curious spectators. It was estimated that fully 3,000 people were on the field.

POSSIBILITY OF ANOTHER DEADLOCK IN HAVANA

HAVANA, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The possibility of another deadlock in the deliberations of the Pan-American congress was seen today in the announcement of Dr. Gustavo Guerrero, chief of the Salvadoren delegation, that he would continue to maintain that intervention of one state in the internal affairs of another should be internationally prohibited without exception.

An identical attitude on the part of Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon, of Argentina, had prevented a sub-committee studying the fundamental rights and duties of countries from coming to any decision. Within the past few days, however, it had been hoped that new instructions sent to Dr. Pueyrredon from Buenos Aires had reopened the discussions for a possible solution.

Delegates who were informed of Dr. Guerrero's pronouncement regarded the resulting situation with misgivings.

REMARKABLE CELEBRATION IN WESTMINSTER CATHEDRAL

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Nearly 5,000 English Catholics joined today in a remarkable celebration in Westminster cathedral of the sixth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI. The celebration with its imposing ritual, testifying spiritual fealty to the head of the church, was held at vespers.

Cardinal Bourne was assisted by a great gathering of church dignifiaries. Among those in attendance beside priests and nuns were ambassadors or ministers of 16 countries, members of both houses of parliament and many of the Catholic nobility.

TWO MEMBERS OF NAVAL TUG CREW ARE MISSING

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Two members of the crew of the naval tug Mohave were believed to have been drowned tonight after the craft had struck on Harding's Ledge, a mile off Nantasket Beach. First reports received here were that six men had been washed overboard, but a check later revealed that only two were missing.

MATTERS TO COME UP IN CONGRESS THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Debate on the Walsh resolution calling for an investigation of the financing of public utility power corporations promises to hold the spotlight in the senate this week while the house is grinding out another of the annual supply bills, that providing funds for the treasury and postoffice departments.

Under a previous agreement the senate will begin debate tomorrow on the power resolution of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, but a vote is not expected for several days. A close line-up is expected on a proposal by Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, to have the federal trade commission conduct the inquiry instead of a special senate committee.

While the senate interstate commerce committee unanimously ordered a favorable report on the resolution, an effort in the committee to refer it to the trade commission was lost only by a tie vote.

In addition, senate leaders hope for final action during the week on the house bill providing for the settlement of German American alien property claims. Meanwhile, pending investigations by various senate committees will be resumed and new ones considered.

In the house, consideration of the treasury-postoffice supply measure probably will serve as a vehicle for a somewhat extended discussion of the prohibition question when funds for the prohibition bureau are called up for approval. For several years consideration of this section has found both wets and drys taking an active part in the deliberations.

TWO FIREMEN HURT AT NEW BRITAIN CHURCH FIRE

NEW BRITAIN, Feb. 12—(AP)—Two firemen were hurt and a memorial organ valued at $75,000, a gift of the late Philip Corbin, wealthy manufacturer, was destroyed by a fire in the South Congregational church here today. The building was damaged to an extent estimated at $100,000.

William J. Noble, chief of the fire department, was under the doctor's care with an injured knee received while fighting the blaze. Joe Branti, fireman, was overcome by smoke on the roof of the church, and a harness device, employed for the first time, was used in lowering him to the ground. He was taken to the New Britain General hospital, where his condition showed early improvement.

Church service was not held, but Sunday school was carried on as usual in other parts of the structure.

The organ, which was installed in 1896, had been repaired and was rededicated a week ago today, at a cost of $17,000. The theory of the fire's origin was that bits of material from the repair work had filtered through the floor under the organ and fell upon a furnace, which became overheated.

BEN LYON-MARILYN MILLER ENGAGEMENT BROKEN

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 12—(AP)—Ben Lyon, motion picture actor announced today that he and Marilyn Miller, musical comedy star and former wife of Jack Pickford, had broken their engagement.

"Miss Miller's work in New York and my own picture work which necessitates my remaining permanently in California have caused us to abandon the idea of marriage," he said. He added that their friendship would remain the same and that he would see Miss Miller when he goes to New York soon.

MANY DEATHS IN STORMS IN WESTERN EUROPE

LONDON, Feb. 12—(AP)—The death roll of the gales of cyclonic force which have swept western Europe and the North Atlantic during the past few days will probably be not far short of 50 when the full destruction is known, it was believed here tonight.

Already 25 lives are known to have been lost in Scandinavia and nine in Great Britain, with accidents to shipping just becoming known. This latest scourge of a winter which has been the worst in recent years for trying weather experiences has buffetted shipping in the North Atlantic until the stricken vessels have sent SOS calls and limped disabled into port with the aid of tugs.

Great property loss accompanied the gales on land. Not only were houses blown dow nand roofs carried away, but the torrential rainfall which accompanied the high winds in the British Isles caused fresh floods.

THREE MEN INJURED IN COLLISION OF TWO AUTOS

TORRINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Three men were injured, two of them seriously, when two automobiles in which they were riding collided head-on on the Torrington-Waterbury road today.

Raymond Platt, of Northfield, driver and lone occupant of one machine, lost his left eye and was severely cut about the head. Philip Sica of Torrington, suffered internal injuries. William Wolfe, of Torrington, was lacerated about the face and head. All three were at the Charlotte Hungerford hospital here, and Platt and Sica were said by hospital authorities to be seriously but not critically hurt.

Stephen Pannoni, of Waterbury, the driver of the car in which Sica and Wolfe were riding received minor cuts.

The accident occurred when Platt seemed to have misjudged the speed of his machine as he made a curve. Both machines were badly wrecked.

NEW FORD CAR DOES NOT CONFORM TO GERMAN LAW

BERLIN, Feb. 12—(AP)—Because the hand and foot brakes on the new Ford model automobile do not conform to requirements of the official German board controlling steam boilers, the latest Ford turnout has for the present been refused a license to operate.

The new Ford system of working hand and foot brakes with the same mechanism is in violation of the German safety regulations prescribing a distinct mechanism for each brake. This, however, is considered only a transitory complication. The required mechanism having already been designed, it will be mounted at the Ford plant in Berlin.

Alteration will also be necessary for privately-owned Fords licensed to enter Germany from other European countries.

DROWNING REVEALED BY DINNER PAIL AND A CAP

SOUTHWICK, Mass., Feb. 12—(AP)—A dinner pail and a cap found bobbing on the surface of the water in a hole in the ice on Congamond lake this morning, resulted in the discovery of the drowning of Peter Tarasowski, of Granby, Conn. He is believed to have drowned last night on his way from work at the Congamond ice company.

The cap and dinner pail were found and recognized by William Maloney, a fellow employe today. Tarasowski leaves his widow and five children.

13 PERSONS WERE KILLED BY MINE PIT EXPLOSION AT WHITEHAVEN, ENG.

WHITEHAVEN, England, Feb. 13—(AP)—A terrific explosion early today in the Haig mine pit, the scene of other explosions disastrous to human life, killed thirteen of a party of twenty-one who were exploring the works for the first time since a similar disaster closed it last December.

Several officials were among those killed. Eight dazed and partially gassed workmen fought their way back to safety. The news they brought caused desperate efforts by rescue parties to reach the entombed men, but the foul air foiled their attempts. All hope was abandoned at noon. The relief workers were withdrawn and the mine was again sealed.

Thirty-nine lives were lost through an explosion in the same pit on September 5, 1922, and again last December the works suffered a blast which took four lives. An exploration party was organized yesterday and shortly after midnight entered the shaft in an attempt to locate the body of one of the miners killed in the December explosion. At that time fire had prevented the recovery of the body and the pit had been sealed up until the fire should burn itself out for want of oxygen.

The party, which included several mine experts, carried oxygen and was fully equipped with rescue apparatus. It made good progress until the men neared the scene of the December explosion when four blasts occurred within ten minutes. The last was a violent one, filling the mine with bad air.

Among those killed in today's disaster were William Louden and P. Burdess, government inspectors of mines; Robert Steel, manager of the works; Henry Hanlon, a miner's agent; John Robert Fell, under manager of the Haig pit, and several minor officials.

The region about Whitehaven, a port of the Irish sea near the entrance of Solway Firth, has extensive coal and iron mines which supply the numerous foundries, shipyards and factories of the neighboring cities.

MISS LOIS E. COLE IS MARRIED TO REXFORD CRANE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 12—Miss Lois E. Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcom Cole of Mansfield and Rexford Crane of this city, were married at a pretty ceremony performed in the Mansfield Center Congregational church at two o'clock Saturday afternoon. The wedding attracted a large gathering of friends from several cities and towns. Rev. Mrs. Florence Jones officiated, the single ring service being used. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Malcom Cole. Mrs. Walter G. Harris of Malden, Mass., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Luther C. Crane of Storrs, brother of the groom, best man. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Willard J. Stearns, sister of the groom and Miss Amy K. Hawkins of Mansfield, Jessie E. Inman and Willard J. Stearns of Mansfield, were ushers.

Mrs. Louis B. Tenney of Storrs presided at the organ, rendering Adoration, I Love You Truly and At Dawning. Calm As the Night was played during the ceremony. The bride was charming in white taffeta with a tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Harris, matron of honor, was attired in green georgette and she carried a spray of pink sweet peas. The bridesmaids wore orchid and pink gowns, trimmed with silver lace. Mrs. Cole, mother of the bride was becoming gowned in grey georgette.

About 60 guests attended a wedding luncheon at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Crane left later in the day on a wedding tour to Pennsylvania and New York. The bride's traveling costume was an ensemble of sand color with hat to harmonize. Mr. and Mrs. Crane were recipients of numerous gifts. Mr. Crane is a graduate of the Mansfield grammar schools and of Windham High school. He is widely known as a musician. He is employed at the office of the American Thread company. The bride is also a Windham High school graduate and for the past two years has been employed as secretary to Professor L. B. Tenney at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs. Mr. and Mrs. Crane are to make their home on Park street, this city.

C. A. LAMOUREUX ENDS 20 YEARS IN CLOTHING BUSINESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 12—Alderman Cyril A. Lamoureux brought to a close Saturday night a career of 20 years in the men's furnishings and clothing business. Mr. Lamoureux removed here from Ware, Mass., some 26 years ago and entered the employ of W. H. Merrill. Six years later he became associated with E. E. Barbier and under the firm name of the Barbier-Lamoureux company, Inc., has conducted a progressive and modern clothing store for man's wear at 729 Main street. A closing out sale at the store ended on Saturday night. Mr. Lamoureux, who is alderman-at-large, has made no definite plans for the future but plans to remain in Willimantic. He is married and has one daughter. He was elected as alderman-at-large at the December elections. He has previously served as chairman of the board of relief of the town of Windham and has also been city tax collector. He is a member of Willimantic lodge, No. 1411, B. P. O. E and Lodge, No. 1440, L. O. O. M., having been secretary of the latter organization for the past 15 years. He is also affiliated with Conseil Florimond No. 14, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique and Les Artisans, and actively connected with the chamber of commerce.

The discovery of an abandoned second hand Chevrolet automobile on the North Coventry highway, January 30, has led to the arrest of James Gorham of Bridgeport by the state police, on charges of abandonment of an automobile; having improper markers and mutilation of motor engine numbers. Gorham was presented before Justice of the Peace Albert M. Gilman of the Coventry town court Friday night on the three charges. He pleaded guilty to the first and was fined $25 and costs for abandoning the car and $15 for having improper markers. He denied having mutilated the engine number on the motor and the prosecution lacked sufficient evidence at the time to secure conviction. A further investigation is being made. Gorham paid a total of $86.46. According to the markers found on the abandoned machine, the car was the property of a party having no interest in its ownership. The investigation showed that the machine had been purchased in Suffield by Gorham. Gorham explained that the car refused to function further in Coventry and that he left it by the highway. He said that he told no one about this as he intended to return for the machine, but his duties prevented him from doing this before the machine was taken over by the state police. He flatly denied having tampered with the engine number.

A change in the location of the South Windham fourth-class postoffice is about to be made as the result of the resignation of Edward W. Avery who has been postmaster in the village for the past 50 years. Mr. Avery has been in poor health for some time and his store, in which is housed the postoffice, has been conducted by F. T. Bennett. Mr. Bennett has now resigned and will come to Willimantic to conduct a new store on Valley street. Postmaster Avery's resignation is to become effective upon the appointment of a successor. An examination is to be held soon by the department to fill the vacancy.

The counselors of the Connecticut department auxiliary of the N. S. W. veterans was held in the G. A. R. quarters of the town building at three o'clock, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Maud Green of Norwich, state department president, presided over an attendance of about 35 including past department presidents. Mrs. Minnie Flynn of this city was among those attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Isadore J. Heller and sons, Max, Hyman, Samuel and Abraham Heller, motored to New York city today to attend the wedding of Mrs. Heller's brother, Harry Heller of the Columbia University school of pharmacy is also to attend.

The legal observance of Lincoln's birthday this Monday will be noted by the closing of all of the town and city offices, including those of the selectmen, town clerk, city clerk and judge of probate, and of the three local banks. Factories, stores, schools and the post office will remain open under regular schedules, however.

SUSTAINS FRACTURED ARM IN AUTO COLLISION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 12.—William Tracy and George Kirby, both of Mansfield Hollow, were taken to St. Joseph's hospital shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon following a collision between a small pleasure car in which they were riding and a light truck operated by Russell Dwonczyk of Mansfield Center at a sharp turn 100 yards north of the bridge on the Mansfield Center road, just over the city line. Tracy was found to have sustained a fracture of the left arm and multiple injuries and he was retained at the hospital over night. Kirby was discharged after receiving treatment for bruises and abrasions. Dwonczyk was practically uninjured. Both machines were badly damaged, the truck careening off the highway into a lot. At the time of the accident Dwonczyk was headed for this city to his employment at the plant of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, while the Mansfield Hollow men were on their way home. There were no eye witnesses to the collision, which was investigated by State Policemen Wood and Griffin of the Stafford Springs barracks.

NOANK

LEGIONNAIRES' TRIP TO BALTIC MEETING

Several Legionnaires from the village motored to Baltic Friday evening and attended the Fifth District meeting in the town hall, which was handsomely decorated. At 8 o'clock District with 100 Legionnaires and members of Comrade M. Peck opened the meeting the auxiliary present as Chaplain Sears read the prayer of the American Legion. Different committees reported and it was voted to hold a short recess to give the auxiliary a chance to meet. At 9 o'clock State Comrade Richards came from Hartford and spoke about the Legion and getting members. Connecticut posts are getting stronger and the plan is to get all ex-service men to join. "Stick together and we'll put it over big," he said. He hoped the fifth district would have a big year, with good luck. He talked for 25 minutes and received much applause from his comrades. Then Mr. Peck stated that District Adjutant A. Crosby had to disappoint them, on account of being one of the judges at a dog and cat show in Hartford. At this a laugh came from the crowd. At Old Lyme, a prize cat, Snowball, is on the list. After the meeting the generous Baltic women served sandwiches, several kinds of cakes and coffee. Swan Brothers singing orchestra of five fast music boys played for the dancing and Prof. Tinkham of Hanover, an old-timer, called off for the old fashioned set. For the last 30 years he has seen many swing-on-the-corners and his powerful orders were heard a long way and put pep into the dancers. It was a big time in the mill town. At 11:30 the orchestra played as everybody sang "Come to Baltic and Have a Good Time With the Legionnaires."

When the fishing fleet does not go out to the fishing grounds the people of the village know something is wrong with the fish. Have they left the chores of Block Island and gone to Port Jefferson, L. I., or have the fishermen caught them all? That is being asked at the packing house dock. The last time out and going over every spoke of the fishing ground near Block Island some got fisherman's luck—no catch, while others got a barrel or two. The flatfish are there, but Capt. Billie Strong said a newspaper could be read through them. If fishing there doesn't pick up soon, the fleet will pick up and leave for Port Jefferson, where the fish are. The prices at Fulton market, New York, were high Thursday, $25 and $30 a barrel. The fishing men will try it until the first of the month, if no better, then off for Long Island!

HORSE 32 YEARS OLD STILL DRAWS COAL WAGON

A chestnut colored horse that has seen 32 years' service on a coal wagon belongs to the Noank Coal Co. During all kinds of weather he has helped filled many cellars in the village with Penn. coal. Howard Durfee who drives Jerry takes good care of him and does not hurry him. When it is time to eat the horse will stop when the mill whistle blows. It gets its own drink at the well and goes back to the stable right into the stall. The driver has a mate for Jerry, but it has not seen as much service as this horse. An owner would have worn out many automobiles in those years. Mr. Durfee is careful and comes down to the barn Sunday to feed the animal, and talks to the horse as though it were a person. It is some record to have a horse last so many years on a coal wagon. By the looks now, Jerry is good for several more years.

William Crowell recently spent a day in Taftville.

Schooner William Morse put aboard supplies and 25 tons of ice Friday morning, and left for Georges' Banks after tile fish Saturday. Capt. Henry Langworthy was at the wheel.

At the W. C. T. U. meeting held at the home of Mrs. Ada Fitch recently, Miss Eloise Ross, principal of the village school gave a short talk on the good work the members of the union are doing. Refreshments were served by the committee. Fifteen members attended.

Kenneth Butson has returned from Bridgeport.

Miss Carolyn Spicer is ill with grip.

Everett Pray spent the week end with friends in Hanover.

MYSTIC

When the Sewing society of Charity chapter, Order of Eastern Star, gave a whist Thursday evening in Odd Fellows' hall for the Kenneth LaFlamme fund, it proved successful, raising $83. Twenty-four tables were in play and prizes were won by Mrs. Stella Wilcox, Mrs. Harry Allyn, Mrs. Erastus Fish, Mrs. Annie Johnson, Mrs. Bessie Clark, P. D. Crowley, Percy Palmer, G. D. Johnson, A. N. Butler, Silas Green. Consolation awards went to Mrs. Charles Stribi, Mrs. H. D. Van Artsdalen, H. B. Buckler and William Girard. Merchants contributed all the prizes, the society had the free use of Odd Fellows' hall, the Mystic Standard printed the tickets, there was the loan of card tables by the Hook and Ladder company and Mystic Grange. Many who never play cards bought tickets to help in the worthy cause of aiding the boy in his affliction.

Funeral services for Mrs. Maria E. Okie, 88, formerly of Mystic, who died at the home of her son in South Orange, N. J., Thursday night, were held in the chapel at Elm Grove cemetery Sunday afternoon. Rev. Louis J. Shepler, pastor of the Union Baptist church conducted the services. Relatives and friends were present who had known Mrs. Okie in Mystic where she was highly esteemed. Burial was in the family plot in the cemetery.

Rev. George P. Jones preached at both services in the First Baptist church, Stonington, Sunday.

Mrs. Henry E. Noyes, who has been in poor health for several months, does not seem to improve.

WESTERLY

FIVE PLACES ARE RAIDED—FOUR YIELD CONTRABAND

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 12—Federal raiding officers, said to be five in number, joined with members of Westerly police Saturday evening in raiding reported booze joints in the northern section of Westerly. It is claimed that some of the raids resulted from sales previously made to federal officers. Of five places visited four were found to contain illegal moisture.

The Providence Cafe of James Salimeno, 73 Pleasant street, previously raided by both federal and Westerly officers was visited by federal officers. The find here was said to be two bottles half full of whiskey, one bottle half full of gin, 80 bottles of home brew, reported destroyed.

Pasquale Salimeno's store, corner of Canal and Pleasant street, was visited by Officers George L. Madison and Frank E. Knight of Westerly, who found one quart bottle of wine half full, one quart jug with some gin in it, and one quart jug with whiskey in it.

Antonio Salimeno, 55 1-2 Pleasant street, visited by Police Officer Michael Curtin of Westerly, and a federal man, was found to have a quart bottle full of wine.

At Carmine Cofone's, in the rear of a tailor shop, 71 Pierce street, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown of Westerly and Officer Robert M. Kessel, discovered in a rear room 73 one-pint bottles of beer.

Frank Juliano, store 76 1-2 Pierce street, called on by Lieutenant George H. Champlin and Joseph H. Owens, of the Westerly police force, was found to be no violator of the prohibition laws.

Return of the warrants served by the Westerly police officers is ordered on the regular session of the Third District court before Judge Oliver H. Williams Friday, Feb. 17th. The return of the federal warrants will be made before the United States district court in Providence.

At one of the places visited some of the frequenters were asked if they had any regular business there and on a negative reply it is said that they did not wait for a taxi to take them away, but beat it at once.

Officer Robert M. Kessel of Westerly, was called Sunday morning to the home of Fred Chappell on Union street, where a dog belonging to his son, Chauncey, was reported as suffering from poisoning. Officer Kessel, at the request of the owner, with one shot of his revolver put the mongrel black-haired police dog out of its misery.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk: Feb. 11. John J. Dunn and William D. Dolan to Panciera and Gomena, lots Nos. 178 and 179, plat of Weekapaug Terrace, Weekapaug, R. I.

The sixth annual Westerly Automobile show in the state armory closed Saturday night at 10:30 after a three-day exhibition succesafully conducted under the auspices of Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion. Many of the exhibition models were taken out on the long runway skids Saturday night and the balance on Sunday morning. The exhibition was visited by many New London and Washington county automobile owners. The committee in charge comprised Roy V. Wilcox, chairman, Louis Rossi, Rogers E. Trainer, Harold S. Barber, Merton B. Lewis, Jr., John W. Nield, Dennis Gerard Shea and John H. Farnsworth.

JEWETT CITY

EARLY MORNING BIG FIRE—TAFTVILLE MAN HERO

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 12. — Jewett City had a disastrous three alarm about five o'clock this morning, when the Malek block on Main street caught fire in some unknown manner. In the block are the Jewett City restaurant owned by Joseph Farrell, the Economy store, Wilfred LeClaire's haberdashery shop, and a rooming house with seven or eight occupants. John McKelnan was awakened by one of the roomers who discovered the fire, and not being able to get to the restaurant telephone, ran barebooted across the street, and aroused Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, who notified the night telephone operator.

The firemen under Foreman Boucher's direction, fought a stubborn blaze, which seemed as if it might not be conquered. Over 1500 feet of hose was laid, all four sides of the building being covered. Three two and one-half inch streams were turned on. Assistant Foreman Walter Field working inside the blazing rooms from start to finish. Seven rooms of the rooming house upstairs are nothing but charred wrecks, with all their contents. The stores and restaurant are badly damaged by water, and the latter was closed all day Sunday.

McKiernan stated that he lost every thing he owned, including about $200. He rushed back to his room after giving the a arm arousing the other men, and saved nothing but his mother's wedding ring, and was obliged to jump out of the window.

A spectacular and courageous rescue was made of a man with a broken arm, known as "Scottie." Joseph Troland, of Taftville happened to be driving into town, and throwing his coats into his automobile ran for the fire. He saw Scottie through the window, and locking his feet in the hand-rail of the fire escape on Finn block, he reached across and pulled the man through the window, lifting him by main strength to the fire escape. He then ran around the building, smashed in a window with his bare hands and rescued three other men.

The firemen confined the fire to the upper part of the building, and the rear ell was not burned to any extent. The men were coated with ice, and worked like heroes.

Although a few volunteered their help handling the hose, yet when a call was sounded for more help to move the hose, about 75 able bodied men stood on the sidewalk and did not move. One fireman remarked that probably they would be the first to criticize the methods of fighting fire.

It was impossible Sunday to estimate the loss, but it is in the thousands of dollars. The building is owned by Joseph Malek, and is covered by insurance.

Sunday morning a Norwich resident on Boswell avenue telephoned Fire Marshal G. H. Prior and asked what the big fire was in Jewett City, having distinctly heard the three alarms and counted the 14 number, blown by the whistle on Aspinook mill. The recall was not blown until seven o'clock. Although the men had the fire under control in an hour.

DEATH OF WM. H. BROWN—PHOTOGRAPHER, POSTMASTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 12.—Ex-postmaster William H. Brown died at nine o'clock Saturday night after an illness of six years. Mr. Brown was born in Packerville, May 10, 1853, the son of Thomas and Mary Brown. In his younger days he conducted a store in Packerville, and was assistant postmaster in Versailles. Later when he lived in Dayville, he became interested in photography, and having natural artistic ability, he made it a business. About 32 years ago he came to Jewett City, and for years conducted a photograph studio on both Mathewson and East Main streets. Many remember the photographic car which toed on Anthony street, and still have the tintypes taken at that time. As the years went on, his skill increased, his studios were equipped with the most modern appliances, and many of the pictures were exquisitely tinted by his daughter, Miss Alice Brown. The splendid pictures in the Jewett City Graphic published in 1898 were nearly all photographed by Mr. Brown. As long as his health permitted he continued in this business, not retiring until about three years ago.

Mr. Brown served as the efficient postmaster from 1899 to 1916. He was the man who promoted the return in 1900, from Cuba, of the body of James Farrell, who died of yellow fever while in Shafter's army, in 1898, also Mr. Brown made possible the erection of the monument to his memory in St. Mary's cemetery, and the public exercises which took place at the time. Mr. Brown was much interested and an expert in genealogical research, his ancestry including colonial officers and governors. He instituted the Brown Family reunion, and was president of the association for ten years.

In May, 1874, he married Lillian Bennett of Canterbury, and they celebrated their golden wedding in 1924. Mrs. Brown died August 24, 1926.

Mr. Brown had served as a burgess of the borough. He was a member of Jewett City council, No. 38, Fraternal Benefit league. During Mr. Brown's term of postmastership, the rural free delivery, parcel post and postal savings were put in operation. He was always interested in the greatest good of the community and was exceedingly fond of his home and family. He is survived by his daughters, Miss Alice Brown, a teacher in Riverside Grammar school, and Mrs. R. R. Barber, Jr., of Westminister, Vermont, and a brother, Thomas Brown of Plainfield. Three granddaughters survive him, Mrs. Samuel Cathcart, Jr., of Jewett City, Mrs. Harold Shattuck, of Bellows Falls, Vt., and Miss Mary Barber of Westminister, Vt. Both mother and father needed constant care for several years, and the daughters and Mrs. Cathcart have given them the most devoted attention possible.

The funeral of Mrs. Patrick F. Driscoll was held from her home on Mathewson street Saturday morning. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. Alfred Driscoll with Rev. Oscar Norman of Moosup, deacon, Rev. Nicholas Caron sub-deacon and Rev. John F. Reilly of Norwich, master of ceremonies. Mrs. Noel Garand sang the solos during the mass, Mrs. Aglae Sarasin being organist. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Driscoll and Rev. Fr. Reilly. The bearers were John F. Hennon, Michael E. Shea, Eugene J. Carroll, John T. Doolan, Dennis J. Sullivan and Timothy Welch. There were most beautiful flowers. Relatives were present from Brooklyn, N. Y., Providence, Middletown, Norwich, Plainfield, Hartford, New Milford, Bridgeport, New Britain, Westerly and Danielson.

Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

Another hit and run accident happened near Nofie's store on North Main street between ten and eleven Saturday night. The Nofie family heard a noise as if a machine had run into a pole, and going to investigate saw a man crawling across the road on his hands and knees. It was Anthony Rablinowicz, who had been knocked down by a machine. He had a gash on his forehead, and the road was covered with blood. Two young men in a small car were seen to come and look at him, and then leave hastily. But as several other machines came along, no numbers could be secured. Medical aid could not be obtained, and the man was finally taken to his boarding place in the Tadpole section, across the railroad tracks.

Saturday evening the railroad gates were again incapacitated, and Gate Tender Edward Maher was knocked off his feet. Charles H. Bowers, 50 Sabin street, Providence, claimed he was traveling 25 miles an hour, and his machine slid eight feet before it stopped. Officer Veglard took the numbers and address, and will await the investigation of the railroad officials. The gates have recently been repaired.

Mrs. Annie O'in is confined to the bed with an acute attack of sciatica.

William Marshall has been ill a week at his home on Mathewson street.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

William Rockwell has sold his large dairy farm in the Hollow to Alberton C. Kibbe of Millerton, N. Y. He will take possession about the first of April.

Mrs. George Greendoman has returned to her home on Keeler Plains after several weeks' visit with friends in Springfield and Boston.

Mrs. William Eldredge of Wellington has been taken to Johnson Memorial hospital where she is being treated for high blood pressure.

The banks and library will be closed today (Monday) in honor of Lincoln's birthday.

Oscar Hughes was arrested by State Policeman Daley for creating a disturbance at East Willington Friday night. He was brought to Stafford Springs, where he was locked up until the session of the borough court Saturday morning, when he was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. On the former charge he was fined $7 and on the latter $5 and costs, a total of $21.22, which was paid by a friend of Hughes.

There will be special exercises in some of the public schools Wednesday, the 15th, in observance of Maine Memorial day.

Charles D. Chism of Westford, a frequent visitor to Stafford Springs, celebrated his 91st birthday Saturday.

Mrs. W. B. Bean has been visiting relatives in Natick, Mass.

DANIELSON

RESIDENTS NOTE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN OLD AND NEW ENGINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 12—The mile long trains now being hauled through Danielson by monster locomotives recently put into use on this division have set some of Danielson's venerable residents harking back to the days of the old-wood-burning locomotives that ran over the Norwich and Worcester railroad through this community and to contemplate the step by step development of the motive power in use on the line. It is whimsically estimated that it would take about a dozen of the old wood-burning locomotives to haul one of the great freights that now come northward over the line in tow of one 2500 class locomotive, but maybe it isn't quite as different as that.

Talking of old-time railroading conditions here, some citizens who can remember back before the Civil war tell of Danielson having a woodyard where Railroad square now is and of the hundreds of cords that used to be stacked there for use on the locomotives running over the line. In those days Danielson also had a much larger passenger station than the present one and in it was a railroad restaurant for the convenience of the great number of travelers who then used the line.

From about every section of the town of Killingly comes the wail of the radio fan about interference—one station messing up the broadcast of another one and, in some wave bands, two to four stations coming in at once. There are a considerable number of bands where most sets do not function at all because of the shrieks and squeals the sets emit. What is to be done about it no radio fan has any idea. Of one thing the fans seem certain, and that is that the radio commission is a complete flop insofar as clearing the air in southern New England is concerned. Conditions are worse now than before this commission came into existence.

BROOKLYN'S LAST CIVIL WAR VETERAN AT REST

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 12—This afternoon there was laid at rest in the South cemetery at Brooklyn the last of that town's Civil war veterans—Philo Stanley Bartow, who would have been 96 years of age in May. Mr. Bartow, after several years of feeble health, died at his home in Brooklyn Friday night. He had been a resident of the town the past 19 years.

He was a native of New Canaan, this state, a son of Stephen and Sally Glinton Bartow, and was born May 6, 1832. He served in the Civil war as a member of the 144th New York infantry and since becoming a resident of Brooklyn had affiliated with McGregor post, G. A. R., of Danielson. He leaves his wife, a son, Stanley, of Brooklyn, and a daughter, Mrs. Adah Travis, of Danielson.

This afternoon a prayer service was held at his home at 1:30, Rev. John R. Pratt conducting it. This was followed at 2 o'clock by a service in the Brooklyn Congregational church, of which Mr. Bartow was a member with Rev. Mr. Pratt and Rev. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear officiating.

At the cemetery the committal service of the Sons of Veterans for deceased members of the G. A. R., was conducted by DeForest Wells, commander of Colonel Edward Anderson camp, S. of V. and Everett Colvin, camp chaplain. The bearers were members of the camp—Fred Miller, DeForest Wells, E. C. Babson, J Elmer Keene, Everett Colvin and Herbert Lyman. A. F. Wood had charge of the funeral arrangements.

With the passing of Mr. Bartow, Brooklyn is now without a resident member of the Grand army for the first time since the close of the Civil war.

Misses Eleanor Eddy of Blackstone and Mary Mahoney of Norwich and Frank Fullam of New York were guests today of Miss Helen Cronin at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick F. Murray of Academy street.

Saturday morning the funeral of Thomas J. Moran, who died in Cleveland the past week, was held from the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy, with a high mass of requiem at St. James' church at 9:30. Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., was celebrant of the mass and there was an unusually large funeral congregation. Burial was in St. James' cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S. The bearers were Patrick Weaver, Patrick Moran, Edward Moran, John Moran, John Harrington and Hugh Gorman, Jr. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

It is confirmed that the state park commission has made available the necessary sum to build a six-foot wide bridge that is to be 120 feet in length across the Quinebaug river at Priest's island, south of Putnam, to make access to the park easy, when it is opened to the public the coming warm weather season. It is understood that the bridge, which is to be a substantial structure, is to cost in the neighborhood of $4,500. The announcement that the camp is to be opened to the public, as made in this column on Saturday, was received with pleasure and special and special interest throughout this section.

Some three or four years ago the state fish and game commission released several thousand brown trout in streams in this section of the county, a large number of them being turned loose in the upper reaches of the Quinebaug river, above Pineville. The fish were of good size when put into the river and by this time should weigh, in some instances, several pounds each. None of them have been reported caught, though a local fisherman had one snap off his line on a day last spring and get loose with a hook in its mouth to plague it. Including in the speculations of trout fishermen as the time for another fishing season approaches is as to whether these fish will start biting in earnest this spring. If they do, fishermen hereabouts will get a new thrill.

The flashing about of motorcycles in this section these February days calls to mind the fact that no winter within memory has permitted such a practically uninterrupted use of these machines as has been the rule through this one to date. Sight of a motorcycle in February has usually been a rare thing on the highways of eastern Connecticut, but it is not this year. The going for them, insofar as highway surfaces is concerned is not materially more difficult than in summer—but the riding, the boys says, is a bit cold at times.

A recent item told of C. H. Bacon disposing of a small second-hand stove made here in Danielson in 1851, the year of Mr. Bacon's birth. It was the product of the foundry of C. Allen and Co., whose foundry was on Furnace street at the location now occupied by the Kennedy corporation. After approximately 77 years of more or less constant use the stove remains in reasonably good condition. It has four lids, but is considerably smaller than the ranges in present day use.

A prosecution for the killing of a deer in Brooklyn the past week has revived the agitation in this territory for an open season on deer each fall. It will be recalled that a bill providing for such a privilege was before the last legislature of the state, but met an unfavorable fate. Deer have become so numerous hereabouts as to be a nuisance in some ways, though it is a well known fact that numbers of hunters have no compunction about killing one if they get the chance and feel reasonably safe against detection. The deer are destructive, killing young trees, eating garden stuff and the like, and for that reason the farmers, as a rule, do not like to have them about. Neither are hunters of foxes friendly to them, for the reason that fox hounds have a tendencyt leave a trail they may be following if they happen to come across deer tracks.

New Highway signs pointing the highway route to Danbury, Hartford and Brooklyn have been erected at the corner of Main and Spring streets, opposite the Westfield Congregational church.

The Wakitatina Camp Fire girls have invited the other Camp Fire groups to a Valentine party.

Numbers of flags were flown in Danielson today in observance of Lincoln's birthday.

S. Cady Hutchins, ill with pneumonia at his home on Broad street, remained in critical condition today.

Ice at Quinebaug lake was about 7 inches in thickness today, a gain of practically an inch during the cold weather since yesterday.

Monday morning there is to be an anniversary high mass of requiem at St. James' church in memory of Eloi Getty, who died at Rougemont, P. Q., a year ago and whose body was brought here for burial. Mr. Getty was for many years resident here and a well known business man.

Washington's birthday, Wednesday of next week, is to be a holiday for the children in the schools of Killingly.

Electric power was shut-off today from 1 to 2 p. m. by the Eastern Connecticut Power company to allow linemen to make necessary repairs. The company gave due notice on Saturday of its intent to suspend the power.

The junior play given at the high school auditorium Friday evening was financially successful, and a considerable sum will be added to the athletic field fund through the including of the net profits.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hamilton motored to New Bedford today.

Mrs. E. L. Danielson of Norwich has been visiting with Mrs. Albert S. Field at Brooklyn

All of Danielson's banks will be closed during Monday, in observance of Lincoln's birthday.

Donald W. Armington is well along the road to recovery from an injury to his ankle sustained in a basketball game in the town hall a week ago last Thursday night.

Prayers of the congregation were offered today at St. James' church for Mrs. Georgianna Trembly, who died the past week in Hartford.

When Odd Fellows from Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island towns gather at Putnam Tuesday evening to witness the conferring of the first degree on a class of candidates, Quinebaug lodge of the order of Danielson will be represented.

Edward Bennett of the Orpheum theater staff has returned from attending the funeral of his father in Vermont.

PUTNAM

PAST EXALTED RULERS NIGHT TO BE BIG EVENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 12—One of the biggest social events of the Putnam lodge of Elks will be observed in the Elks' lodge rooms on Tuesday evening, February 14, when all the past rulers of the Putnam order get together to hold the annual Past Exalted Rulers night. At this meeting the past rulers will take over the offices and conduct the meeting. The exalted ruler's chair will be occupied by James E. Murray, the junior past head of the order. The esteemed leading knight's post will be taken over by A. Graydon Sharpe. Archibald Macdonald, Jr., will preside at the chair of the esteemed loyal knight, while John J. McGarry will take over the office of esteemed lecturing knight. Lucius P. Merriam will act as esquire, with Secretary George Lewis, Jr., in his regular place. Andrew V. Frost will take over the duties of treasurer for the evening. Past Exalted Ruler Edward Mullan will act as chaplain and Prosper Vegiard will take over the post of the inner guard.

At seven o'clock there will be a banquet for the past rulers of the lodge with the present officers. Exalted Ruler John H. Bulger has stated that every living past executive of the lodge will be present to take part in the exercises.

Since the lodge was instituted in 1900 the following men have been elected to lead the Putnam lodge of the "Brother Bills." The first man at the head of the lodge was, Jerome Warren. The following have since been in the chair: Byron D. Bugbee, Andrew V. Frost, George S. Bradley, Isaac Champeau, A. Macdonald, Sr., Ralph E. Thurston, William D. Wilson, John B. Bryne, James B. Tatem, Prosper Vegiard, Charles E. Dean, George H. Lewis, Jr., Edward W. Mullan, John J. McGarry, Lucius P. Merriam, A. Macdonald, Jr., A. Graydon Sharpe, James E. Murray. The following past exalted rulers have died, Henry L. Hammond, William F. Rafferty, Michael R. Joy, Richard Gorman, Walter J. Bartlett, A. Newton Vaughn. Mr. Vaughn who died in July 1927, was the junior past exalted ruler of the lodge.

After the banquet, there will be a regular business meeting and then the ex-rulers will be entertained with a group of high class entertainers from Providence. Many members of the order from out of town will be present. The committe in charge consists of the present officers.

WATER COMMISSIONERS TO MAKE REPORT TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 12—The adjourned meeting of the common council will be held at the council chamber on Church street on Tuesday evening. At the regular monthly meeting held last Tuesday a petition signed by twenty-six electors of the city demanding the council to call a special meeting of all the electors of the city to act on the proposed water works issue was presented to the mayor and the members of the body by Attorney I. H. Miron. Mr. Miron demanded immediate action on the petition. The council voted to call the water commissioners before them to make report on their work and if they saw fit they would call the meeting. The threat made by the Putnam attorney, representing the signers of the bill stirred considerable interest in the question that has been fading out of the city's discussions. Mr. Miron stated to the council that if they refused to grant the request of the petition he shall draw up a writ of mandamus to enforce the city rulers to call the meeting. The general sentiment is that the meeting will be called to settle the question of the cement reservoir or the iron standpipe on Bates hill.

Another important topic that will be brought up before this meeting will be annual city budget fund. The budget for the departments will be completed and presented to the council at this meeting for their approval.

Edward DeCarlo of Sawyer district was elected by the troop committee of Boy Scouts of Troop 1, to fill the office of Scoutmaster of the troop. Mr. DeCarlo succeeds John F. Simonzi who resigned as head of the troop in September. The new scoutmaster will take over his new duties at once.

An exhibit that is attracting much attention is the display of captured German World war relics in a local window. The articles are the property of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of this city. Among the collection is a German machine gun, the implement that brought such havoc to the allied forces during the struggle of 1917. Another of the war curios that is on exhibition is the grenade thrower, or as it reads in the German language, Grenadwelfer. The assortment also contains many pieces of the German soldier's field equipment. A German saw-toothed bayonet, that was picked up on the battlefield of France is among the group. This implement was checked as being an illegal instrument in warfare and is attracting much comment on the part of the local boys who saw service overseas.

The weekly card tournament between the Masons and the Elks will not be played Monday evening. Both organizations have postponed their meet owing to the community minstrel show. The next encounter will be played on Monday evening, February 20th, at the Masonic club.

Lincoln's birthday will be observed throughout the city Monday by the banks and the schools and patriotic organizations. This year the birthday of the Great Emancipator fell on Sunday and will be observed in the schools with special exercises. The schools however will not close in the afternoon as in former years, but will close all day on Washington's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. McQuillian, Gerald T. Noonan and Miss May Powers of Providence spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bulger of Farrows street.

Luke E. White of Hartford spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael White of Eden street.

F. L. Taylor and Charles Cushman of Farrows street, motored to New York Sunday.

The Community Minstrel show, that is being given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., Parent-Teachers association and the D. A. R. of Putnam and Danielson will be held Monday evening at the Bradley theatre. The committee has sold out the entire house for the show. The talent is made up of local dramatists and it is expected that the plays will be a success. pected that the play will be a success. The proceeds from the minstrel will be devoted to civic welfare work. Since the management has sold all their seats for the performance, they have decided to give a second showing in Danielson at a later date.

Watches date back to early in the sixteenth century, for in 1511 an account of Peter Henlein says that "out of a little iron he constructs clocks with numerous wheels which, without any impulse and in any position, indicate time for forty hours and strike, and which can be carried in the purse as well as in the pocket."

Mrs. Willis Rouse of Central Village is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Blaisdell of Port Rochester, N. H.

When the Woman's club held its meeting at the Community house the president Mrs. Edna Mathewson presided. Mrs. Susie Dodge and Mrs. Marion Barber were hostesses. Mrs. Gallup had charge of the program which was as follows: Reading by Mrs. Carl Mathewson; piano duets, Mrs. Susie Dodge and Mrs. Maud Kraus; vocal duets by Mrs. Jennie Mathewson and Mrs. Minnie Dawley.

Thursday evening at the Fellowship meeting at the home of James Lees. There was a good attendance.

PACHAUG

At the Grange hall Thursday evening Mystic grange presents a three-act comedy drama, Mrs. Tubbs Does Her Bit, under the auspices of Pachaug grange. The play was based on Nineteen-Seventeen. Act I, Shantytown, "America," here's my boy. Act II, six weeks later, A Military Wedding. Act. III, Army camp at midnight. Mrs. Tubbs does her bit. Mrs. Tubbs a prisoner of war. The play was ably presented and proved one of the best entertainments of its kind given here. A three-piece orchestra furnished music for the evening. In spite of bad weather an unusually large crowd was present. At the close of the play refreshments were served. Dancing followed. Everett Whipple prompted. The company came and gave the entertainment on a 50-50 basis. The committee in charge was A. W. Park. Clara Hyde, Susan Terry, Frank Mill, Ruth Holmes.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Song of the Thrush

'Twas the song of a thrush,
Gally perched in the brush,
That awakened me early one morn;
As he whistled his lay
At the breaking of day,
Sweet Contentment within me was born.

"Howdy do!" chuckled I—
"Mister Thrush, tell me why
Young grand tune is so happy and strong;"
Answered he, "Rain or shine,
It's a habit of mine
To begin every day with a song."

What a wonderful thing—
If we'd all learn to sing—
It would do for the wayfaring throng.
Just to copy the thrush
As he trills from the brush,
And begin every day with a song.

—Solt Swift.

My Dog

Dear little friend, with the soft brown eyes
That hold so much of love
That note my every smile and word,
And see my every move:

Kind little friend, with the loving heart,
That gives not part, but all;
No task you count, but one of joy,
To render service small:

Brave little friend, with courage strong,
That knows no harm or fear;
No'er knight defended lady fair,
Like you, your Mistress dear:

True little friend, with loyal soul—
No base alloy in thine—
Your watch you keep by day, by night—
You'd give your life for mine.

—Alice McBryde Marsh.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

Most birds are early risers. They are awake and about long before boys and girls open their eyes. The birds are awake with the first sign of daylight. Their day begins with the first peep of dawn and closes as darkness settles down.

The whip-poor-will is to be heard singing much of the night. He does not begin to sing until it begins to get quite dark at night. The nighthawk in spite of its name is not so much of a night bird as the whip-poor-will. Nighthawks rest part of the day, but if it is cloudy or rainy they are likely to be on the wing much of the day. And no matter what the weather they are to be seen and heard during the morning and evening hours. These birds are rarely to be heard in the night.

But whip-poor-wills are not the only birds to be heard at night. The field sparrow seems to be awake at all times of the night. If he sleeps it is very lightly, for the least noise awakens him.

The first songs of birds in the morning are always interesting. But if you wish to hear their first notes you will need to arise before daylight. That means that you will have to get out of bed before 3.30 a. m. during the months of May, June and July.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

"The Flying Fishermen"

Dear Uncle Jed: Most girls and boys like to go fishing. Perhaps you will enjoy reading about a bird who goes fishing also. We call him the kingfisher. He uses neither hooks, line nor bait, but still has better luck in his sport than most of us. He does not fish for fun but for food. He sits on a branch overhanging a stream. His sharp eyes are fixed on the water below. Suddenly he darts from his perch and hovers for a moment over the surface of the water. Suddenly he comes back to his perch with a fish. The kingfisher holds the fish firmly and stops its wriggling by several sharp, hard bites.

He swallows the fish whole and head first, so the fins will not catch in his throat.

The kingfisher is a wonderful bird. His back is a grayish blue, while his throat, collar and breast are white. He is larger than a robin. On his head are long feathers forming a crest. I hope you and the Wide-Awake children enjoy this story.

Sliding

Dear Uncle Jed: Last Sunday morning I got up very early and got my sled to go sliding. Across from my house is a big hill and I went over there with my sister and brother.

We stayed over there until it was time for dinner and then we came home. In the afternoon we went sliding again.

Saint Valentine's Day

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I am writing to you and the Wide-Awakes. Saint Valentine's day is always a holiday popular with girls and children, and so it is an interesting occasion for the homemaker who may wish to prepare a children's party or sponsor a costume revel for the young people. Even the Romans celebrated this date of Feb. 11th, which is so closely connected with lovers, hearts, arrows and lacey valentines. And because of the typical red or heart color, the holiday permits some of the most attractive, gay and bright color schemes both in decoration and menu. Red or scarlet are the colors usually devoted to love, and so the most typical plan is one carried out in red or white.

Two Kittens

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story. I have two little kittens. Their names are Buff and Gold. Buff follows me wherever I go. When I sit down she climbs into my lap and purrs softly. Gold is afraid to come without an invitation. She rubs against my feet and looks up into my face longingly. Then I say "Come, Gold!" and she jumps into my lap and curls down by Buff.

My Vacation

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have ever written to you, but I am very much interested in the Wide-Awake Circle. I am going to tell you about my vacation. I went down to my cousin's this summer. It was on a farm. It was located on a high hill and you could look out on the ocean and see the steamers and sailboats coming and going. Then there was a horse that I was very fond of. He was always kind and gentle. Sometimes I rode him. There were ots of chickens, pigs, cats and a little puppy named Winnie. She was a little brown puppy. She was the cutest thing. She'd run about just as if she was wild. I think that is all for this time.

My Dog Teddy

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my dog Teddy. He is a black and tan and collie. Teddy is very shaggy and his tail is curled up funy. We call him Ostrich Tip. He is not a thoroughbred but he can do many tricks. When his dish of water is empty he puts his paw in it and pulls it all over the floor. When the alarm clock goes off for my father to start the fire, if he does not get right up, Teddy paws him and wakes him up, and then Teddy looks at the clock. When my mother is doing the supper dishes and Ted has not had his supper, he puts his head in my father's lap and looks at my mother. When we let him out and he gets ready to come in, he always goes to the front door and paws the door.

Our Snowman

Dear Uncle Jed: After the snowstorm Sunday my brother and I went out in the yard and rolled some snow into a large ball for the body of a snowman. We made another ball which we put on the first one. Then we put another one on that for a head. We stuck a hat on the old fellow and put some coal on his face and made some eyes, a nose and a mouth. We calledhim Jiggs and then we made a snowlady and called her Maggie. We threw some snowballs at them and knocked off Jiggs' hat and Maggie's head. We put them on again, though. When we got cold we went into the house. We can see Maggie and Jiggs from our kitchen window, grinning at one another in the cold.

The Camel

Dear Uncle Jed: There are two kinds of camels. One has two humps on its back. The other has only one. The home of the camel is in Asia and Africa.

It can carry such heavy burdens over the sandy country that it has been called "the ship of the desert." The feet of the camel are large and wide. On the bottom of each are heavy pads or cushions which help the camel to tread firmly upon the soft sand. There is a hard skin over them which protects them from the burning sand of the desert.

The camel's eyes are shielded from the sun by overhanging brows and long eyelashes. In a sand storm the camel can close its nostrils to keep out the sand. All animals belonging to this family have four stomachs. The camel uses one of these to hold water. This animal is a cud-chewer.

The Cricket

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope you will like it. We have a cricket in our cellar and our cat likes to go down and see it. He tries to catch it. He is not able to see it. The other night he sat there for fifteen minutes waiting to catch it. I had a laugh on the cat that evening.

The Ferryboat

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the Hadlyme ferryboat. The Hadlyme ferryboat is a little motorboat which pulls a boat which is shaped like a flatboat. Our truck drove up on the flatboat. There are two men—one on the flatboat and one on the motorboat. The man on the motorboat started the boat. The steam that came out made a funny noise. Then we started to go. When we were in the middle of the river I noticed a very high hill. There were many rocks on the hill and up on top of the hill there was a big stone castle. It looked very beautiful.

When we reached the other side we paid our fare and we rode off the ferry and started on our way for home.

MOTHER!

Look at Child's Tongue if Sick, Cross, Feverish

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless, "fruity laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

TRAFFIC AND SIGNALS

As the result of two women being killed at the same corner in Boston by automobiles within two hours, there is a demand in that city that better traffic regulation be established in Commonwealth avenue. It is advocated that traffic signals be erected so that there will be restrictions upon all kinds of traffic and an opportunity will be afforded for the pedestrians to cross the street. The situation is unquestionably one which needs attention without greater sacrifice of life.

Over in Waterbury, however, it appears that this situation has been met; that traffic signals have been erected and yet there are those who seem to think that such signals are to be obeyed only while a policeman is on guard. One driver disregarded the stop signal while a policeman was trying to get a group of school children across the street. He was caught and given a fine and costs which set him back about $35 as a reminder that signals mean something.

There are other communities where drivers are not disposed to pay attention to those street guides, which have been erected to keep traffic where it belongs and try to sneak by on the left side. They appreciate the lesson after they are caught, but why should they make it necessary for someone to catch them?

In the protection of life in the highways under present day conditions, it is necessary for all users, drivers as well as pedestrians, to give heed to the rules of the road, the rights of others and all signals that may be encountered. It will have to be admitted that there is such a variety of signals and such a difference in rules in the various cities that there is some difficulty on the part of the stranger in complying with what may seem a simple thing but it is always certain that those who err on the side of overcaution will stand far less chance of becoming involved in an accident, fatal or otherwise, or tangled up with the law than those who show no respect for others or for signals.

THIRD TERM BUGABOO

Considerable time has been taken up, and it is believed wasted, in the United States senate with the LaFollette resolution against a third term for a president of this country. The resolution was in the first place conceived solely for the purpose of embarrassing. It was a move on the part of the insurgents, who could of course rely on the support of the democrats, to so place the administration before the country as to create the impression that a third term was being sought, or that a third term was being urged by its friends, when as a matter of fact the people have elected Mr. Coolidge president but once and under the Washington precedent they would be violating no unwritten law if they elected him a second time.

There are those who are recorded as having voted for the resolution because they believe that there should be but two elective terms for any president. Few will take exception to any such attitude, but in this instance the resolution was aimed at the president, as that portion which was eliminated clearly indicated. That it amounts to nothing will be generally admitted, but it was put forth for political purposes and it will be used for political purposes in the campaign already opened. It is gratifying to note that the Connecticut senators opposed it.

The resolution is simply a flourish. It accomplishes nothing. There is nothing within the vote of the senate to prevent anyone from being a candidate as many times as he desires. There is nothing that would block the president from accepting a renomination if it came to him and he wanted to accept it.

Even though there is no chance for a third term there is nothing under the Constitution which limits a president to two terms any more than there is a limit to the number of terms a senator can serve, and many of the senators who even oppose a third term for a president are already third termers themselves.

The senate, of course, has no authority to prevent any presidential nomination which is constitutionally made. In the game of politics the senators have begun to participate. They have expressed themselves but the country has long since arrived at its own conclusion concerning expressions of the present United States senate, guided by its insurgents.

KEEPING DOWN ACCIDENTS

We are frequently confronted with the claims as to what ought to be done. It is decidedly interesting, therefore, to learn what has been done.

The campaign in behalf of safety is going on somewhere all of the time. It is necessary. There are times when it seems not to have accomplished all that it ought to in view of what is at stake, and yet there are reports which show excellent results. In this connection it is impossible to overlook the demonstration made last year by the employes of the Pennsylvania Rapid Transit lines under the slogan "safety first."

Records are kept of the number of accidents in which the drivers of trolleys, busses and cabs are involved and the results during 1927 show that there was a 15 per cent. reduction from the 1926 figures. When this reduction means that there were 10,000 less accidents it represents something worth while, a real accomplishment in which individual effort played an important part. There were fewer car collisions, less accidents of all kinds and a better record by the one-man trolley cars than by the two-man cars.

When we stop to realize that most accidents are preventable, it can be appreciated that it means much where many are employed when everyone responds to an effort for increased safety. The employes of this country have shown that through their efforts conditions were better for them, the patrons, the company and other users of the highway. It represents the right kind of attitude to other highway users and a due respect for danger. If that same kind of regard for safety first should be displayed by the rank and file of highway users at railroad crossings there would be an equally large reduction in the number of fatalities at such points and there would be fewer demands for huge sums to eliminate crossings.

Relief is obtainable through individual effort. Let that be applied as it should be, let each one have some consideration for his own life and there will be fewer accidents in every direction. If the P. R. T. employes can keep scaling the number down it is equally possible for others to do as well.

THE FRENCH FLIERS

Even though the situation is some different from that which surrounded Colonel Lindbergh when he reached Paris after flying across the Atlantic without stopping and alone, it is nevertheless a much deserved reception which the French aviators Costes and LaBrix are getting wherever they bring their plane to a halt in this country.

They are not the first to cross the Atlantic but they are nevertheless covering a route which shows them to be skilled fliers. They have risked and successfully overcome great dangers. In their flight from Paris down the east side of the Atlantic to Africa, thence across the Atlantic to South America, a circling of that country and up through Central America to the United States they have covered much territory in a leisurely manner much the same as sightseeing autoists travel about the country.

That they should be wildly acclaimed and feted, along the way was to be expected. They are making the circuit of four continents, but spending the most time in the western hemisphere and it is quite evident that their plane is doing on a larger scale what Lindbergh has been doing in his flight down through Central America, northern South America and the islands of the Caribbean.

Last year witnessed many attempts to cross the Atlantic at various points. Some of the fliers were successful. Others who profit by the mistakes of some will succeed in the months to come, but it is certain that flying between continents, east and west and north and south can be expected to become much more frequent until the time comes when it will be simply an every day event. In the meantime the pioneers in this new transportation service deserve all the demonstrations made in their behalf.

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S ATTITUDE

There has been no evidence to indicate that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., knew anything about the Continental Trading company or the manner in which it disposed of government bonds that would give any assistance to the senate committee which is investigating this phase of the oil land scandal. Nevertheless he has indicated by letter and by statement to the committee that it was his desire that all the facts should be brought to light and by his efforts he has endeavored to prevail upon witnesses to tell all they knew.

Mr. Rockefeller is brought into the inquiry because of the fact that his family was heavily and is still somewhat interested in the oil company which is headed by Robert W. Stewart, who refused to answer some of the committee's questions. Mr. Rockefeller took occasion to set forth that he had endeavored to prevail upon Mr. Stewart to withhold nothing and it was much against his wishes that his efforts had been unsuccessful.

The attitude of Mr. Rockefeller is about the only assistance that he is able to give to the committee in view of his lack of knowledge of what has transpired. If he had the facts it is quite evident that he would not hesitate to disclose them to the committee since he insists that it should be done in the interest of the public.

Even in his position of one without the facts, his action and efforts have been such as to make it evident that because the oil industry and some of its prominent men have been revealed in crooked business it is not so inclusive as to cover them all. Before the country as well as the committee, Mr. Rockefeller has made a good impression, and his attitude doesn't hurt the oil industry.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Add a little butter to milk pudding and it will improve the flavor.

Butter for sandwiches should be thoroughly creamed before spreading.

Cake which is allowed to cool in the pan will steam and become soggy.

In buying supplies get only what is actually needed and will be of real use.

When washing hand mirrors make sure no water gets in behind the glass.

Saddle soap will clean black and tan leather shoes.

Add a bit of mustard to the white cause when baking macaroni and cheese.

Always heat potatoes chips in the oven to make them crisp.

Chopped bacon added to vegetable soup imparts a fine flavor.

Add butter and salt to peanut butter for use in sandwiches.

Try giving weak cocoa to the child who does not care for milk.

The marble tops from old-fashioned bureaus make excellent slabs for bread, pies and candy making.

Salt sprinkled on anything that has boiled over on the stove will smother the blaze and destroy the odor.

When not in use the broom should be hung in a rack with the bristles up so the weight does not rest on the straws.

Clear ammonia—pure, not household—will remove paint from windows, even when it has been on a long time. Apply with a scrubbing brush.

Milk bottles need careful cleaning before they do into the refrigerator. They should be dipped in cold water and dried with a clean cloth, with special attention to the paper cap.

Use soap and water to clean white furniture, taking care that the water is not too hot and that the soap is pure, as impure soap will discolor the paint. Polish well with an old silk handkerchief.

AMMONIA TO THE FRONT.

A few drops of ammonia in the water when washing very greasy dishes will help matters in every direction, even giving the housewife a cleaner odor to inhale during the process.

HEAT SLOWLY.

Heat paraffin slowly and carefully, not allowing it to reach the smoking stage. If allowed o become too hot it has a tendency to separate from the sides of the jelly glass.

STAINING FLOORS.

When staining floors, be certain first that all oil or polishing cream is removed with soda and water. Otherwise the stain will not dry and will be rough and sticky.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

One way to reduce is to eat but one serving.

After a hard day, when very fatigued, bathe your eyes with hot water, then cold and lie down with a damp cloth over them for a few minutes.

The brunette, if her skin is oily, should apply a few drops of diluted toilet water on a piece of absorbent cotton to remove all excess oil, which, when allowed to remain on the skin, makes it so unsightly.

If you are the posessor of a pair of pretty ankles remember that dancing and walking are very liable to spoil their daintiness. A bandage or a rubber puttee should be worn around the ankle during sleep. This, with a little massage with fresh lemon juice, or a solution of Epsom salts, will reduce any slight thickness which may have resulted from the exercise.

THOUGHTFUL WIFE.

Here's a suggestion that other wives may like to follow: "One can buy such good-looking cuff links, and collar buttons so cheap, I hit upon the idea of buying a supply of both, enough for each shirt my husband owns. Now, when I iron them I put the links and buttons in the shirt, and my husband always comments on the convenience of taking them from the drawer, ready to put on."

CLEANING FLOORS.

Linleum and similar floorings must be protected against cleansing agents which have an excess of free alkali. This is likely to attack the finish. To preserve the surface gloss, use a mild, neutral soap, preferably in jelly or paste form. The same caution applies to surfaces finished with paint, varnish, shellac or lacquer. Apply the soap to a small area at a time, rinse with clear water and rub dry with a clean cloth before cleaning further.

Rubber composition floors, call for different treatment. Tests made by scrubbing various color combinations of rubber flooring fifty times proved conclusively that an alkaline soap is safer and more effective than a neutral soap.

MENDING WALLPAPER.

When mending wallpaper, never cut a regular patch, but tear off a sufficiently large piece and paste it over the place, carefully matching the pattern. This patch will show far less than if the edges are cut square.

SAFELY COVERED.

A sheet of waxed paper over the freezer or mold before packing in ice and salt is a wise precaution. It makes the lid fit more tightly, preventing any tiny trickle of salty water from getting inside.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Extremely smart are large bags of felt that match the inevitable small felt hat.

Parasols of linen, hand blocked in gay designs, will make bright spots of color upon southern beaches.

A new material, printed satin, fashions some of the new afternoon frocks. It is more pliable than velvt and more gleaming.

Sweaters are borrowing new necklines for their use. A pink, red and cream striped one has a modified monk's collar in red.

A sapphire blue crepe frock has a bolero, circular skirt and diagonal tucking in graduated sizes, to set it apart as chic.

A negligee of pink brocaded chiffon velvet is trimmed with wide sleeves of yellow lace. A wide band of the same finished the peignoir at the hem.

The little girl who goes to school attired in a blue jersey skirt, and a sweater of dark blue striped in red and white, is a well and comfortably dressed little girl.

The oddest and gayest of pajama suits for grown-ups are made of printed silk. The pattern of the silk includes many of the nursery rhyme folk and is delightfully quaint.

A novelty in the coat situation is a quent use of inset side sections slightly longer than the hem proper. This is practiced even in the fur coats, as is indicated by a Fifth avenue offering of beige caracul trimmed with lynx.

GREEN STILL GOOD.

Green is having a continued vogue both in the dark and light shades, but the general preference is for hte light tones. Absinthe green, like its namesake, must be used in extreme moderation and consequently is utilized mostly for mmtring.

OXFORDS FASHIONABLE.

Every so often there is a sporadic attempt to establish the oxford as a fashionable foot covering. This year the effort is being concentrated in pushing the oxford styles in reptile leathers. The laced portion is very brief, consisting of only three eyelets.

THE SLIM SILHOUETTE.

To get the right slant on present-day fashions one must not overlook the aidgonal lines. These are worked out in such a way as to accentuate the slim silhoutte. Occasionally insertions are used, either posed on the bias or cut to form sun-ray effects, which on the coats give almost a raglan effect to the sleeve and shoulders.

UNUSUAL NEGLIGEE.

Even the negligees show a new length this season. Both the velvet and the very sheer ones are cut three-quarter length. A most exquisite one seen recently was made of fish colored chiffon over beige chiffon. The flesh chiffon had large motifs of gold and silver sprinkled over the surface and was trimmed with wide string colored lace.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Rub the discolored roll of the clothes wringer with a cloth saturated with kerosene. Then wash with warm soapsuds and see how clean it looks.

Sometimes the most reliable dyes disappoint us and run on other articles in the washtub. If the stained garments are put into cold water and brought to a boil it will often take away these marks. Repeat if necessary, but do not use soap.

Warm salt is successfully used in cleaning light coats or gowns that become caked with the city's grime The salt should be spread evenly over the surface and rubbed in with a clean piece of flannel. It should then be brushed out with a stiff, clean brush.

When stains are to be removed from table linen, stretch the fabric over an embroidery frame and fasten it tightly. If the frame is placed over a bowl, boiling water may be poured tthrough the material with no danger of scalded fingers. The hoops also prevent wetting much of the cloth.

Dish towels serve their purpose better if they are simply allowed to dry in the sun and air, for they will absorb more moisture, and they will be smooth enough if folded carefully when taken off the line. The wise housekeeper also leaves her turkish towels and wash cloth "rough dried."

A CLEANER LAWN

In winter time so many papers seem to blow on one's lawns and unless removed there is soon an ugly accumulation of them. An old broomstick with a large nail hammered in one end makes a splendid spear for these papers. After hammering in the nails, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, flatten the head of the nail and a few good blows will sharpen it into a point.

ODD UDER-ARM BAGS

If you are wondering whether "Snuggles," the puppy-dog pocket book, will weather the fall rains, he can safely be replaced by "Quacker" a fuzzy little duckling, which makes a similar under-arm bag. The "Quacker" thrives on thundrerstorms and likes to be carried with raincoat ensembles.

TO TASTE LIKE COOKED ICING

If you want confectioner's sugar to taste like cooked icing add something hot to the sugar. This takes away the raw taste. The butter, cream or water may be heated before they are added.

WITHERED APPLES

When apples become withered wash them clean and put them in a stone crock filled with a brine made of one handful of salt to three gallons of water. Leave in until apples regain their fresh appearance, but change the water every six hours.

SCRATCHED FURNITURE

Melt beeswax in turpentine until it is as thick as a sirup. A little of this poured on a woolen cloth and rubbed well into the scratches and then polished quickly with a dry flannel will, says the Los Angeles Times, eradicate the scratches.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Although she is blind, Mary Floyd of Ridgewood, N. J., has attained a 60-words-a-minute speed typewriting, is the only woman democrat ever i sthe oly moman democrat ever elected to the United States congress

A health bureau for the parochial schools of St. Louis is maintained by the Council of Catholic Women of that city.

Miss Kathryn Witwer, who recently made her debut with the Chicago Opera company, was formerly a stenographer in the Windy City.

As secretary and treasurer of the Texas Wheat Growers Association, Miss Grace Webster sells millions of bushels of wheat every years.

Thirty-eight women have already announced their intention of becoming candidates for election to the English Parliament at the next election in England.

Frau Olga Rudal Zeyneck, a member of the Austrian Parliament since 1920, recently presided over a session of Parliament, being the first of her sex ever to do so.

COOKING FISH.

Fish and sausage should always be rolled in flour before frying. It improves the flavor and prevents sausage bursting open.

ON THE BUFFET.

When serving salads at a buffet lunch when the guests are not seated at a table, it is wise to shred the lettuce. Then the guests can enjoy this most beneficial food without fear of a mishap.

RECIPES.

Molasses Pudding—Mix one egg with two tablespoons of sugar, one-half a cup of New Orleans molasses, one and one-half cups of flour, one-fourth teaspoon of baking powder, one level teaspoon of baking soda and three-fourths cup of boiling water. Cook in a steamer for one hour. Serve with the following sauce: Beat two egg yolks, aed one cup of powdered sugar and one teaspoon of vanilla, then add one-half a pint of cream, whipped, and serve with the pudding.

Mixed Fruit Salad—Mix and scald in the top paart of a double boiler one cup of granulated sugar, one cup of pineapple juice and one-half a cupful of lemon juice, strained. Then beat well two whole eggs and pour into the the mixture. Stir a few minutes in the double boiler, mix well, cover and cook for 30 minutes, and do not uncover during that time. Remove the cover and cool, then place in a cold place or in the refrigerator. When ready to serve a fruit salad, stir one-half a pint of whipped cream into the dressing. Use any amount of the dressing, according to the number of persons to be served. This dressing may be used with the following fruit combinations:

Diced pineapple, bananas and chopped dates.

Pineapple, grapefruit and avocado pears.

Bananas, pineapple, grapefruit and a few dates.

Do not use the above dressing with apples.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The First Stone

Mr. Editor:: Jesus went unto the Mount of Olives—and the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery; now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned; but what sayest thou? He that is without sin among you, her accusers let him cast the first stone at her. Was not that Christ's meaning?

FRANCES GAY DAWLEY.

Fitchville, Feb. 11, 1928.

Finds Many In Favor

Mr. Editor: As more than a week has gone since you published my last letter in your issue of Feb. 3, 1928 in which I asked several questions, for the benefit of the taxpayers which have not been answered as yet, I have been accused of working under pay for the republican party which remark I flatly deny as I am only working in behalf of the taxpayers of Norwich.

Now in relation to the petition that I presented to the court of common council at a meeting held Feb. 6, 1928 said petition being pigeon-holed at said meeting the action taken at said meeting together without any answers to the questions asked in the former letter, shows that the members of the council do not dare to have the finances of Norwich investigated at all or they would have allowed the said petition to have had some action taken on it, and some one in authority would have answered the questions asked in the last letter. Now in relation to said letter I wish to inform the public that, I have received a great many letters in favor of its contents and in approval thereof, and I receive a great many telephone calls a day. I have received several personal calls at my office since said letter was published and they are all anxious to help pay to have the said finances investigated. I had a New York Herald sent me, dated Feb. 5, 1928, in which the taxes of Baltimore, Md., were reduced from $2.97 on the $100 to $2.39 on the $100 and I find by the Norwich, Conn., records that during the time the above reduction was being made our taxes have been increasing a great deal faster.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

One of the most heroic of medicine's many martyrs in the cause of suffering humanity is Sir Henry Head, the eminent English authority on diseases of the nerves, who is now the helpless victim of one of the mysterious diseases which he has given his life to investigating. Nearly 20 years ago Sir Henry deliberately risked contracting paralysis by a dangerous experiment he undertook. He had the nerves of his left arm severed near the elbow, for the purpose of studying, by personal experience, the problem of "deep senaibility." The value of the experiment has been proved over and over again by the more effective treatment which has been given since to accidents which affect the nerves concerned. Sir Henry has now lost the use of his fingers and can walk only with the greatest difficulty. The disease by which he has been attacked is incurable.

Stories That Recall Others

Hard of Hearing

Arthur Jr., age three, and his mother were in the basement of their home, mother hanging up some clothes and Junior playing with an old broom. After a while mother said: "Arthur, you must stop sweeping; you'll get dust all over mother's clothes."

He swept ahead, however. After a little time, mother again said: "Arthur didn't you hear what mother said?" Whereupon he replied: "Yes, mother, but I didn't hear you very good."

"Ask Me Another."

Questions were being put to a six year old from one of the intelligence test books with which saleswomen canvass the neighborhoods, and he wondered why answers to two of his questions brought laughter. Here are the actual questions and answers:

"From what animal do we get pork?"

"The porcupine."

"What do we get from bees?"

"Stung."

A British physic'an says that since the importance of sunlight to health has been realized, the summer months are no longer the most fatal to babies, but the first three months of the year when there is least sunlight have the most infant deaths.

YOUR HEALTH

SMOLDERING FIRES.

By Lee Rice, M. D., San Antonio, Tex. —Member Gorgas Memorial.

One hears a great deal about hyperthyroidism which accompanies two forms of goiter and produces a high basal metabolism, but very little has been said about the opposite condition of hypothyroidism or low basal metabolism. The fire in an old wood stove might be contrasted with metabolism. If the blaze under a pot of potatoes keeps the water at the proper boiling temperature they will be edible when srved, but should the flame flare up and vaporate the water the potatoes will be dry and wrinkled, whereas they would be soggy should the fire be allowed to smolder.

When the thyroid gland becomes inefficient or deficient in its secretion the fires in the body smolder and the person finds that he tires easily and loses his normal drive. He may begin to gain weight and the brain gets soggy and dull. Ambition diminishes, and continuous application becomes a burden. The days seem long and one's work and friends seem less interesting. Discontent creeps into the mind and irritability soon follows. Then the nervous system may be upset, producing reflex indigestion or constipation, headaches, eye strain, and sleeplessness. The advanced condition of hypothyroidism, however, causes one to be drowsy. The heart rate slows down, the temperature is often below normal, and the skin seems to be thickened.

Some of these symptoms are present in many conditions such as chronic malaria, nervous exhaustion, or mild tuberculosis, and the diagnosis is frequently difficult. A simple test called determination of the Basal Metabolic Rate will establish the diagnosis. This test is painless and causes no inconvenience. It consists of the breathing of a certain amount of pure oxygen during a given time while quietly resting on a bed or couch under the observation of a skillful and well-trained physician.

Hypothyroidism may occur as a family weakness or it may follow an enlargement of the thyroid gland called colloid goiter. Occasionally it is discovered in the fat individuals or the heavy girls, especially those who have fat necks and large fat ankles, but the condition more often follows old chronic infections such as abscessed teeth, diseased gall bladders, and the lacerations of women that are sometimes a neglected sequence of child bearing. More often hypothyroidism follows exhaustion of the nervous system from continuous indoor work with little or no outdoor play, grief or strain from nursing a sick child or an aged mother, serious financial losses, or one of the numerous other causes of strain and worry and uneasiness and ill health.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

FISH AND FISHERIES OF FLORIDA.

This is the season when the amateur Florida fisherman goes out for his 150-pound tarpon while the professional Florida fisherman concentrates on catching 150 million pounds of other kinds of fishes.

Forty years ago Florida marketed less than a million dollars worth of sea products. Today she occupies a commanding position among southern states' fisheries, shipping annually to a broadening market catches valued at $5,750,000.

"The key to Florida's fisheries can be found at the Key West wharf market," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Until artificial ice manufacture began it was necessary to go south to feast on the many citizens of the warm seas. Now a person with an active imagination can give his order in a New York restaurant, and, in vision, sail out on the blue ocean under a warm sun, throw a line, feel the jerk of the bite, hear the buzz of the reel. . . And lo, the waiter serves the very fish that was on the envisioned line, a Spanish mackerel, a delicious meal for the 'catcher' and consumer who has not ventured a mile from Manhattan.

"Various ports of Florida specialize on certain fishery products: Pensacola for red snapper and grouper; Key West and West Palm Beach for kingfish and Spanish mackerel; Key West alone for spiny lobster and sea turtle; Fernandina for shrimp; Tarpon Springs for sponges; Apalachicola for oysters; Marco for clams, and Okeechobee for catfish. Other important fishing centers are Bradentown, Miami, Punta Gorda and Tampa.

"But Jacksonville has assumed the mantle of Boston in Florida. Rail connections west, northwest, and north enable Jacksonville to gather into its municipal arms ten millions of pounds of Florida sea products annually and ship them out in some six hundred carloads.

"The warm Gulf Stream waters are Dickensian in the variety and curiousness of their inhabitants when compared with northern waters. Even the names of fishes suggest Dickens: Porgy is a resident of the reefs; Mullet is much sought after by net fishermen; Grunt is good eating despite his noisy habits; the Groupers comprise a large, middle class family; the Sergeant Major proudly wears six black chevrons; Cowfish looks not unlike Mr. Podsnap, and Swelfish can be as round as Mr. Pickwick.

"Probably the most astonishing fish surprise that Florida holds is the catfish. Although salt water surrounds the state, fresh water catfish has won a commercial reputation. Seven million pounds of catfish have been taken out of Lake Okeechobee in one year. Nearly all the caton goes to St. Louis, for no matter what other cities prefer, St. Louis likes its catfish.

"Anyone who is willing to work 40 feet under the surface for two hours at a stretch is eligible for a position in another of Florida's unusual fisheries. After he has been down two hours, a sponge gatherer at Tarpon Springs on the west coast gets a well earned rest before descending for another two hours. Of course the divers, most of whom are Greeks, wear diving suits and receive air constantly while they wander over the bottom reaching into crevices picking sponges here and there and placing them in a basket.

"Greeks gather sponges in the Mediterranean so many of them drifted to Florida fisheries upon arrival in America. The colony has grown so much that it supports a prosperous Greek Orthodox Church. Key West, the former sponge city, has been eclipsed by Tarpon Springs."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Old Man Coyote Saves Peter's Life

We know not always what we do,
Tis sometimes well that this is true.
—Mother West Wind.

Peter Rabbit thought his troubles were over when he had escaped from the springhole where he had broken through the ice. When he had been struggling there in the icy water he had felt sure that if only he could get out he would be quite safe, and there would be nothing to worry about. But now he was discovering that his troubles were not over by any means.

You see, when he first got safely onto the bank he sat down to rest. He was tired, very, very tired. He had struggled so hard there in the water that he felt now as if he just must sit quietly for a while. But Peter was a wet rabbit. My goodness, what a wet rabbit Peter was! And it was a cold day. Peter's teeth chattered as they had never chattered before. He shook all over with the cold, and almost at once he began to feel stiff. He just had to move.

So he hopped along slowly and he kept feeling colder and colder and more and more miserable. He could think of nothing but how miserable he felt. And the more he thought about it the more miserable he felt. You know, it almost always works that way. And so he kept hopping more and more slowly, because he was too miserable to hop any faster. Yes, sir, that was just the way of it. The result was that Peter really was in a very bad way. He was in real danger of being frozen to death. Had he been dry he would have been all right. But, as you know, he was anything but dry.

He had gone only a little way when he stopped to rest and pity himself. As he sat there shivering and shaking and pitying himself the sharp voice of Sammy Jay rang out on the frosty air. Sammy Jay was not far away. Sammy was screaming, and that what he was screaming was "Thief! Thief! Thief!" Peter pricked up his ears. When Sammy Jay screams "Thief!" it is well to prick up one's ears. Peter knew that Sammy was watching some one and that that some one was Old Man Coyote. Sammy has a certain peculiar way of screaming "Thief!" when he sees Old Man Coyote.

Peter's heart gave a bound. This was no place for him, with Old Man Coyote anywhere near. The bound of Peter's heart kept right on down to his heels and they bounded, too. Away went Peter, forgetting that he was cold and tired and stiff. He had no room for thought of anything but Old Man Coyote.

"He'll find my trail as sure as the world!" thought Peter. "I've got to get to a place of safety before he can catch me!"

Peter's one chance for life was to reach a bramble tangle

Looking back over his shoulder a few minutes later, Peter discovered his worst fears realized. There was Old Man Coyote, and Old Man Coyote saw him. Now, Old Man Coyote is a fast runner. He can outrun Peter Rabbit. Peter's one chance for life was to reach a bramle-tangle or a hollow log or a hole where Old Man Coyote could not get at him. The nearest place of safety was a certain hollow log. It was for this that Peter was heading.

Lippety-lippety-lip went Peter. Rolling his eyes back, he saw that Old Man Coyote was gaining. Would he be able to catch him? There was the old log just ahead. Old Man Coyote saw it and he knew just what Peter ha din mind. He had been running fast before, but now he ran still faster. Peter couldn't run any faster. So Peter did the thing that he can do best—he dodged. He dodged just as Old Man Coyote thought he had him. Old Man Coyote overran him. But he stopped and turned with astonishing quickness. Once more Peter dodged. And then, with a final rush, he popped into that hollow log and was safe.

Now, although Peter didn't know it, Old Man Coyote had saved Peter's life. He had made Peter run so hard that Peter had run all the chills out of him. He was as warm as toast. And inside that log he would keep warm. There was no longer any danger that Peter would be frozen to death. So Old Man Coyote, in trying to catch Peter, had really saved Peter's life, and neither he nor Peter knew it.

The Care of Children's Hair

As children romp and play, it is natural their scalps should perspire and collect dust. If dust is allowed to clog the scalp, the hair will suffer in looks and vitality. It is important for their heads to be shampooed once a week with Packer's Tar Soap—the pine tar is antiseptic. It is never too early to begin systematic shampooing—and physicians recommend Packer's. RECALLS LINCOLN'S STORY TELLING TALENT ON NORWICH VISIT, 1860

In connection with the observance of Lincoln's birthday, it is recalled that the martyr president was once a visitor and a speaker in this city before he was elected president and it fell to the lot of a reporter of The Bulletin of that day, Henry P. Goddard, to hear him speak. Several years later, Mr. Goddard recorded his impressions of some incidents of Lincoln's visit, particularly referring to his talent for story telling. Under the title of "His Droll Side," these recollections of Goddard were published in Harper's Weekly of Sept. 1, 1864 as follows:

On the night of March 9, 1860, while still in my teens, I was sent to the old town hall at Norwich, Connecticut, to report the speech of one Abraham Lincoln of Illinois, for the local newspaper of which I was a reporter. Mr. Lincoln was on a brief political tour of the state and was to address the republicans of Norwich and the vicinity on the issues of the hour in the spring election now close at hand. The story of the Lincoln-Douglas debate of the preceding year was of course known to me and I knew that a stalwart orator had dared confront the "Little Giant" of Illinois, in a contest for the United States senatorship, in which the latter had won the coveted prize, but the former had sprung into national prominence.

Of Mr. Lincoln's personality I had only a vague anticipation. Accustomed to the carefully dressed and, as a rule, polished speakers of the east, it was quite a surprise to find the orator of the evening a tall, lank, raw-boned son of the soil, with an ill-fitting coat, limp shirt, collar and black tie that was way out of its place when he had finished. Although at the time I pronounced him the homeliest man I had ever seen upon the rostrum, long ere he had finished his speech I was convinced that here was a man novel and interesting, a strong, powerful child of a civilization that we of New England hardly understand; a man who spoke the truth and knew that he spoke it and was worth listening to as one who was a thoughtful and wise adviser on the great problems confronting us.

After Mr. Lincoln had finished his speech, he was entertained at the local hotel by several prominent republicans. Next day the town was full of reports of his amusing stories and the cheery western manners that had won him many friends. Some months later I heard from the lips of the Hon. John F. Trumbull of Stonington, Conn., the story of an incident that occurred at this gathering that had never been published.

It appears that after the callers had all bidden goodbye to Mr. Lincoln, Mr. Trumbull recalled another story (he had told many) that he thought would amuse Mr. Lincoln, so he went back to his room, knocked, and was told to enter. He found Mr. Lincoln disrobing and was about to withdraw but upon explaining his errand was told that he must stay and tell the story. He did so, Mr. Lincoln listening and laughing heartily. Some time next year during Mr. Lincoln's first administration, Mr. Trumbull was aroused by the ringing of his doorbell at his home at Stonington about one o'clock in the morning. Putting his head out of the window, he asked who wanted him and was much surprised to hear a caller reply, "Mr. Trumbull, this is Mr. Anson Burlingame"—the Massachusetts congressman who had been an active campaign orator the previous year. Mr. Burlingame explained that he had called to ask Mr. Trumbull to tell him the last story that he had told Mr. Lincoln at Norwich in 1860. As a reason for his late call and strange request he stated that, as Mr Trumbull knew, he had been appointed by Mr. Lincoln minister to Austria, but that the emperor of that country had pronounced him persona non grata on account of the active interest he had manifested in the house of representatives in the success of the Kingdom of Italy in the Austro-Italian war in 1859. When Mr. Lincoln was advised of this he changed the appointment to the Chinese court, at which Mr. Burlingame did distinguished service.

Mr. Burlingame said that he had been on to Washington to thank Mr. Lincoln for his appointment and that, when he saw him, the president said: "Burlingame, my sending you to China instead of Austria reminds me of a little story. I have no time to tell it now as I am going into a cabinet meeting, but the story was told me last year in Connecticut by Mr. John F. Trumbull of Stonington, and my first official order to you is to stop at Stonington on your way home to Boston and have him tell you the story." Hence Mr. Burlingame had taken the New York steamer to Stonington, and when he found that the steamboat train did not leave for an hour after the boat got in he seized the occasion to rush up to see Mr. Trumbull, who thereupon told him the story from the window. Mr. Burlingame laughed heartily, thanked Mr. Trumbull and hurried to the train.

"What was the story, Mr. Trumbull?" exclaimed one of the auditors. Just then, "In there broke certain people of importance," as Browning puts it, who carried off Mr. Trumbull from the city. I went into the army shortly after and never saw him again. And so the tale remains untold.

The second time I saw Mr. Lincoln was when he was attending the funeral of General Fred W. Lander from the Church of the Epiphany at Washington early in March, 1862. I being present as an officer of the Harris Light Cavalry. The third time was after he had visited Antietam battlefield with General McClellan on Oct. 3, 1862; he passed so near our regiment at the time that I noted well the marvelous sadness of those eyes that seemed even then full of his foreknowledge of death.

On April 1, 1863, not long before the battle of Chancellorsville, Mr. Lincoln visited General Hooker's headquarters and reviewed the Army of the Potomac, when I again had a good view of him.

Concerned for Connecticut Campaign

Lincoln took a special interest in the Connecticut state election campaign in 1860 when Governor Buckingham of this city was running for re-election for his third term. Lincoln's tour in Connecticut came after his famous Cooper Union speech in New York city. He recognized that the fight was a fierce one to wrest control of the state from the republicans and when he reached Chicago again he wrote to the Illinois United States senator, Lyman Trumbull, who was of Lebanon ancestry, to come to the help of Connecticut.

The following was the letter:

Chicago, March 26, 1860.

Hon. L. Trumbull.

My dear Sir:

They're having a desperate struggle in Connecticut and it would both please and help our friends there if you could be with them in the last days of the fight. Having been there, I know they are proud of you as a son of their own soil and would be moved to greater exertion by your presence among them. Can you not go? Telegraph them and go right along. The foolish attempt now being made upon Connecticut must not be allowed to succeed.

Yours as ever,
A. LINCOLN.

Although Senator Trumbull did not come to Connecticut in response to this appeal, Governor Buckingham was re-elected, but by a bare majority of a few hundred votes.

CENTRAL VILLAGE MAN HEADS FRENCH REPUBLICANS

HARTFORD, Feb. 13—(AP)—The Associated French American Republican clubs of Connecticut, was formed this afternoon at a meeting of 200 men and women of French extraction of the state, at a luncheon meeting at the Hotel Bond ball room.

The purpose of the organization, according to the preamble of the constitution and by-laws adopted at the meeting, is "to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; to advance the cause of honest and efficient administration of our public affairs; to promote the civic education and the political progress of our citizens of French extraction; and in general, to initiate whenever possible, and to cooperate with, all movements which may be instituted in the best interest of our citizenry, state and country."

The organization "adheres to the principles of the republican party. It recognizes however, that it is more important that our inhabitant of French descent should manifest their interest in and sympathy with the land of their adoption by becoming citizens, regardless of what their partisan politics may be, than that they should necessarily be republicans in faith. And, therefore, so far as questions of civic education are concerned, its work shall be non-partisan in scope."

To be a member of the organization a person must be a citizen of the United States of French extraction and profess adherence to the principles of the republican party.

The meeting was featured by a toast to Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday it was, and by a resolution adopted to the memory of the late Governor Aram J. Pothier of Rhode Island, a distinguished French-American. A copy of the resolution will be sent to his family.

Both the toast and the resolution was proposed by Joseph D. Castonguay of this city, who presided as temporary chairman.

Senator Urgele LaFrance of Central Village, was elected president of the organization. The other state officers elected were: Secretary, Ernest M. Biron, Hartford; assistant secretary, Edward J. Balthazar, Waterbury; treasurer, Albert E. Trothier, Bristol, and auditors, Alfred Lacourciere, Meriden and Philip H. LaFleur, Hartford.

At the close of the meeting a number of county organizations were formed. These included the following:

Windham county: President, Harry S. Gaucher, Willimantic; vice president, Michel Daigle, Putnam; secretary, Louis A. Woisard, Danielson; assistant secretary, Edmond Mercier, Plainfield; treasurer, Alma Forcier, Goodyear; auditors, Arthur Plessis, Putnam, and Adolph Dery, North Grosvenordale.

New London county: President, Henry Beausoleil, Norwich; vice president, Frank Beique, Taftville; secretary, Felix Guillet, Jewett City; assistant secretary, Mrs. Angeline Beique, Taftville; treasurer, Alpheurie Tetreault, Jewett City; auditors, Omer Tellier, Sr., and Mrs. Napoleon Parent, Taftville.

AGED WESTERLY COUPLE UNCONSCIOUS FROM GAS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Feb. 12.— Angelo Depietro, 84, and his wife, Mary, 72, residing at 11 Pearl street are in a critical condition at the Westerly hospital, where they have not regained consciousness from asphyxiation by illuminating gas.

Shortly after 5 p. m. a nephew was unable to rouse the inmates for admission to the house, although a window was up. Summoning aid, the house was entered and the aged couple were found unconscious on the floor and the rooms filled with illuminating gas. Lieut. of Police George H. Champlin was telephoned at 6.10 p. m. and sent Police Officers Frank E. Knight and Joseph Owens to investigate. They found gas leaking from a gas stove. A call was sent to the South County Public Service company and Superintendent Ernest E. Saunders, Foreman Lewis E. Crandall and Arthur O'Neil of the company responded with a pulmoter. Dr. M. H. Scanlon was called to attend Angelo and Dr. J. Dordon Anderson to attend his wife, Mary, whose condition was reported serious. Later the ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps took the patients to the Westerly hospital for treatment and observation.

Additional names of those who wish to play in the Westerly elimination bridge tournament Feb. 20 are Charles Freeman, James H. Blackler, Joseph Keefe, Edward Suessmuth, George Grout, Beckwith, the last two named teams from New London, and H. Harper, J. I. Maxson, Mrs. E. P. Hyde and Mrs. J. Blindloss, of Stonington, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Stahle and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. McLaren.

WESTERLY P. O. EMPLOYES HONOR POSTMASTER LENIHAN

Norwich post office employes and personal friends were interested in the fact that at Westerly the other night Postmaster Thomas F. Lenihan was tendered a banquet at the Inn by the employes of the Westerly post office in honor of his reappointment recently by President Coolidge as Westerly's postmaster. Thirty employes of the office were present. Clerk Robert Hazard was toastmaster and brief addresses were made by Postmaster Lenihan and several of the employes. William Alexander and James A. Keane were the committee in charge of the banquet. During the evening arrangements were made for holding a banquet annually and an organization was effected consisting of William Alexander, Robert Hazard and James A. Keane. William E. Kearns was appointed treasurer of the committee.

FISHERIES CO. MANAGER GOES TO NEW POSITION

Robert A. Ross, manager of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Corp. plant at Groton, officially concluded his work in that capacity Saturday and left for New York where he will enter a new field of endeavor.

Mr. Ross who has been manager of the Groton plant since its opening last summer, is to be succeeded by L. F. Kedie who comes from Philadelphia and will assume full charge with the departure of Mr. Ross.

ARTHUR BROADHURST HURT IN ACCIDENT IN MAINE

Arthur G. Broadhurst, formerly of this city, is confined to his home in Portland, Me., suffering from an injured ankle, sustained when an auto bus in which he was a passenger upset in a ditch, near Biddeford, Me. The accident occurred last Wednesday afternoon. The bus, owned by the York Utilities Co., skidded out of the road, plunged over a three-foot embankment and turned on its side. Two other passengers were slightly injured. Mr. Broadhurst was taken to his home in Portland and is under a physician's care. Mr. Broadhurst is a district manager for the Campbell Soup Co.

STONINGTON TEAM WINS N. L. BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

Henry M. Friedman and E. P. Hyde of Stonington are the bridge champions of New London, by virtue of their victory over Joseph C. Keefe and Edward H. Suessmuth of New London, in the final match of the fourth annual city bridge tournament held Saturday evening at the John Winthrop club, of which Mr. Keefe is president. The total score of the players was 2799 to 2342, the Stonington duo winning by a margin of 457 points. The match was played before a large gallery of spectators.

Matches are to be held in Westerly and in Mystic, in which tournaments several New London players have entered.

Suspends Studies Temporarily.

Due to a slight operation of the throat Mrs. Joseph P. Barry, formerly of this city, now of 60 E. Fourth street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., has had to give up her studies temporarily in singing at the Be Canta studio, Steinway hall, New York city, until she fully recovers. When Mrs. Barry finishes her studies she intends going into vaudeville in a team known as Penfield and Clarke. Miss Clarke was formerly with Pola.

YOUNG BURGLARS BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

Charged with perpetrating a series of burglaries in Montville, Norwich Town and Yantic, Harold Botham, 19, of Montville, and Siegfried Sonnenburg, 17, of Preston, were arrested Friday night by State Policemen George Webber and Bernard Kenerson of the Groton barracks, and in the city court here Saturday morning both were bound over to the next term of the criminal superior court in bonds of $1,000 each.

The breaks date back to last September and among the places into which the youths are alleged to have forced entrance are the Ideal Filling Station on Boswell avenue, near the corner of North Main street, and the Enos garage in Montville. Considerable loot, composed mostly of tires and automobile accessories, was stolen, but a good part of it was recovered when the homes of the two boys were raided Friday night following their arrest.

The state police had been at work on the breaks for several months.

OBITUARY

Miss Margaret Carey

Following an illness of some duration Miss Margaret Carey died in this city early Sunday morning. Miss Carey was the daughter of the late Michael and Catherine Tracy Carey and was born in Norwich. She was a member of St. Mary's parish. Surviving her are three sisters, Mrs. D. J. Driscoll, Mrs. Charles F. Ludwig and Mrs

NORWAY IS RACE WINNER AS OLYMPICS START; U. S. OPENS SPEED SKATING

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 13—(AP)—A gruelling military patrol ski race where youthful soldiers dropped exhausted in the mountain passes over a distance of 20 miles while others drunk with fatigue staggered over the finished line to fall headlong in the snow composed a big part of the Olympic program today. There were four hockey matches as well.

Norway won the military patrol event with Finland second and Switzerland third. Two members of the Finnish team (each nation enters one officer and three soldiers in active service) collapsed after crossing the finish line and had to be carried to a hotel where hot grogs and other stimulants were administered. A young French soldier who had swooned three miles from the end of the race was borne on the shoulders of his team mates for the remainder of the distance.

Nine nations competed, each country's patrol being obliged to start and finish together. The abandonment of one member of a patrol automatically disqualified the entire team. Norway's winning time over the twenty mile course, wherein the difference of altitudes between the start and finish at some points were 3,000 feet, was three hours, 50 minutes and 47 seconds. The hardy men from the northland, fresh and erect finished singing the national anthem of Norway at the top of their lungs, five minutes ahead of the crestfallen Finns.

France sprang the first surprise in the hockey play defeating Great Britain by three goals to two and now leads in the competition with two victories and no defeats. France appears certain to be the first semi-final against Canada on Friday. Belgium conquered Hungary by three goals to two while Sweden and Poland a tie at two goals all. Austria and Germany struggled to another draw which was scoreless.

Protest Against Race

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 12—(AP)—Popular feeling was aroused to a high pitch at the utter state of exhaustion of the young soldiers finishing the military patrol race today and may cause an elimination of the event from future winter Olympic sports.

France, it is understood, is preparing to present a motion to eliminate the race at the next meeting of the international Olympic committee.

The rules provide that contestants carrying a rifle, rations and other field equipment must be soldiers in active service. Many of the nations with military service requirements of a year or eighteen months had mere youths of twenty and twenty-one years of age in the event.

Gendre, a French youngster who collapsed three miles from the finish and was carried on the shoulders of his comrades the rest of the way, was reported to be delirious and to have a high fever this evening. He is a slender youth of twenty years. The Finns recovered promptly from the effects of the long hike.

The United States has the honor of starting the Olympic speed skating competition tomorrow as the name of O'Neill Farrell of Chicago was the first to come out of the hat when drawings were made this evening.

Farrell will have Bertil Bachmann of Finland as his opponent in the first heat scheduled. Irving Jaffee of New York will be lined up against Giogio Baroni of Italy in the next heat while Eddie Murphy of Chicago races with Simon Helden of Holland in one of the last heats.

Manager Hansen of the American contingent at a late hour decided to start Valentine Bialas in the heats. Bialas drew Otto Polacsek of Austria as his rival. The races will be at distances of 500 and 5,000 meters.

FINAL LEG OF NEW ENGLAND RACE TODAY

WOLFBORO, N. H., Feb. 12—(AP)—Dogs and drivers competing in the three day point to point race of the New England Sled Dog club rested today in preparation for the final leg tomorrow from here to North Conway, a distance of approximately 40 miles.

With a lead of slightly more than an hour over his nearest rival in elapsed time for the first two legs of the contest, Leonhard Seppala, veteran Alaskan musher, tonight seemed assured of victory, and interest turned to the battle for second place between Emil St. Godard and Earl Brydges, both youngsters from The Pas, Manitoba. St. Godard will start tomorrow with a 12 minute advantage over Brydges, but as he will have only five of his seven dogs in harness Brydges has a good chance of overcoming this handicap.

St. Godard is scheduled to be the first to start tomorrow. His team is due to leave the mark at 9 a. m. The remaining six contestants will follow at five minute intervals in this order: Walter Channing, Boston; Mrs. E. P. Richer, Jr., Poland Spring, Me.; Brydges; Shorty Russick, The Pas; E. P. Clark, West Milan, N. H.; and Seppala.

W. M. I. Five Loses.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 12.—The Williams Memorial Institute team lost to the Meriden girls Saturday afternoon in basketball at the Y gym, by 14 to 9. It was a fast game and carried interest all the way.

Norwich Boy Assistant H. C. Manager.

Edmund Fanning, of Lincoln avenue, Norwich, a third year student at Holy Cross, has been chosen assistant manager of the basketball team.

HUDKINS-BAKER GO IS WEEK'S FEATURE

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Welterweights will supply the main action of the week's fistic activities with Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, opposing Sergeant Sammy Baker of Mitchel field in a ten round affair at Madison Square Garden Friday night. The winner has been promised recognition as the outstanding challenger for the title now held by Joe Dundee of Baltimore.

This will be the third meeting between Hudkins and Baker, each having been returned victor in the previous engagements. Baker upset Hudkins in a fierce tussle at the Polo grounds last summer, stopping the Nebraskan in the seventh round. Hudkins received such an ugly gash over the right eye that the referee halted the proceedings. Ace was the favorite at the time by 2 1-2 to 1.

However, Hudkins evened up his standing with Baker in California recently by pounding out a decision over the soldier-boxer in a hard struggle. Hudkins battered Baker horizontal twice and went down himself once.

The semi-final on the card finds Maxie Rosenbloom milling against Jack McVey in an eight-rounder. Andy Di Vadi and Jimmy Finley will be opponents in a second eight-round bout while Young Manuel of Florida and Johnny Kochansky of Bayonne, N. J., battle in another of the same distance.

HAHN TO ATTEMPT NEW RECORD TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A. will endeavor to establish a new record for the two-thirds of a mile distance tomorrow night at the annual scholastic indoor meet to be conducted by the New York Elks in the 102nd Engineers' armory. The prevailing standard for the distance 2.43 2-5, was set by Jimmy Connolly of the New York A. C. in old Madison Square Garden in 1923.

Connolly will race against Hahn tomorrow along with Murray Goldfish of the Millrose A. A., and possibly Willie Goodwin.

Hahn will feature the Knights of Columbus games here on February 29, in a special mile event against Dr. Otto Peltzer, the German runner. Ray Conger, national mile champion and conqueror of Peltzer at 1,000 meters in Chicago last week, will race with Hahn and Peltzer.

ACADEMY HAS TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

The Academy has two stiff games for this week. Tuesday night in an important eastern Connecticut western Rhode Island league tilt the Red and White plays Chapman Tech at New London and Saturday night Deep River, recent conqueror of Chapman, comes to the Y gym.

Both these games will test the weakened Academy quintet to the utmost although hopes run high for victory in the N. F. A. camp. The showing the last two Saturdays has been heartening even though the red-shirted ones came off the floor defeated.

The regular workout is expected this afternoon at the Y, while tomorrow afternoon Coach Whitney will probably leave open in anticipation of the game that evening although foul shooting and such things may be had. The local defense is well up to par but their scoring capacities can still be developed.

SEMI-PRO TEAMS HAVE ANOTHER BUSY WEEK

Eastern Connecticut's three semi-pro quintets have another week of action. Tuesday night at Parish hall the Y. M. A. five of Webster comes to tackle the Taftville Crescents in the second game of their series. The Crescents fell by a substantial margin in the first game a week ago. At Plainfield Community house Wednesday the Philadelphia Royal Colored Giants play the Pros. The Giants took the first game two weeks ago by a close margin. At Danielson town hall Thursday night the Danielson Town Team takes on the Manchester Recs, a team that has split even with the Crescents and which last week trounced the Hartford Yankees.

C. F. C. MEETS MARINES AT Y GYM THIS EVENING

The C. F. C., with twelve wins and but a single defeat to show for their work so far this year, tackle the Marines from New London tonight at the Y gym, starting at 8 o'clock. The Marines beat the Y Seniors in a previous trip to this city and seem capable of giving the locals a stiff run. The Marines are a member of the City league in New London and this game should show fairly well how the local amateur five shapes up with teams in that loop.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS TO PLAY WEBSTER TEAM TUESDAY

The Taftville Crescents have a tough one in the Y. M. A. team of Webster for Tuesday night at Parish hall as this team recently beat the Crescents by a safe margin. However, the locals are undefeated on their home floor since the middle of December and with their strongest line-up in action, should give the Massachusetts quintet a lot of trouble.

JACK DELANEY MEETS LEO GATES TONIGHT

'BOUT SPORTS

It won't be long now, as they say, before the training camp news wafts its way to the fans the land over. This week will see practically all of the clubs sending their first detachments to southern and western climes for the usual preliminary drills. The Chicago Cubs stole a march on all of them, sending their batterymen to Catalina Island, off the Pacific coast, yesterday. Norwich, of course, sends no team away. Joe Faber being its only contribution to league ball at the present time. There is Denny Murphy out on the Pacific coast who goes to the Western league this year but Faber is really the only boy who makes his home in the Rose of New England that will leave. However, it won't be so very long before news comes out of the Academy and Riverview, two early starters hereabouts of plans for their season. Both ought to have success again this year and the fans seem over-anxious to support these kind of teams.

PLAINFIELD PROS PLAY PHILADELPHIA GIANTS

The Philadelphia Royal Colored Giants come to the Plainfield Community house Wednesday night for their second game with the Plainfield Pros. The Giants nosed out the Community Housers by 23 to 18 a week or so back in a rip-snortin' battle and prospects for another interesting tilt are bright. The Giants have won 33 games and lost but eight on their present eastern tour, meeting the fastest clubs available.

A new referee has been signed for this and successive games. He is Robert Smith of Hartford, who has just returned from Fort Wayne, Ind., where he has been officiating in the American league games for Fort Wayne and also for other leading teams in that district.

The Giants are being brought back to Plainfield at the urgent request of several fans and a capacity crowd is expected.

PENN. QUINTET LOOMS AS CHAMPIONSHIP THREAT

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—The university of Pennsylvania basketball team, heretofore considered as one of the green and untried quintets of the eastern intercollegiate league, now shapes out as formidable threat for the other members in the championship struggle.

Braced with a victory over Cornell on the Ithacan's own home court, the Quakers have supplanted the Cornell five in the first place tie with Dartmouth with two games won and one lost apiece.

Fodder, Yale center, holds sway at the top of the individual scoring records with 35 points, 19 of which were the result of free tries. Layton of Cornell has registered the greatest number of field goals, thirteen.

PLANS FOR CAN-AM PLAYOFFS LAID

BOSTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Plans for the post-schedule play-offs of the teams that finish in the first three places in the Canadian-American Hockey leagues, were made at a meeting of the league representatives here today. The schedule ends March 24 and the play-off will start as soon as possible after that date.

Home and home games, one in each city will be played between the teams that finish in second and third place with the winner to be decided by the total goals scored. The winner of these two games then will play off in the finals with the team that finishes first in the league standing.

BOSTON TIGERS STILL LEAD IN CAN-AM LOOP

BOSTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—The Boston Tigers retained their hold on first place in the Canadian-American Hockey league by a margin of three points over the Springfield Indians as a result of last week's games.

The standing:

Team	W	L	T	Pts
Boston	16	10	3	35
Springfield	15	10	2	32
Providence	10	10	6	26
New Haven	11	14	3	25

RENEWED ACTIVITY AMONG E. C. SCHOLASTIC FIVES

The majority of eastern Connecticut's high school quintets get back at basketball in earnest this week after the mid-year examinations. The Academy-Chapman Tech game Tuesday night at New London is the week's feature.

The games are:

Tuesday

N. F. A. at Chapman Tech.

Wednesday

Stonington at South Kingston.

Friday

Windham at Torrington.

Saturday

Deep River at N. F. A.

Chapman Tech at Commerce (Worcester).

Baker and Rawlins in Finals

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12—(AP)—Myles P. Baker, Boston, and Herbert N. Rawlins, New York, today advanced to the final round of the national individual squash racquets championship at the Penn Athletic club. They meet tomorrow for the title.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Academy looked good Saturday. It was a tough one to lose.

But they have Chapman Tech to make it up on Tuesday night on the same court.

The C. F. C. right now seem unbeatable although in the Marines tonight they are tackling no slouch. This ought to be a fair test between the respective merits of Norwich and New London amateurs.

Lou Gehrig's team lost to All-New-Britain Saturday night 47 to 36.

The Fitchville Rovers play the Y Emps third team tonight at Fitchville. The Rovers won the first game by 12 to 16 last Thursday in the city. Tuesday night the Rovers play a picked team from the West Side, at Fitchville.

The Y Emps now feel that they have a valid claim to eastern Connecticut junior championship after beating practically all of them in this section.

The Academy returns home Saturday night to meet Deep River.

ACADEMY LOSES TORRID TILT TO COAST GUARD JR. VARSITY, 24 TO 22

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 12.—Playing in their best form of the year Norwich Academy carried the Coast Guard Junior varsity up to the last few minutes here Saturday afternoon before succumbing 24 to 22. The Rose City crew gave the locals, big pre-game favorites, all kinds of trouble and but for a few spectacular shots in the closing seconds would have carried away the victory.

Norwich's defense was of high-grade calibre but on the offensive they sorely needed Les Pingree, high scorer, who was declared ineligible last week. Joe Viau, a forward, moved to center and did well under the circumstances although not being able to score from the floor.

Captain Jim Kelly led the visitors in scoring with six points and also showed his best game of the season. Kelly was his 1927 self Saturday afternoon, leading the team with real fight all the way.

N. F. A. Defense Strong.

The Norwich five-man defense had the Cadets at sea much of the way. The locals did most of their shooting over the Red and White defenders and it seemed that those points that were needed went through. On the other hand, Norwich broke through their opponents more frequently but slippery work under the basket cost the Norwich team many points.

The first half was of bitterly fought basketball with the Coast Guards breaking away a trifle near the end to lead by 12 to 9 at the half. Norwich never led during this period although knotting the count a couple of times.

Academy Leads.

It wasn't long in the second half, however, before the Academy had the lead only to lose it and then snare it again. The lead changed hands three of four times during the half while the teams were tied on as many occasions. Norwich had it tied with about three minutes of the final period to go. The Cadets went ahead on baskets by Fahey and Sinton before Tigar made it a little closer with a field goal. Hardino made another from the floor and Viau threw in a foul, putting the score 24-21. The teams then battled for the remaining minute and a half or so until just at the final whistle Dave Tigar was fouled and received two shots. Had the score been one point closer his tries would have been most important but as it was, their outcome mattered little. He sank the first and missed the second. Norwich out-scored the locals 10 to 0 on fouls.

Lost at North Grosvenordale.

Friday night the Academy was trimmed by Tourtellotte High of North Grosvenordale, 36 to 15, the team that they beat here earlier in the season. The locals couldn't get their defense in working order at all with the result that, being below form themselves on the offense, with the loss of Pingree, Tourtellotte threw in more points. All of the Academy regulars scored.

NO BRIDGEPORT TEAM FOR PASTIME AMATEURS FRIDAY

It was announced Sunday night that the appearance of the Bridgeport team for the Pastime amateurs Friday night at Olympic hall had been cancelled. However, in their stead, the promoters have secured several attractions that they feel sure will pack the house. The Park City team's appearance has been cancelled because of the large number of local boys wishing to appear, leaving no room.

The Smoke Shop on the West Side is sending over a team that has been training ardently for several weeks now and expects to uphold its end of the town in fine shape.

Westerly will also be well represented and a prospect is that a series of battles between Westerly and New London amateurs.

MAC SMITH WINS SOUTH CENTRAL GOLF OPEN

HOT SPRINGS GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB, Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 12—(AP)—MacDonald Smith, professional of New York, won the South Central open golf tournament here today with a medal score of 141-142—283.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., finished in a tie for second place with 285 each.

JACK HOOD NOW READY FOR TONIGHT'S BOUT

BIRMINGHAM, England, Feb. 12—(AP)—Jack Hood, welterweight champion of Great Britain, now has one to match Gene Tunney's invitation to lecture at Yale on Shakespeare. Hood this afternoon read in a clear voice the lessons at the men's service at St. John's church, Spark Hill, Birmingham.

Canon Arrowsmith, the vicar, afterwards made known that Hood "like a good sportsman and Christian gentleman" had given up an important engagement in London in order to keep his promise to lead the service at St. John's.

The prince of Wales is expected to attend the bout tomorrow night between Hood and the Negro boxer Lem Johnson.

CHET NICHOLS IN ADVANCE SQUAD OF GIANTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—The vanguard of the New York Giants departed for Hot Springs today to begin preliminary training for the baseball campaign. While cameras clicked and fans cheered, three players got aboard the southwestern limited which will land them at Hot Springs in time to report to Roger Bresnahan, Giants' scout, on Wednesday.

The New York party was made up of Frank Hogan, young catcher obtained from the Braves in the now famous Rogers Hornsby deal, Al Spohrer, another backstop, and Pitcher Chet Nichols. Many players will join the trio at various points along the route to the training camps.

AB HERMANN GOES TO JERSEY CITY IN CASH SALE

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 12—(AP)—Frank Donnelly of the Jersey City International League club today announced the purchase of Third Baseman Albert Hermann from the Hartford club of the Eastern league. The deal was on a strictly cash basis. Hermann has played in the Eastern league for the past four years, joining the New Haven club from Colgate college in 1924.

WILLIE HOPPE DRAWS AWAY FROM HALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Willie Hoppe, leader in the American league three cushion billiard tournament, advanced his margin over Allen Hall to a full game tonight by vanquishing Clarence Jackson, 50 to 35, in a match that required 48 innings. Hoppe had a high run of seven to eight for Jackson. It was the only game scheduled for the evening.

QUINN AT PROVIDENCE AMATEURS FRIDAY NIGHT

Pirates 1, Cougars 0.

DETROIT, Feb. 12—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates moved another step towards the playoff in the National Professional Hockey league, when they staged an exhibition of defensive hockey strong enough to hold the Detroit Cougars scoreless while Darragh, Pirate forward, scored a lone goal for the Pittsburgh team.

Marty Burke, defense man, proved the backbone of the Pirate play and the goaling of Roy Worters proved unbeatable. The game was fast throughout, with eight penalties.

Sarazen Beats Hutchinson.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12—(AP)—Gene Sarazen, holder of the Miami beach and Miami open championships defeated Jock Hutchison, in a 36 hole match here today, 2 and 1. Gene, three down to his veteran Chicago opponent at noon, shot a brilliant 69 after lunch to win.

Hutchison gained his morning lead as a result of sensational putting.

Moore Wins L. A. Auto Race

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12—(AP)—Lou Moore today won the one hundred lap feature race of a dirt track automobile racing program at Ascot park here over a field of twelve starters, completing the approximate sixty miles in 51 minutes 58 2-5 seconds.

Babe Stapp took second place a lap and a half behind Moore, with Chester Gardner third.

Woodstock Girls Win.

The Woodstock Academy girls defeated Killingly High school girls Friday night at Danielson by a 35 to 14 score. Woodstock girls are being coached by Miss Priscilla Drake.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—The heavy fog that blanketed fistic title situation at the start of the year is lifting.

It is still a bit murky in the flyweight and bantamweight classes but the atmosphere is cleared in the featherweight and light heavyweight ranks.

Tony Canzoneri's victory over game little Benny Bass in their sensational 15-round match last Friday night may not have been decisive enough to satisfy all the critics but at least it gives the feather fold an undisputed champion for the first time in two years.

It also appears likely to stimulate action in this 126-pound division, partly at the expense of the bantam ranks. In every state but New York Bud Taylor is recognized as the bantam champion but the Terre Haute terror has been keeping company mostly with featherweights and may decide to forego further 118-pound activity altogether. Charley (Phil) Rosenberg and Bushey Graham, bantam titleholder and contender, respectively, a year ago, also plan comebacks as featherweights. They are due for reinstatement this week after a year's suspension.

The present exodus to the weightier class will leave the bantam division depopulated unless the flyweights start growing up.

Just now, so far as the flyweights are concerned, Izzy Schwartz and Frankie Genaro, New York boxers, have rival support as title claimants.

The ballyhoo isn't being confined these days to boxing, the fistic sport may be to blame for furnishing the main idea but other fields of athletics have developed high-pressure methods of gaining publicity.

Every time Babe Ruth draws a good deep breath the correspondents scurry around. The Hornsby deal smoked up more ballyhoo than any baseball deal in modern memory, but so far as the Giants are concerned it had a reverse twist.

The good doctor from Germany, Otto Peltzer, has been the center of the biggest track ballyhoo in years. Not even the great Paavo Nurmi stirred up any more comment than the Teuton star's verbal debate with the A. A. U., and elbow argument with Ray Dodge.

All of which will help pack the house when Peltzer and Lloyd Hahn toe the mark for the scheduled mile duel in the Knights of Columbus meet on February 29.

Even a bobsleigh race can get into the limelight when, as happened at St. Moritz, it is charged that one of the sleds was tampered with.

Out on the Pacific coast they are already establishing Stanford's Cardinals as favorites to carry off the eastern intercollegiate track and field championships again. "Dink" Templeton, the young Stanford coach, has nearly all of his 1927 point winners back. The shoes of Biff Hoffman, giant weight tosser lost to this year's squad, will be well filled, the observers predict, by Erich Krenz, sensational freshman performer of last year who has beaten Hoffman in competition.

If Stanford doesn't come through the west coast critics look for Southern California's brilliant band to lead the pack. Lee Barnes and Charley Borah, the Trojan aces, are good enough to garner around 15 points in any meet.

It seems a bad year so far for basketball champions. Teams such as the University of California and University of Kansas, perennial champions in their sections, have been treated none too gently by their rivals. Vanderbilt, the 1927 southern conference champion has dropped to the bottom of the heap and may not even participate in the little tournament at Atlanta. Michigan, the western conference titleholder, likewise has had its bumps and Dartmouth has a struggle on its hands to stay in the eastern intercollegiate race.

PLAYERS READY FOR TRAINING CAMPS

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Soon the hungry baseball fans will find an appetizer in the news from the spring training camps. Another week or two will see all of the 16 major league teams assembled at their respective camp beginning the work of limbering up for the 1928 pennant races. Several weeks will be spent in the early training. During this time dozens of "rookies" will be tried out and either dropped into the discard or held for a further trial in the big show. Sharp-eyed managers also will keep an eye on the regulars and veterans in order to form an early opinion as to how they are likely to make out in the summer campaign. And then, after the players have become fairly warmed up, the teams will strike camp and take to the road for the series of exhibition games that will be played as they gradually work their way homeward for the opening of the championship season.

C. F. C. DOWNS PUTNAM SOX IN FAST GAME

The C. F. C. had all kinds of trouble with the Putnam Silk Sox Saturday night at the Y gym until the last few minutes when they ran up a seven point lead and coasted through to a win. It was the local's 12th win of the year. Play was nip and tuck all through the first three and a half quarters with neither team leading very long. The score was either tied or at one point difference for a goodly share of the way until Brown, Lambert and Leffingwell threw in field goals intermingled with a foul by Brown that sent the locals into a 40-33 lead which was enough to help them through the remaining moments. Wise tossed a field goal just at the whistle to make the final score but Putnam, aside from that never came very near scoring in those last few minutes.

Each basket was matched with one just as hard-earned or spectacular in the first quarter with the score a tie most of the way. In the second the C. F. C. opened up a little in the early moments but they were soon overhauled by the visitors who went ahead only to lose the lead in the closing seconds of the half. The C. F. C. had a 21 to 20 advantage at intermission.

In the third quarter it was still different from the first with neither team able to shake off the other at all. The finish of this period found the locals still ahead with the same margin, one point, 31 to 21. The last period has been related.

Brown again led the winners in scoring with 14 points with "Zeke" Leffingwell right behind with the aid of several spectacular shots. The two forwards, Wise and Murphy, did practically all of the scoring for Putnam. The visitors showed fine sportsmanship all the way and, although used to professional rules, they gave a surprisingly clean exhibition at the less rugged amateur species.

Y Emps Win.

In the preliminary the Y Emps polished off the New London Orioles in easy fashion. Economous led the scorers with 15 points.

MARTINS DIVIDE WEEK-END PROGRAM

The J. B. Martin soccer team broke even in its week-end program, losing to the A. F. C. Cottrells at Westerly Saturday 2 to 1 and winning from the Ledyard team Sunday at J. B. Martin park 7 to 0. Saturday's game was played at the Westerly Athletic grounds in a sea of mud while on Sunday, although the playing field was better, still play was slowed up and many humorous situations arose because of various pools and mud blotches that lay here and there on the playing surface.

Lloyd Jarvis was the shining light in the Sunday game, the Jewett City boy, added to Taftville for this game, showing a brilliant brand of soccer. Lloyd accounted for two of the scores while his dribbling and general all-around play was in no small measure responsible for Taftville's third win on her home grounds. Mathers, another newcomer to the Martin line-up, also showed up well and scored twice. Kid Decelles, the clever center forward, scored two more goals, while Hargraves, the rangy inside left, scored the seventh point.

The Ledyard team showed a lack of practice although they fought gamely throughout. Allen and Williamson both did nice work for the losers while Pete Schaeffer also contributed much to his team's cause. Joe Faber played at left half for the losers and gave a pretty fair exhibition.

It was a scoreless affair until the last part of the first half when Jarvis scored on a side shot. This seemed to break the ice with a vengeance, however, for the Martins scored again a few minutes before the whistle and then in the second half added five more points.

Saturday's game at Westerly was more a test of the best mud-horses with the Cottrells catching Smith out of the Taftville goal for an instant to score the deciding marker after a hard-fought game.

POETRY

A Prayer for Church Unity.

They shall hear My voice; and there shall be one fold, and one Shepherd.
John X:16.

Unfailing Guide, eternal, though unseen,
Who, through the years, our Dwelling-place hast been,
Still, as of old, Thy steady call shall be
To bid Thy Church arise and follow Thee!

O Thou, who art the Way, the Truth, the Life,
Who led the early Church through days of strife—
Lead us, today, by Thine eternal light,
Keep us from wandering—guide our steps aright.

Show us the way, Thy perfect way of Peace,
Where unjust judgment and dissensions cease.
At peace with one another we may be;
And keep us, too, in harmony with Thee.

Teach us the truth, that we may ever be Led in all truth—the truth can make us free—
In all we say, in all we think and do,
Lead by Thy truth—In all things keep us true.

Give us the life which Thou alone canst give—
That we, in Thee, abundantly may live,
To help the world Thy righteousness to see—
To show the lost the way that leads to Thee.

Thy Spirit send to guide us day by day,
And shed Thy light along life's rugged way,
'Till, by Thy Spirit led, the Church shall be A living witness true, complete in Thee!

—By Emily Hersey

An Echo.

Dear one, dear one, who you are
I shall not say, for I know not.
The thousand beauties you have been
My eyes have seen and have forgot,
All the wisdom you have known
And shared with me, and put aside,
Even this attribute has gone.
For something of your grace his died
With every moment of our years,
Dying in birth of lovelier
Joys in joys and fears in fears.
Love with you is change. Your love
Is fire consuming in desire,
A strange and dreadful power, a wild
And startled ecstasy, a pang
Of opposites grown reconciled.
You do not know your strength. You take,
And take again, and bind, and break;
And lo! the shard of me that's left
Rings in your hands, both new and round,
Whole as a sword again, a bell
On which an ancient summons rang
Once, and is vibrating still,
Linking our lives with noose of sound.
Deep echoes of an earlier name
Sighed out at night in worlds remote.
Sighed out with joy, subdued with shame.
My ears have heard it, and forgot.

—Richard Church in the London Spectator.

In England the passion for cricket holds men much longer than the passion for baseball clings to Americans, so that persons in all walks of life continue to play even past middle age. Hence the perfectly plausible story printed about the small daughter of a vicar who was asked by a visitor:

"No. Daddy's gone to play in the match. Clergy against Deity." — Baltimore Sun.

FREIGHT CAR LOADINGS INDICATE GENERAL BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Evidences of improving conditions continued to give a cheerful glow to the American business horizon last week. As in the preceding periods, the steel trade was setting the pace, with gradually expanding operations and moderate stiffening of prices. Unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel corporation on January 31, were at the highest level since March, 1926, and the total of 4,275,947 tons was an increase of 303,073 over the figure for December 31, and an increase of more than a million over the last of May, the lowest level of last year.

Even the most optimistic among business observers have expressed surprise at the rapid recovery of the steel industry from its depression in 1927. Much of the buying has been for the accounts of various railroads in the shape of rails, car material and other equipment. The automotive business has also taken a large share of steel in preparation for a growing demand for motor cars following the introduction of new models and a series of price cuts.

Business improvement also was shown by a swing upward in freight car loadings, the first increase this year.

The coal trade continued to move rather sluggishly, with the possibility of a new strike clouding the atmosphere in the bituminous branch. Lumber producers reported growing demand and production and the resumption of work in several mills which have been idle for an extended time.

Silk appeared to be the leader in the textile industries, with marked increases in orders, but the curtailment of cotton manufactures was still in force. Mail order sales gained over January of last year, but were under the figures for December, which was declared to be one of the best holiday seasons in history.

Crops were benefited largely by a widespread rain in the central states, the wheat belts of Texas and Kansas in particular, receiving benefit. Winter wheat had been retarded considerably by an almost universal lack of the much desired snow blanket. A large increase in the export demand for corn was reflected in higher quotations for that grain.

The credit situation showed little change. Federal reserve banks at Boston, Kansas City, Atlanta and Dallas joined the line of those which have increased their rediscount rates to 4 per cent. Time money rates and bankers' acceptances were quoted slightly lower on the week, and call money followed a rather irregular trend toward lower ground.

Bank clearings in the principal financial centers were about 9 per cent less than in the preceding week, but 11 per cent over the like period of 1927. Bank debits followed a similar course.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

On the shoulders of Ramon Novarro has descended the mantle of Richard Mansfield—and he wears it gloriously.

"The Student Prince" is his inheritance to the famous tragedian; as Karl Heinrich, the role Mansfield immortalized before the footlights, Novarro has "carried on" upon the screen—in one of the most wonderful performances in the history of the silver sheet.

"The Student Prince" is a story the world loves; a story that has been played in every corner of the world—and as a screen play it makes history. Ramon Novarro and Norma Shearer have added a new triumph to the screen as a whole—and have given the silent drama a new classic.

The new picture, while played to a crowded house last evening and which will be shown today and tomorrow at the Palace Theatre, has even more charm that the stage play itself. Adapted from Meyer Foerster's original novel, on which the play, and its recent revival as "The Student Prince" were founded, and directed by Ernst Lubitsch—who knows better, perhaps, than any other director, the people of the story, it fairly amazes. One is transported to Germany; one revels with the young prince in the Heidelberg garden; one shares his poignant tragedy. Lubitsch's direction is masterly; especially in such delicate touches as the garden scene.

The cabaret performance tonight promises to be exceptinally good. Extra care has been used in the selection of the performance and a half hour of real entertainment is assured.

Breed Theatre.

George O'Brien, Virginia Valli and J. Farrell MacDonald play the leading roles in Allan Dwan's picture based on Felix Riesenberg's novel, "East Side, West Side," which opened an engagement of four days at the Breed Theatre last night.

All of New York's celebrated sections have a part in the story, the Bowery, East Side, West Side, Hell's Kitchen, Gas House district, Red Hook Point, the Bronx, Washington Heights, Park and Fifth Avenues.

The leading role is a natural for George OBrien and couldn't have fitted his talents any better if the author had had him in mind when writing.

O'Brien has never before visited the Big Town. He is a California Native Son, having been born in San Francisco where his father, Don O'Brien, is chief of police. He was educated at Santa Clara University, in his native state. Even while doing his bit in the U. S. Navy during the war the young star never got into eastern waters. All of his time was spent in the Pacific, where he won the heavyweight boxing championship of the fleet.

Both of O'Brien's travelling companions are familiar with New York. Miss Villia makes it a point to pay it a visit every so often, if for nothing also but to replenish.

The story of "East Side, West Side" is hailed as an epic of life in the big cities. Its author, Felix Riesenberg, was acclaimed as a genius of the first water when it reached the stands. It tells of a youth born on an East River barge who rises through shee grit, first to become a Ghetto prize fighter, later an engineer.

There is a sequence showing the sinking of the Titanic which is one of the finest things ever done on the screen. The acting of the cast is superb and Allen Dwan has directed the filming with an eye to details that leaves nothing to be desired.

Strand Theatre

The Tiffany production "Snowbound" is a merry, laughable, farce-comedy showing here for the first time tonight at the Strand. When young Peter Foley (Robert Agnew) writes to his rich uncle that he is married and he receives an invitation to bring his wife to their Adirondack Lodge so that she can get a large inheritance, he is caught in a trap in the fact that he has simply lied about his marriage so that he can receive a larger allowace. It is with the episode of the vamp that the plot revolves about and not until thevery last few hundred feet are the complications straightened and the loving hearts again united. In the all star cast are Betty Blythe, George Fawcett, "Big Boy" Guinn Williams, Harold Goodwin and Pat Harmon. The photography is beautiful, particularly the pretty scenes of the blizzard and the automobile race with a motorcycle cop through the snow.

"Heavy Fullbacks" is laugh provoking picture that is interesting and amusing and played by a well selected cast. "Fighting Hearts" the last picture of this series is also being shown.

Lions are still a source of serious trouble on the Cape to Cairo line, and herds of elephants tear up the rails.

FORMER NORWICH MAN SUSPECTED IN BLACKMAIL CASE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 13—The New London detective bureau has been engaged the past fortnight attempting to apprehend a blackmailer, who endeavored to obtain $100 from Philip Butleman, Bank street merchant, residing with his family at 292 Williams street. While the police were not successful in positively ascertaining the identity of the blackmailer, they are positive in their belief who the crook is, but because of their inability to obtain sufficient evidence upon which they might hope to obtain a conviction, the man was not arrested. He was however, grilled at police headquarters and vigorously denied any knowledge of the attempt to obtain money from Butleman or as to the identity of the writer of two letters which Butleman received.

The first letter written to Butleman was dated Jan. 23, last and was as follows:

"I am sorry to say that I am in need of $100 very badly and have come to you for help. $100 isn't much to you, but it means a lot to me. Will you kindly leave $100 in $1 bills in a water proof case Thursday, Jan. 26, 1928? (Directions on other side).

"I am in a desperate mood and if you don't leave the money, God help you for I won't. Use wisdom and think of your wife and children. Remember Hickman and the Parker girl.

"Use your head and leave the money for if you don't, God help you.

"Don't breathe a word to anybody, not even your family.

"I am awaiting your pleasure,
Yours truly,
LIFE OR DEATH."

The directions referred to were as follows:

"From your house go up Post Hill on the left hand side till you come to a driveway, (Hislop's rear driveway). Go into the driveway and down aways at the left side you will see an outhouse. Go inside. Put money in corner Cover it with leaves. That is all, but leave the money and don't tell the police or anybody. If you do this you will never be bothered again.

"Important. Don't let anyone see you."

Accompanying the description was a pencil-drawn map, or lay-out, showing Williams street and the driveway to the rear of the residence of Graham S. Hislop leading to the outhouse. However when Butleman received a second letter demanding the money on Jan. 28, the letter having been written the day before, he summoned the police. The second letter was as follows:

"You crazy fool. You are the only one who has ever disobeyed my orders.
MR. RED BEARD

"I will destroy your business, your house and your family. Starting with small things and finally ending with a bang.

"Death to you.
RED BEARD."

Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh interviewed Butleman and on the night of the 28th inst., it was arranged for Butleman to go to the Hislop outhouse, carrying a tin box containing a quantity of paper, but on top of which were 10 bills, each of $1 denomination. The bills were marked and the serial number taken so that they could easily be identified if the writer of the blackmail letters went to the outhouse. Butleman was instructed to leave his home at exactly 7.30 o'clock, 15 minutes prior to that time, Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and two or three officers in civilian clothes were in hiding close to the outhouse so that if the blackmailer went to the building he would be quickly seized. Butleman followed the instructions given him, but the writer of the letters did not go to the building. Officers remained in hiding throughout the night and for four days afterwards officers watched the building day and night. The officers were stationed in the garage of the F. S. Newcomb property, which adjoins the Hislop residence so that anyone going to the outhouse could be seen from the time that entrance to the driveway was made. During the four days of watching the vigil of the police was not rewarded. Patrolman Edward Skoczylas was then stationed in the garage from dusk until dawn for six days, but the blackmailer did not go to the building. In the meantime the officers were attempting to secure clues and suspicion pointed to a Williams street man as the sender of the threatening letters. He was not arrested, but was brought to police headquarters and questioned. He was also ordered to make a copy of the letters. Butleman had received and as was expected, the formation of the characters made by the suspect, were almost identical with those contained in the Butleman letters. The suspect, it was also ascertained, was in need of funds, for it was known that he had related that fact to Butleman a few days before the latter received the threatening letters. The man suspected denied all knowledge of Butleman having received letters, but he displayed much nervousness during the time that he was interrogated, also made the statement that he wished the entire matter would be dropped. The suspect has resided in New London many years, but formerly resided in Norwich.

BLANCHE HILL, GROTON, DISAPPEARS FROM HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 12—Blanche Hill, 16, of Groton, is missing and the state police, Groton barracks and the New London police have been requested to lend their assistance in making a search for the girl. She is described as being about five feet in height, with light bobbed hair. When she went away the girl wore a blue hat, purple coat with collar, tan dress and stockings and black shoes. The girl disappeared Saturday and when she did not return home Saturday night the Groton police were notified today of her being missing.

GROTON DRIVER'S CAR INJURES FRANK WILSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 12.—L. D. Manierre, R. F. D. No. 1, Groton, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Henry Sylvia charged with reckless driving and will be in the police court Monday. Manierre was driving his automobile on Douglass street shortly before 7 o'clock when he decided to change his course. To do so he attempted to turn the auto around. Frank Wilson, colored, of 25 Douglass street, was standing on the latter street and near the corner of Main street, the automobile backing over the sidewalk. Wilson was struck and knocked down. He received treatment at the office of a physician for he sustained severe bruises on his leg.

WATCHED FOR SAFE-BREAKERS WHO WENT TO NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 12.—The police were on the alert Saturday night and Sunday morning for a repetition of burglaries and safe-blowing that occurred in New London last Saturday night and Sunday morning when four automobile stations and a garage were entered and the safes in each place of business either blown open or forced. The police did not have a clue that a return trip was to be made to this city by the crackasmen, but they were determined that if such was the case that the safe blowers would not be as successful as they were a week ago. Shortly before midnight the police believed that their suspicions had been well founded, for Patrolman George Cockell, on duty on Pequot avenue, called up headquarters and stated that he had been informed that an automobile in which were two young men was being driven suspiciously; for the conduct of the occupants, as well as that of two companions, who were walking along the avenue, was such as to indicate that they were watching two or three places of business. The officer also stated that the two men who were walking near the automobile had questioned pedestrians, seeking information. Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman Arthur Feeley were dispatched in the police auto to Pequot avenue and were joined there by Officer Cockell. A search was made for the suspicious automobile and its occupants, but it was not found, although the entire Pequot colony was visited several times. During the remainder of the night an officer patroled the Pequot section frequently by automobile, but the auto sought was not found.

Santo DiMaggio, 33 Moore avenue, reported to the police at 1.30 Sunday morning that his brother, Rosario DiMaggio, 12, was missing from home and that the latter had not been seen since Saturday forenoon. The police maintained a watch for the boy, but did not obtain any trace of him. Later in the night the missing boy went to his home.

Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky found an overcoat in the entrance of the Post Road Filling station, Bank street, early Sunday morning and brought the garment to police headquarters. In one of the pockets was found a tag bearing the name "Walter Beckwith." It is being held pending its being claimed by the owner.

Saturday evening a highly successful valentine dance was given by the Junior league of Lawrence Memorial hospital at Lighthouse Inn, from 9 to 1. It was a costume affair, for which the rooms were artistically decorated with festoons of hearts and ribbons in valentine colors. Fine music and refreshments added to the success of the event.

Because Raymond Stanley Fraser, former employe of the Connecticut Power company and latterly a member of the United States Coast Guard, bond of $250 as a guarantee that he could not provide a surety on his would contribute $7.50 weekly toward his wife's support, he was sentenced to jail for six months from the police court Saturday. Fraser was arrested Saturday morning after his wife had made complaint to Prosecuting Attorney Danie M. Cronin that her husband persisted in refusing to support her.

The continued case of Joseph Perry of Waterford, charged with breach of the peace, was again continued this time for a month. Perry was arrested two weeks ago when it is claimed, he quarreled with and struck Mrs. Louis Peletier. He is at liberty on bail.

Thomas Smith, a stranger, but not at police headquarters, was presented on a charge of vagrancy and was sentenced to jail for 30 days. Smith had been a boarder in the tramp room for nearly 14 consecutive nights. Saturday, when he applied at his customary hour, about 5 o'clock, for a place to sleep, he was given it, but not in the tramp room as usual. Instead Smith was locked in a cell. Two other vagrants were presented in court, but on charges of intoxication. They were William Beckwith and Joseph Trask. Beckwith and Trask went to police headquarters Friday night and requested permission to occupy the tramp room for they were looking for a place to sleep. Their request would have been granted but for the fact that they were intoxicated, so they were locked up. Both Trask and Beckwith were sentenced to 10 days in jail but execution of sentence was suspended. One other case of intoxication was heard, that of an old offender, who was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Lloyd Kearfoot, United States Submarine Base sailor, was charged with intoxication and the theft of a case of canned goods from the Liberty restaurant by Samuel Fern, proprietor, but a continuance was ordered until Monday. Kearfoot went to the restaurant about Friday midnight and had his appetite with him, for he purchased a meal that cost $1.50. When Kearfoot had partaken of the repast he refused to make a settlement and when one of the waiters, John Schwartz, observed Kearfoot trying to leave the restaurant with the canned goods the waiter summoned Patrolman Albert Iverson, who arrested Kearfoot.

Joseph King, laborer in the employ of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Henry Sylvia upon complaint of Tony Calfrello, Bank street auto salesman, that King caused damage to property of Calfrello, including the smashing of a large glass jar. He will be in police court Monday.

Hugh Shannon, 18, of 98 Connecticut avenue, employed at the Thames club, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Henry Hick charged with breach of the peace by William Hendel. He was released upon providing a surety on his bond of $35 and will be in the police court Monday. Shannon's arrest was the result of his engaging in a quarrel with Hendel on Bank street.

Bronie J. Stamion, 324 Jefferson avenue, will be in court on a breach of the peace charge, for he participated in a fight Saturday night and was arrested by Patrolman Arthur Feeley and Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray. Stamion is employed by the Cotton Welding company.

Several cases of intoxication will comprise the other cases that will claim the attention of the court.

Patrolman George Cockell found the entrance of the Colonial Filling station, 26 Pequot avenue, unlocked Saturday night and was able to secure it. Patrolman John Clifford discovered the entrance to the Clarke Beauty parlor unlocked also and caused an employe to be summoned who secured the place of business for the balance of the night. The patrolmen declare that not in all their experience as members of the department have they found so many places of business left unlocked at night as has been the case within the past few weeks.

Patrolman Walter Rehn, who has been confined to his home on Sydenburg avenue several weeks with a fractured leg, is able to navigate, but only by aid of crutches. Officer Rehn has regained his knee action, but it will be many weeks before he will be able to perform duty. The officer was struck by a public service automobile on State street three months ago.

The New London detective bureau was kept busy this afternoon with cases of petty thieving. Two boys were taken in for stealing milk bottles and two other youths were arrested for malicious stealing from automobiles. One of the boys even was bold enough to attempt to hide some of the small parts taken from the cars by putting them in a cuspidor in the court room. All will be in the juvenile court next week.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Two hundred years ago today died Cotton Mather, the most learned man in America in his day.

One hundred and fifty years ago today occurred the first recognition of the American flag by a foreign government, in the harbor of Quiberon, France.

British medical societies today will observe the 200th anniversary of the birth of Dr. John Hunter, one of the world's greatest surgeons and physiologists.

German musical and literary societies today will pay tribute to the memory of Richard Wagner, famous musician, poet and dramatist, on the 45th anniversary of his death.

A number of speakers of wide prominence are to be heard at the annual convention of the National Association of Retail Credit Men, which begins its sessions today in Cleveland.

Several thousand visitors from the rural communities of New York state will be the guests of Cornell university for the annual Farm and Home week, which gets under way today.

PENDLETON HILL

Miss Pearl Tennant of the state infirmary, Concord, N. H., spent Sunday of last week at her home here. Miss Tennant is a student nurse.

The Sewing society was entertained Wednesday by Miss Carrie A. Ryder at Ferndale. In spite of the downpour of rain, a larger number than usual were in attendance. All were happy to welcome the return of Mrs. Jennie Thompson to the circle. Mrs. Thompson has always been one of the society's most efficient aides. The members completed a quilt and a clam chowder was enjoyed by the twelve present. A most interesting letter was read from Mrs. L. M. Bears of Alhambra, Calif., formerly of this vicinity.

The state board of education conducted a hearing in this town Friday, Feb. 10, concerning the transportation to and from school of the children of Charles Wilkinson, who lives on the Martin Maine place, Mr. Wilkinson claiming transportation for his children.

One case only of mumps has appeared in this vicinity, that of Llewellyn Palmer, who has recovered and resumed work in the woods.

Water ran over the roads as the result of Wednesday's heavy rain.

While others have been harvesting ice from 9 to 12 inches thick, ice here as yet has never formed thicker than six inches.

Rev. Mr. Mathewson's text Sunday morning was Matthew XIII., 45 and 46. The subject was The Pearl of Greatest Price. At the close of the sermon he again thanked those who so generously remembered his anniversary. "It was in truth a princely gift," he said.

Miss Christie Palmer has spent the past two weeks at Oak Lawn with her cousins, Miss Hattie Billings and Herbert Billings.

HAWES ADVISES FARMERS TO DO BURNING NOW

State Forester Austin F. Hawes has sent forth a general plea to all farmers to burn over any of the property which they plan to at the present time, in view of the fact because of the lack of snow this winter a dry season is anticipated in the early spring and for that reason it is probable that no fire permits will be issued during the month of April.

In a direct letter to the deputies of the state Mr. Hawes has requested the farmers in their respective districts be informed of the situation and that every effort be made throughout the state this year to organize fire brigades to fight forest fires that may develop. Unless every precaution is taken, Mr. Hawes says, the state will suffer heavily from forest fires this year.

Injured by Automobile Wrench

Samuel Mintz of Colchester, was painfully injured Thursday. Mr. Mintz had just changed a tire on his car and forgotten to remove the wrench from one of the rim nuts, and thinking the job finished started the car while the wheel was still on the jack. The sudden turning of the wheel threw the wrench, which struck Mr. Mintz on the forehead, breaking his glasses and inflicting a bad cut. A physician rendered medical services.

WORLD LEADERSHIP

THE genius that wins leadership never rests. By the time others have struggled to heights attained by leaders, the leaders have blazed trails to new accomplishments.

The Maytag Aluminum Washer for five years stood without a rival. Then came the New Maytag, as far in advance of the times as the former Maytag was five years before. The big Maytag factory is now turning out 1400 washers a day.

The unmatched speed and thoroughness which characterized the Maytag of former years has been enhanced by many noteworthy features in the New Maytag. Important among them is a Soft Roller Water Remover which hugs every fold of the clothes. Both the soap and water are extracted evenly—delicate buttons and filmy laces go through unharmed.

See the many other features of this marvelous new Maytag. Try one.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Andrews' church met at the home of Mrs. William Shaw of Russell road Thursday afternoon and held its regular meeting. Business was transacted with the president, Mrs. Fitch A. Dolbeare, presiding. It was voted to hold the annual English tea party soon. After the business meeting a valentine social hour was held. Refreshments were served by the hostess, who served the following menu: Salads, cold tongue, rolls, assorted cakes, cookies and coffee. The table was prettily decorated for the occasion and the favors were of the valentine types.

BURGLARS CRACK FOUR SAFES IN NORTH MAIN ST. AUTO SALESROOMS

Four automobile salesrooms along automobile row on North Main street were burglarized some time Saturday night or early Sunday morning and between $300 and $400 was taken from safes which were opened after the combinations had been broken off. Only cash was taken by the thieves.

At the W. R. Frisbie Reo agency, 192 North Main street, something over $300 was reported to have been taken. At the Hudson-Essex agency, across the street, No. 195, only 10 cents was found but this was scorned by the burglars who left it behind. The other two places entered were the Thompson Chevrolet company, 88-90 North Main street, and the adjoining Studebaker agency of T. N. M. Lathrop Inc. at 84-86 North Main street. At the Chevrolet place $32.85 was secured and at the Studebaker agency $16.50.

An attempt to enter the Ford agency of O. C. Wolfe at 194 North Main street, corner of Third street, was also made, but was frustrated when the watchman heard glass breaking as he was in the cellar looking after the furnaces.

He appeared on the main floor of the building in time to see a tall man disappearing down the street and he telephoned at once to police headquarters from which Sergeant John Casey who was on duty there dispatched Officers Charles MacFadden and Burns to go to North Main street, but no one was to be seen when they reached there.

At that time nothing was known of the other burglaries, but the time of the telephone call is believed to indicate when the burglars were at work. This call was at 4:55 Sunday morning, leading the police to believe that the burglars had been at work before then. From 3:30 to 3 a. m. there is no patrol their work. It is thought also that the probable that the burglars selected the early morning hours after 3:30 for their work. It is thought also htat the burglars may have been the same gang that operated a week ago in New London, using similar methods in each city.

First report of the burglaries was received about noon Sunday from the Chevrolet agency when Manager Leon Dix went to his place of business and found the safe broken open. The other reports followed and Sergeant Myron Morgan and Officer Patrick Murphy were sent to make investigation.

In each case it was found that the burglars got in through a window and used such tools as were found around the garages to knock the combinations off the safes so that they could be opened.

There was also a report that the Dodge agency of the Jordan Auto company at 410 Main street had been broken into, but this was found to be untrue.

SANATORIUM QUARANTINE TO BE LIFTED THIS WEEK

It is probable that the quarantine in force for the past three weeks or more at Uncas-on-Thames, Norwich State tuberculosis sanatorium, will be removed this week. In common with the other state institutions the Norwich sanatorium was placed under restrictions at the time of reported small pox cases in the state, as a measure of precaution against the disease being introduced there by visitors.

At Hartford Conference

Today (Monday) Dr. Robert G. Urquhart and Dr. M. J. Givins of Uncas-in-Thames will accompany the superintendent, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell to Hartford, to attend a conference of state sanatoria heads and staff members.

Week End Guests

Dr. and Mrs. M. E. Mullen, of Lafayette street entertained over the week end Miss Mary J. Mullen, of Willimantic, and Dr. W. D. O'Connors, of Plainfield.

HELPING HANDS' SUPPER WITH GOOD ATTENDANCE

Atlantic City salad was a feature, when the Helping Hands society served a well attended baked bean supper Saturday from 5 to 7, at Buckingham Memorial. There was cabbage and potato salad also, beets, relishes, brown bread, rolls, cake, coffee and tea. In charge was the president of the society, Mrs. Charles A. Dowsett, who had the assistance of Mrs. Carrie Hayden, Mrs. William Botham, Mrs. Ida Andrews, Mrs. Francis Erlbeck, Mrs. William Keogh and Mrs. Vera Lyman. The waitresses were under the direction of Mrs. Jennie Martin and were Misses Rose Breckenridge, Lucille Hayden, Gladys and Alice Blanchard. The kitchen was in charge of Mrs. E. J. Mackey and Mrs. W. H. Jones. At the cake table were Mrs. Francis Slater and Mrs. M. E. Twist. Leon Hayden was cashier.

Valentine Party For Club.

Mrs. G. Russell, of 59 Dunham street gave a very pretty valentine party Saturday evening at her home for the Thursday Afternoon club. Games were played and dancing was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Krachenfels of New Haven recited a poem. Mrs. Streich rendered selections on the mandolin and Miss Hilda Wendt of Mystic entertained with songs. At ten o'clock the hostess invited her guests to the dining room which was beautifully decorated with streamers, hearts and favors. A bountiful supper was served by Mrs. Russell assisted by Mrs. Streich and Mrs. Decker. Out of town guests were present from New Haven and Mystic.

Was Native of Colchester

Eugene B. Gardner, 75, a native of Colchester, died last Thursday night at his home in Malden, Mass., where he had been a resident for 44 years. He was the son of Rowland and Mary Barrows Gardner. He is survived by his wife.

NORWICH TOWN

Under the auspices of the Methodist Christian Endeavor society, a successful Valentine social was held Friday evening in the vestry and was largely attended. Mrs. John Rogers was in charge of the social hour, while Miss Beulah Rogers was in charge of the following pleasing numbers on a program which opened with prayer by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Whitten: Hymn, Dare to Be Brave, Dare to Be True, entire company; reading, The Origin of Valentine's Day, Miss Florence M. Bennett; piano solo, Tag Waltz, Miss Clara Oloff; instrumental duet, Marching Through Georgia, ukelele, Arthur Belden Bennett, piano, Miss F. M. Bennett, Master Bennett singing the solo parts, the audience joining in the chorus; reading, Farm Bureau, Mrs. Albert Miner; piano solo, Down the Stream, Miss Virginia Ward; hymn, O Beautiful for Spacious Skies, all; piano solo, In Playtime, Miss Mary Waters; piano duet, The Peacock, Miss Clara Oloff and Miss Beulah Rogers; vocal duet, Drop the Oar, Arthur Belden Bennett and Clayton Rose; recitation, Some Little Bug Will Get You, Miss Beulah Rogers; piano solo, Thou Art so Near, Miss Muriel Blanche Rose; piano duet, Twinkle Little Star, Misses Virginia Ward and Muriel B. Rose. In closing, all saluted the flag and united in singing America.

This was followed by numerous valentine games, after which Mrs. Rogers, assisted by Miss Effie Ladd, president of the Y. P. S. C. E., and Miss Ruth Lathrop, served sandwiches, cake, fancy cookies and cocoa. The evening was planned for a real get-together of members and friends and those in charge felt greatly pleased at the large number present.

At the First Methodist church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. A. E. Whitten, read for the Scripture lesson the fifth chapter of Matthew, beginning with the 13th verse. From this reading, he chose these words, "The Man Who Dares," which formed the basis of his sermon.

The Christian Endeavor service at the Methodist church, Sunday evening, was in charge of the pastor, Rev. A. E. Whitten. The topic assigned was, "Ideals For Choosing a Life Partner." Prov. 31:10-31. (From Social-Problem Emphasis).

The Norwich Town class, Mrs. William Weaver, president, of New London County Home and Farm bureau, has planned a meeting for Thursday, Feb. 16, at the home of Mrs. Everett Rogers of Wauwecus street. A continuation of rug-making will be the order of work for the day, with Mrs. Belle H. J. Robynson of Gales Ferry demonstrator.

Miss Gladys Cruthers, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving H. Cruthers, of Canterbury turnpike, recently entered the Backus Hospital Teacher Training class for nurses. Miss Cruthers, a graduate of Norwich Free academy, has for several months held a position in one of the business offices in Norwich.

When Mrs. Harriet E. Brainard and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Gremley of Mystic were callers on Norwich Town relatives Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Gremley also paid a brief visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy to see their daughter, Miss Alice H. Kennedy. Miss Kennedy is able to go out each pleasant day for a short time following her serious illness.

LEFT FOR MONTH'S STAY IN FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Whiting of Norwich and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Board of Leffingwell left town Saturday for New York when they had reservations on the Florida special leaving New York Saturday evening. They have gone for a month's stay in Florida, and plan to visit Daytona and Miami, returning via the west coast to St. Petersburg.

TAFTVILLE

Walter Speak who has been at the Ponemah house for the past several weeks has left town.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tetreault who were married last week in Pawtucket, R. I., have returned from their wedding trip and have taken a house on South Fifth avenue.

Rosario Bousquet has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

At a recent meeting of the Taftville Maennerchor club, a donation of $10 was voted to the Bulletin Kenneth La-Flamme fund.

The members of the Phi Alpha club held a Saint Valentine's party at the home of Miss Mildred C. Yerrington on South Second avenue Friday evening. The chaperones were Miss Elsie Heap, Mrs. Neil Finlayson and Miss Flossie M. Meyer. Games of various kinds were played in charge of Miss Dorothy M. Aberg, and included a heart hunt, the prizes for which were won by Miss Mary Alice Watts and Peter Lukoff. Delicious refreshments were served at small candle-lighted tables decorated with valentines, by Mrs. Harold E. Linderson, Mrs. Neil Finlayson and Miss Flossie M. Meyer and Miss Elsie Heap. Each guest received a valentine favor and there was a large valentine cake cut and distributed. The guests included Miss Edith L. Heap, Miss Ruby Houston, Miss Mildred C. Yerrington, Miss Gladys Kinder, Miss Charlotte Pilling, Miss Mary Alice Watts, Miss Edith Adams, Miss Margaret Sticht, Miss Dorothy M. Aberg and Miss Edna Baldwin of Plainfield, Peter Lukoff, Reginald Monty, Hartwell Zuerner, Byron Kloss, Curtis A. Hedler, Donald Royce, Arthur Armstrong, John McNield, John Daly and Manuel Martin. The reception committee was Miss Edith L. Heap and Miss Gladys Kinder. Refreshments consisted of grapefruit, crabmeat salad, rolls, olives, ice cream, cake, fancy cookies, candy and coffee.

A group of Taftville men banded together as the "Old Timers" are to hold a frolic and banquet at the Morton House at Niantic on February 18. As many of the members reside out of town, the affair will be a reunion as well as a social gathering.

Among those taking part in the mock trial "Who Stole the Mince Pie" Friday evening at Ponemah hall, was Paul Brumme, whose name was omitted from the caste, by error.

With lent only a short time away, many of the village organizations are planning dances and socials, to be held before the beginning of the penitential season.

The members of Peter Gallan post and their friends are being urged by the officers of the post to see the motion picture "The World War" which the post has been fortunate in securing from the Legion Film service. This has been pronounced the best picture of the war, dealing with all branches of the service. It is pointed out that by a remarkable use of maps, the progress of the great struggle is made so simple that a child can follow it in all its multiple phases. It is planned to present the picture at the local theatre under the auspices of the post, whose members feel that they are most fortunate in having received it from the film headquarters.

Friday evening, a bachelor surprise party was tendered Patrick Sullivan at his home on South B street in honor of his approaching marriage which is to take place this week. It was one of the finest "stag parties" celebrated here for some time, with toasts and songs for Mr. Sullivan who is popular throughout the village, being the former manager of the Taftville Celtics, and also one of Manager Troland's energetic assistants for the Taftville Athletic association. He has always taken a leading part in promoting carnivals, field days, etc., and is a member of that group of enthusiasts who have "put Taftville on the map."

During the course of the program, Harvey Pepin sang "She Don't Wanna" in very good style, and J. H. Troland recited "Twenty Years a Bachelor," a poem written by himself. Alphonse LaFlesche and Leo Peltier were acclaimed the hit of the evening with their Varsity Drag. Eddie Thoma gave "The Face on the Barroom Floor" and other recitations and Rabbit Gauthier kept the boys in laughs with his line of popular jokes. Emile Raymond sang "Henry Made a Lady Out of Lizzie" and Albert Martin performed some of his well known miracles in legerdemain.

Mr. Sullivan who is employed by the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. During the close of the evening a delicious oyster chowder was served, after which Mr. Sullivan was presented a bill fold containing $100 in money, the presentation speech being made by Emile Raymond. Mr. Sullivan responded with a few well chosen remarks, to which James H. Troland replied with a speech conveying the best wishes of the party to Mr. Sullivan for a happy married life. Before the guests departed at midnight they gathered and serenaded the benedict-elect with "Good-bye Old Pal."

Those present were Patrick Sullivan, Wilfred Gauthier, Irene Laroche, Ernest Phaneuf, Edward Thoma, Harvey Pepin, Albert Martin, James H. Troland, Arthur Beauchemin, Leo Elsicle, Alphonse LaFlesche, Leo Peltier, Lawrence Benoit, Walter Jusuire, Louis Grover, Emile Raymond, "Lefty" Dugas, Eloi Fregeau and "Rabbit" Gauthier.

LINDBERGH COVERS LAST LAP OF HIS GOOD WILL FLIGHT THROUGH FOG AND RAIN

Landed at St. Louis at 5.01 P. M. Yesterday—Made the 1,200 Mile Non-Stop Flight From Havana to St. Louis in 15 Hours, 35 Minutes—In Exactly Two Months the Lone Eagle Had Flown to 17 Cities in 14 Countries—In His Flight Yesterday Lindbergh Stuck to His Course and Flew Low Because of "Low" Visibility—Has No Plans For the Future Beyond "Flying the Mail Next Monday."

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Flying through fog and rain, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh completed a 1,200 mile non-stop flight from Havana, Cuba, by landing safely at Lambert-St. Louis field at 5.01 p. m. today. He was in the air 15 hours and 36 minutes.

Since his departure from Washington, Dec. 13, for Mexico City, Col. Lindbergh had covered about 9,000 miles on a circuitous route and had visited 16 nations and dependencies in Central and South America and the West Indies.

Approximately 700 persons, including members of the 35th Division Air corps, of which Lindbergh is a member, viewed the landing of the good will ambassador, who is to be the guest of all St. Louis in an aerial exhibition on the Mississippi river front tomorrow afternoon.

COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH

His approach to the field was from the west at 4.56 p. m. Passing to the northwest, the "Spirit of St. Louis" began circling the field at an altitude of approximately 100 feet. Lindbergh evidently was scanning the field to make sure no crowd was in the way.

He made complete circuits. In descending he "gave the gun" to his plane to avoid getting mired in the mud.

When Lindbergh got out of the plane there was backslapping and a chorus of greeting as President Harold M. Bixby of the chamber of commerce, Acting Mayor Walter Neun and others greeted him.

As mechanics shoved the Spirit of St. Louis into the hangar, Lindbergh posed with the official greeters for photographers and movies in the light of flares which were burned to help out the dim and disappearing daylight.

Lindbergh said he flew from Key West along the west coast of Florida to Cedar Springs and then took a compass course to St. Louis, which he followed, flying low. Visibility, he said, was "very low."

"I stuck to my course steadily," he related, "and sighted the Mississippi river about 30 miles below St. Louis. Followed it north to the Missouri river and then circled St. Charles, Mo., and came into the flying field from the west."

This is the method used by mail flyers and other airmen of Lambert-St. Louis field when the weather does not permit them to find their bearings by the city.

Besieged with inquiries about his plans for the future, Lindbergh replied:

"I have no plans beyond flying the mail next Monday."

"Are you tired?" asked a reporter.

"No," said the flyer with a laugh.

"Did you have anything to eat?"

"What's that got to do with it?" he replied, grinning.

Goggles pushed up on his leather flying helmet, Lindbergh was escorted to a hangar. After greetings there he was taken in charge by Harry Hall Knight, at the home of whose father, Harry Drench Knight, Lindbergh will be a guest tonight. The Knights were backers of Lindbergh in his trans-Atlantic flight.

General comment was that a worse day could hardly have been chosen for the return to the home field. This was emphasized when the Chicago air mail plane, in which Bud Gurney, veteran flyer, took off at 4.30 p. m., returned soon afterward. Gurney said the atmosphere to the northeast was so dense that he thought it best to turn back.

Weather bureau officials said conditions along Lindbergh's entire route were nearly as bad as at the landing field where beacons were lighted as early as 2.45 p. m., because of the fog.

Somewhat refreshed from his 1,200 mile flight, Col. Lindbergh received newspapermen at the home of a friend here tonight and discussed his good will tour.

With typical Lindbergh modesty the flier declined to say what benefit he believed would accrue to aviation as the result of his latest flight. Asked to comment on what he believed would be the result of his peaceful mission as an ambassador of the air to promote friendly relations among the Latin-American republics, Lindbergh said:

"I would rather some one more qualified than I would discuss those things."

He said he is convinced, however, that airlines between the United States, Central America and South America are practical and eventually will be established.

"So far as I have been able to determine," he said, "there are no greater obstacles in the path of aviation in the tropics than in this country. I believe air lines between the United States and the Latin-American republics are practical. Such transportation also is feasible between the South American republics. There is nothing to retard its progress once it is started."

Lindbergh said that in his opinion his good will tour of the south has demonstrated that aircraft can be used longer and can stand more wear and tear than has been generally believed.

"The plane is in perfect condition," he said, "after being flown 40,000 miles. To my mind that demonstrates that we can get a lot more use of aircraft than we formerly believed."

The "Spirit of St. Louis" he said will eventually find its way to the Smithsonian institute at Washington. Just when he will sever the partnership of "we" he failed to say. His observations on thetour will be turned over to the department of commerce for whatever use they may be to the cause of aviation.

Commenting on the conditions he confronted in his flight today, the flying colonel said he had rather pleasant sailing until he struck the northern tip of Florida where fog and mist began to obscure his vision. After reaching the mainland he turned the nose of his monoplane northwest and maintained this direction until he came to the Mississippi river.

"When I hit the Mississippi," he said, "I followed its banks north until I came to the mouth of the Missouri river. This served as a landmark for me and I then headed for the field. It seems mighty good to be back again with my old friends. St. Louis is my home and always will be."

He retired early saying he was tired and wanted rest to prepare for the activities that have been planned for him here tomorrow and during the week.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, Feb. 13—(AP)—A labor motion complaining of the government's failure to deal with the unemployment situation was defeated tonight in the house of commons by a vote of 293 to 137.

GARDONE, Italy, Feb. 13—(AP)—Gabrielle D'Annunzio, Italy's war poet, who has been seriously ill, is on the way to recovery. It was stated today that he is now in full convalescence.

LONDON, Feb. 13—(AP)—James Ramsey MacDonald, labor leader and former premier, in an article which will appear in tomorrow's Daily Herald, says that the elections to be held in the coming year in France, Germany and America, and probably England, may have a considerable effect on the problem of relations between the old and new worlds.

ALL HOPE ABANDONED FOR THE RECOVERY OF EARL ASQUITH

SUTTON COURTENAY, England, Feb. 14—(Tuesday)—(AP)—All hope for the recovery of the Earl of Oxford and Asquith was abandoned by his physician early this morning. The earl, who as Herbert H. Asquith, prime minister, was one of the great figures of the World war, had been unconscious since early yesterday afternoon and it was said that the end was only a question of how long the enfeebled heart could hold out.

This little Bershire village, about ten miles from the city of Oxford, has only a few hundred residents. From time to time one of these would appear at the house of the dying statesman to ask for the latest bulletin on his condition.

Lady Oxford (Margot Asquith) had kept a ceaseless vigil at her husband's bedside for more than 50 hours. Her daughter, Princess Bibesco, and Anthony Asquith kept her company.

One of those most deeply affected in the household was the butler who had been in the service of the earl for many years.

Sutton Courtenay was typical of the British nation tonight in its deep sympathy at the ebbing of the life of the man who held the helm of its affairs at the opening of the World war and who for fifty years was almost continuously in the public eye.

The health of Lord Oxford had steadily declined since he retired from politics in 1926. On Sunday, however, it took a sudden turn for the worse when pulmonary complications developed.

SENATE NEARING VOTE ON PROBE OF UTILITIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—A show-down fight on the Walsh resolution for senate investigation of the financial affairs of public utilities corporations was begun today in the senate with a vote in prospect tomorrow or Wednesday.

With the line-up admittedly close, both those advocating and opposing the resolution took comfort from some of the developments of the day, which was marked by a long address by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, in favor of his measure and in which the "power lobby" was assailed.

Immediately after the resolution was called up, Vice-President Dawes, who was presiding, asked Senator Walsh to change his resolution so that he would be relieved of the task of appointing the special committee of five which would conduct the inquiry.

"I am interested in some public utilities companies," the vice-president said. "I have no desire to evade my responsibilities, but I prefer for this reason that some other provision be made for selection of the committee."

Acquiescing in the suggestion, the Montanan amended his resolution to call for the election of the special committee by the senate itself. This change was agreeable to opponents of a senate inquiry as they believed it strengthened their hand.

TARIFFS STUMBLING BLOCK AT HAVANA CONFERENCE

HAVANA, Feb. 13—(AP)—Argentina and the United States again took opposing positions at the meeting of the committee on Pan-American union affairs today over the right of nations to assess what tariffs they think most suitable.

Taking up the cause of all the delegations who view with disfavor Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon's proposal to extend the functions of the Pan-American union in the economic field, Charles Evans Hughes, head of the American delegation, proclaimed the impossibility of allowing questions of such purely domestic character as tariffs to be considered by any international body.

Dr. Pueyrredon, however, unmoved by any arguments, repeated his categorical refusal to sign any convention to regulate the activities of the Pan-American union which did not contain a reference to the necessity of abolishing excessively high barriers to the free flow of trade in inter-American commerce.

SAILOR'S LIFE ENDANGERED BY DEFECTIVE PARACHUTE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13—(AP)—Albert Todd, a sailor, narrowly escaped death or injury today when a defective parachute and a 200-pound dummy used in tests crashed at his feet at the observation station.

Todd was following an observation balloon on foot at the time. Hearing cries of other sailors and a crowd of visitors he glanced upward and leaped aside just in time.

A few minutes later another dummy crashed near a parked automobile.

The two parachutes were the only ones of 40 tested today that proved defective.

OBITUARY

Ignatius A. Sullivan

HOLYOKE, Mass., Feb. 13—(AP)—News of the death in Los Angeles of Ignatius A. Sullivan, a former Holyoke resident and one time mayor of Hartford, has been received by his brother, former Representative David Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan, a former professional baseball player, was Hartford's mayor in 1902 and 1903, having been elected by the Clerk's Union and Economic league who were dissatisfied with municipal politics.

Confessed Killing His Wife With a Hammer

Statement Made by Cecil Clyde Campbell, New York Business Man and Soldier.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13—(AP)—Caught in a hotel of the Volunteers of America here, Cecil Clyde Campbell, a New York business man and soldier, confessed to police he is the man who killed the woman found dead in the Grand hotel, New York. He said she was his wife.

A week ago today, the body of the woman, Mrs. Mary Lile McClelland Campbell, clad in pajamas, was found in the hotel, her head crushed with a hammer. She and Campbell had registered as Mr. and Mrs. T. M. James, of Troy, N. Y.

The prisoner, who is 43, confessed, police said, he had struck her over the head with the hammer while she looked in his face.

"It was a suicide pact," he said. "We prayed for forgiveness first."

In telling his story, Campbell produced a year old "joke" photograph apparently taken at an amusement park of a man about to strike a woman with a hammer, to illustrate how he killed the woman in New York.

"This is how we agreed to die," he said. "I was to kill her and then myself."

"Financial reverses," said Campbell, "had led to the decision to end their lives."

Campbell, a heavy-set man and nearly six feet tall, with iron gray hair, had on the same gray felt hat and blue suit he wore when he registered at the hotel in New York.

He was arrested by Philadelphia detectives at the instance of New York detectives who came here on information supplied by a former army comrade of Campbell's. They went to the Volunteers of America hotel at 12th street and Girard avenue, where they found that Campbell had registered under his right name.

He expressed no surprise when the officers said they wanted him at city hall. Collecting his belongings, he was taken to detective headquarters in a taxicab.

It took but a few questions to bring a confession from the prisoner.

"I killed her," he said. "If you'll give me a pencil and paper I will write a statement explaining it all."

After telling of going to the hotel, Campbell said, according to the police:

"We stayed at the hotel for several days and discussed my financial difficulties. We agreed to end our lives. With her consent and while she was fully awake and looking at me and after we had both joined in a short prayer asking forgiveness, I struck her over the head with the hammer.

"I had bought the hammer for ten cents at a department store. I remained in the room until I was sure she was dead.

"It was part of my intention to kill myself. I fully intended to do this at first. I walked to the window with the intention of jumping but I lost my nerve and left the room.

"Next I thought of drowning myself but I remembered I owed some money and I made up my mind that before I killed myself I would clean up my debts.

"I had no money and I couldn't get work. When I went to the Volunteers of America here I told them I was held up and robbed. I was on my way to see my sister in Phoebus, Va."

MURDERER WAS FORMER HEAD OF REFORMATORY

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 13—(AP)—Cecil C. Campbell, held by Philadelphia police today, charged with the murder of a woman in the Grand hotel in New York on February 6, was named superintendent of the state reformatory for men at South Windham, Me., in April, 1925. He held the position for several years.

His wife, whom Campbell told Philadelphia officers had divorced him in Biddeford, was active in organization work in Portland in 1922, and was said to be a graduate of an art school and of Cornell university.

SENATOR WILLIS' TRIBUTE TO ABRAHAM LINCOLN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—It was not Lincoln's accomplishments as a member of congress and as president that made him immortal, but what he was as a man, Senator Willis of Ohio said today at a ceremony sponsored by the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial.

"Because of Lincoln's clear thinking, courage, sincerity and honesty, and above all his deep religious faith," the senator said, "his memory will never die." He urged that America rededicate itself to the principles of Lincoln and Washington.

Memorial wreaths were afterwards laid under the portico of the memorial by representatives of the Loyal Legion, the Red Cross, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of Union Veterans and other patriotic organizations.

QUESTION OF LAW HALTS TRIAL OF GOV. JACKSON

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 13—(AP)—A question of law today halted the trial of Gov. Ed. Jackson as defense attorneys challenged the right of D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan and now a life term prisoner, to testify against his former friend and the man he claimed to have helped elect in 1924.

Judge Charles M. McCabe ruled the question so vital to the whole trial that he adjourned court early, asking that the defense submit a brief on the question raised. He planned to study it tonight, along with the state's reply, and give his ruling tomorrow.

$400,000 FOR DEM. FUND ENTERS THE OIL PROBE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—In an effort to determine the source of some $400,000 which was used to pay off in part the deficit of the democratic party following the presidential campaign of 1920, the senate Teapot Dome committee is planning to summon prominent members of the party.

MARINE WAS SHOT WHEN MISTAKEN FOR A BANDIT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Private Earle E. Myere, who was shot when he was mistaken for a bandit while returning from outpost duty Feb. 7, died two days later, a communication today from marine headquarters at Managua, Nicaragua, to the navy department said. Myers was buried in a cemetery at San Rafael, Nicaragua.

Counsel Asks For Release of Stewart

Contention Made That the Questions Asked Pertained to Personal Matters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Contending that questions Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, refused to answer before the senate oil committee pertained to personal matters about which the senate had no right to inquire, his counsel today filed a 74 page brief in the supreme court of the District of Columbia asking that he be freed of arrest by the senate.

The questions were asked the oil man during the oil committee's inquiry into bonds purchased by the Continental Trading company with the profits from a contract guaranteed by him, Harry F. Sinclair, James E. O'Neil and H. M. Blackmer. When he refused to answer them he was placed under arrest by the senate and secured his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus which the brief sought to make permanent.

The brief reiterated the contentions made in court last week that the senate was without power to arrest Stewart because he was in attendance before a committee under subpoena; that he was arrested solely to secure his attendance before the senate, and that until he had refused to attend, the courts had no power to "attach him to secure his attendance."

It was contended that in a court where a witness refused to answer questions the only allowable procedure, if his refusal was ill founded, was to order him to answer the specific questions and punish him if he refused. The power of the senate, was held to be no greater than that of the courts.

Presentation of criminal charges against Stewart for refusing to answer the question, was completed before the grand jury today. District Attorney Gordon expected the indictment against the oil man would be returned the latter part of the week.

REFUSED OFFER TO HAVE HICKMAN PLEAD GUILTY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13—(AP)—An offer made by William Edward Hickman through his attorneys to plead guilty to the murder of C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist, who was shot and killed during an attempted holdup, was rejected tonight by District Attorney Asa Keyes.

The youth offered to plead guilty in return for a sentence of life imprisonment instead of the death penalty on the Thoms murder indictment, which jointly accuses Hickman and his 16 year old accomplice, Welby Hunt.

As a result of thep rosecution's rejection of the offer, a long and tedious review of the insanity defense of Hickman, already heard in connection with the kidnaping and slaying of Marian Parker, for which Hickman probably will be sentenced tomorrow, was the prospect in the Thoms case, which will open Wednesday.

A. Gray Gilmer, attorney for Hunt, said tonight he desired to plead his client guilty providing he can be assured that he can place before the court and for future records, evidence of mitigating circumstances in the boy's favor.

Both Hickman and Hunt have confessed taking part in the holdup on Christmas eve, 1926, which resulted in the death of Thoms.

LINCOLN BIRTHDAY LUNCHEON IN LONDON

LONDON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Viscountess Astor, extolling Abraham Lincoln at a birthday luncheon honoring the American Civil war president today, discussed Anglo-American relations and assailed the "100 per cent citizen" as a menace to international amity. She regarded Lincoln not as the typical American, but the embodiment of the best qualities of the citizens of all countries. His Virginian parentage, she said smilingly, probably explained Lincoln's greatness.

Lady Astor urged unity of feeling between the United States and Great Britain and expressed the conviction that they would be best drawn together by living up to their highest ideals.

Alluding to the question of American unpopularity, Lady Astor said: "England has never been a very popular country, if you come to think of it."

She advised her hearers not to tremeble at the 100 per cent American but to "pity him, and put him in his place."

DURING JANUARY STATE HAD $3,469,514.89 INCOME

HARTFORD, Feb. 13—(AP)—The state of Connecticut had an income of $3,469,514.89 during January, bringing the total receipts since the beginning of the fiscal year on July 1 to $23,599,109.82, according to figures included in reports of the department of finance and control. On January 31, the state had a balance of $9,381,552.86, of which $4,334,248.41 was in the highway fund and $5,047,305.45 in other public expendable funds.

Receipts from licenses, amounting to $1,696,720.86, constituted nearly half of the state's receipts for the month. Taxation receipts during the month also brought in more than $1,000,000, the total from this source being $1,045,062.95.

SCORES ARE SEARCHING FOR MISSING SHERIFFS

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 13—(AP)—Youths suspected of being John Burns and Samuel Baxter, prisoners who disappeared with two deputy sheriffs last Tuesday while en route from here to the Indiana reformatory at Pendleton, were held today in three cities.

Sheriff C. M. Johnston received telegrams from Henderson, Ky., Freeport, Ills., and Gulfport, Florida, saying men answering descriptions of Burns and Baxter were held in those cities and requesting further information concerning the escaped prisoners.

Meanwhile scores of searchers continued to scour the country near here seeking a clue as to the fate of the officers, John P. Grove and Wallace McClure.

A VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY FOR ADOLFO DE LA HUERTA

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 13—(AP)—A verdict of not guilty was returned late today by a jury in federal court here in the trial of Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico and four co-defendants charged with conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws. The verdict acquitted all five.

FOUR DEATHS CAUSED BY DERAILMENT ON THE B. & M.

Seventeen Derailed Freight Cars Overturned Little Station at Balloch, N. H.—Overturned Stove Set Fire to the Wreckage and Four Men Were Burned to Death—Six Men in the Station Were Eating Lunch and Were Unable to Get Out Before the Cars Demolished the Building—One Man Crawled Out and Pulled Another Man From the Wreckage.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Feb. 13—(AP)—The derailment of 17 freight cars which piled up against the Balloch station of the B. and M. railroad this afternoon, caused the death of four men who were trapped in the station. The stove in the little building was overturned, setting fire to the wreckage, and the men were burned to death.

Two others were rescued and taken to the Claremont hospital suffering from severe injuries but are expected to recover. None of the train crew was injured.

The dead: Oscar Sylvester, Louis Marcotte and Ernest Smith, all of Windsor, Vt., members of a railroad section gang, and a man named Leonard, a highway employe.

The train, bound from Claremont Junction to White River Junction, Vt., contained 33 cars. It had just passed a siding near the Balloch station, five miles north of Claremont Junction, when a car some distance back of the locomotive left the rails, followed by 16 others. The front and rear sections of the train remained on the track. Conductor Philip St. Marie and the other members of the train crew except Engineer Henry Lamereaux and his fireman, were in the caboose at the rear.

The six men in the station were eating their lunch. They were unable to get out before the string of cars fell on the building, virtually demolishing it. Mokuin succeeded in crawling out and pulling Pasco from the wreckage.

When additional help arrived the wreckage was in flames and the four imprisoned men could not be reached. Apparatus sent by the Claremont fire department pumped water from the Connecticut river and finally controlled the flames.

Rails were torn up and telegraph and telephone poles and wires carried away, blocking all traffic on the single track line and cutting off communication north of Claremont Junction.

MYSTERY SOLVED BY DEATH OF AN AGED MAN

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 13—(AP)—The death of an aged man who led a secluded life in a Madison rooming house was believed tonight to have solved the mystery which for two years had shrouded the whereabouts of Chester Perry, Boston attorney.

The man, who came here recently from Milwaukee, was known in Madison as "William Rich." In Milwaukee he was said to have gone by the name of "Thomas Wilson," while a Manitoba hunting license found in his room was issued to "Frank Onion." It was believed, however, from papers among his personal effects, that he was Chester Perry."

C. E. Perry, Jr., of Avon, Conn., a son, requested that the body be shipped to Rockland, Mass. Perry was 74 years old and letters found indicated that he had children also in Massachusetts and in Paris, France. Death resulted from pneumonia.

TRUMBULL AND TILSON BUSY IN WASHINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — Immediately after his arrival here this forenoon Governor Trumbull and Congressman Tilson took up with proper official committees the matter of the proposed Veterans' hospital in Connecticut. Later in the day, both Trumbull and Tilson expressed themselves that the matter was progressing favorably and they anticipate favorable action regarding the proposed measure when it comes before congress for action.

TWO BOYS DROWNED AFTER SAVING COMRADE

SAND POINT, Idaho, Feb. 13—(AP)—Wilmer Altman and George Kjellen, high school boys, gave their lives to save that of a companion, who was unable to swim, when their boat upset on Lake Pend Oreille.

Altman and Kjellen were so exhausted by their efforts to right the boat and get the third boy, named Crabtree, into it, that they were unable to clamber aboard. The boat drifted shoreward several hours later and Crabtree was taken to a hospital last night nearly frozen.

REMOVING BODIES FROM THE HOLLINGER GOLD MINE

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 13—(AP)—The grim work of removing the bodies of 39 miners trapped in the smoke-filled passages of the Hollinger gold mine progressed steadily today and emergency crews had brought out about 29 before nightfall and expected to complete their task before tomorrow.

Dense smoke and heavy fumes still hampered the work of the rescuers despite their gas masks. The blaze was reported under control but at the 550-foot level it was still smouldering. Miners believed it would be several days before the fire burned itself out.

T OINSPECT TERMINALS AT NEW LONDON AND MONTAUK

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—Herbert Hartley, former commander of the Leviathan will begin on Wednesday a personal inspection of harbors under consideration as American terminals for the four day trans-Atlantic service planned by the trans-oceanic corporation of the United States.

On Wednesday he will inspect the facilities at Montauk Point, Long Island, on Thursday at New London, Friday, at Providence, R. I., and Narragansett bay, on Saturday at Boston, and at Portland, Me., on Monday.

PROHIBITION ASSAILED IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Prohibition was assailed today in the house by Representatives Gallivan of Massachusetts and Linthicum, of Maryland, both democrats.

Assistant Treasury Secretary Lowman, in charge of enforcement, and the Anti-Saloon league were declared by Gallivan to be subordinating "the constitution" to the 18th amendment. He also demanded the impeachment of Judge Schuldt of the District of Columbia police court for the dismissal of a jury which had acquitted two men in a prohibition case.

Linthicum, who is chairman of the house unofficial committee on the modification of the Volstead act, declared that prohibition had not prevented an increase of liquor consumption and drunkenness. Urging modification to correct "the evils of the present law and to establish true temperance he declared that crime has increased materially, throughout the country and that "prohibition enforcement from the beginning has been characterized by graft, bribery and other corruption."

"Prohibition grows more insolent and intolerant daily," declared Gallivan, "in its effort to distort law and invent new methods of oppressing a foolishly submissive people. The pygmies of prohibition are strangling the American Gulliver and inaugurating a reign of misrule.

"So we have come to the pass where the laws framed to guarantee the personal, political and religious freedom of our citizens are as though written in water," he continued, "the laws limiting the right of search of homes," he added, "have been torn to tatters by an army of spies, sneaks and snellers."

Representative Gallivan, however, declared that Commissioner Doran of the prohibition bureau was the most efficient and able official ever in charge of the enforcement of the law.

THREE MEN OF CREW OF NAVY TUG STILL MISSING

BOSTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Three men of the crew of the U. S. navy tug Mojave missing since they set out for shore last night after the tug ran aground on Harding's Ledge, two miles off Nantasket, were unaccounted for tonight although naval officers held out hopes that they were alive. The tug was fast on the ledge with the other 23 members of the crew safe ashore.

The three missing men, W. J. Enos, of Taunton, engineman; C. H. Reid, Kansas City, mess attendant, and Acy D. Liles of Jackson, Miss., coxswain, started ashore in a punt after the tub struck. Today the punt, right side up, was found on the shore and later this afternoon life preservers which the men are believed to have worn, were found on the beach nearby. Discovery of the life preservers raised the hopes of naval officers that the men reached shore safely and then threw aside the preservers as they set out overland.

SPRINGFIELD "CLUBBER" RENEWS HIS OPERATIONS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 13—(AP)—After several weeks of inactivity, Springfield's "clubber" renewed operations tonight when he tackled a young woman on the Agawam side of the south end bridge, clubbed her over the right eye with a heavy weapon and ran across the bridge, and escaped.

The young woman, whose name has been withheld is the "clubber's" ninth victim.

TWO INSANE HOSPITAL ATTACHES KILLED IN A BREAK MADE BY MANIACS

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., Feb. 13—(AP)—Two attaches of the Bridgewater state insane hospital, were clubbed and strangled to death and three others were injured when six criminally insane inmates attempted a desperate break for liberty early today. The attempted escape was thwarted only after a fierce struggle between the maniacs and all available guards and attendants who were summoned by an alarm.

The dead are Eugene E. Amlaw, a night supervisor and Wilfred Gerrier, a night watchman. Both men had been beaten to death, apparently with a club improvised from the leg of a bed, and strangled.

The injured, all of whom are night watchmen set upon and locked in rooms of the ward, are Thomas Johnson, Michael T. Mullen and John C. Harrington. Their hurts were not regarded as serious.

Handicapped by the absence of living eye witnesses of the killings, officials investigating the affair were obliged largely to resort to conjecture in order to piece together a story of the tragedy. It is believed, however, that one patient, James Melton, who was first to escape from his cell into a corridor actually was responsible for the slayings and that he released five others. Peter Snow, Warren Hegan, Charles A. Miles, John Williams and George W. Davis. The five cell doors had been opened by keys that were taken from the body of Amlaw.

BURGLARS GETS MONEY AND JEWELRY AT JORDAN GARAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 13—Following week and raids by thieves in its sister cities of New London and Norwich, Willimantic was visited by thieves overnight and this morning breaks were discovered at the Jordan Buick company garage, 872-880 Main street and at the Gem theater, 832 Main street. At the garage a large safe which is mounted in a gallery office of the salesroom was broken into by jimmying the combination dial. About $300 in cash was taken along with a sunburst stickpin owned by Fred M. Little, manager of the garage and a platinum pin set with sapphires and diamonds owned by Miss Helen Sweeney, bookkeeper and official of the company. Manager Little said that his pin was valued at $175 and Miss Sweeney estimated her jewel at $125, making a total theft of about $600. A number of checks amounting to $1865 had been removed from the safe and laid to one side but a check-up failed to show any of them missing.

The crooks then went to the rear of the Gem theater building and forced open a glass panel in a small rear door beneath the stage and abutting the railroad property. The robbers visited the various sections of the theatre and jimmied their way into the office which opens from the gallery stairway and is located over the main lobby. The safe was found closed but unlocked, having been left in this manner by Manager John R. Pickett. The visit was fruitless, however, as there was no money in the safe and nothing else of value to be taken.

John F. Shea, who has charge of the tire department at the Buick garage, discovered that the safe had been rifled in a brief investigation after finding that the lock on a door leading from the salesroom into the garage proper had been sprung. Manager Little had been in the garage at 7:45 o'clock Sunday night and nothing had been disturbed up to that time.

A police investigation was immediately launched by Police Chief Thomas F. Grady, County Detective William E. Jackson and two fingerprint experts from Hartford. During the forenoon the investigators had failed to establish the manner in which the thieves had gained entrance to the garage. During the afternoon Captain of Police Frank McLean visited the garage and was shown by Manager Little one window overlooking the driveway which was not equipped with a catch and which might have afforded means of entrance without making "jimmying" necessary. Captain McLean studied the window sill and found footprints. It was evident that there were two thieves as the footprint measurements indicated two sizes of shoes. Gloves had been worn by the crackmen and the fingerprint men failed to secure good specimen to assist them in getting a clue. Other sections of the garage had been somewhat ransacked but nothing more than the money and two pins taken.

At the theater the thieves were also careful about leaving clues and police felt satisfied that both jobs were perpetrated by the same crooks. It is believed that whoever entered the theatre must have been but of medium size as the broken panel through which entrance was effected is considerably limited in size, being but 14 inches wide. The crooks then clambered over the top of a partition and after looking over the basement room went into the theatre auditorium and from there into the lobby. The gallery was then visited and articles in the projection room disturbed. The secluded office door was then found and pried open. A small inner compartment in the interior of the safe showed the effect of a few blows with a chisel but for some reason the work of prying this open was not continued although the crooks had failed to find money. It is probable that for some reason they were frightened away about this time. Further evidence of this is given in the fact that no effort was made to break into an adjoining room used as Manager Pickett's private office. The robbers left through a side exit toward the rear of the building and leading into an alleyway back of the Maverick Laundry. The only ungloved fingerprint which the experts found at either place was on a brass bar in the interior of the exit door at the theatre. The bar was removed and taken to a photographer to secure a photograph of the print. Clear prints on another bar were established to be those of the janitor, Louis Giguere, who discovered the break upon assuming his duties this morning. The prints were made when the janitor closed the door which had been left partly open by the intruders. The foot measurements, the single fingerprint and possibly another clue are all that the police have at present as a basis for an intensive investigation which has been launched and which may be conducted in conjunction with the New London and Norwich police in the event that it is definitely established that it was the same safe crackers who worked in these three cities.

FOUR-YEAR WINDHAM HIGH HONOR ROLL HAS 31 NAMES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 13—Principal Egbert A. Case announced the senior four-year honor roll at a meeting of Lyceum in the Windham high school auditorium this morning. There are 31 pupils on the honor roll, 16 of them being residents of this city. The valedictorian of the class will be William Glowacki of Franklin while Jacob Krug of this city will be salutatorian. Glowacki has an average of 93.40 and Krug 92.63. Walter Adams has attained an average of 92.34. The remainder range from 89.82 to 80.27. The list of honor roll pupils in order of averages follows: William Glowacki, Jacob Krug, Walter Adams, Elizabeth McKinley, Louise Sullivan, Donald Hawtins, Vivian Bushnell, Charles Gabich, Philip Copeland, Robert Kennedy, Doris Caswell, Thelma Welck, Alden Fuller, Ruth Conant, Ruth Clauson, Rebecca Seplowitz, Ruth Bradley, Kathleen Giraca, Anna Dudick, Isadore Anshel, Russell Slate, Catherine White, Amy Tootell, Avis Kentfield, Alva Loiselle, Lucille Andrews, Charlotte Webster, Francis Bartek, Josephine Fitts, Bernice Clark, Yetta Rothblut.

The Lyceum meeting was conducted with a patriotic program with a reading of a lincoln proclamation by Mason Lincoln and a dramatization of The Perfect Tribute by Florence Dale, given by the senior English class. The players were, Howard Reynolds, Philip Park, Marcus Garrison, Philip Doe and Ruth Bradley. Janet Scripture who has been acting president of the organization since the school opening was elected president.

The death of Mrs. Azelie Moison Dubreuil, 67, widow of Paul Dubreuil, occurred at her home, 59 Meadow street Sunday night after a long illness. She was a devoted member of St. Mary's parish and affiliated with the Ladies of Ste. Anne society. The deceased leaves three daughters: Mrs. Arthur Small and Mrs. William Robarge of this city and Mrs. H. D. Fuller of Brooklyn, N. Y.; one son, Alderman Arthur J. Dubreuil of this city; four sisters, Mrs. Louis Cote and Mrs. William Piche of this city, Mrs. Arthur LaPierre of Woonsocket, R. I., and Mrs. Pierre Veglard of Fitchburg, Mass., and three grandchildren, Leon Robarge and Helen and Cecile Killourey of this city.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen Sullivan were held from the family home, 54 Elm street this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock. Rev. Charles M. Kelly was celebrant. With Mrs. E. R. Portelance at the organ, solos were rendered by Miss L. Monica McKeon. The bearers were, Raymond and Christopher Healy of South Windham, Walter and Roger Sullivan, Richard Moriarty and Edward Ashton of this city. All of the bearers are grandsons of the deceased. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where Father Kelly conducted a committal prayer. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

John McShea of Perkins Corner captured a grey fox which he found crawling across the highway near Dolly Stanton's filling station on West Main street while he was driving home from this city Sunday morning. Upon seeing the animal Mr. McShea picked up the crank starter of his car expecting the animal to give him a battle but he found the fox apparently much weakened from either injury or sickness. The animal offered no resistance when picked up by the back of the neck. After showing his catch to friends Mr. McShea took the animal home where it died later in the day.

Abraham Lincoln, the great emancipator, was commemorated at interesting school exercises in this city today. Other than this form of observance the day was noted by a display of flags and the closing of city and town offices and banking institutions. It is not expected that there will be any organized observance of the anniversary of the sinking or the U. S. battleship Maine in Havana harbor on the 15th. School exercises are being planned, however, especially at the Natchaug school, for Washington's birthday on the 22nd, when the lives of both Lincoln and Washington will be reviewed in programs.

Erwin W. Hewitt, 69, native of Lebanon, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harold J. Mason of 84 Prospect street Sunday night. He was born October 10, 1858, a son of George and Anzeline Williams Hewitt. Surviving the deceased are four sons, Arthur E. Hewitt, Everett D. Hewitt, Rodney W. Hewitt and George E. Hewitt, all of Lebanon; two daughters, Mrs. Bernice A. Fowler of Boundbrook, N. J., and Mrs. Gladys H. Mason of this city; a brother, G. Henry Hewitt of Lebanon; and a sister, Miss Harriet E. Hewitt, also of Lebanon.

Under the auspices of the Federation of Franco-American societies of St. Mary's parish, the Jean Nel-Berthaut troupe of Montreal, Canada, appeared in a clever presentation of the drama, L'Emposseoneur, in St. Mary's hall Sunday. A matinee and evening performance were largely attended. The proceeds are to be used in the observance of the 25th anniversary of the parish later this year. Music between the acts was by Jean's orchestra and there were delightful solos and characterizations by members of the troupe. The arrangements for the play were made by a committee comprising: Joseph Lefebvre, president; Alphonse Chagnon, secretary; Mrs. Laura Grenier, Mrs. Jean Baptiste Pepin and Miss Arzelie Rousseau.

William Tracy of Mansfield Hollow who is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital as the result of an automobile accident on the Mansfield Center road, near the city line Sunday afternoon, is suffering from a fractured skull as well as a broken left arm, it was disclosed in an X-ray today. The accident was one in which a car driven by Tracy was in collision with a small truck driven by Wasyl Dwonczyk, also of Mansfield. Dwonczyk was uninjured while George Kirby, Mansfield manufacturer who was a passenger in the Tracy car suffered bruises and slight cuts.

John C. Taber died at his home 209 Church street Sunday night. He was born in Scotland, this state, September 21, 1843, a son of Constant and Pheobe Chapman Taber. He leaves two daughters, Miss Esther B. Taber of this city and Mrs. J. H. Broadfoot of Providence, R. I. Mr. Taber resided in Scotland up to the age of 15 years when he went to Cincinnati, Ohio, where he became a hat manufacturer. During the Civil war he was a member of the 26th Regiment Connecticut Volunteers. He had made his home in this city for a number of years and was highly respected by a wide circle of friends.

Mrs. William Corcoran has been discharged from St. Joseph's hospital where she underwent an operation two weeks ago.

Miss Carolyn B. Cummings returned to her studies at Smith college today upon her recovery from an operation for appendicitis. Her mother, Mrs. Helen Boss Cummings accompanied her and will remain for a few days.

Mrs. Sarah A. Mulkin observed her 90th birthday at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Fred A. Beckwith on Main street Sunday. Among the visitors who came to give their greetings was her nephew, William H. Yeomans of Norwich, her great nephew, Frank Yeomans and son of Manchester and Mr. and Mrs. Morris of Potter Hill, R. I.

Joseph Lebeau and the Misses Marianne and Marie Rose Despathy, who were operated on at St. Joseph's hospital recently by Dr. Joseph A. Girouard, have returned to their homes. Town Clerk and Mrs. Frank P. Fenton have gone to visit in Detroit, Mich., and spent about a month in Stuart, Fla.

Lieut. Harry Generous of East Hartford, formerly of North Windham, who is a deputy aviation commissioner of the state, plans to fly to Miami, Fla. this week, hopping off from Brainard field, Hartford, Wednesday.

Miss Yvonne Desrosiers of Windham road has been discharged from St. Joseph's hospital following an operation.

The Gulf Refining company, through local manager, Walter R. Church, has entered the list of sustaining members of the chamber of commerce with a subscription of $50.

Mrs. H. E. Ricks of Salisbury, N. C., has concluded her week of evangelistic services at the A. M. E. Zion church, the closing service Sunday night evolving into a dramatic scene as members of both the Zion and Calvary Baptist churches joined in a revival and went to the altar for prayer.

Andrew Dziekan, 21, was fined ten dollars and costs, amounting to $16.75 in police court this morning when found guilty of assault on John Wolick.

The operator's license of Oscar H. Gaudreau of Prospect street has been restored according to a notice received by Police Chief Thomas F. Grady, which stated that the suspension of the license last week had been made through a misunderstanding.

Principal H. A. Ellis of the Putnam trade school was here this afternoon to consult further as to the plans for the Willimantic trade school project.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Beebe, Roger and Paul Arnold and Mrs. F. M. Dunstan were visitors at the home of Miss Dorcas Bartlett in Putnam, Sunday.

Mrs. Georgia Baldwin Lee is entertaining her sister, Miss Jesse Baldwin of Forest Hills, L. I.

Miss Louisa Staebner of New York city spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Staebner.

Miss Marion Bass, student at Wellesley college and classmate, Miss Elinor Vivian of Duluth, Minn., are spending a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Bass.

CITY COUNCIL MAKES RULES GOVERNING FIRE DEPARTMENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 13.—The proposition of sewage disposal for the city of Willimantic was brought before the common council at the February meeting tonight in a talk by William F. Copeland, member of the state water commission. Mr. Copeland read a concise article on water pollution and the possibilities of further pollution within the next 20 years. He stressed the necessity of every city and town to find a proper location for the disposal of its sewage. Mr. Copeland advised a comprehensive survey of the time and cost of a sewage disposal plant, which Willimantic should have within the next five years and he recommended an appropriation of $4,000 for the making of this survey by an expert engineer. The matter was given consideration by the council and will be taken up later for action.

It was indicated in a resolution adopted tonight that the police department will soon have added to its administration an acting sergeant. A resolution was adopted to this effect authorizing Mayor Charles A. Gates to appoint an acting sergeant whose duties shall be outlined by the chief at a salary of $35 weekly. It is understood that Officer Grant Bombria, the oldest on the force of regular officers will receive the appointment. Officer Bombria has a long and enviable record with the department.

A number of resolutions were adopted with relation to the fire department. The first was to grant a leave of absence to June 1 to Fire Chief Henry J. Kelly, who is understood to be in poor health. The leave is without pay and may be continued at the discretion of the fire committee. Subsequent resolutions fixed the duties of the call members and their remunerations are effective March 1. In answer to alarms in which water is turned on the captains will receive $8, lieutenants $5, and members $3, and where water is not turned on the respective pays will be $5, $3 and $2. For drills of which there will not be over six in one year they will receive $3, $2 and $2 and for the annual inspection $1 each.

Provision was made by amending sections of the rule that all permanent members will answer alarms whether or not on duty and that none shall leave the city limits without permission. A fine of $1 is fixed for not answering an alarm, and in the event that the amount of fines exceeds the salary a suspension shall become effective.

Resolutions by the street committee recommended the acceptance of Wilson and Tingley streets. The light committee is to cause the installation of lights at the corner Carey and Oak streets, Godfrey street and Windham road, Hayden street and Lebanon avenue, John street and Pleasant street.

The water and street committeees are to consider the petition of residents of upper High street for an extension of about 600 feet in the city water service. The street committee will also consider the acceptance of Anthony street and the appointment of Wilfred Blanchette as tree warden.

A resolution was accepted designating the reservation of space in front of the Gary Transportation Bus station in the Belanger block on Main street for a distance of about 30 feet. On motion of Alderman Jackson a resolution was adopted on the death of the mother of Alderman Arthur J. Dubruiel and City Clerk Arthur L. Clark was introduced to send a fitting floral tribute.

A meeting of the Clerks' Protective association was held at the chamber of commerce rooms tonight with a large attendance with President William E. O'Brien presiding. Action was deferred until a subsequent meeting on matters of importance.

There was a collision of automobiles at the intersection of Main and North streets at 6 o'clock tonight, when cars owned and driven by Edward A. Hillman, of 46 Windham street, and Dog Warden John T. Meikle of 224 South street came together. The fender and running board on the Meikle car was damaged, when the rear of the machine was run into by the coupe driven by Hillman. Mrs. Meikle riding with her husband suffered an injury to her leg. Hillman assumed responsibility and notified Officer Hurley, who investigated, he would settle for damages.

WESTERLY

LINCOLN HOLIDAY ONLY ON CONN. SIDE OF RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 13—Lincoln's birthday was observed in Westerly and Pawcatuck Monday, also Grand Army Flag day, by a generous display of the Stars and Stripes from public and private buildings and by the Shenandoah flags on the main business streets of the town. In Pawcatuck the bank was closed all day for the state legal holiday, although Judge William A. Wilcox, Clerk A. G. Martin and Prosecutor George R. McKenna went from Pawcatuck to Stonington for a session of the Stonington town court.

On the Westerly or Rhode Island side of the river there was no legal holiday and the banks remained open also the town offices. In the public schools special programs were rendered before representatives from the various patriotic organizations of Westerly under direction of Mrs. Rhoda Bliven, patriotic instructor of Budlong Woman's Relief corps. The following organizations were represented: Budlong post, G. A. R.; Budlong Woman's Relief Corps; Hancock Woman's Relief Corps, Harold W. Merrill post, Americana Legion and Harriet Beecher Stowe tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war.

Following is the list of speakers assigned to the various schools: White Rock, Mrs. Sarah Vredenburg, president Harriet Beecher Stowe tent; Mrs. Agnes Livingston, president Budlong W. R. C., and Ida May Clark, past president; Pleasant and High Streets, Commander Samuel Tefft and Acting Quartermaster R. J. Rooney of Budlong post, G. A. DEPIETRO CONSCIOUS—WIFE STILL IN STATE OF COMA

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 13—At the Westerly hospital tonight, where Angelo Depietro, 84 and his wife, Mary, 72, are on the danger list, as the result of asphyxiation Sunday at their home 11 Pearl street, it was reported that the man had partly recovered consciousness. His wife continued in the coma in which she was when removed to the hospital in the ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps, after being found by their son-in-law, when he visited their home Sunday afternoon.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk:

Feb. 13. Maynard Land company of Providence to Charles and Annie Duffus, Lots Nos. 57 and 58, Melrose Heights.

Hiram A. Edmond to Daniel S. Harrington and wife, Ida M., land with buildings and improvements on the south side of Tower street bounded southwesterly partially by lands of the Smith Granite company and partly by lands of the town of Westerly.

Michael Capalbo to John E. Green and wife, Catherine A. Green, land in Bradford, on the westerly side of the highway leading from Westerly.

Thomas Fisher to Albert L. Young real estate with improvements thereon on the southerly side of the Boston post road, and between Westerly and Dunn's Corners.

Work on the excavation of the northern half of Union street at the Main street end was begun Monday when the steam shovel was moved to the Main street end of Cookey Hill after the completion of the southerly section a week ago. Workmen in the employ of the Westerly highway department were engaged in relaying the east end of the curbstone for the south sidewalk, which has been cut down and graded to the new lower level on which the electric pole line and wires have been removed. Three of the large elms which formerly shaded the town hitching and parking area, facing the entrance of the old town hall, now the manual training school building, have been cut down and removed, leaving but one large elm at the south end to be cut down.

Joseph William Chesebro, 76, former Stonington selectman, died Sunday at his home in Wequetequock. He had been in failing health for the past year and had been confined to his home for the past seven weeks. Mr. Chesebro was born in the west, but came here in his youth and had lived the greater part of his life in the town of Stonington. Besides his wife, Lucy Jane Slack, he is survived by a son, Albert Chesebro of Jamestown, R. I. A daughter, Miss Annie Chesebro, died about a year ago.

Monday evening the Colonial club played the fourth in the series of bridge whist matches postponed from last Monday, when play at the High street clubhouse was continued due to numerous conflicting attractions in town. Leaders at present are Frank G. Ahern and Ralph M. Briggs, although hard pressed by five other unbeaten teams of men whose margins are lower.

The other five undefeated teams are Theodore Samuels-Charles P. Eccleston, Charles E. Sherman-Dr. J. DeVere Barber, Edward B. Coy-Addison S. Archie, Howard M. Barber-S. H. Davis and Stuart D. Fisher-F. G. Haswell. No team in the women's division escaped defeat.

The Intra-club bridge whist tournament of the Westerly Square & Compass club, No. 176, will be continued Thursday evening next in the club rooms in the Potter-Langworthy block. At present the team captained by Dwight Freeman leads the team captained by George Smith by a total of 14,778 points.

The annual banquet of Narragansett circle, No. 131, Daughters of Isabella is to be held Monday evening next. The committee in charge includes Miss Nellie Burns, chairman, Mrs. Katherine Shea, Miss Mary Hughes, Miss Mary Healy, Miss Elizabeth Dunn, Mrs. Mary Hughes, Miss Mary Hughes, Miss Mary Shea, Mrs. Mary Nagle and Miss Sophia Canavan.

Mrs. Sarah A. Opie, widow of Philip H. Opie, is confined to her home on High street by illness.

Westerly section men of the New Haven railroad took advantage of favorable weather conditions Monday to burn old sleepers piled up along the right of way.

Fred S. Opie, who has been at his Westerly home the past two weeks, will return this (Tuesday) evening to his winter home in Daytona, Fla.

Mrs. Thomas E. Robinson was in Providence Monday.

Rufus F. Stiles returned to New York Monday morning on the Colonial express.

Post Office Inspector Charles H. Pendleton returned to Providence on Monday morning after passing the week end at home.

Michael Leary returned the past week to his home in Taunton, Mass., after visiting Pawcatuck friends.

David L. Doherty and Mary McPhail were witnesses the past week at the Ryan-Dow wedding in Westerly.

Dr. John Champlin, was in Providence Monday.

Miss Margaret W. Grant returned on Sunday night to Putnam.

Charles H. Weimough formerly of Arcadia, R. I., and John H. Simpson moved with their families from Attleboro, Mass., to Westerly, to be with the Traco Finishing Company, Inc., specializing the finishing tracing, book and tag cloth, purchasers Jan. 21st of the White Rock mill.

NOANK

SAWED ICE TOO HARD AND GOT INTO THE POND

Eugene Mallett was sawing the eight-inch ice at Avery pond in Mystic Saturday afternoon as the clock hand was getting around to quitting time and sawed himself into the pond out of sight into the icy water. On the way down he lost the ice saw. He was unable to get out of the water for his hands could not hold on to the ice. Howard Brown, an old life saver, who was at a station in Boston for many years and who saw many boats smashed to pieces and had brought many seamen ashore, coming on the run to the spot where the young man was struggling, pulled him out of the cold water after a little work. So he was drying out for an hour in the shop where there was a good fire when some one said "How did you like your swim?" "Not this weather!" was the answer. "But it was getting wet at 4:30 o'clock when everybody was ready to go home that made me mad—not to fall in at 2 o'clock! But accidents will happen to the best of them!" His pal Brown who got him out of the pond stayed until he got dry and both men reached home at 7 o'clock. Mallette was none the worse off for his February wetting.

Noank Red Sox Girls' basketball team got together for the first time this season and played the fast going Happy Five team in the village hall before 150 excited fans. The Happy Five team had blue suits with a large H on the blouse, also blue sox. They were in charge of Miss Mary Wiggins. The Noank girls had their red sox on with the Harvard colored suits. Miss Joe Shandeor was the coach. The Middletown fair ladies were not used to the court on account of it being small. Then Referee Stretch Moran told the teams the rules. Jenseen got the first score for the village vamps. Miss Julia Cross, star ball tosser for Happy Five was putting in some pretty shots, before Quick Marian McDonald got working and kept right after her. The first half ended Red Sox 17, Happy Five 17. The ball was sailing around the hall like the Spirit of St. Louis on a trip and it was a back-board shot by hard worker Miss Mildred Daboll that gave the girls of the village the game. Final score, Red Sox 26, Happy Five 25. Referee, Moran; scorer, Lamay; timer, R. Abate. The team from Middletown was taken down to the Golden Rod club rooms where a New England supper was served, also ice cream and cake with tea. In the evening they went to the Smoke Eaters' dance for another good time. Sunday with bars and suit cases they went back to Middletown, having had the best time in any small town since starting to play, five years ago. The girls gave three cheers for the village of Noank and the Red Sox team. A return game will be played in that city next month.

George Deveau spent a day in Montville recently.

Harry Butson has gone to Long Island for a few days.

Steamer Biard was tried again Saturday morning to be hauled out on the big ways, and getting just where the steamer was to stay to be worked on, the chain broke again, and it was a sleigh ride back into the water, making the second time in a week. Engineer Catson said it is no use for the boat is too heavy for the ways and the chain. It was reported that it will go over to the Ship & Engine plant to be hauled out and a new chain will be put in place. Steamer Biard sure has the Indian sign on that chain.

The Boy Scouts troop in their brown suits and red handkerchiefs, met at Scout hall Sunday evening in charge of Scoutmaster Clifford Phelps. The colors were carried by Frank Eldredge as they marched to the Baptist church and had special seats to hear Rev. E. E. Weise tell about the life of Abraham Lincoln. Special music was given by the church orchestra. Twenty-five well built Scouts were in the troop.

John Singer of Bridgeport spent the week end in the village.

Word was received by Charles Butson of the death of his brother, Sidney on Long Island, at the home of Mrs Arthur Hammond. He was a resident of the village for several years, worked at the shipyard and was well liked by everyone. Mr. and Mrs. Butson and family have left for Long Island to attend the funeral.

Infant Care

Mothers, you can't start too early to establish a child's serene and tranquil disposition. Even an infant can have a happy, fretless state of uninterrupted health. What will help do this? A simple, purely vegetable product as old as you are: plain Castoria.

A few drops of Castoria will settle all uneasiness in a jiffy. Will dispel colic or ward off constipation; and just as surely check diarrhea.

In real sickness, call a physician. But many physicians urge only Castoria for those little childish disorders that need nothing more. You need never be afraid to give pure Castoria. It is safe and perfectly harmless, for it contains no paregoric, no opiates, no dope of any kind. At least, this is true of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria—and that is the kind doctors tell you always to buy.

Fletcher's Castoria is fine for any child. All children love to take it. Delicious tasting, and as good as it tastes. Just look for the Fletcher signature on the package and you will know you have the genuine and pure Castoria.

"SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

DANIELSON

PEOPLE START WORRYING ABOUT INCOME TAX

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 13.—Attention is being called to the fact that March 15 is the time limit for filing income tax returns. All single persons who had a net income of $1500 or more or a gross income of $5,000 or more, all married persons with a net income of $3,500 or more or a gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

Forms on which to make the returns were sent to many in Danielson several weeks ago by the collector of internal revenue for Connecticut and those who have not received them and need them can obtain them at local banks.

The forms mostly in use here are 1040A and 1040. The tax rate is 1 1-4 per cent. on the first $4,000 of income in excess of personal income and credits, 3 per cent. on the next $4,000 and 5 per cent. on the balance. There is a surtax on net incomes in excess of $10,000.

Banks here have given assistance in making out income tax returns for the past number of years, and will continue the arrangement this year. Attorneys, too, have taken care of the preparation of returns for numbers of their clients. This year, as plans now are, the government will not send a deputy collector here to help make out returns, because of lack of funds to meet the expense.

FRENCH REPUBLICAN CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED HERE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 13.—Attorney Louis A. Woisard, secretary of the Windham county organization of the newly formed Associated French Republican Clubs of Connecticut, said this afternoon that steps are to be taken at once to perfect the county group, which will have a representative of each of the 15 towns. Following this the building up of the town organizations will begin.

These clubs promise to be particularly large and strong in Windham county, which has a heavy French-Canadian population and fully as much so in some of the New London county towns with heavy percentages of French people.

The object of these associated clubs was set forth in The Bulletin this morning, following a meeting held by projectors of the associated clubs at the Hotel Bond in Hartford on Sunday.

A particular compliment was paid this section of the state by naming Senator Urgele LaFrance as president. Senator LaFrance, of Central Village, also is a commissioner of Windham county. Because he has divested himself of many of his business cares, Senator LaFrance was rather insistent in repeatedly declining the nomination, but the convention would not hear of it, and he was elected.

Here in Killingly there is an unusual opportunity to build up one of the largest clubs in the state. Possibly as much as two or three months time will elapse before organization of the town clubs begin, but it is hoped to have them functioning by summer and to have them very active in the state and national elections that are to come next fall.

Mammoth minstrels tonight, K. H. S. auditorium; 75 cents; exchange tickets today at Burroughs and Hopkins, 2.30 to 4.30.—adv.

Danielson was well represented tonight in the cast of the Putnam Community minstrels given in the Bradley theater in that city and sponsored by the Parent-Teachers' association, the D. A. R., and the Y. M. C. A. Sidney P. Marland was interlocutor. Other Danielson people in the cast were: Burdette C. Hopkins, Ralph Shoales and Henry Bodo, as end men; Herbert H. Pepler, Earle F. Winslow, Gordon J. Gale and Harold Roberts, constituting the Rotary quartet; Thomas Day, Robert Grennon and Elwood Spencer, saxophone trio; Clinton Ellison and his orchestra. Mrs. Myra Frink, Brooklyn, also was a member of the cast.

This morning Philip Burnham, who lives near Ballouville, was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court to answer to a violation of the motor vehicle laws—failure to grant the right of way just before his machine was in collision with a bakery truck driven by Howard Orcutt of Providence at the Attawaugan mill corner Saturday morning. Judge Woodward fined Burnham $5 and costs, remitting $4 of the fine. In the accident Burnham received a minor cut over one eye. His machine was quite badly damaged.

Twenty-five dwellings are being erected for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company at its plant at Cedartown, Ga., where Ira A. McDaniel, formerly treasurer of the Goodyear mills in this town, is in charge in like capacity. This entire unit of the big corporation's textile manufacturing activities has been developed within the past few years. At the present time the company is also building a textile plant in Australia.

Reports of idle rents in many towns ad sections of New England reminds that Danielson is one place where exceedingly few rents are available, and that there is a constant quest for such by those who would like to make their home here. In a winter marked by much unemployment and stagnant business conditions in many parts of New England, Danielson appears to be very fortunate.

Few changes in the official personnel of Danielson's borough government is forecasted for the coming administrative year, which begins in April. The coming month will bring the annual borough caucus for the nomination of officers for the ensuing year. For years only one ticket has been put in the field—the Citizens' ticket, so the elections have been largely non-partisan. Danielson for years has been so fortunate as to have efficient men as wardens and members of the court of burgesses, and has had their services, it may be mentioned, without paying them any salaries. They have served for the welfare of the fellow citizens.

A somewhat different program for Dollar day than has marked several events of the kind here during the past two or three years is planned by the merchants committee of the chamber of commerce for the latter part of this month. Decorations and music by a band and drum corps are to be included in the new plan for observing the day. Over and above all else, business men are being urged to give unsurpassed Dollar day values, and this is to be done.

Trucks of the state highway department have been hauling sand-like material for use on icy hills or on stretches of state highway that have been made treacherous for travel by thin sheets of ice. A good reserve supply of this material is kept on hand throughout the winter.

Louis Kohler has been confined to his home for several days as the result of injuries he received on a recent morning when he slipped and fell on a bit of ice while on his way to work.

Dr. J. C. Maslen is en route with his automobile to spend four or five weeks in Florida and other southern states.

George E. Danielson is dangerously ill at his home on Maple street.

When the members of the W. C. T. U. meet at the Westfield Congregational church Tuesday afternoon County President Mrs. Mary F. Stearns of Willimantic will be the speaker.

County Sealer Gaston A. Maindon is confined by illness to his home on Winter street.

Temperatures as low as 5 above zero were reported in Danielson early this morning.

In observance of Lincoln's anniversary there was the usual sidewalk display of flags for holiday occasions in Danielson today.

The plan today was to begin harvesting ice at Quinebaug lake Tuesday morning, when good ice of about 8-inch quality likely will be available.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Getty of Boston were visitors here today with Mr. Getty's mother, Mrs. Eloi Getty of Academy street.

W. S. Brown was engaged with a force of men today in harvesting ice for his Shepard hill farm, near Wauregan.

Numbers of the Danielson members of Putnam lodge of Elks will be in Putnam Tuesday evening to attend the past exalted rulers' gathering, as mentioned in the news from that city this morning.

Exercises appropriate to the observance of the Lincoln's birthday were held in schools in Killingly today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Witter were visitors in Providence today.

A meeting of the Tataporchon Camp Fire Girls was held at the Westfield Congregational church this evening.

Rev. Myron E. Genter, Norwich, district superintendent, came here this evening to conduct the fourth quarterly conference at the Methodist Episcopal church.

E. O. Wood is reported as continuing to make progress toward full recovery from the injuries he received when struck by an automobile the past month.

Danielson's Rotary club has made special preparations for its ladies' night meeting, scheduled for Thursday.

Burdening the mails here today were Valentine's day remembrances, which in many instances are particularly pretty and sentimentally sweet this year.

STONINGTON

LOCAL GIRL WHITE SISTER—PROFESSED IN PARIS

Miss Adelle Moffett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Moffett of Summitt street, was professed as a white Sister in Paris Saturday. She will leave Paris Feb. 22 and upon arriving in this country will enter on a teaching course in Fair Haven, Mass.

John Carlson is in New York on a business trip.

Henry Friedman and Edmund P. Hyde of Stonington were the winners in the open elimination bridge tournament conducted at the John Winthrop club, New London. There were 66 entries in the tournament. The winners were presented silver cups and similar smaller trophies were awarded the runners-up. After the match Friedmand and Hyde gave a supper to a number of Westerly and Stonington friends.

Joseph Paccho and family moved here from Fall River, Mass., Saturday.

Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Williams have been in Germantown, Pa., attending the funeral of a relative.

Thomas P. Shanley of Providence visited here Saturday.

Saturday night about 7 o'clock, Officer Charles McCoart of Stonington rescued a 4 year old child from being run over by a New Bedford truck, on Elm street. The child darted out into the highway to recover a ball which had rolled away, directly in front of the truck. The officer leaped from the sidewalk and seized the child just in time to prevent the front wheels from passing over it.

Monday at 7:15 a. m., in St. Mary's church there was a month's mind mass of requiem for John Powers.

Antonio Avellar, Mrs. Joseph Pascoe and Mr. and Mrs. A. Moffett spent the week end in New Bedford.

The pupils of Stonington high school presented "Henry the Eighth" at assembly Friday morning, under direction of the English department.

Real estate transfers in the town of Stonington for the week ending Feb. 11, were: William J. Williams to Chelsea J. Williams, land near Old Mystic. Mary E. Picard, estate to Louis and Morris Silverstein, lots 155, 156 on Highlands, Pawcatuck. Herbert R. Palmer to William N. Palmer, half interest in lands on Wamphassur Farms, so-called.

William N. Palmer to Herbert R. Palmer, lot on Wamphassuc Farms, Mason's Island. Co. to Leon E. McLaughlin of New London, Conn., lot No. 24, Saltair Plan, Mason's Island. Richard M. Borough to Herbert M. Stoops, lot on Mason's Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Squadrito and son Cornelius spent Sunday in New Britain.

The journey from Cairo to Bagdad may be made in one day under the new timetable of Imperial Airways.

PUTNAM

THOMPSON LOSES ONE OF ITS PIONEER RESIDENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 13.—With the passing of Tusette Bousquet of Mechanicsville, Thompson loses one of its oldest residents. Mr. Bousquet was one of the first settlers in the little mill village north of Putnam. Mr. Bousquet died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Kelly of Worcester early Sunday morning.

Tusette Bousquet was born in St. Denis, P. Q., Canada, on August 19, 1838. At the age of 21 he came to the United States and settled in Michigan. He remained in this country a short time when he returned to Canada. He married Miss Amime LaMonthe of St. Anthony, P. Q. Mr. Bousquet and his wife then came to the states again and settled in Putnam in 1861. Mr. Bousquet lived in Putnam only a short time when he moved to Thompson, in this village of what is now known as Mechanicsville, where he conducted a small shoe repair shop.

Nine children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Bousquet all of whom survive him, four sons, Omer J. and Henry of Mechanicsville, Ernest of Putnam, and Come of North Woodstock. There are four daughters, Mrs. Eugene Kelly of Worcester, Mrs. Charles Root of Worcester, Miss Mary of North Annsville, and Mrs. F. O. Scudder of Mecond, Mississippi and Mrs. Joseph LeBlanc of Marlboro, Mass. Mr. Bousquet also leaves many grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The birthday of Abraham Lincoln was fittingly observed at the Second Congregational church on Sunday evening. The church society presented the movie "Abraham Lincoln." The role of the Great Emancipator was enacted by George Billings, whose countenance is very similar to that of Lincoln's.

Between the reels the congregation sang the songs that were popular during the strife of '61. The attendance at this showing was large. Mr. Billings portrayed the life of "Honest Abe," as it is given by all historians. Next Sunday evening at the "Friendly Evening" services there will be special musical services.

Mrs. Virgenia Tetreault, wife of Dr. Philas Tetreault died Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at her home on Providence street. Mrs. Tetreault had been suffering from a lingering illness.

She was born in Moncton, N. B., on September 8, 1892, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred LeBlanc. She was married on July 26, 1922, to Dr. Philas Tetreault of Pawtucket. Two children were born of their marriage, both boys, Paul aged two years and John aged three years.

Flags of the Shenandoah system were flying in front of all the business houses Monday in observance of Lincoln's birthday. This was adopted by the merchants of Putnam a few years ago and this city is one of the few in the state to use Old Glory to beautify the streets on national holidays.

Maurice Mulor, an official of the Church Clothing company was taken to the Day Kimball hospital Sunday for an operation for acute appendicitis. Mr. Mulor was suffering from the disease and he is in a critical condition. He was reported by the hospital authorities Monday as being as comfortable as could be expected under the circumstances. Mr. Mulor is the secretary of the Church Clothing company and is well known by the people of Putnam and in surrounding towns.

Albert Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Robinson of Church street spent the week end with his parents. Mr. Robinson is connected with an insurance agency in Hartford.

Galen Pike of Yale university in New Haven spent the week end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Pike, of East Woodstock.

Miss Anne Hogan of New York university spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hogan of Tatem street. Miss Hogan returned to her studies Monday.

The work of a few green tickets attached to a steering wheel of automobiles has aided greatly in enforcing parking regulations in the fire lane on Main street. The yellow signs that had been placed by the city council on the old trolley posts were being heeded by delinquent drivers who were parking their cars in the space reserved for the fire companies.

Captain Jarvis of the local police department started tagging a few of the careless parkers and the result has been amazing. A passer-by rarely finds a car in the reserved space since the police captain started to enforce the regulation as to parking on the west side of Main street.

The adjourned meeting of the city council will be held this (Tuesday) evening at the council chamber of the Municipal building on Church street. It is expected that the citizens committee will meet the water commissioners to thrash out the long discussed special city meeting for the improvement of the waterworks of the city.

A Valentine social was held Monday evening in Odd Fellows' hall by the members of the Putnam grange, No. 97. The first number on the program was a rustic duet, by Byron Howard and Mrs. Daniel J. Durand. This was followed by an agricultural talk by H. J. Dunlevey of the department of agriculture and poultry of Tourtellotte Memorial high school in North Grosvenordale. The last number was a one act play, "The Flivver Family." The cast was: The father, Clarence Myers; son, John Myers; the mother, Victoria Durand; a flapper daughter, Irene Bruce. After the play the evening was spent in dancing. The next social meeting of the organization will be a musical entertainment in charge of Miss Catherine Byrne. This will be on February 27.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co., and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

JEWETT CITY

QUINEBAUG CAMP ASS'N. MAKES HIT WITH MINSTRELS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 13.—The Minstrel and Revue presented by Quinebaug Camps Association, Inc., in Finn Opera house Monday evening was given to a packed house, every seat having been sold days ago. The performance exceeded every anticipation, in specialty numbers, jokes and chorus singing. The stage settings and costumes were the most gorgeous and artistically blended ever seen in the theatre. When the curtain rose, 31 young men were seated before a glistening cyclorama of jade and silver radium trimmings. Floor lamps and candelabra with exquisite shades and gay cushions completed a wonderful background. On a raised platform covered with willow grass rugs the orchestra was seated, the grand piano being draped with a Spanish shawl. The costumes of the artists were most elaborate. The two premier end men, Earl Hiscox and John LeClaire, had gold Tuxedos with purple trimmings. The other four end men were attired in gold full dress suits with purple trimmings. The members of the circle wore white satin Argentine outfits with purple ties, gold sashes, Valentino hats and gold turbans. Four of the men wore purple Argentine jackets, white trousers and sashes. The interlocutor was in green plush and ten-gallon hat. The orchestra, Tyler Gilbert, violin; Clarence Leathers, saxophone; Wilfred Lamothe, drum, and James Olson, piano, had modern Tuxedos. The entire entertainment was full of pep, and was accorded round after round of applause. The program included:

First Part—Opening chorus; Henry Made a Lady Out of Lizzie, Foster Harrington; Charmaine, John McCarthy; Magnolia, John LeClaire; Specialty Dance, Albert Bryant; I'm Gonna Dance Wit De Guy What Brung Me, Lionel Boucher; Everybody Loves My Girl, George Ritchie; You Only Want Me When You're Lonesome, Charles Donahue; It All Belongs to Me, Daniel O'Brien; Silver Moon, George LaFleur; Ice Cream, Earl Hiscox. First Part Finale, Hallelujah, entire company. Second Part—Our Quartette, Earl Hiscox, Henry Ouillette, Thomas Barnett, John McCarthy; Specialty Dance, Albert Bryant; Song, George LaFleur; Charleston, Joseph Monarski; Something Different By, Earl Hiscox.

The second part opened with a specialty Spanish dance, by Helen Pajak and Joseph Monarski, both in Spanish costume. The graceful rhythm of the dance won a round of applause and this number was finely executed. Just before the grand finale, George LeFleur sang Dianne, while Helen Pajak and Joseph Monarski danced the waltz. Miss Pajak was dressed in a ball gown of black lace over flowered silk, her partner in a Tuxedo suit. It was an exceedingly effective number, charmingly performed. All the specialty numbers in the second part were repeatedly encored. The selections by the male quartet were especially well sung, the voices being well balanced and very melodious.

The splendid work of the men was due to their natural ability, and the training they received from skilled coaches. Mrs. Alex McNicol and Herbert Thompson were the directors and spared no work or time to make the minstrel the unequalled success it proved to be. They were ably supported by the committee, Eudor LeClaire, Herbert Thompson, William McGovern, Ernie Raney, Tyler Gilbert.

THIS BUTTONHOOK THIEF STOLE $20 AT GLASGO

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 13.—Deputy Sheriff Dolan brought Charles F. King of Pawtucket to the local jail today, charged with stealing. His case will be tried Tuesday. The man is staying with relatives in Glasgo, and while Mrs. Oscar Shaw was out of her house, he opened the door with a button hook and stole $20 from a mantelpiece. The money was the receipts from the movies. He stole the money last Friday and went to Pawtucket. There he paid out $17.50 on a grocery bill. All the officer got was 80 cents of the whole amount.

A mistake in the number of feet the machine slid after hitting the railroad gates Saturday night should be corrected. It was 88 feet, not 8 as printed.

Mrs. Lena Parent and son, Jesse, and Mrs. Charles Larue of Jewett City spent Sunday at Mrs. Arthur Millard's, at Quinebaug Camps.

Mrs. Mary Read is moving Wednesday from East Killingly to live at the corner of North Main and Grant streets.

PLAINFIELD

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Royle for their son Ernest on his birthday. He was very much surprised to find about eighteen of his friends waiting for him, when he returned home from doing an errand. Games were played and dancing was enjoyed during the evening. The young people presented him a fountain pen and he received several other gifts. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Royle assisted by Mrs. C. M. Robinson of Wauregan.

Funeral services for Herbert W. Parkhurst was held at the First Congregational church Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The bearers were Elmer Greene, Roy Barstow, Cecil Butler and Walter Lathrop. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, and the floral tributes were beautiful. Burial was in the family lot in the Packer cemetery.

Saturday evening the Odd Ladies' held a whist at the Community house. There was a large attendance. The prizes were won by Miss Florence Radcliffe, Miss Edith Johnson, Mrs. Irving Flagg, Mr. Heyes, S. Tetlow and Asa Hilton. Refreshments were served.

Mr. Robert Flowers was in Norwich and Baltic Saturday.

Mrs. Mercier is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Holmes.

A birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vaillant for their daughter Phyllis on her seventh birthday. Games were played and refreshments were served by Miss Dorothy Vaillant, assisted by Miss Mabel Muldoon. Those present were Fred Opperman, Clifford Shippee, Carlos Prentiss, Gladys Opperman, Helen Dawley, Shirley Muldoon, Gertrude Gardner.

The calendar of the First Congregational church, was given Sunday by the Lincoln club, in recognition of Lincoln's birthday.

The Sunday evening service was held in the auditorium, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society. The pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss was assisted by the president of the society. Alfred Royle, Topic, Choosing A Life Partner. There was a vocal solo by Mrs. Carl Butler.

Rev. Walter Stone recently tendered his resignation at Canterbury Congregational church, to take effect March 1st. It has been known from the first that Mr. Stone intended to continue his studies as soon as conditions permitted. Since last September Mr. Stone has been studying at Gordon Theological school in Boston, coming to Canterbury each week end.

Mr. Stone is a young man of pleasing personality whose devotion to his work and to principle has done much for the Canterbury Green church. The Christian Endeavor society has been revived, a Boy Scout troop organized, and a Men's club formed. Mr. Stone is a native of New Fairfield, near Derby, Conn., and his studies have been in part at the New England Theological school, Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Stone have made many friends in Plainfield and Canterbury.

When Deborah Avery chapter, D. A. R., met at the home of Mrs. Stuart Ellsworth in Central Village Mrs. Seaton of Moosup read an interesting paper on Old Homes of New England. Mrs. Wallace Payne read The Story of the Flag. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Misses Katherine and Joan Kirby were recent visitors in New London.

Richard Hetherston and family have moved into the house with Mrs. Hetherston's mother, Mrs. George Bayreuther.

David Ratcliffe received word recently of the death of his brother, William W., in England. He was connected with the Primitive Methodist church, Middleton Road, Chadderton. The church suffered a great loss through his sudden death at his home after a brief illness of one of the most loyal and its hardest working members. He had been connected with the church and Sunday school for about forty years and was an active worker up to Christmas. For many years he was a trustee and up to quite recently always acted as the church representative at the meetings of the Manchester district committee. As senior superintendent at the Sunday school he officiated for about 17 years and was also a class teacher. He took an active part in everything connected with the church, from the amateur operatic society to the Boys' brigade, and two years ago celebrated his 70th birthday by opening the church bazaar. Burial was in St. Matthew's church, Chadderton, the Rev. C. Moore (circuit minister) conducting the service.

HOOVER'S DECLARATION

Herbert Hoover has had no part up to now in the putting forth of his name as a candidate for the presidential nomination at the hands of the republican party. He has spoken, as his letter says, at the solicitation of his friends who want to use his name in the Ohio primary. He gives his consent at this time because it is necessary in order to comply with requirements, but he makes it plain that his campaign is entirely in the hands of his friends for he cannot participate in it himself.

More than the usual interest is attached to this statement because Senator Willis of Ohio has proclaimed himself that state's favorite son and he appears to be somewhat upset because there are those in Ohio who are desirous of giving their support to Mr. Hoover. With Senator Willis in control of the organization in Ohio it is anticipated that he will get most of the delegates. As a son of Ohio that would not be strange under the circumstances. For that reason the test can hardly be looked upon as a fair one. It is not the same as if the merits of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Willis were being submitted to the voters of some other state for preference.

And yet the only way in which the people can have a chance to express themselves for Mr. Hoover is through just such consent as he has given for his name to be entered in the primary of that state. His course is not for the purpose of antagonizing Mr. Willis but it is quite evident that Mr. Willis isn't reconciled to the situation. His comment upon the statement by Mr. Hoover clearly displays his feeling. He regards Mr. Hoover as an intruder and overlooks the fact that in fairness to all of the republicans of Ohio they should have a chance to express themselves in regard to any one of the several who have been mentioned as possible presidential timber, if they so desire.

In expressing himself as a supporter of Coolidge policies and in declining to campaign for himself, Mr. Hoover is certain to strengthen himself before the people of this country. It certainly will have no detrimental effect upon his candidacy when he leaves it entirely in the hands of his friends while he sticks to his work.

COLCHESTER'S PREDICAMENT

Much sympathy is bound to be manifested for the town of Colchester in the loss of the railroad service through the discontinuance of trains on the Airline division of the New Haven road. Colchester is in the position of many other towns and cities for that matter, for railroad service today is only a semblance of what it used to be. There were days when numerous passenger trains were operated on branch lines, but such is not the case today. Public transportation is by other methods. Just as long as the public patronized the railroad to the point where it could make a profit, and even after it was able to pay expenses, trains were maintained. There came the time when it was evident that public patronage indicated that it no longer wanted railroad service. That may have been inferential, but if a railroad fails to get sufficient patronage to keep its trains running there's no other conclusion to be reached.

Changing conditions, with the bus lines, the trucks and the many private automobiles, have had serious effects upon the railroads. Like the trolley roads, it can hardly be expected that they should be kept in operation just for the purpose of keeping the rust off the rails. If there is inadequate patronage, if there is not enough business to warrant operation it is a time to turn attention to the development of other means of transportation.

Railroad service has dwindled and gone because the public has shown favor to something else. The situation is bound to be unpleasant and bothersome for a certain number until a substitute is provided. This has been furnished by the railroads in many instances, but whether that is possible at Colchester is a question.

REDUCING HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS

In most every state the problem of bringing about a reduction in the number of highway accidents is a real one. The number has been too large in the past but it grows each year with such regularity that it is possible to estimate very closely to the number who will be killed during the present year.

It is desirable that the number be lowered instead of increased. Too many are meeting untimely deaths now and whatever steps can be taken for the purpose of reducing the number of pedestrians killed or injured the effort deserves commendation, although it may not be as well planned as some other.

In Rhode Island at the present time the Automobile club of that state is advocating legislation which would require pedestrians to walk on the left hand side of the road in order that they may see traffic and be able to get out of the way of it instead of having it approach them from the rear. This is a scheme that has been tried abroad and in some parts of this country, but this seems to place the responsibility of getting out of the way on the pedestrian, when it is to be feared the pedestrian has his rights in the highway quite the same as the automobile.

Pedestrians make use of the improved highways for the same reason that automobiles do. They do not like to travel in the rough, and yet they and the auto driver know that there is danger at night in walking in the path of auto traffic. Their presence is often disclosed too late to avoid an accident.

Rhode Island has as yet come to no decision but the idea of walking on the left hand side of the road is meeting opposition. Such a situation has been met in some places by building sidewalks for the pedestrians. This plan could be carried out where modern roads go through thickly settled localities even if not through the open country. Another proposal would require the pedestrian to carry a light or wear a reflector on his arm in order that auto traffic might get warning of his position a sufficient time in advance to turn out for him.

The thousands of needless deaths each year on the highways should be greatly reduced and there is need not only for the use of all reasonable precautions and methods but the exercise of a proper amount of care by all concerned.

PRIVATE CAPITAL WILLING

While there are those who maintain that there is no interest on the part of private capital and that the merchant marine of this country will amount to nothing until the government gets back of it in a different way, it is impossible to overlook the interest that is being manifested by private capital relative to the ships which sail from Pacific ports.

Bids have been asked by the shipping board for four lines of ships running from Pacific coast ports. These lines are not related and it is to be realized that in making the bids corporations are not contemplating the competition that would come from the government plunging into permanent federal ownership of merchant vessels.

The bids have not been passed upon as yet but it is maintained that they are high, that they represent independent operators and that in making the bids the bidders understand that they guarantee to maintain the service which is rendered by the lines at the present time. In other words, the sale of the lines to private enterprise would not mean the termination of trade routes which have been established and the use of the vessels in other service. If the sale goes through it would mean the disposal of 39 more of the government owned ships on which a loss through operation is being piled up each year.

Should the deal go through there would still be enough government owned vessels left, but it would mean an appreciable increase in the vessels owned and operated by private capital and that display of interest in shipping activities on the part of private capital is one which cannot be overlooked in these days when government ownership is being urged on the ground that private capital is not anxious to buy and operate ships. It is believed that much encouragement might be given to private capital through changes in existing legislation, which would serve to eliminate some of the handicaps faced at the present time, but apparently private capital in this country is ready and willing to go if it is given a chance. Most certainly it cannot be expected to be interested if it must buck government operation and bothersome legislation.

UNCLE SAM'S POSITION

Perhaps he regarded it as an excellent opportunity to direct attention to the situation which exists and the responsibility which rests upon the shoulders of Uncle Sam in Nicaragua, but whether he did or not, the British charge d'affairs in that republic accomplished that very thing.

When he called the attention of the United States to the fact that Sandino and his men were seizing property belonging to British subjects in Nicaragua and asked what the United States was doing for the protection of British lives and property, he was acting as we wanted him to. That was his alternative to taking charge of such a situation himself.

There have been times when the British have even seized custom houses in Nicaragua in order to collect what was due them. Last year British ships were sent to that country for the protection of British lives. That can be expected unless this country lives up to its position under the Monroe doctrine and sees that difficulties are straightened out without European pressure. As long as we have given assurance to Europeans that we will protect their interests, we must expect to be called upon when conditions demand that we act. With the British looking to us to see that the British in Nicaragua are protected against outlaw bands they are doing as we expect. It then remains for us to require Nicaragua to meet the situation or to do it ourselves.

How this works and the desirability of it rather than a foreign invasion or complication, ought to be better understood by some of the republics whose delegates have spoken at the Pan-American conference at Havana.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Being Valentine day, don't let the pleasure be yours alone.

Who will be the first president to have a fleet of airplanes in the white house hangar?

"Strong Pleas for Onions," says a headline. Just as if they didn't make strong pleas for themselves.

The man on the corner says: With Valentines or something else, it isn't what you want, it's what you get.

Seed business is reported quiet. That is probably due to the fact that the home gardeners haven't as yet been stirred to action.

It is estimated that there will be about 20,000 more autos in Massachusetts this year. How many more fatalities will that mean?

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—In the population of the ten soldiers' homes for volunteer soldiers maintained by the government, World war veterans are in the lead. There are about 30,000 war veterans in these homes, of them 41 per cent are World war veterans, 40 per cent Spanish war and only 19 per cent Civil war veterans, so rapidly are the ranks of the latter thinning.

There is a steady increase in the number of veterans of the Spanish and World wars, and eventually the government must prepare to meet the increase and expand its present facilities by more than 300 per cent to care for World war veterans. This is the estimate made by General Wood, manager in charge of the board of soldiers' homes. The present cost of maintenance of these homes is a little more than $8,500,000 a year.

General Wood states that it took more than 25 years from the close of the Civil war to reach the peak of membership in such homes, which was about 1 per cent, or which in round numbers was 20,000, as the total enlistment in the Civil war was 2,000,000. Twenty-five years after the close of the Spanish war there were 7,000 of that war residing in homes, which was 1 3-8 per cent, showing a marked increase in per cent. Basing estimates on that increase, it is estimated that in 25 years after the close of the World war there would be 63,000 men in such homes. Up to date, 40,000 World war veterans have been admitted.

The homes are located in different sections of the country, the eastern branch being at Taugus, Maine. The veterans are furnished a home, food, clothing, tobacco to a limited amount. There are libraries, motion pictures and other forms of entertainment paid for out of the amusement fund, music and sometimes professional baseball teams put on games to add to the entertainment of the veterans.

A veteran may go to a home, if in need, and when the crisis has passed be free to go again into the world. It is said that the veterans, although not in uniform, often prefer to have their clothes the color and cut, as near as possible, to their old army uniform. The Civil war men want blue, the World war khaki. The clothes are not military in cut, but the color may be selected by the veterans.

Connecticut won a point this week in the matter of the Ware-Swift rivers diversion controversy between that state and Massachusetts. As a result of a telegram from Attorney Holden, Senators McLean and Bingham, and Congressman Tilson took up with the war department the matter of the hearing at Springfield on Thursday, when it had been planned by the department that only the diversion of the waters of the Ware river should be brought up. Connecticut desires the two rivers to be considered at the same time and the Connecticut senators and Colonel Tilson put in a prompt protest to the one-river hearing at Springfield. As a result of that protest, the department agreed to permit references and talk on the Swift river at that time, if any Connecticut citizens were present and desired to introduce it in their arguments. As the answer by Massachusetts to Connecticut's filings in the supreme court is due only a month hence, the interest in the controversy is growing here rather than diminishing.

Two matters of great national importance that were emphasized last week by President Coolidge and Floor Leader Tilson were quick action on flood control and the passage of a bill to reapportion representation under a new census. The president added to his plea for immediate action on flood relief, that congress should not waste time, and should be ready to adjourn early in May, instead of prolonging the session throughout the summer.

Regarding flood control the president urged immediate action in order that the customary spring floods might be guarded against. The president is said to be impatient with the committee for not having yet framed the measure, and got it before congress. He feels, so it is said, that the terrific floods of last spring in the south, coupled with the floods of the west and in New England last fall, should be an incentive for speed; action.

The second measure that is being much talked about is the reapportionment under a new census. Floor Leader Tilson of Connecticut is urging quick action and has asked the census committee to complete its hearings and get the bill in shape to put before the house as soon as possible. Mr. Tilson believes the states should have reapportionment as soon as a census can be taken, and that the Fenn bill, making such reapportionment automatic after a census should be adopted. No reapportionment followed the 1920 census and now it will be practically impossible to take the census and reapportion to be effective before 1932. Many states will lose or gain in congressional representation, as apparently there have been considerable changes in their population. Of the New England states, Connecticut and Massachusetts would each gain one, if membership of the house should be increased, but Colonel Tilson strongly advocates keeping the house down to its present number of 435, whether or not New England states lose. He believes the house unwieldy if too large and is strongly opposed to any increase in its size.

Senator Bingham took an active and aggressive part in trying to prevent the passage of the LaFollette "two terms only" resolution, making strong and eloquent arguments against it, but nothing could stem the tide of the coalition move between the insurgent republicans and the democrats, who, with one or two exceptions on the part of the latter, joined forces to embarrass the administration and "regulars" by forcing the matter to a controversial point.

Congressman Tilson will be a radio speaker on the evening of March 6, talking ten minutes on the issues of the coming campaign. Colonel Tilson's talk will be one of the series being given weekly by the women's political organizations.

Mrs. Edith N. Rogers, member of congress from Massachusetts, recently gave a patriotic talk before Woman's clubs to which she gave the alluring name, "Armed for Peace," on the ground that the army and navy do not make war, but prevent war. Mrs. Rogers urged a sufficient merchant marine to fill our needs and also urged women to buy and wear and use "made in America" goods as a very efficient way to bring prosperity to the country.

No definite action has yet been taken on the resolution offered in the house by Andrews of Massachusetts to fill the vacant space in the famous historical frieze in the rotunda, with a scene depicting the landing of Lindbergh in France. The frieze is nearly completed but has been waiting for some great event to complete the history of the country, which begins with a scene depicting the landing of Columbus, and is followed by a series of historic events, now leaving but one vacant space in the wall of the great rotunda under the dome.

A bill is before the British parliament to legalize marriage between a man and his niece by marriage.

SIGHT FOR SORE EYES

Sanford went out on the back porch to keep from saying all that was within him. He noted grimly as he sat down in the immaculately painted chair with its fresh cretonne cushion that even the porch rail itself was dustless, speckless. Compared with the Howards' porch next door his was positively glittery.

He had a guilty feeling when he realized that he liked and understood the Howards' variety of porch—Sanford had been brought up in exactly that sort of family. Children all over the place, toys, magazines and books spilling from couches and chairs, caps carelessly thrown, dust cheerfully ignored. But—comfortable! He admitted to himself that since he and Ray had been married he had never been entirely comfortable in his home because he had been constantly under the pressure of living up to Ray's standards.

"You'll just have time," Ray had said sweetly, looking like a pale pink tea rose in her ruffly kitchen things, "to change before dinner in ready. Your clean linen and everything is all laid out for you!" It was the last straw. Sanford was dead tired and had reached home with the last gasp, as it were. Any further exertion was just that much too much.

Had the woman no heart? Growling something inarticulate, he had flopped out on the porch, where he sat moodily. She did not even rattle and bang kitchen utensils as Mrs. Howard was doing, he observed. And, somehow, that was a fresh grievance.

It would have been a positive relief and triumph ever to have come home and have her throw herself weeping on his neck with the news that the biscuits were burned to a cinder and the lemon pie was like soup. Her efficiency was simply inhuman. Not once had he found the place in disorder or undusted.

He was the more aggrieved because he knew he had no grounds at all for feeling that way.

It was all right if Ray wanted to be fussy but the time had come when she had to let him alone! She wasn't content with his accustomed predinner face--and-handwash—she had assumed from the first that his dinner toilet included fresh shirt, collar and tie and sometimes another suit. He had submitted because in the honeymoon daze he would have done whatever she wished had it included turning handsprings down the street. But they were settling down now and it was time she learned that a man 30 years old did not change his habits. She had claimed that the changing rested him when he had first begun to protest, adding that she liked to sit across the table from a man well groomed.

Finding fault with him, was she? Sanford cocked his dusty shoes up on the fresh porch rail and scowled hard. Right now he would have this thing out and let her know that his toilet was his own concern.

Howard next door was peacefully napping on the wicker porch couch in the garb he had worn in town and nobody was fussing at him. He noted that Howard's face was red and grimy looking and his cuffs showed the dust of the day. He looked wrinkled and stuffy as he lay there waiting for the welcome call to dinner.

Mingled with the fragrance of asparagus and baked potatoes from his own door, Sanford detected the delicate perfume Ray used. It brought up a picture of her as she had looked when he came in — pink rose, ruffly organdy apron, something luscious and sweet and dainty! Mrs. Howard next door stepped out on her porch in a mespattered blue gingham kitchen apron. She was flushed and her hair straggled and she looked considerably more obese than usual.

It was growing cooler and the petunias in the back yard were sending out their subtle fragrance. Back of him he could hear Ray moving quietly about her work. Presently he would be called into a candle-lighted table with its bowl of flowers and parsely-trimmed serving dishes.

"Let's have supper out here," Mrs. Howard was saying, mopping her forehead. And with Mr. Howard's consent the Howard dinner was moved to the porch in pots and pans.

Involuntarily Sanford shuddered. What a mess that meal looked! Then, with the energy that comes from sudden inspiration or enlightenment, he dashed into his own kitchen.

"Ready in ten minutes, old girl!" he sang back at Ray as he bolted for his bedroom. "Guess I'll have time for a shower as well."—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

THE DIAGNOSIS OF A PATIENT.
By L. Winnell Kohn, M. D., New York —Member Gorgas Memorial.

Progress in medicine as in every other line of endeavor has been accompanied by modifications and changes in the art and science of practice. Today, the individual who complains of an ailment should be investigated in such a manner as conforms with the best and most practical scientific knowledge.

To begin with, the patient should be questioned as to his life history, both past and present, his environment, habits, and medical records, after which a general observation is made of his physical status. A very good idea will have been attained as to the need of special study. If this is indicated, the patient should further be investigated according to certain definite plans of approach. The medical knowledge of different specialists properly applied is often necessary.

When the eyes are suspected, special tests are made with reference to the condition of the different parts of the eyeball, the lining of the eyelids, the deeper nervous structures and blood vessels, and the refractive status of the eyes. In diseases of the respiratory organs, a similar plan examines the nose, throat, sinuses, mouth, larynx, bronchial tube and lungs.

The digestive tract, when studied properly, requires investigation of the teeth, salivary glands, gullet, stomach, small and large intestines, appendix, liver, gall tract, and pancreas. In associating with a special study of these organs, a knowledge of the general condition of the entire body is always essential. Studies of the digestive organs imply a search into their functional and organic nature.

In blood conditions many different forms of study are employed. The blood is examined as to color, viscidity, constituent make-up, reaction in various respects, coagulability, etc. In heart and circulatory affections, tests pertaining to the organic and functional status of this system are applied. The blood pressure, the electrical response of the heart, the character of the pulse, and other special heart and circulatory methods prove of value.

In lung disease, a study of the character, frequency, and rythtm of the respiration, the nature of the breath sounds, the status of the respiratory excreta, and x-ray observations are essential. In glandular diseases and so-called disturbances of metabolism many detailed, painstaking courses of investigation must be attempted in order that intelligent and reliable conclusions may be arrived at. Likewise in every medical condition that may present itself proper scientific inquiry should be made before definite plans of treatment are set down.

From the foregoing one can appreciate how important a scientific analysis really is and that the physician who desires to do good work must employ up-to-date methods of study and a well-trained judicious mind in the selection of necessary special studies and in their interpretation.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The truth of the old saying that educators are among the longest lived of individuals is illustrated in the case of Dr. William W. Folwell, president-emeritus of the University of Minnesota, who today reaches the age of 95 years. Dr. Folwell, a native of New York, began his career some years before the Civil war as a teacher in an academy in New York state. With the outbreak of the war he hastened home from Berlin, where he was pursuing post-graduate studies, and enlisted in a regiment of New York engineers, with which he served until the close of the conflict. After the war he engaged in business in Ohio for several years and then returned to educational work as professor of mathematics at Kenyon college. In 1869 he was called to the presidency of the University of Minnesota and remained an active member of the faculty until 1907.

Former Norwich Leaders

Joseph H. Lucas.
(From The Norwich Bulletin, June 1, 1891.)

Joseph H. Lucas died at the old Lucas homestead on the New London road below Thamesville Saturday morning, at the ripe age of 92. Prior to the past four months, during which time he had been confined to the house, the old gentleman was remarkably vigorous, mentally and physically, maintaining his social and political instincts with unimpaired keenness.

He was born in Ledyard in the year of 1799 His parents afterwards moved to Norwich to what is now Central wharf. He served his time as an apprentice with Nathaniel Herrick to learn the blacksmith trade. He and the late Edmund Roath were the first policemen who served Norwich and were appointed about the year 1820, and served without pay.

Mr. Lucas soon after this started out to follow the water. He shipped as a fireman on the Fulton, the first steamboat of a line from New York to Norwich He soon become second engineer under James Douglass, and afterwards became first engineer of the Fulton; then went to the New York and Providence line on the Ben Franklin, while the President, a larger boat was being built for the same line. While engineer, the late James Baker served his time with him, as did also the late Capt. Coit of the Portland line of steamers. They each received their recommendations from him.

He bought the farm at Trading Cove of the late Mr. Rix about the year 1833, and hired it improved, he remaining on the boat until impaired health enforced his retirement. He has been in feeble health for years.

Mr. Lucas was a kind and indulgent father and a good neighbor, and was respected by all who knew him. Six daughters and one son survive him.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Scriptural Explanations

Mr. Editor: The letter in this morning's Bulletin by Frances Gay Dawley, while it shows a lack of familiarity with the narrative of the woman accused by the Scribes and Pharisees, will pass as a fair attempt at manufacturing home-made scripture. Miss Dawley's letter shifts the scene from the temple, where the accusation of the woman was made, to the Mount of Olives, which is altogether at variance with the inspired narrative, which states that "Jesus went unto the Mount of Olives, and early in the morning he came again into the temple and all the people came unto him, and he sat down and taught them." The inspired word, records Jesus as saying, in regard to the accused woman, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." As none were found among her accusers, Christ did not condemn her, but forgave her, and admonished her, "go and sin no more."

Another writer, under the signature, "A Bulletin Reader," who in Saturday's Bulletin publishes a very excellent letter in an effort to put one preacher right, falls into a very erroneous idea of the tree of life when he says, "the fruit of that forbidden tree whose mortal taste brought death into the world and all our woe." Will that writer be good enough to give us chapter and verse which says the fruit of the tree of life was unfit for food? In Genesis 3-6 it says "And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her; and he did eat." When God created Adam. Gen. 2-16-17, He took him and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. And the Lord commanded the man saying, of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat. But of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.

Thus was the first covenant made with the first Adam, God gave Adam all the trees in the garden for food, but one was given, called the tree of life, not because of any natural power in it, either to beget or continue life, but as a sign signifying, or as a seal ratifying and confirming, to Adam a full assurance of that life which God had promised unto his obedience. It was not a seal set to a blank, but was given for the confirmation of the covenant, so that it was the violation of this seal by disobedience and not the taste of the fruit, which brought on all men the consequences of Adam's transgression.

Roughleg the Hawk is Clever
By Thornton W. Burgess.

For beak and claws there's no excuse
Without the wit to guide their use.
—Roughleg the Hawk

Roughleg ought to know. He has the claws and he has the beak. You know Roughleg is one of the larger members of the Hawk family. He is called Roughleg because his legs are feathered almost down to the feet. In the summer he makes his home in the North, but in the winter he comes down to the Green Meadows and there he makes his hunting ground. Now, big as he is, Roughleg isn't much feared by Peter Rabbit or Happy Jack Squirrel, and not at all by Mrs. Grouse. In fact, those who live in the Green Forest do not fear him, for the very good reason that he prefers to do his hunting in the open. He does not love the Green Forest, but the Green Meadows, and the food he hunts is chiefly mice.

Now, Roughleg has two methods of hunting. He uses the methods of two of his cousins, Redtail, who delights to sit motionless in a treetop until he sees his prey, and Whitetail the Marsh Hawk, who slowly flies back and forth this way and that way just above the tops of the grasses.

His favorite hours for hunting are in the dusk of early morning and the dusk of early evening. In this respect he is somewhat like Hooty the Owl. But he hunts during the day also. So when winter looms Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse and all their relatives have to keep a sharp eye always on the watch for Roughleg the Hawk. Danny and Nanny know just where his favorite perch is. When they come up to play around on the surface of the snow or to hunt for grass seed they first look over to the favorite perch of Roughleg. If he is sitting there, still and watchful, they never move far from one of the little holes that leads down under the snow. If he isn't there they look carefully in all directions to see that he isn't flying back and forth over the tops of the grasses.

Now, the eyes of Roughleg are very keen. They must be to see so small a person as Danny Meadow Mouse from a long distance. Sitting on the top of a certain tree out there on the Green Meadows, Roughleg had learned much of Danny and Nanny and their ways. He had discovered that they were watching him whenever they came out on the surface of the snow. Roughleg chuckled to himself. "Those mice are altogether too smart," said he. "They know that I sit up here and they always look to see if I am here. If I want to get one of them I shall have to play a trick of some kind. I shall have to fool hem."

"Those mice are altogether too smart," said he

Roughleg flew out and chuckled to himself when he saw Danny and Nanny dart down into the little round holes in the snow. He flew straight over where they had been. He flew to a fence post not far away. There he settled himself and made himself comfortable, his keen eyes fixed on the little holes in the snow where Danny and Nanny had disappeared. It wasn't long before he saw two little noses appear. For a few moments that was all he could see—two little noses Then two little heads appeared. For a few moments that was all he could see. Both little heads were turned toward that tree wheree he had been in the habit of sitting so much. Then they were turned for a quick look all around. As he wasn't flying Danny and Nanny didn't see him. So out they popped, sure that Roughleg had flown away. At once they began running around, gathering seeds from the tops of the grasses which were now within easy reach just above the snow.

Stories That Recall Others

Over The Radio.

Like all radio fans they delighted in "fishing" for stations far away and when they succeeded in landing a foreign station, such as Havana, it was a cause for celebration.

One afternoon Mrs. B. rushed next door to tell her neighbor in excited tones that she had some foreign station, but couldn't make out what it was.

The neighbor tuned in on the same number and, sure enough, a voice was rattling off a speech in a foreign language. Both waited breathlessly for the announcement at the end of the talk. Finally it came; it was a service in the German language in a church in Chicago.

She Stamped The Letter.

Sara, age four, was on her way with her mother to mail a letter to daddy. As they approached the post office, Sara, who carried the letter, ran to put it in the box. Her mother, knowing it was unstamped, called to her young daughter: "Sara, the letter must be stamped before you mail it, or daddy will never get it."

Sara looked inquiringly into her mother's eyes. Then without much hesitation, she placed the letter on the sidewalk, and with all the wild enthusiasm of a four year old, jumped up and down on the letter. Thinking it has been stamped sufficiently, Sara picked it up and said in a most assuring and convincing tone, "Muvver, I stamped it; now daddy will get it, won't he?"

New Hair Style from New York

"I've so little time to myself," says Mildred Warshaw, lovely New York City girl who lives at 1353 42nd Street Brooklyn. "That's why it's been such a help to me to learn the new way so many of my girl-friends are doing their hair. Now I just put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush every time I use it. It makes my hair easy to dress and holds it in place. All I need is one shampoo a month, now. It stopped my dandruff and my hair is always gleaming and silky, instead of looking dull and stringy like it did before I started using Danderine."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than any shampoo or treatment. It removes all the dust, grime and oily film from your hair—tones and refreshes your scalp—keeps dandruff away. All drug stores have the 35c bottles. Lovely hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents!

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

STOMACH GAS 10 YEARS, MAN TRIES EVERYTHING

"For 10 years I tried everything for relief from stomach gas. Adlerika helped at once. I feel like a new man now."—Ed Belland.

Adlerika relieves stomach gas and sourness in TEN minutes. Acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel, it removes old waste matter you never thought was in your system. Let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing and see how much better you feel. It will surprise you! Engler's Broadway Pharmacy.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

MAKES FREEDOM FROM DOMINATION OF LOWER NATURE LINCOLN DAY LESSON

Freedom from the domination of our lower natures, freedom for the development of the noblest faculties of man's will and intellect was the lesson which Rev. John J. Reilly, assistant pastor at St. Patrick's drew from Lincoln's day as he delivered an eloquent address upon "Lincoln and Freedom" at the Wauregan hotel Monday evening at the banquet and ladies' night of Rev. Daniel Mullen assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

Over 80 couples were seated at the table in the ballroom which was beautifully decorated in valentine effect with big red hearts, streamers of red and white. Seated at the head table with Patrick M. Coleman, faithful navigator, who was toastmaster, were the guests of the assembly, Rt. Rev. Mons. M. H. May, Rev. John J. Reilly, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, Rev. F. M. Cohalan and Rev. S. A. Iciek.

The following menu was served:

Fruit Cup
Hearts of Celery Stuffed Olives
Cream of Celery Soup
Scallops in Birds Nests
Roast Chicken, Stuffed
Cranberry Sauce Mashed Potatoes
Mashed Turnips French Bread
Bon Ton Salad
Ice Cream Assorted Cake
Chocolates Coffee Cigars

During the evening a variety program of song, monologue, whistling and imitations was given by The Entertaining Four, Edward T. Connelly, M. J. Farrell, Nicholas J. Spellman and Earl E. Styers and when the postprandial exercises were reached Mr. Coleman made a pleasing address of welcome and introduced Rev. Father Reilly, the orator of the evening.

Following the address, Frank R. Murdy rendered "On the Road to Manda'ay," singing in fine voice and responding to the applause with an encore number.

Dancing closed the evening after midnight, with music by the Ideal Radio orchestra.

The officers of the assembly are: Patrick M. Colsman, faithful navigator; John W. Shea, Jr., faithful captain; Morgan Cronin, faithful admiral; William J. Fitzgerald, faithful pilot; John P. Lyston, faithful comptroller; Rt. Rev. Mons. M. H. May, faithful friar; William Delaney, faithful inside guard; William J. McKnight, faithful outside guard.

The program for ladies' night was planned and successfully carried out by the following committee: John W. Shea, Jr., Andrew Capeless, George C. Driscoll, Patrick M. Coleman, John P. Lyston.

Address Of The Evening.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Father Reilly in part as follows:

Today, the birthday of the great Emancipator supplies us with a subject to speak upon this evening and we are not even a little loath to choose this subject as it should be easy for a group of men with dreams and aspirations, visions and ideals such as you Catholic laymen banded together as Knights of Columbus have to listen to those same principles working out in the life of one who has been called "our greatest American" and see how they raised this long and lean product of the backwoods to the highest position that we have to offer and to a higher position still, the select and consecrated shrine, that heart of humanity.

But this is just as indication of what has happened to us with Lincoln. Lincoln was too big for us, the world had need of him and the world has taken him so that little children in the countries of Europe will tell you all they know of Lincoln but they are strangers to other prominent Americans. It is just as when a Catholic

DIRECTORS TAKE ACTION ON BILLS BEFORE CONGRESS

The board of directors of the Norwich chamber of commerce at their regular monthly meeting held Monday noon adopted the recommendations of the committee on legislation, appointed recently to study and consider matters of national significance during the current year. As a result of this committee deliberations, the following actions, with respect to various bills now pending before congress, were taken:

1. Merchant marine. The chamber is opposing the Jones bill (No. 8744) which leads directly to continuing the government in the shipping business. As against this competition of government with private business, the chamber favors policies which will assure an adequate American merchant marine under private ownership and operation. The Jones bill is now the unfinished business in the senate.

2. Federal taxation. Our committee, which considered United States chamber referendum No. 50, was in favor of immediate reduction and repeals in federal taxes. They were opposed two to one to the provision that the report of corporate income tax applicable to net income of 1927 should not exceed 10 per cent; and this committee was in favor of congress providing full opportunity for the joint tax committee for the federal tax laws and their administration.

3. Postal rates. The chamber urges revision of present postal rates as unscientific, unduly burdensome and a disappointment in production of revenue. Revision is generally admitted to be necessary. Hearings will begin before the house committee on post offices and post roads on February 8th.

4. Mississippi flood control. Our chamber went on record as opposed to the federal government absorbing the entire expense of the flood control in the Mississippi valley. It believes that a proportion of this should be borne by the states bordering on the lower Mississippi as there is a direct benefit accruing to these states by such protection. They are, however, in favor of the federal government assuming sole responsibility for locating, constructing and maintaining such works, and that there should be adequate appropriation to insure efficient, continuous and economic work and that the whole matter of flood control should be dealt with in legislation and administration upon its own merits, separate and distinct from any other undertaking.

5. Railroad consolidation. Legislation to remove obstacles to railroad consolidation is found in the Fess-Parker bill, on which hearings are being held by the senate committee on interstate commerce and the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce. This bill substantially meets the chamber's proposals as to measures which would facilitate such consolidation.

6. Bill H. R. 6526. The chamber is in favor of the passage of this bill, which seeks to increase the allowance of retired war veterans to $30 per month, as it believes that men who have followed the flag for thirty years, loyally, faithfully, and honorably, fighting and settling Uncle Sam's battles in Cuba, China, the Philippines, and during the World war in France, should be compensated after thirty years of active service on a more adequate basis than at present, as the pay is now only $15.75 per month. This allowance was established over twenty years ago and is entirely insufficient to provide necessities under present living conditions. A letter, indicating the chamber's actions in this respect, has been addressed to Congressman John M. Morin, chairman of the house military committee, Washington, D. C., and to Senator D. A. Reed, chairman of the senate military committee.

7. Swing-Johnson bill. This bill provides for the government taking over the business of manufacturing and selling power in connection with the Boulder dam project. The committee went on record as opposed to government ownership of utilities. It believes that the further the government keeps out of business the better it will be for the nation.

Members of the committee included Judge Nelson J. Ayling, chairman, Judge H. H. Pettis and Chas. L. Stewart.

TWO MORE PLACES WERE ENTERED BY BURGLARS

Two more places than the four reported on Sunday were entered by the burglars who visited automobile salesrooms along North Main street. These were the office of the Shetucket Coal & Lumber company at 201-207 North Main street, where nothing was taken, and the office of the Irving E. Bogue company at 47-61 North Main street, where $230 was stolen from the safe. Here the outer door of the safe had been left open but the money was found when some small drawers inside the safe were pried open. The sum of $15 in change was overlooked. A number of bonds that had been inside the safe were found on a cushion near the window by which the thieves got into the place.

EARLY HOLLAND ART SHOWN IN PICTURES

The February meeting of the Norwich Art association was held in Slater Hall annex Monday evening. Miss Hannah Crowell, the president, conducted the business part of the meeting and at its close introduced Miss Nancy C. Lucas, who, with her sister, Miss Mary Lucas, had charge of the program on Dutch art. Miss Lucas prefaced her talk by an instructive and interesting history of early art in Holland, which was followed by screen pictures, reproductions of many of the most noteworthy paintings of those whose works stand out as representative and distinctive. Many of the pictures showed gorgeous colorings and were portraits, groups, landscapes and animal life. The originals are to be found in the galleries in England, France, Holland and in the Metropolitan museum in New York city. The last artist to be mentioned was Rembrandt, who is often referred to as the Shakespeare of art. Several of his pictures were thrown on the screen and as a climax of a most interesting meeting living pictures, reproductions of two of Rembrandt's most famous portraits, those of his mother and wife, were poised most beautifully and artistically by Mrs. Lucius Brown as mother and Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, 4th, as wife. The fact that the Misses Lucas had seen the original painting in their trips abroad lent added interest to a most entertaining evening.

VACCINATION FOR STORRS STUDENTS AND TEACHERS

On the recommendation of the state commissioner of health, and by vote of the board of trustees of the college Connecticut Agricultural college undergraduates are "requested" to submit to smallpox vaccination. This action is being taken because of smallpox in Willimantic, nine miles from Storrs. The administration announced several weeks ago that in the event of smallpox breaking out within ten miles of the college all students must be vaccinated. The only exception to this ruling is made for those who have had a successful vaccination within the last six years.

About 250 students, faculty members and employes of the college were vaccinated at Storrs Monday in a free clinic held by the college physician. It is expected that the remainder of the student body and others of the Storrs community will be vaccinated within the next few days. President Charles L. Beach of the college was one of those vaccinated Monday afternoon.

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE NEAR DEWOLFE'S SWITCH

Fire of undetermined origin, which broke out shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, threatened, for a short time, the destruction of the residence, owned and occupied by William Ryan, near DeWolfe's switch on the Norwich-New London highway. A telephone call to the fire department resulted in the despatch of Engine Co. No 6, and Squad A, to the scene of the blaze, Chief Howard L Stanton, who also responded to the call, sent in a telephone summons to Engine Co. No. 5, which made a rapid run to the fire, which was starting to assume startling proportions.

A quick hookup on a hydrant in front of the house was made and a well directed stream confined the blaze to the rear part of the second story of the building. The fire had started in a partially blind attic and had worked its way through to the roof. The resulting damage from fire and water was considerable but the prompt response of the fire department, despite the fact that the house is outside the city limits, without doubt saved the building from total destruction.

MOTOR TRUCK ON FIRE AFTER RUNNING INTO POLE

A Ford delivery truck owned by Disco Bros., was badly damaged after it rolled driverless down the Thamesville hill on West Thames street near the city line, and caught fire about 9.45 o'clock Monday morning. A bell alarm from box 12 called out the fire department and the blaze was extinguished with chemical. The front end of the truck was wrecked and some of the contents of the truck were badly damaged.

A. H. Disco, driver of the truck, was delivering orders and had parked the machine in front of the Thamesville grocery store. The truck started to roll down the hill and when it hit the telegraph pole the impact smashed the gasoline tank and the gasoline caught fire from some undetermined reason.

When the box was pulled the alarm number sounded but once. An investigation revealed the fact that the hook had been pulled down only part way. It should have been pulled down the entire distance.

Ladies' Aid Society Met.

The Ladies' Aid society of the German Lutheran church held their monthly meeting Sunday afternoon at the church parlors. There was an attendance of 40 members. Business was transacted for the good of the society. It was voted to hold another sauerkraut supper for the public. There was such a good attendance at the last supper that they decided to hold another.

COLD CHECKS HENS IN STORRS EGG LAYING

Continued cold weather served to check production again in the Storrs laying contest flock, and during the fourteenth week there was another decline in lay. The score for the week was 5,146 eggs, or a lay of 52.5 per cent. This is a decrease of 134 eggs when compared with the previous week's output, but a gain of 516 eggs over the production for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Monday night the contest flock produced 64,329 eggs. This is an average of 460 eggs for each of the 140 competing pens or 46 eggs per bird. In the first fourteen weeks of the present competition a gain of 7,821 eggs has been made over the score for a similar period of time in last year's laying trial.

For the second consecutive week a pen of Rhode Island Reds entered by Charlescote Farm from Sherborn, Mass. headed the honor roll, this time with a score of 61 eggs to their credit. These birds, incidentally, will bear watching. They not only lead the red class at the present time but they also stand third among all competitors. For two weeks now they have set the pace for all other entries, and a continuation of the performance over a period of several weeks will enable them to improve their position.

White Wyandottes entered by Fisher farm of Ayton, Ontario placed second for the week with a score of 57 eggs. The Amakassin Farm White Leghorns from Yonkers, N. Y., were third with a production of 56 eggs. White Rocks owned by the Granite Springs Farm of Granite Springs, N. Y., and White Leghorns owned by George Lowry of West Willington, Conn., were tied for fourth place for the week, each with a score of 55 eggs.

In the scramble for the leading position representatives of four of the five main variety classifications in the Storrs contest are to be found. White Leghorns hold first and second places. A pen of Reds is holding securely to the third-place berth, and a team of Barred Rocks are fourth.

Among the leading pens there were few changes during the week. Broadview White Leghorns from Winsted, Conn., continue to lead the entire competition by virtue of their 823-egg score, and George Lowry's entry of the same breed is still in the runner-up position. Charlescote Farm Reds are in third place as previously mentioned. Barred Rocks owned by R. W. Davis & Sons from Rockland, Me., now hold fourth position alone instead of being tied with the Bournedale Farm White Leghorns from Millerton, N. Y., as was the case a week ago. The latter pen has fallen off considerably of late. E. A. Hirt's White Rocks from So. Weymouth, Mass., continue to rank fifth among all contestants. In the White Leghorn division, the Amakassin Farm entry from Yonkers, N. Y., climbed into third position, displacing the pen owned by Bournedale Farm.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties:

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, 4th of Broad street entertained the Sewing club Monday afternoon.

The meeting of the Round Table is to be held this (Tuesday) evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Tracy.

Mrs. W. Tyler Browne of Broadway was hostess to the Monday Bridge club, the prizes being won by Mrs. J Eldred Brown and Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn.

When the Monday Auction club met with Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. Allyn L. Brown won the prize. The previous meeting of the club was with Mrs. John E. Hawkins, the prize going to Mrs. Frederic W. Cary.

Norwich members of the Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames will go to New Haven Wednesday when the luncheon meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Angell, wife of President James Rowland Angell, of Yale. Prof. William Lyon Phelps is to speak on "Whittier, the Soul of New England."

The Monday Study club held its meeting with Mrs. Edward J. Graham. Mrs. William M. Zumbro reading the paper on Sir Walter Raleigh. The oral topic, Sir Philip Sydney, was to have been considered by Mrs. Frederick T. Sayles. As Mrs. Sayles is visiting in St. Louis, she prepared a paper on this theme, which was read by Miss Alice W. Cogswell.

WEBSTER Y. M. A., CONQUEROR OF MILLVILLE, AT TAFTVILLE TONIGHT

Taftville		Webster
Normandin, lf		lf, Brzemiak
Brown, rf		rf, Wozmicki
Harris, c		c, Bamber
Murphy, lg		lg, Ivacyn
Coleman, rg		rg, Kujanski

The Young Men's Association quintet of Webster, Mass., which recently defeated the Millville Town team, conqueror of both Danielson and Plainfield, comes to Parish hall to tackle the Taftville Crescents in what looms as one of the best games of the season.

This team only two weeks ago beat the Crescents by 52 to 28 at Webster, this being the worst defeat that the locals have ever suffered. In this game the Taftville crew will be out to even matters and their strongest lineup will be thrown on the floor in the attempt. Aubrey Brown returns to the Crescent lineup after a short absence and he is expected to help greatly.

The Webster outfit holds decisions over the Clinton Germans and West Warren Town teams in addition to that over Millville while last year it won the Polish championship of Central Massachusetts, playing Holyoke, Chicopee and Worcester and last year also won the Fraternal league championship of its section.

A fast preliminary will start at 7:30 with the main game at 8:15. Bourdon's orchestra will furnish music for dancing which follows the main game.

C. F. C. SNARES WIN NO. 12 BY DOWNING MARINES

In a fast game the local C. F. C. quintet added another scalp to their long list of victories, this being their 12th straight victory over the U. S. Marines' fast team from the Sub Base. Brown led the scoring for the locals, scoring 14 points, and Middleton of the Soldier Boys scored 16 points for the losers.

The Marines gave the locals plenty of trouble all the way and it was not until the last quarter that they could draw ahead and win.

This defeat settled an old score for the locals. Next week the C. F. C. tackles another New London City league team in the Mercury Five.

PREPARING FOR SHOTS AT AUTO SPEED RECORDS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13—(AP)—Preparations for shots at new world speed records for autos got under way here today with the arrival of the 1,500 horsepower "Triplex" owned by J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer, and the powerful "Blue Bird" speedster of the British entry, Capt. Malcolm Campbell.

Some time this week, or when perfect racing conditions prevail on the beach course here, the huge machines will attempt to break the world straightaway speed record of 203.79 miles an hour established in 1927 by H. O. D. Segrave, English driver.

On Saturday Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis speedway driver, will attempt to set a speed record for four cylinder cars on the beach course, it was announced today. The present record of 144.10 miles per hour was established by Bob Burman in 1912.

BOXERS MUST REGISTER BEFORE DAY OF BOUTS

Because of the most recent ruling of the Boxing committee of the Conn. Association of the A. A. U., which specifies that all boxers must have A. A. U. cards with them whenever they perform and that no boxer will be permitted to box the same day that he is registered, the committee in charge of the coming Duwell show to be presented at the state armory on Friday, Feb. 24, requests that all boxers not as yet registered with the A. A. U. who intend to enter for the bouts get in touch with the Sports committee of the Duwell A. A. as soon as possible. By doing so, the Duwell authorities will have an opportunity to send in for cards for the boxers and at the same time enter them for the bouts.

Last summer there was always a number of last minute entries, previous to every one of the outdoor shows. As a result of the new ruling, last minute entries in the future will not be received, in fact no one will be allowed to enter for the three days previous to the show. Entry blanks are now ready and may be obtained at the Duwell club.

Although no definite announcement of the feature for the opening indoor show has been made as yet, it is understood that negotiations are being made to secure one of the fastest teams in New England. According to the proposed policy the Duwell will import at least one team for every show.

A definite layout for the arena at the armory has been mapped out so that there will be seats for 1000 people. The bleachers recently purchased from the Academy will be placed around the ring, in addition to several hundred individual seats.

ANOTHER AMATEUR CARD AT WILLIMANTIC FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 13.—Fight fans are now turning anticipation to the next boxing card which is to be presented at the Al-Pierre Tabarin here Friday night by the Willimantic A. C., under sanction of the Connecticut A. A. U. Daniel Connell and Henry Rothblat are the matchmakers and there is prediction that their busy work will bring together a fine array of classy boxers, who should meet with the endorsement of lovers of the sport. Billy Conway of Hartford who needs no introduction here, will officiate as referee while Commissioner Frank J. Murphy, also of Hartford, will act as announcer. Murphy was one of the state boxing commissioner before Tommy Donohue became czar of ring activities, and he is well known here. Capitol city boys are slated to appear.

SEPPALA IS WINNER IN ANNUAL DOG RACE

NORTH CONWAY, N. H., Feb. 13—(AP)—Leonhard Seppala's team of Siberian huskies scored another triumph today when they gave their 50-year-old Alaskan driver an easy victory in the annual three day point to point race of the New England Sled Dog club. The hero of the dash to Nome, with serum in a diphtheria epidemic a few years ago covered the 130 miles in 12 hours and 42 minutes.

This was an hour, 17 minutes and 48 seconds better than the time of Emil St. Godard, youthful driver of The Pas, Manitoba, who finished second in 13:59:48. St. Godard barely held his advantage over Earl Brydges, also of The Pas, and their tussle for second place was of outstanding interest in the final day of racing.

Brydges finished third in 14:08:17, Shorty Russick, the third entry from The Pas, fourth in 15:47:53, Walter Channing, of Boston, 18 year old driver, fifth in 15:53:15, Mrs. E. P. Ricker, of Poland Spring, Me., sixth in 16:40 and E. P. Clark, of West Milan, last, in 17:54:19.

BOB MacPHAIL TO COACH POMFRET FOOTBALL

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 13—(AP)—Robert B. MacPhail, Dartmouth backfield star and captain of the Big Green 1927 football team, will become head coach of football next fall at Pomfret school, Pomfret, Conn., he announced today.

MacPhail said he would enter Harvard Law school in September and would commute between Pomfret and Boston to attend classes daily. After the school football season ends Nov. 3, he said, he will coach a college team in Boston for the remainder of the season. He would not make public the name of this college.

'BOUT SPORTS

Bulkeley of New London is taking real strides toward front honors in New London as regards her athletic equipment. The latest addition is Pat Meskill, formerly with Hartford and New Haven in the Eastern league, as year-round groundkeeper. Having secured this beautiful athletic plant the Orange and Black intends to keep it in the best possible condition and it is something that all eastern Connecticut schools (with the exception of Bulkeley) are mighty envious of.

Of course, the Academy has the closer facilities, that is, school and field are connected, but the local campus cannot compare with Mercer field. Bulkeley's plant was the gift of an alumnus and what a big thing it would be for some graduate or some group of graduates of the local school to contribute toward the present fund for a new gymnasium.

The C. F. C. are still howling them over. The win over the Marines last night made up for the defeat that this team administered on Christmas day, 1926.

The Academy sets forth on an important mission tonight and they carry the hopes of all Norwich in their battle with Chapman Tech. Also Stonington, the third team in the eastern Connecticut league for if Tech wins tonight she has the league tilt clinched.

Jack Delaney may be sharpening his eyes and fists by these knockouts and then again he may be getting nowhere. The Heeney bout will tell. Once again, last night The Bulletin was fairly busy answering quiries on Delaney whereas last Friday in the featherweight title bout there were far fewer calls. Delaney is a colorful figure and he seems to be Norwich's most popular fighter.

25 REPORT FOR FIRST ELI DIAMOND WORKOUT

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 13.—(AP)—At the first baseball practice of the year, 25 candidates for the Yale varsity team reported this afternoon in the new Coxe memorial field gymnasium. While the call was for battery practice, a few other than backstops and pitchers limbered up.

Johnny Hoben, last year's regular catcher, did not report. An injury to his throwing arm, received during the football season, kept him away. It is thought that he will be in shape in a few weeks. Hoben, a quarterback, has been a Y man on the football squad for two seasons.

Smith Dud and Jeff Sawyer, regular pitchers last year, reported today.

Luke Sewell Signs

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13—(AP)—Luke Sewell, star catcher of the Cleveland Indians, signed a two-year contract here today "at an increased salary," it was announced by Billy Evans, general manager of the Indians.

His brother, Joe, shortstop, has not yet come to terms. Both held out for more salary.

Ivy Wingo Signs With Reds

CINCINNATI, Feb. 13—(AP)—Ivy Wingo, former manager of the Columbus American association baseball team and former catcher for the Cincinnati Reds signed a contract today as third base coach and assistant to Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds.

FITCHVILLE WINS OVER ALL-STARS BY 43 TO 23

The Fitchville Rovers added another win to their list Monday night at Palmer hall by trimming Buckley's All-Stars from Norwich by a 43 to 23 score. The Rovers had an advantage in weight and height that helped them greatly through to the decision. The Rovers led at half time by 21-11.

Yankowitz was leading scorer with 21 points and he also played a bang-up game for the winners. Practically all of the All-Stars played fine games with Stevens leading in scoring with nine points. Armstrong, the peppery left forward of the Norwich team showed up well throughout. Summary:

CARD FOR PASTIME BOUTS CONTAINS THE NAMES OF TWENTY LOCAL BOYS

An entry list of nearly 40 boxers will be in the hands of the Pastime A. C. matchmakers by fight time Friday night for the bouts at Olympic hall. Twenty of these, all from Norwich, have already signed for this show, which is promised as the best effort yet.

A new feature will be a team from Norwich Town, composed of three punchers while the Smoke Shop will send over a team of five. The Pastime promoters are specializing in home products, believing that the fans relish bouts with a local favorite more than "stars" from other regions.

New London, Westerly, Willimantic and Danielson will complete the roster of communities sending boys to compete and as most of these have shown before the fans have a pretty good idea of what to expect.

The Norwich boys who have signed to appear are Vic Darr, Mush Moriarty, Johnny Doeh, France McCarthy, Young Busch, Tommy Shea, Tommy Ryan, Bobby Tennant, Young Brush, Boots Lary, Young Mitchell and Earl Talbot, in addition to the five from the Smoke Shop and three from Norwich Town.

Those from New London are Young Jennes, 130; Young Burrows, 125; Young Tauff, 125; Mike Campagna, 160; Baby Jennis, 145; Harry Hooper, 135, and Mike Price, 130.

In order to sift out the entries somewhat an elimination tournament will be held at the Pastime gym on Ferry street for the remaining nights of the week and the public is cordially invited. There will be no admission.

HAHN FAILS TO SHATTER RECORD

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—Lloyd Hahn, American middle-distance ace, failed tonight in an attempt to beat the world's record for the two-thirds of a mile run.

Alonso To Take Trip

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Manuel Alonso, Spanish tennis star who defeated Francis T. Hunter, ranked number two in the 1927 national list in the finals of the Heights Casino indoor tournament today, will leave Saturday for a three months business trip to South America. The trip probably will prevent Alonso ranked at number four by the United States Tennis association, from competing for a place on the Spanish Davis cup team.

Alonso, a mechanical engineer, will visit Brazil, Argentina and Chile.

Mullen After Sangor-Shea

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Promoter Jim Mullen, opened negotiations for a match between Joey Sangor, Milwaukee featherweight champion-ship contender, and Eddie Shea, of Chicago on February 27. Sangor scored a technical knockout over Bud Taylor, bantamweight titleholder, here last Friday night.

Interscholastic Sports

Stonington's trip to western Connecticut was quite a success. She beat Derby 24 to 12 and lost to Naugatuck 35 to 20.

It will be remembered that Naugy beat Chapman Tech last week by something like 62 to 8.

And yet, it is said that Tech rates Windham better than Naugatuck. There's nothing like being for home products, probably.

The Academy is going to New London tonight full of fight and strange things have happened than for the weakened Red and White outfit to win.

The Coast Guard Junior Varsity is rated above Tech in sporting circles around the Whaling City and when the locals could hold that team so even, then there's some hope.

Windham is preparing for a tough one in Torrington Saturday night at Torrington.

The basketball season is fast slipping away. In another month the tournaments will be right upon us and in two months the gentle notes of spring and baseball.

Baseball this year threatens to outshine all other sports among eastern Connecticut high schools. The Academy has the state championship, Bulkeley has a good team in prospect and Westerly is counting on making up for much lost prestige with her diamond representative. Westerly had a good club last year but graduation took an even heavier toll there than at the Academy.

The Academy expects to hold the usual indoor workouts again this year and they will probably start within a few weeks.

Kieckhefer Wins in Billiards.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—Augie Kieckhefer defeated Alfred De Oro in their match in the American Billiard league's three-cushion tournament tonight. The score was 50 to 21 in 36 innings. Each had a high run of six.

Johnny Layton defeated Harry Wakefield in another tournament match, 50 to 28 in 29 innings. Layton had a cluster of six. Wakefield's best effort was three.

Newark Beats Giants At Soccer

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The New York Giants were eliminated from the American Soccer League Lewis cup competition today when they bowed to Newark, 3 to 1. The contest was a replay of the two teams' previous tie game.

ACADEMY IN IMPORTANT GAME TONIGHT

With but the thought of fighting to the last, the Academy's basketball team sets out for New London tonight for their game with Chapman Tech. It is regarded by both parties as one of their most important seasons. By winning Tech can clinch the league title.

The Red and White will probably take the floor with Lloyd Jarvis and Dave Tigar at the forwards, Joe Viau at center and Capt. Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix at the guards. This team worked in fine shape against the Coast Guards Saturday afternoon and as that team is rated above Tech in Whaling City sport circles, it is practically certain that the locals can give their opponents a stiff tussle throughout.

Tech will use practically the same line-up as performed here earlier in the season and which won, 24 to 16. Bill Nield and Scotty McKelvie, high scorers among eastern Connecticut's schoolboys will have to be curtailed for the locals to win and that will be the problem of N. F. A.'s revamped defense.

The game will be played at the Y gym and will start at 8.15.

ENLARGEMENT OF HARVARD STADIUM IS PLANNED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 13—(AP)—Plans for enlargement of the Harvard stadium to a seating capacity of 80,000 were presented to the Harvard corporation today by William J. Bingham, director of athletics. Action was deferred until the next meeting, to be held two weeks from today, to give time for detailed study of the proposal.

The plan sponsored by the director of athletics calls for the placing of a permanent concrete section at the north end of the stadium, which is now open. This section will be about the height of the present south end section. The colonnade of the present structure will be removed and the east and west sides of the stadium built back and up to almost twice its present height.

The capacity of the stadium is now 54,165, including provision for 1,000 standees on the roof. Of the present seats, 22,559 are concrete. The plans for the enlarged stadium call for the eliminating of all the wooden parts.

NORWAY CARRIES AWAY OLYMPIC SKATING HONORS

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Blonde and blue-eyed men of the north swept down upon the Olympic speed skating championships.

Norway's flashy band of speed stars captured the bulk of laurels when Ivar Ballengrud skated off with the 5,000 meter race after Bernt Evensen had tied with Clas Thunberg, the famous Finnish champion, in the 500-meter event in record-breaking Olympic time.

All told, Norway took six out of the twelve point-scoring places in the two opening events while the United States and Finland each gathered three. But while Finland's stars gave their Norwegian places in the two opening events while the United States and Finland each gathered three. But while Finland's stars gave their Norwegian rivals a keen tussle in each race the American contingent was able to land no better than third in either feature.

RAWLINS WIN SINGLES RAQUET TITLE OVER BAKER

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Herbert N. Rawlins, New York, today won the national singles squash racquet championship by defeating Myles P. Baker, Boston, the defending champion, in the final round of the title tournament. The scores were 15-12, 15-13, 16-15.

SOCCER NOTES

J. B. Martin now has three wins and one loss for their work to date.

They are undefeated on their home grounds.

Next week they play the Goodyear team in what promises as a fast tilt.

The following week the Martins tackle the Jewett City Favorites in a return game at Jewett City.

Eddie Murphy, the Taftville goalie, was missing from the lineup Sunday.

Lloyd Jarvis, who joined the Martins Sunday for the first time, was in rare form. However, Lloyd will return to his first love, the Jewett City Favorites, when they resume activities.

The field down at Westerly Saturday was said to be in terrible condition. One report had it that the worst part of the field up at Taftville Sunday was about equal to the best down there.

The Cottrells presented a stronger lineup against the Taftville boys in this second game than on their appearance on the local pitch.

ACE HUDKINS SIGNS TO MEET AL MELLO

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Ace "Wildcat" Hudkins, of Lincoln, Neb., was signed today to meet Al Mello, of Lowell, claimant of the New England welterweight boxing championship in a 10-round bout under the auspices of the Suffolk A. A., at the Boston arena on February 27. In a meeting in New York several months ago Hudkins was awarded the decision over Mello

ALONSO WINS OVER HUNTER AT BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Manuel Alonso, the Spanish star, conquered Francis T. Hunter today in the final singles match of the Brooklyn Heights Casino invitation tennis tournament, the scores were 6-1, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4.

DELANEY KAYOES GATES; DUNDEE WINS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 13—(AP)—Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., knocked out Leo Gates of North Adams, Mass., here tonight, in the second round of a ten-round bout at the Genesee Valley A. C. Delaney weighed 182 and Gates 211 3-4.

Delaney shifting about dropped the big Indian for four counts of nine before a short right to the pit of the stomach ended the bout. Gates hit the canvas in the first round when Delaney backed him into the ropes and showered him with blows. He sank to the floor in a heap but was on his feet at the count of nine. He grabbed Delaney with both arms and managed to finish out the round.

Delaney came out with a rush at the beginning of the second round and drove a short left to the Indian's stomach as they met in the center of the ring. Gates clinched and then sank to the floor, taking a count of nine. Another right sent Gates down. As he staggered to his feet the former light-heavyweight champion battered him down with lefts and rights. He got up, only to be dropped in a heap for the final count.

Eight thousand fans, the largest throng to ever see a boxing bout in this city, attended.

In the six-round scheduled semi-final, Johnny Urban of Pittsburgh knocked out Tony Stabenau of Buffalo after 56 seconds of fighting in the first round. Mike Conroy, Rochester, won a six-round decision over Gordon Munce of New York, in another six rounder. All are heavyweights.

Dundee Wins in Eighth.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 13—(AP)—Joe Dundee, welterweight champion of the world, scored a technical knockout over Clyde Hull of Clark, S. D., tonight, when Referee Patsy Haley of New York stopped the fight in the eighth round of their scheduled 12-round bout. Dundee won every round except the second and had Hull half way through the ropes at the finish. Dundee weighed 147 1-4 and Hull 148 1-2.

Dundee's title was not involved. Eight thousand persons saw the fight.

The Baltimore Italian, who has kinged it over the welters since he won the title from Pete Latzo last summer, had trouble with Hull in the first three rounds, but he went ahead in the fourth and was romping to an easy win when it ended after one minute of fighting in the eighth.

Dundee's club-like crosses to Hull's head and his one-two punches to the kidney and jaw had Hull almost out on his feet at the start of the eighth. A short left jab sent Hull half way through the ropes and Haley, waving the champion away, led Hull to his corner.

Hull rushed Dundee from the first bell, but the champion fought cooly and evaded his wild swings. The Dakota youth took the second round, however, with a hard right to the jaw, a long left into Dundee's abdomen and decidedly the better of the two exchanges against the ropes. Dundee was plainly worried, but in the third he marked Hull's eye and drew blood from his nose. Hull failed to land a single hard blow after the fourth, and the bobbing Dundee lowered his guard and evaded swings at will or took them on his jaw with a grin.

Dillon Wins By Kayo.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Harry Dillon of Winnipeg the Canadian light heavyweight champion, knocked out Roleaux Saguero, the Cuban knockout artist, in the seventh round of a scheduled ten round match tonight

Bobby Brown Kayoes Sutton

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Feb. 13—(AP)—Bobby Brown, of Philadelphia, knocked out Al Settle of Jersey City, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout here tonight. The men are light-heavyweights.

Joe Glick Loses.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13—(AP)—Al Gordon, 129, Philadelphia, won the decision over Joe Glick, 132, New York, in a ten-round bout here tonight.

In the semi-windup Henri de Wanker of France won the decision over Hubert Gillis, Belgium, in 10 rounds. Each weighed 127 pounds.

Willie Harmon Wins.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—Willie Harmon, veteran New York welterweight, won the decision over Canada Lee, Harlem Negro, in a six-round bout at the Broadway Arena tonight. Harmon weighed 143 3-4; Lee 143 1-2.

Pete Sanstol, Norway, 116 1-2, and Benny Hall, St. Louis Negro, fought six rounds to a draw. Arthur Flynn, Lawrence, Mass., 163 1-2, won a six-round decision over Felix Sportiello, Italy, 163 3-4.

Mueller Is Victor.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD'S REVIEW OF FINANCES DEALS WITH FLOW OF GOLD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(AP)—Firmer money conditions after the turn of the year was due partly to the export of more than $300,000,000 in gold during the last four months of 1927, the Federal Reserve board said today in a review of finances.

Another influence working against easier money rates, the board said, was the sale during January of more than $180,000,000 of United States securities by the Federal Reserve banks out of the system's investment account.

"These sales of securities," the report added, "offset the effect in part of the seasonal return flow of currency with the consequence that member bank borrowings at the reserve banks declined less than would have otherwise been the case.

"There were also longer-term influences in the direction of firmer money rates. Reserve requirements of member banks increased rapidly in the last half of 1927, reflecting a growth in the banks' deposit liabilities and particularly in their demand deposits.

"In January, gold exports continued on a considerable scale but were for the most part offset by the usual seasonal flow of gold from Canada, so that there was little change in the gold stock for the month.

"The previous loss of gold during the period of the maximum seasonal currency demand, however, was a factor in the increased volume of member bank borrowings at the reserve banks and continued to be an influence toward firmer money conditions after the turn of the year."

Of the gold exports, Argentina got $61,260,000, Brazil $32,010,000, Canada $25,374,000, France $10,000,000, England $8,548,000, Netherlands $8,055,000, Poland $5,000,000 and Belgium $2,200,000. With other exports and deposits for earmarking, the gold decrease from September 1 to January 1 totaled $212,000,000.

"At first," the review said, "The Reserve banks pursued the policy of offsetting the effects of these decreases on the money market through the purchase of securities, but such purchases were both absolutely and relatively in much smaller volume after the beginning of November. The larger part of the gold withdrawals, therefore exerted its usual influence on credit conditions in this country.

"The system's policy in not offsetting the gold exports in the last weeks of the year was due largely to the fact that, in the absence of demand for additional credit from trade and industry, there was a continued and rapid growth in the volume of member bank credit used for investments and loans on securities. Thus, notwithstanding the drain on member bank reserves through gold exports, reserve balances of these banks with the reserve banks increased in the autumn and early winter as a consequence of the growth of the member banks' deposit liabilities."

For last year as a whole, the board said, outstanding reserve bank credit increased $130,000,000, which exceeded the $70,000,000 decrease in gold stock during the year by approximately $60,000,000. Reserve funds also were released through the reduction of about $30,000,000 in deposits held by the reserve banks for the treasury and other non-member depositors and of $90,000,000 in the volume of currency in circulation.

"This decrease in the currency demand, which reflected the somewhat less active condition of trade and industry, resulted in an accumulation of currency at member banks, which deposited this cash with the reserve banks and thus obtained an equivalent amount of reserve bank funds. These additions to the funds at the disposal of the member banks were absorbed in the member banks reserve balances, which increased by $180,000,000 during the year."

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—Net earnings of the Air Reduction Co., Inc., for 1927, after charges, amounted to $2,412,596, equivalent to $10.74 a share on the 224,597 shares of common stock then outstanding. This compares with net earnings in 1926 of $2,262,191, or $10.83 a share on 208,855 shares of common outstanding at the end of 1926.

Statistics compiled by the Copper & Brass Research association in connection with its annual survey of the building industry place the total value of buildings in the United States at $130,370,000,000. Ten billions will be expended for construction in 1928, the association predicts, against $9,775,000,000 last year. More than half the total, or $92,170,000,000 is credited to residential property with commercial buildings second, with a value of $29,220,000,000.

The outlook for business in the Philippines in 1928 is reported encouraging by George C. Howard, trade commissioner at Manila. Business in 1927 was excellent, the total foreign trade amounting to about $15,000,000 more than in 1926. Exports exceeded imports by about $39,250,000.

Properties owned by Federal Water Service corporation as of January 26, 1928, show gross revenues of $10,793,503 for the year ended November 30, 1927. Net income was $5,557,343. After interest charges there remained $1,168,303 for preferred stock dividends.
